MINING—

NEW GOLD DISCOVERY ON THE DESERT. THE owners have sunk a shaft 40 feet in gold ore 30 inches wide. The dump assays $41.60. The ore showing free gold assays several hundred dollars—a drift run 20 feet at bottom shows ore all the way. In my opinion, this is the making of a whale of a mine. Do you want a mine? Would you join others? We can get this on very easy terms by spending $2000. We can have the mine producing bullion. This is good. I know a mine when I see it. It is well worthy of your investigation. B. X. DAWSON, 527 I. W. Hellman Bldg.

A WIDOW WILL SELL AT SACRIFICE VALUABLE developed gold mine, and five-stamp mill; five mining claims, about 100 acres, 1000 feet of tunnels, mostly in ore; over 4500 tons of ore blocked out and in sight; 300 tons milled $2500; in the hands of practical mining men this mine is worth a cash price of $25,000; owner needs money and will sacrifice for $7500 for a quick sale; ample time will be given for examination to responsible parties. Title unquestioned. For full particulars address trustee, B, box 332, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

WOULD YOU INVEST IN A LARGE PRODUCING mine if your money was personally secured? We need some quick money, and this is one of those mining opportunities you read about. Will you grasp it?
You deal direct with the owners.
This is no promotion scheme to buy a mine. If you have the money we will personally secure you, and make your investment very profitable. Address Z, box 223, TIMES OFFICE.

CAN SECURE THREE-FOURTHS INTEREST IN big free milling gold mine showing by continuing development. Will pan across forty feet near the surface. Lower tunnel, 250 feet deep, now in 470 feet. Can handle only one-fifth of proposition and wish to join others who can handle balance. Full information, references and appointment. D. G. ZINN, 1271 W. 38th place, Los Angeles.

MINING—

I WANT TO MEET A MAN WHO WILL INVESTIgate my proposition and who will invest $2500 if he finds everything to his entire satisfaction; profits of 50 to 100 per cent. per annum seem an absolute certainty; I am a practical miner, best of references as to mining ability, and strict integrity; own a valuable mine, not a prospect, thousands of tons of ore already blocked out by over 2000 feet of tunnels; six big veins of ore opened up, in one of the richest mining sections of the West; need $2500 to put on an immediate earning basis; if you will go with me and examine this mine and are not convinced that an investment of $2500 will make profits of 50 to 100 per cent. per annum, I will pay all cost of investigation providing only that you invest $2500 if you find everything as represented to be. Seeing is believing. All I want is an opportunity to show what I have. Address B, box 342, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

HARBOR ITEMS.

Guy L. Blair, general manager of the San Francisco and Portland Steamship Company, arrived here today on the steamer Bear from San Francisco, and will remain in Southern California, looking after the interests of the Big Three steamers until the sailing of the Beaver next Friday. Reports that the line would seek a new berth on the east side of the channel on account of delay in installing better facilities for handling passengers at the Southern Pacific wharf, he said was not true. He admitted, however, that improvements were badly needed.

Lumber steamers arriving today were the Avalon from Willapa, with 950,000 feet for the Hart-Wood Lumber Company; the Vanguard, from Santa Barbara, with a partial cargo loaded at Eureka, and the Shna-Yak, from Eagle Harbor, with a cargo of poles. The Shna-Yak proceeded to San Diego, after discharging part of her load here. The Vanguard will sail for Eureka in ballast Monday noon and the Avalon for Willapa Tuesday night. The Multnomah sailed tonight for Portland, via San Francisco, in ballast; the San Jacinto for Ventura with balance of cargo, loaded at Gray's Harbor for the E. K. Wood Lumber Company, and the Nehalem for Gray's Harbor.

HONOR BOSTON EXPLORER.

Dr. Rice Given Medal for Unique and Unusual Discoveries in South America.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, March 28.—The Royal Geographical Society has awarded the King's gold medal to Dr. Hamilton Rice of Boston, for his work in exploration in South America.

Dr. Rice started from London in December, 1911 for Barranquilla, at the mouth of the Magdalena River, and 25 days later reached Bogota, capital of Colombia. From that city Dr. Rice and his party started for San Martin, 100 miles southwest of Bogota. For twenty-one months the party explored Southeast Colombia and Northwest Brazil, traveling almost 100,000 square miles of virtually unknown country. The trip ended at Manaos, Brazil, 1000 miles up the Amazon River.

Dr. Rice said afterward that the record of the party was one of physical horrors. Insects made existence horrible, there were periods of starvation and consequent mutiny and constant prevalence of disease.

A race of light-colored Indians was discovered, as was also a colony composed entirely of male Indians. For the most part, however, the region explored was uninhabited.

Progress through the country was extremely difficult, machetes being necessary to cut a track almost the entire way. In being forced to swim small streams the members of the party were attacked by dangerous swordfish which inflicted ugly septic wounds. From the result of one of these wounds Dr. Rice suffered from poisonous ulcers and was compelled to operate upon himself by candle light, cutting his leg to the bone.

During a period of starvation the party was reduced to eating monkey meat.

MARQUIS IS EJECTED.

Noble Husband of American Girl Ordered From His Apartments by Court in Paris.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, March 28.—Marquis de Amodie was ejected today from his apartments by the court. The marquis' wife was Miss Josephine Wainwright, a relative of Ellis Wainwright of St. Louis. He was ordered also to give up the three children of the marriage into custody of the marchioness. There have been domestic difficulties in the family of the marquis and marchioness for some time. Recently while the marchioness was away on a visit the marquis applied to the courts for a judicial separation from his American wife. On her return to the apartment on the Avenue Henri Martin, the marchioness found that her husband had installed himself there. She immediately brought proceedings to obtain possession of her home and charge of her three children. This was today ordered by the judge. The title of the marquis is a papal one. The marriage took place eleven years ago.

Many Mansions Projected by Recent Buyers.

PASADENA, March 28.—The past six months have seen many changes in Oak Knoll, the Crown City's beautiful and fashionable suburb. Many of the streets have been paved, all wires have been put in conduits, ornamental electric lights on classic bronze pillars have been installed, and sightly homes are springing up throughout the district.

Lloyd R. Macy, secretary of the William R. Staats Company, said last week that sales in the district in the six months just passed have aggregated over $440,000, and that new residences completed or in the course of construction will represent an investment of over $1,300,000. Of all the new improvements, the Hotel Huntington is, of course, the greatest.

That magnificent hostelry has attracted the eyes of all the country to Oak Knoll. With the improvements, additions and changes, the big caravansary represents an investment of close to $1,000,000. Its opening has had a decided effect on the Oak Knoll district, stimulating development generally.

On the bluff immediately adjoining the Hotel Huntington grounds, the Baroness Rosa von Zimmerman is building a palatial home that, with its grounds, will represent an investment of close to $200,000. This mansion, planned by Frederick Heinlein of Los Angeles, will follow Italian lines, and will be of brick, tile and marble.

Henry C. House of Houston, Tex., who recently bought three choice lots on Oakland avenue, at the corner of Woodbury road, with a frontage of nearly 700 feet on Oakland, is now improving his property. Plans for the beautiful villa which he is erecting were drawn by Architects Hunt and Burns of Los Angeles. The total expenditure on the house and grounds will be between $50,000 and $60,000.

Perhaps the most palatial of all the residences recently completed in Oak Knoll is that of Charles S. Eaton of Boston. The mansion faces on Virginia road and is set in beautiful grounds. Robert D. Farquhar of Los Angeles was the architect.

Another handsome new home is that built by the late W. C. Leistikow, who died just before its completion. It is a typical California dwelling and represents an investment of over $50,000. The place stands on Hillcrest avenue.

One of the most interesting places in Oak Knoll, if not in Southern California, is what might be termed "the bungalow de luxe," which was recently finished by Mrs. C. W. Pardee of Buffalo, N. Y., on a half-acre site adjoining the grounds of the Hotel Huntington. The house suggests in its lines the better-class dwellings of the Cuban planters. The white of the plastered walls is emphasized by the Spanish green effect of roof, shutters, shades and porch balustrades. Myron Hunt of Los Angeles, architect of the new Huntington, was the designer.

Former Judge C. J. Willett of Pasadena has just completed a $15,000 residence on Wentworth avenue, adjoining the home of William E. Webb.

Recent sales reported by the Staats Company follow: To Anna H. Ashley of Pasadena, 123-foot site on Arden road; to M. W. Prindle, corner of Pinehurst drive and Hillcrest avenue, with frontage of 147 feet on Hillcrest; to Charles A. Goodyear, tract of land adjoining his place on Oakland avenue; to Helen H. Reynolds, 100x200 feet on Los Robles avenue; to E. V. Armstrong, formerly of Altadena, a lot adjoining the House residence; to Dr. T. N. Jamieson of Chicago, corner of Alpine street and El Molino avenue; to William R. Staats, five-acre, oak-covered plot, corner Oak Grove avenue and Rosalind road, and to C. C. Freeman, site at Oak Knoll avenue and Elliott drive.

The largest of recent sales was the transfer by Gilbert B. Perkins to F. W. Emery of a thirteen-acre residence estate on Hillcrest avenue. The house, which originally cost close to $50,000, is to be remodeled by the new owner, who will also expend a large sum in improving the grounds. Emery is said to have paid $125,000 for the property.

LEASED TO CAFETERIA.

Boos Bros. to Occupy Two-story Building Just Started on Broadway Between Third and Fourth.

The W. Ross Campbell Company, through its leasing department, has closed a long-term lease with the Boos Bros. Cafeteria Company for a two-story building to be erected at Nos. 328-30 South Broadway. Harry Gray, owner of a fifty-year ground lease on the premises, is having the structure built for the lessees, according to their own plans and specifications.

The building, which is now underway, will have a frontage of forty feet by a depth of 150 feet. The cafeteria proper will be twenty feet wide, there being provision for a store 10x30 feet in size on each side. The foundations of the structure are designed to support extra stories, if these should be required.

GETS FACTORY CONTRACT.

The contract for the construction of the projected factory buildings of the Griffin Car Wheel Company in Vernon has been awarded to Carl Leonardt of this city. A group of ten structures is called for in the plans.

SUB-CONTRACTS LET.

First Unit of Big Broadway Department Store Building to Be Completed Early in July.

Several sub-contracts for the finish and appointment of the new Broadway Department Store building were awarded during the past week, signalizing the rapid progress that is being made by the general contractor, C. B. Weaver, in the construction of the first unit of that huge structure. Weaver announced yesterday that the portion of the store now under way would be completed and ready for occupancy by July 1. The steel work will be finished in a little over a week.

The Foulkes-Gaylord Company has been given the electric wiring contract for the building, amounting to $40,000 worth of work. Inside, the store will be 17,000 lights, while outside are to be 5000 more for street illumination. One hundred miles of wiring will be required, with thirty-five miles of conduits. A complete emergency system will be installed. Electrical devices will be used to control inside and outside fire alarm systems. An electric elevator indicator will enable patrons to determine the exact location of the particular lift they may be wishing to use. Elaborate electric signal systems will keep the house detectives in touch with every department. Prominently displayed clocks, electrically controlled, will keep the public informed of United States Observatory time.

The heating and ventilating contracts have been let to the Machinery and Electrical Company of Los Angeles, and call for the installation of elaborate plants to provide washed and filtered air of just the right temperature at all times. The National Fireproofing Company will have the laying of the interior walls and floors. The N. J. Spencer Company has the contract for the automatic sprinkler system. The contract for the marble work has been let to Joseph Musto Sons & Kruan.

TRADES FOR RANCH.

John C. Eads has transferred his residence at No. 1255 West Forty-second street to Morris J. Fitzgibbon. In exchange he has taken a twenty-four-acre improved alfalfa ranch near Corona. The properties are said to represent a value of about $7500 each.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to install certain INDIVIDUALITY into each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Hermosa Beach and San Pedro, on easy terms.

FOR SALE—$12,500.

This house is $2000 under value; the best buy in the Wilshire district. Built on elevated ground, of tapestry brick and shakes. The artistic arrangement of beam projection, the harmonising shades of the brick and cement porches, steps and driveway present a rich and unique appearance.

The living-room is finished in Juan Costa mahogany, beautifully decorated and opening at the right with three wide French doors. The mantel is of tile. The cosy den, finished in the same wood, has a large built-in desk and an artistic bookcase.

In the dining-room fumed oak is used in finishing. A light fixture of semi-indirect design and a unique built-in buffet add materially to the tasty appearance of this room.

A more beautiful breakfast-room could hardly be imagined. Redwood in the natural grain is used and the wall decoration is in handwork in the colors of this wood. A rustic idea is carried out in the design, lattice work with delicately beautiful vines and flowers winding and peeping through. Bright, cheery, artistic, original, are words that but faintly describe this room.

Ruud automatic heater and furnace in basement. The maid's room, having its own bath, is on the first floor. Price $12,500.

ANNOUNCEMENT!!

I now offer for sale—without any advances in prices—the remaining unsold lots in

"MABERRY HEIGHTS"
"MABERRY HEIGHTS"

That sightly subdivision overlooking Los Angeles and Hollywood that you always stop to admire every trip out Sunset boulevard. I had intended holding the remaining lots for the BIG PRICES SURE after 1915, and had ceased advertising, but property like "MABERRY HEIGHTS" advertises itself, and I receive so many inquiries that I have concluded to place the remaining lots back on sale—without advancing prices, though I will do so very shortly.

THINK of the prices ASKED, and BEING PAID, for little flat lots out on a 30 to 50 minute car ride—often 10-cent fare—and THEN STOP AND THINK that I will sell you a BIG 50-foot lot (and LARGER) on HIGH GROUND within 13 minutes' ride of the business center, for ONLY $900 and up—good ones for EVEN LESS—on the easiest of terms. The finest class of improvements are COMPLETED—NOW, NOT PROMISED—and many beautiful homes, costing as high as $20,000, have already been erected. REGARDLESS of the prices, there are no more desirable home sites ANY PLACE, yet I offer them to you for LESS than you MUST PAY for the most ordinary lots. You cannot afford to delay.

GO OUT TODAY — SUNDAY!

Take the Hollywood, Colegrove, or Franklin ave. cars on Hill st., all straight 5-cent fares, of course—and get off at ELZA ST. My office right there OPEN ALL DAY TODAY, SUNDAY, and EVERY AFTERNOON through the week. Or, call at my downtown office, mornings.

We Believe This to Be

THE BEST BARGAIN

in a high-class home site.

100x150, facing east, on one of the highest points, probably the highest; close to Wilshire blvd. Magnificent outlook, which can never be obstructed, and will always be a delight to the occupants.

Building protection $6000. You will agree with us that this lot is worth $10,000, but the owner wants to realize cash at once. She has given us a price of $6000, which means a loss to her, although she bought some time ago, when values were much lower. There is a $3000 mortgage, 6 per cent., due on or before August, 1915, so $3000 cash will do.

If you don't want to build it will pay you to buy this property to resell.

WEST SEVENTH STREET.
WEST SEVENTH STREET.
WEST SEVENTH STREET.

Property on WEST SEVENTH STREET has undoubtedly the brightest future of any cross street in the city.

It is the main artery to the Westlake and Wilshire districts, where there is more building going on than in any part of town.

This is the only wide street north of Pico street that has no hills nor turns, and is therefore the logical thoroughfare to the west side of town.

Go out Seventh street any time of day and see the amount of traffic.

We have all the best buys on the street, but one in particular we wish to impress upon you most forcibly. This is one of the finest corners on the street, and at a price absolutely $250 per foot less than any corner within four blocks.

This corner is an exceptional bargain and merits your immediate investigation.

FOR SALE—INCOME PROPERTY. Being very much in need of ready cash, and to find out if there is really any investment money in the market, I am going to offer a piece of close-in income property at about 50 cents on the dollar of its actual value. I have a beautiful high and sightly, east front hotel or apartment-site lot, on Flower street, on the hill near First st. I am about to lose other valuable property and must realize quick. $12,500 will buy it, and $5000 cash will handle it, and I will forfeit $1000 if I can't prove that it is worth twice the amount asked. FOR SALE— Suburban Property.

FOR SALE—PRODUCTIVE SUBURBAN PROPERTY. I tell my clients to figure the living obtainable NOW from the properties I present; if that living is satisfactory now, it will continue to be so long as grass grows and water flows; in addition to a living, there is a legitimate profit on rightly chosen—through me—suburban property, resulting from the pressure of city population outward.

I handle no speculative properties, but confine my attention to productive land that justifies its price by the income now obtainable from it; proximity to Los Angeles gives safety by insuring a steady market both for produce and land itself; see me for four producing suburban homes.

$2200—Terms, 2½ acres, high, scenic, foothill location, on street, with water piped under pressure; protected, frostless, decomposed granite; very rich and productive.

$3750—Terms, 3-acre orchard home in Burbank, 6-room house, large barn, chicken corrals, windmill, tank, two acres bearing plums, peaches, apricots, pears, cherries, prunes, apples, almonds, quince, with good crop set; large beds strawberries and asparagus; half-acre young gooseberries; currants, loganberries; dewberries, red and black raspberries; entire balance, including orchard, in potatoes, onions, turnips, carrots, peas, beans, lettuce, etc.; every foot working; finest black sandy loam.

$5364 cash will handle 21 acres on boulevard, in Burbank, now in melons; nothing more to pay for two years; after that owner will carry your customer's paper and release you if you wish to subdivide and sell in acre and two-acre tracts, fronting boulevard; tract lies right to do this; price $750 an acre; which is truly a bargain for this boulevard double corner, near cars.

$7500—Terms; 6 acres on electric line, 40 minutes out; exceedingly productive; 5-room furnished plastered house; barn, corrals, chicken equipment, milk house, aerator; valuable water right; 200 bearing peaches, plums, apricots, apples, prunes, nectarines, figs; persimmon; mulberry; dewberries, raspberries, blackberries; all kinds garden vegetables; 105 bearing table grapes; 2 acres alfalfa; 4 milk cows, 2 heifers, 2 calves, 50 classy hens, Belgian hares, Berkshire sow, 2 shoats, good mare, in foal; new wagon, buggy, harness; all necessary tools and implements; owner will if desired retain part or all of stock at value, and reduce purchase price accordingly; $4000 can run 7½ years, 6 per cent.

$10,000—Terms; 9¾-acre young lemon grove, on high, sightly boulevard corner; just eight miles from Courthouse of Los Angeles; house, barn, cement mains; valuable right to cheap water, owner has larger acreage to protect and must sacrifice this.

$11,875—Terms; 19 acres alfalfa at Burbank; with pro rata interest in splendid pumping plant.

Many others. See me if interested in orange, lemon, walnut, deciduous fruit, alfalfa, or garden land in Los Angeles district. Always courteous, reliable service.

PRODUCTION OF DECIDUOUS FRUITS, FIVE to TWELVE TONS PER ACRE.

The San Fernando Valley, at the gates of Los Angeles, promises to equal all past records of fruit production this year.

Great things are predicted for the next few months—annexation, aqueduct water, rapid settlement, great improvement and development. A steady rise in prices is predicted, too.

We have some choice land, close to Sherman Way blvd., close to the county boulevard, close to the electric car, good quality soil—some of it good alfalfa land, all of it good fruit land.

The prices are distinctly less than similar lands in the same vicinity, and we can make terms so safe and so easy that a prudent man has no excuse for not taking advantage of them.

AFTER ALL
THERE'S NOTHING BETTER
ORANGE GROVE.

Look the whole field of Southern California over, FIND OUT THE TRUTH, and you will find that growing oranges for profit, considering the investment, is the safest, most profitable, most pleasant form of farming.

FONTANA is the place where modern, productive orange, lemon and grapefruit groves are growing. FONTANA is the place to plant your grove. The price of land, with good water rights, is low. The terms are easy.

If you want to plant your trees, care for them yourself, FONTANA is the place. If you want groves already planted and growing—at low prices and on easy terms—FONTANA has them.

And if you want to have a grove "planted to order," with selected trees, on selected soil, want to have it carefully tended, year in and year out, while you are still working and saving to pay for it—study the FONTANA arrangements and you will be surprised at their completeness and the low cost of this service.

CHICKENS AND ORCHARDS ON VAN NUYS-LANKERSHIM LANDS
ARE STILL MAKING MONEY FOR THE RANCHERS.

If you want to secure some of the last great close-in valley lands, do not delay. NOT 50 or 60 miles from the city and CALLED close-in—but right at the front door of Los Angeles.

Not an acre of land better located in Southern California for fruit raising, melons or poultry industry. Only an hour and a quarter away by fast electric cars from the Los Angeles market.

One man made $762 from watermelons planted between the rows of his young 7-acre apricot orchard last season.

Another from 2000 White Leghorns on his 5-acre ranch received $3300.

Not a drop of water needed on this sub-irrigated soil for the orchards. The peach, apricot, plum and walnut grove means independence—and the increase in value bound to follow the completion of this wonderful development plan, the electric lighted boulevard and electric car line, etc., means future subdivision profits.

10-acre tracts, $250 and $350 an acre.

5-acre tracts as low as $375 an acre.

One-quarter cash, balance over three years.

Do not delay—NOW over $5,000,000 has been sold. These are two new tracts that have until now been reserved from sale. 200,000 trees set out last season. Get in now—a little orchard, chicken farm or country home. Call, phone or write.

Our machines make several trips daily.

ON RAILROAD.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME.

YOUR CHANCE.

440 ACRES

of the FINEST, very deep and level, rich sandy loam soil, silt (soft land) and FREE FROM ALKALI.

This land adjoins the railroad, and is one of the FINEST pieces of land in the State for FRUIT and ALFALFA growing, and is worth $100 an acre today, AND MORE, for farming purposes.

BUT, NOW LISTEN!

This is also the most LIKELY and NATURAL LOCATION in the whole valley for a WELL-PAYING RESORT and TOWNSITE, which, I believe would PAY almost from the very start, with very little promoting expense.

The CLIMATE, at this section, being SUPERB the year round, with a DELICIOUS COOLING BREEZE blowing every hour in the day during the warm months, and with simply GRAND bathing, boating, fishing and shooting.

Considering the price and this description, and what SOME already THINK they know of this valley, this will sound to them like a pipe-dream, but I want to say—INVESTIGATE and you will find ALL the above statements—FACTS.

It don't take a millionaire to handle this proposition, any man or woman with a FEW hundred dollars and a little NERVE could handle this and make a start toward SUCCESS, for—NOTE THE PRICE—$3 per acre down, balance terms—long time—and I might consider a TRADE for part or all of first payment. There is a REASON for all this, and a GOOD one.

Look into this if you desire to get into something that is RIGHT, and don't forget the FARMING END of this proposition, for that's always a STAPLE one.

GOVERNMENT LAND—

FOR SALE—

USE YOUR

CAREY ACT RIGHT

LAST CALL FOR U. S. GOVT. CAREY

ACT LANDS UNDER $1,000,000

IRRIGATION SYSTEM

50 CENTS AN ACRE

This is your last opportunity to buy United States Government land in the famous tested and proven Delta Project of Central Utah.

Former California ranchers who have bought and settled on this project value their lands at more than $200 per acre. If you have not exercised your Carey Act right—act at once! Splendid water system completed and in actual operation. State of Utah has limited price of water to $40 an acre—$7 per acre cash and thirteen years' time to pay the balance. For the land you pay only 25 cents an acre down—the remaining 25 cents an acre in three years.

Delta is now a settled district with ready markets and good schools. Only 5 hours from Salt Lake City and 20 hours from Los Angeles. Excellent climate and good pure water. Water from irrigation system ready for delivery to every acre open to settlement. Come prepared to settle and establish yourself—speculators and those with practically no means are not wanted on this project. Fifteen tons of sugar beets to the acre have been raised here—up to 50 bushels of wheat and 100 bushels of oats from land one year from the brush—$75 to $100 an acre netted from alfalfa seed—200 bushels of potatoes to the acre the first year. This type of land should soon pay for itself. Write or call at once for folder containing detailed information, testimonials, etc. Special homeseekers' excursion leaves Los Angeles Wednesday and Saturday mornings at 9 o'clock. Apply at our offices for special rates. This is a wonderful land opportunity. You should take advantage of it immediately if you are in a position to do so. Call or write for booklet, giving testimonials from former California ranchers. Title to land is perfect—passes from the Federal Government to the State and from the State to the settler.

SUPERIOR VALLEY.

This wonderful valley, also known as "Crystal Basin," contains thousands of acres of deep, rich, level land, now open for entry under the desert act; recommended by the State University soil department for alkali and deciduous fruits; no alkali, no hardpan; no severe winds; nearly 10,000 acres taken past ninety days; four hours rail to Los Angeles, $2.25 per acre, $1.25 bash, balance four years; no interest, no taxes; residence not required; H. W. Stadtegger, and Orange county fruit grower, who filed in this valley the past week, says: "I found it better than represented, and consider myself fortunate in getting 320 acres; I am a native of California and have seen the rapid development of many agricultural sections in different parts of the State, but I have never seen a locality with greater possibilities than this rich valley." We have many more testimonials to the same effect, which you can see at our office. Excursions daily while rush lasts. Now is the time to use your rights. AIKEN & KIMBALL, 437 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Los Angeles.

THIS IS POSITIVELY THE LAST CALL. THE government opened to entry last week 40,000 acres of the finest agricultural land in Arizona, located on the Gila River and main line of Southern Pacific railroad. During the past 10 days more than 15,000 acres of this land have been taken up. More than 50,000 acres of government land has been filed on in Yuma county during past four months. Hundreds of people are coming in weekly. It is the opinion of the best-advised people in Yuma county that the prices of patented land in Yuma county will equal the highest prices ever paid in Imperial Valley, within 3 years. Water conditions in our country are ideal, and excepting these few thousand acres I am telling you about there is practically no surveyed government land in Yuma county. We raise the finest citrus fruits in United States, weeks ahead of California, and superior to finest Florida fruit. I am taking a party to Arizona on Wednesday. If you have a right and want to use it this is without question your one best chance. I am secretary of the Southern Arizona Development Association, and the information you get from me about any government land is reliable. Come and see me at Westminster Hotel, 4th and Main sts., any time until Wednesday, April 1, at noon. MURRAY J. MORLEY.

We have the handling of an apartment-house in the very hub of the city. It has perhaps the largest and most prepossessing lobby of any house in town. It is a new class B building. It is filled with tenants and the landlord is very happy over his lease. He writes his check promptly and cheerfully on the first of each month for $1280. The partners owning this property desire to separate their interests and one of them is leaving this part of the country. The mortgage is $50,000 bank loan at 6 per cent. $30,000 second, payable $5000 annually at 7 per cent. $18,000 cash and $55,000 good clear property will handle this equity. 10 per cent. on investment, $55,000 of which is trade, is not bad.

J. J. DORAN COMPANY.

ANNOUNCEMENT—

The tremendous demand for, and the inadequate supply of moving pictures and films, has brought forth into the

WORLD'S GREATEST INDUSTRY

a producing concern of great scope, embracing a powerful organization, the

MAJOR FILM

MANUFACTURING COMPANY,

of Los Angeles, whose scenic, ideal, motion picture acreage, already secured, gives it the operating base for the most ambitious and attractive picture plays ever shown. With a qualified directorate and official personnel, in which is included the most experienced moving picture men in the business, this company proposes to become the strongest factor in an industry that has MADE MILLIONS AND MILLIONAIRES—that has brought one film concern into a $2,000,000 capitalization from an originally small investment; that has, collectively, become a greater industry than the Standard Oil Company.

BEAUTIFUL, RUGGED

LAUREL CANYON ACREAGE,

the last of the choicest scenic areas to be had for moving picture play production, has been acquired by this company, in the heart of the world's picture zone. The OPPORTUNITY IS OFFERED YOU to become an owner in the MAJOR FILM MANUFACTURING CO., practically the first public offering of any photo-play concern. HAVEN'T YOU BEEN EAGER TO GET INTO THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY—IN RIGHT? You have SEEN the films, now OWN them! Our plans are complete; our object should be quickly obtained. Par value of shares $10. Write or call for confidential information, whether salaried man or capitalist.

L. A. INVESTMENT STOCK.

The "Baldwin Purchase"—the chief factor that has kept the price of this stock so low, has been removed for another year by a compromise with the Baldwin heirs. By that time, judging from the present rate of progress, the company will have little trouble in financing this tract. This is only one of the many favorable developments yet to come. Don't wait until this stock has made its big advance again. Buy it now, but first get a copy of our letter giving our opinion. Free on request. Quotations cheerfully furnished on all listed and unlisted securities.

HIKING HONEYMOONERS STUDY THE COAST ROUTES.

Roads, Cities, Communities Investigated for "The Times" by Newspaperman and Bride Who Are Making Trip from Vancouver to San Diego.

BY DAVID SWING RICKER.

FOREWORD.

IT IS not always easy to discover what mental motive crystallizes impulse into resolve and resolve into action.

I am certain that in late November I was unmarried. I am equally certain that in early December I had a wife. Nor am I less certain that I had not put away enough money to take her on the long wedding trip she had planned. I am a newspaperman and have never been anything else.

The impulse was hers. I caught it from her as one catches mumps or measles. It is my feeling, as I now look back upon that chill, mist-swept day, that an impossible play which I was careful to condemn—I was a painstaking dramatic editor—combined with a stormy interview with the business manager who measured all plays by his agate rule, left my system susceptible to the impulse.

My wife claims that I caught the impulse because I had seen so much playing at romance in the theater that I wanted to do a little playing myself. But this I deny.

The resolve was mine.

The action was ours.

We married. We bought some blankets and some khaki clothes and frying pans and began our honeymoon—on foot, along the Pacific highway. We went to Vancouver, B. C., to make our start. Our destination is San Diego. A 1700-mile walk.

But we did not start out into the wide, open places of the West without a purpose, a definite purpose. We think a big purpose.

PERAMBULATING RESEARCH.

Before we made our departure we signed up with The Times to accept articles from us. Thus we began our coast-length journey down the Pacific highway—a journey with a purpose more definite and less personal than the trying out of the strength of limb and nerve; a purpose to give to the public:

1. A, first-hand story of the conditions of the trunk road that chains the Coast cities and what is being done to make it ready for the heavy travel of 1915—travel that will bring dollars with it.

2. A close-range estimate of the comparative wealth of the different sections through which the road passes as measured by their undeveloped natural resources.

3. The facts about the harbors of the Pacific Coast cities; their preparedness to receive the commerce that will follow the joining of the two oceans, and the harbor development work, undertaken or projected, in anticipation of the opening of the Panama Canal.

4. An estimate of the wealth, natural resources and suitability for industries of the country lying behind the harbor cities, which will be one of the big factors in determining commercial supremacy—a factor that cannot be overlooked or disregarded.

David Swing Ricker,

Newspaper man who is spending his halycon wedded days accompanied by his bride on a hike down the Pacific Coast for the purpose of determining the conditions of highways.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

In Washington, from Blaine on the British Columbia boundary line to Chehalis, the Pacific highway is in splendid condition. The link between Chehalis and Vancouver, Wash., will be put in good condition next year. The British Columbia roads, built with government aid, will be hard-surfaced before 1915. Between now and the exposition year British Columbia will spend approximately $11,000,000 on roads; this year Washington will spend $17,000,000, a portion of which will be used on the trunk road. Extensive road building plans are being made in Oregon. Jackson county has begun work on a cement surfaced road from its northern boundary south, over the Siskiyou Mountains to the California line where it will meet, at Cole, the projected California State highway. The counties north of Jackson county in Oregon have voted large bond issues and have promised to have their sections of the highway in splendid condition by 1915, although the highway will not be hard surfaced north of Jackson county or south of Multnomah county by that time. The harbors will not be discussed until I have visited all of them.

IN CALIFORNIA'S "BACK YARD."

YREKA (Cal.) March 2.—We have passed from Lower Oregon into Upper California, from a region little talked about because it is little known, into a region much talked about for the same reason. We had expected to pass from rainsplash into sunsplash and meet nature awake with trilling, fluting birds; people occupied with things worth doing; fields abloom. We are disappointed. We had forgotten that the snow-topped Siskiyou wall did not divide us from the California, sun-dappled and spectrum-colored of our early memories, but merely through its gates led us into the uncleared and unplanted acres we must traverse before we came to the gardens.

We are in California's great back yard. We have passed from wakefulness into sleep. The intervening, fitful gaps were filled with visions of white-mantled tree tops calling on the sun to extricate them from the relentless snow that held their legs and the sun, laughing at the predicament of the high-planted pines, played its games of spring, flashed from the peaks, leaped from the trees and ran through the valleys lighting each leaf and flower and humble hill with a different color. But the transition was not so swift as this. It occupied much time and it took a toll of aches and strains and pains.

Perhaps, had I not the fear of angering truth, I might call this letter "Leaves from a Notebook," or something equally bromidic. But it is not convenient to carry a notebook on a tramping trip, my cuffs are not white or starched, nor is one inclined to sit down by the roadside now and then, lay down his pack, sharpen his pencil and take time to make a record of impressions. A newspaperman has no liking for being discovered in such a ridiculous posture. We delegate this task to those who wander through pretty places with easels, palettes and unbleached linen sun shades. And we leave the carrying of notebooks and diaries to the Lord Brassys and Nellie Blys who capture inspirations from the sky much as collectors run down butterflies with their long-handled nets.

Yet, as I sat down in this hotel, where miners played at cards and swore and drank and wore pistols and chains of nuggets long before I was born, I felt impelled to compare this letter to those "Leaves from a Notebook" which persist in making a periodic appearance in the contemporary magazines, particularly in magazines for women. The impulse came from my desire to set down a number of impressions, more or less disconnected, in making my adieus to the charms of Oregon that have companioned us for nearly 400 miles and my greetings to the charms of California which has not yet come along the road to meet us.

Yesterday were were in Oregon; today we are in California. What a twenty-four hours! And what a great pity we have for the mountain goats who spend their lives among those snowy cornices! Unless they are able to enjoy the gorgeous sunsets and the exquisite dawns, what a wasted life is theirs!

PERSONAL EXPERIENCES.

It was early afternoon yesterday when we broke camp beside the little stream where we had lunched and moved on. For miles piled on end we made our way slowly out of the narrowing valley of the Rogue and began to ascend into the gathering mountains.

Soon night began to lower. And rain came. A few drops at first. Then barrels.

Long ago, when I was a small boy, I formed the nation that cats ought to be able to swim. It seemed unfair that they should be denied the sport of the surf. It could not have been so meant. Nature doesn't play favorites. Dogs could swim. Cats had four legs. Thus my mind reasoned. I didn't have a dog. To me, my cat looked like a water cat. It must be one.

From imagination it is only a step to belief; another step to resolution. My cat was to be a water cat. There was no other way about it. Little did Poland, from the woods of Maine and bearing the name of famous springs discovered and commercialized by my tight-fisted, penny-squeezing ancestors, realize the magnitude of the task I had set for her. She must swim. She must retrieve. If she failed she would crash from the pinnacle of my childish esteem. It was a case of having to come back with her shield or on it.

I dropped her off Duggan's pier into the surf.

After a few acrobatic gyrations she came back. Sad-eyed and spiritless, dragging a ratty tail behind her, she she crawled, bent by the weight of disgrace, to the sun-beaten white sand above the lapping waves. And there she quietly lay, shrunk to half her size, eyeing me with mingled disappointment and distrust.

The memory of Poland in that melancholy hour came back to me this morning. And remorse took the place of the indignation I had felt. I wish I could find Poland now and apologize and explain to her that I had been animated by the same zeal for zoological discovery that day which had urged me, on an earlier day, to attempt to instruct my bantam hen in the uses of the duck pond.

When I unrolled my blankets and awakened my wife, I understood for the first time the feelings of my water cat.

We were footsore and body weary when we chose for our "flop" a narrow clearing beneath a group of stately firs, spruce and hemlock that formed a roof of green that shut off all sight of the sky. The ground was reasonably dry and the growth was thick enough to deny the rain. It was an admirable location for a camp, with a spring close by. Quickly we had pulled up the damp grass, swept the clearing with boughs of pine, gathered evergreen to soften our beds, spread our blankets and begun the work of collecting dry wood for our fire. This work occupied the better part of an hour. But with our fire crackling, we made our way through a thick clump of manzanita bushes to the spring to get water. And the water we got was lithia! Imagine our amazement. We cooked coffee in lithia. We drank lithia. We washed in lithia.

The food refreshed us and improved our spirits, and when, at last, we rolled up like swathed mummies, we felt glad we had found such a perfectly sheltered place. The smell of the freshly-wet forest was to us like the perfume of newly-opened flowers. It was the first rain we had encountered since we had made our unforgettable trip over the mountains from Roseburg to Coos Bay.

Little did we dream that in that quiet, secluded, warm spot, there would come to us, in a few hours, the first tragedy of our journey—a tragedy which can little be understood, or not at all, by those who do not know the pranks of the woods or who have not found themselves in a similar predicament.

A WET TRAGEDY.

At a little before 5 o'clock, before the night had begun to lift, our roof, holding all the weight of water it was able to sustain, began to leak. For an hour there was an incessant drip, drip, drip. And, slowly, the intervals between the drips were shortened until, at last, the drips became streams and the streams wide sheets of falling water. At least, I am convinced that is what happened. It is the logical process. How we slept through the dripping of the water, I am able to explain only by our complete fatigue. It was 6 o'clock and still quite dark when I aroused my wife.

"Crawl out of the lake," I instructed her. It is a pity I hadn't a flashlight with me to take a picture of my bride. It was not the sort of a picture I had ever seen her present before. I confess, it was disappointing. It was then that the memory of my water cat came back to me. My bride's hair was matted by a mixture by rain and mud. Her face was mud-spattered and tiny bits of leaf clung to her driven by the wind. I told her the story of the water cat. That was the second tragedy.

There were other tragedies. Our wood was wet. Our spuds were afloat. So was our bacon. Our bread was disintegrating.

Before dawn began its struggle against the night, we had converted our blankets into a temporary roof, using my bundle ropes to stretch them between four of the huge trees. And under this improvised, half-soaked and sagging roof, we wanted to build our fire and cook our breakfast. We were hungry. But I have never been able to discover how to light wet paper or kindle wet wood with a match. And we had just rescued our breakfast and brought it to shore.

An hour later, after I had searched the countryside for a farm house and had been successful in locating a camp several hundred feet up the mountainside, we breakfasted on lithia water, rolled up our blankets, broke camp and began to climb the Siskiyous, hungry and thoroughly peevish.

MORAL OF INCONVENIENCE.

What a joy it would be in our selfish lives if we could compel our selfish hearts to feel that it was not intended that we should live always on sunbeams and that raindrops were given us as an equal blessing. But we were not big enough for such philosophy as we reached the beginning of the Siskiyou grade and slowly followed the ascent on the narrow, winding mountain road which carried us round and round the towering mountains on a grade that could not, at any place, have attained more than 8 per cent., although we encountered a few slides, some sudden rises and descents, places where an automobile carelessly driven a fraction of a foot one way or the other would have toppled over into the deep valley below or have been overturned by the sharply-rising wall.

Before we had gone far the sun came out and set the whole valley aglow, warmed the air and filled us with that desire to share in the glory of a day's awakening that inspires the birds to rise and dart and fight and flute, but the Pacific highway, turned into a soft bed of mud, was no place for feet, and it was not long before we abandoned the road and took to the tracks of the Southern Pacific. And in so doing, I learned a lesson. Never again shall I ask my wife to cross a railroad trestle. She would walk over none of them. Over each she crawled on all fours, much as a cat walks along the top of a picket fence, and with less grace.

At the little station of Siskiyou we had luncheon, 4100 feet above sea level. A small band of workmen shared with us their meager lunch and their good coffee. And there among the snows we rested for an hour or more before we proceeded into California.

PRAISE FOR JACKSON COUNTY.

Until an attempt has been made to cross the Siskiyou in winter it is impossible to appreciate the splendid work that Jackson county has undertaken by bonding itself to build a sixteen-foot wide cement-surfaced road to replace the narrow, muddy, puddled, snow-carpeted, rutted and treacherous roadway that now reaches over the mountains from Oregon to California.

At Hornbrook, ten miles inside of California, we spent the night.

Next morning we made our way to Yreka over the newly-routed State highway through the old placer district, and a splendid canyon. And there we found a town that gave us the occasion we seldom find, to witness the signs of an awakening after forty years of sleep!

YREKA AWAKENING.

Yreka, long dead, now beginning its renaissance! Yreka, its banks sheltering gold nuggets, overflowing trays; gold valued at $4500 in one piece of rock; gold stamped at the mints stacked high! Yreka, come back to life, a municipal Rip Van Winkle, whiskered by trees that overhang the streets; in the same old clothes, sunbeaten, weatherworn, but—alive!

And Yreka welcomed us with a warm hand, a cordial smile and a genuine, unfeigned hospitality! A freshly-painted sign, stood up at the city limits, bore the welcome:

"Yreka—Welcome to Our City."

And on the reverse side of the sign, to god-speed departing guests, was the inscription:

"So Long—Come Often and Stay Longer."

My first purpose was to hold up to ridicule the Pacific highway of ankle deep, dobie mile through which, for miles, we had plodded as we made our way to Hornbrook. But I found in Yreka a good-road enthusiasm as pure as Yreka's gold. And this same enthusiasm, I am told, is felt throughout Siskiyou county of thusiasm amounts to this:

The State is going to spend $450,000 on the Siskiyou section of the State highway (the Pacific highway) for which $18,000,000 has been set apart.

The county has agreed to buy $210,000 worth of the State highway bonds and to donate, in addition, all the bridges and the rights of way.

Moreover, the county contemplates a bond issue of $500,000 to build lateral roads connecting with the main artery.

When Jackson county, in Oregon, decided to build a good road to the California boundary line, as the story goes here, Siskiyou woke up. They decided to call Jackson's bet. They have done it. Then they passed the buck to Shasta county, south of them, the one broken link and the last county to agree to the State's project. Shasta awoke and at once voted a bond issue.

ROADS TO DISPLACE MIRE.

On May 1 work will be begun on the first unit of the Siskiyou section from the boundary line to Hornbrook. June 1 work will be begun on the second unit, reaching from Hornbrook to Yreka, and after the roadway is completed the Pacific highway signs will be moved from that disgraceful stretch of mire that leads to Montague and set up alongside the twenty-foot-wide, cement-surfaced avenue that will crawl through the splendid canyon of the Siskiyou and meet the hard-surfaced road of Jackson county on the mountain top a mile north of Cole.

But the work on the State highway is not all that is starting Yreka's heart to beating again. Noel E. Graves, county road engineer, describes with more than ordinary enthusiasm the great road loop that is being planned by the State Highway Commission. This loop forms a figure 8, with San Francisco as the center between the two lobes. One lobe will circle south to Los Angeles, sweep through Santa Barbara, and return to San Francisco by way of Fresno and Merced.

But it is the upper half of the 8 that has started Yreka's pulse. It embraces the California coast highway, which climbs up the coast miles inland, sweeps over to the ocean at Eureka, and then follows the Redwood and Klamath rivers east to Yreka and the Pacific highway, which comes up through the center of the State, passes through Sacramento, Marysville, Redding, Chico, mento, Sisson, Weed and meets the coast half of the circle at Yreka, thus making this time-felt city the meeting place of California's two great State-length highways.

It is indeed fortunate that the State Highway Commission in its wisdom saw fit to shift the Pacific highway from its present course and make it pass through this quaint, historic town, the seat of the county that has produced more gold than any other county in the world, and which is still producing gold to such an extent that the constant bank deposits in Yreka average $1,000,000. But strange stories are told up here about Yreka's gold. One of them is this:

"Millions of dollars in gold have been taken from the ground on which Yreka stands, and so much gold was left in the ground that it would be a paying investment to buy the town, tear it down and mine the ground with modern implements and methods. A downpour of rain washes gold from the ground in every street and yard, and never fails to lure out the boys, and even older people, with their pans and shovels to do a little mining."

And John Barleycorn was not within him when he told that story!

THOUSAND PERMITS.

To date for the month of March, the chief inspector of buildings has issued permits for 1027 new structures to be erected in this city. The total cost of these improvements will be $1,954,028. The valuation will go well over the $2,000,000 mark before the end of the month. The largest permit of the year to date was granted last week when Morgan, Walls & Morgan, architects of the projected twelve-story Haas building at Seventh and Broadway, took out a license to erect that $400,000 structure. A perspective of the building recently appeared exclusively in The Times.

WILL BUILD LOFTS.

The Davidson Construction Company has been awarded the contract for the construction of the seven-story reinforced concrete loft building projected by the Broadway Leasehold Company for a site on the east side of Broadway, just below Ninth street. The structure, a perspective of which recently appeared exclusively in The Times, will have foundations and walls of sufficient strength to support three additional stories. It will occupy a ground area of 40x85 feet. The first floor will contain stores.

ANAHEIM NOTES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ANAHEIM, March 28.—Anaheim encampment, No. 105, I.O.O.F., put on the Patriarchal Degree of that order under the direction of Grand Chief Patriarch George W. Ward of Riversidwe, in the presence of a large number last evening. About forty members were present from the Santa Ana encampment. A committee comprising Baynard T. Beale, Oliver Hill and J. Naugel had charge of the entertainment, and a banquet was served.

The equipment and uniforms of the military branch of the L.O.O.M., lodge No. 685, Co. L, having arrived, the company will be ready for competitive drill work at an early date. Capt. Charles A. Clark, B. T. Beale, first lieutenant, and J. Leslie Swope, second lieutenant, have directed the work of the members and it is anticipated that the company will eventually become one of the most efficient in the county.

M'KITTRICK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

M'KITTRICK, March 28.—Walter Williams, employed on the Jackson Oil Company's lease, in the north end of the McKittrick field, was painfully burned on the face by a "flare-back" from the boiler while cleaning tubes. The burns were dressed by Dr. W. H. Cook, and as they are of a superficial nature no serious results will follow.

On the lease of the Hondo Oil Company, in the North Midway district, "Tex" Barnett was cut on the right cheek while taking out a bit. Barnett was attended by Dr. H. V. Prouty.

OCEANSIDE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OCEANSIDE, March 28.—The advocates of a "wet" town in the forthcoming municipal election claim a substantial victory in the result of the trial of the so-called liquor cases, when a verdict of acquittal was returned in the case tried, dismissals made in two others and a three weeks' continuance in the fourth. The test trial was held before City Recorder Lew W. S. Stump, the defendant being Charles Cole, who was connected with the management of the San Luis Rey Hotel.

Fact and Comment.

possible doubt or misgiving in the minds of any who might be inclined to feel nervous over the situation with respect to West First street. It should be so definitely and finally worded that every last worker for the First-street bore will feel like laboring as hard and boosting as ardently for immediate action upon the Second-street tunnel as if that bore were the one that would do him personally the most good. It should be of a nature to absolutely estop protests of every kind.

The entire city demands such an assurance, or will demand it the moment any squabble may be started, for the authorities are committed to the two-tunnel plan and the people of Los Angeles want to see that programme, and no other, carried out. It may be urged that the entire proposition is settled and that the City Council has no thought of delaying the First-street tunnel and the West First-street boulevard a moment longer than is necessary. Common sense and the remembrance of the tunnel proceedings of other days, however, would dictate that the simple expedient of strong and unmistakable official commitment on the present projects would still all complaints and smooth the way for that expeditious action that is now demanded by the public.

This simple, but important, detail attended to, the big dirt scoops should be started to swinging on both sides of Bunker Hill at Second street as soon as the engineers can possibly hustle out the plans. Simultaneously if possible, work should be begun upon the West First-street boulevard, whatever the width of paved roadway determined upon. It should not require much time for the city to decide definitely upon the width of the Second-street bores if those having varying ideas will but meet each other in a spirit of fairness and open-mindedness. Neither the City Enginerr nor the members of the Tunnel Committee, nor, in fact, anyone else who has been projected into the argument on this particular score, is infallible. What Los Angeles wants is the widest and most serviceable tunnel bores possible after proper attention has been given to practical engineering considerations—that and action.

BUYS HEMET TRACT.

Former Texan Adds to Valuable Southern California Holdings by Purchase of Thousand-Acre Ranch.

Otho S. Houston, president of the firm of Houston, Gore & Co., reports that he has just acquired from F. H. Rowley a 100-acre tract near Hemet, a property valued at approximately $100,000. About 800 acres of the land is in cultivation and the new owner plans to develop the rest as soon as the necessary wells can be sunk.

In the deal, which was partly of the nature of an exchange, Rowley secured a $50,000 residence property in Ft. Worth, Tex., the difference being adjusted in cash. Houston is a former Texan, having until his removal to Los Angeles a few months ago, been president of the Texas State Bank at Ft. Worth and a resident of that city.

Within the past sixty days, he purchased for a given consideration of $50,000 the beautiful Italian villa of A. A. Eckstrum at Vine street and Franklin avenue in Hollywood, thereby signalizing his intention of becoming a permanent resident of Southern California. This deal, which was reported exclusively in The Times, was made through the agency of the Arthur W. Kinney Company.

RAINS IN WEST AFFECT WHEAT.

MARKET IS STEADY, ALTHOUGH PRICE IS LOW.

Corn Finishes Sixteenth Off; Oats Unchanged to a Shade Lower. Short Sellers Prove Timid in View of the Unexpected Upward Whirl. Provisions Gain.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 28.—Good rain throughout the West, especially in Kansas, sent wheat today down in price. The market although steady at the close was ⅛ to ¼ under last night. Corn finished a sixteenth off to ⅛ up, oats unchanged to a shade lower and provisions with a gain of 5 cents to 12½. Selling pressure on wheat developed chiefly in the new-crop months. The weather map showed that Nebraska and Oklahoma, as well as Eastern and Central Kansas, had been favored with timely moisture. In this connection it was said on high authority that only two or three more bountiful rains after April 15 would be needed to make certain the largest winter crop ever known. Short sellers of corn proved timid today in view of the unexpected upward whirl encountered the previous session. Wet weather in the harvest district of Argentina was against the bears early, but subsequent reports told of the skies having cleared. There were offers to deliver Argentine corn in Chicago at 71¼ during the first half of April. Trade in oats consisted wholly of changing from May to the more deferred futures. Provisions ascended with hogs. Packers took to the buying side, supposedly covering recent free sales short of the market.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The mining issues were quiet and features less today. Oil stocks were heavy. Standard of New York rallied slightly toward the close. Boston coppers opened a shade off, with fair trading. Further fractional losses were registered during the first hour; then trading quieted down. Arcadian was well taken at 4; Arizona Commercial was active at the same figure. Butte and Superior lost ½ point on large odd-lot trades. The market closed moderately active, with prices up a fraction from the bottom.

Stocks and Bonds.

SPECULATORS SELL HEAVILY.

TRADERS ON THE LONG SIDE ARE DISHEARTENED.

Time Money Rates Are Easier Owing to the Inflow and Slack Demand—Railroad Stocks, However, Have Not Exhibited Signs of Any Marked Weakness.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 28.—A decline in stocks which has proceeded steadily, though slowly, since the first of the week, bringing no increase of buying as quotations recede, encouraged heavier speculative selling today. Traders on long side were disheartened by constant injection recently of new bearish factors, and the lack of outside support. Railroad statements submitted today were unfavorable. Canadian Pacific reported a decrease of more than $1,000,000 in its net earnings for February. Erie's operating income was reduced from $970,000 in February of 1913 to $215,000 last month. New York Central reported a policy of retrenchment as rigid as Pennsylvania's. The fact that railroad stocks, while steadily sagging, have not exhibited any marked weakness in spite of the decidedly unfavorable showing recently, is ascribed to belief that the petition for an increase in freight rates will be acted upon favorably. Time money rates were easier today, owing to the inflow of money recently and the slack demand. These conditions at a season of the year when ordinarily there is renewed activity in almost every direction, were interpreted as an indication of unsatisfactory business condition. The week's bank statement, however, failed to show the expected further gain in cash. Instead of a substantial addition to the cash item, the statement disclosed a loss of nearly $5,000,000. Bonds were easy. Total sales, $800,000. United States bonds unchanged on call on the week.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury building, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, March 82.—The complexion of the market was unchanged today. Professional selling produced early irregularity and general declines, but part of the early losses was recovered before the close. New Haven acted rather well and it is thought that as soon as the stockholders ratify the agreement which has been etnered into between the counsel for the road and the Departmnt of Justic, holders of the securities of the corporation will become more hopeful. The street generally has obtained a new topic for discussion. So much has been said about rate cases that the subject has lost attractions. Calculations are now being made as to the extent of the short interest in the various issues, such as Union Pacific, United States Steel and Copper. There is no question at all but what the short interest has become unwieldy, which is confirmed by the fact that the borrowing demand for stocks is much larger than in many months, but even so, there has been no leadership on the buying side and consequently professional sellers have been able to dominate the course of prices and impart an appearance of weakness in the list altogether cut of proportion to the amount of long stocks liquidated on the down turn. It is said that some new financing is likely to be conducted within a week or so, and perhaps in order to make market attractive efforts will be made to stimulate activity on the upside, as investors are not disposed to make commitments on a large scale when security prices languish, as has been the cased uring the past week. The lack of commission business, perhaps as much as anything else, is the cause of much of the prevailing pessimism in financial circles, but even so, there is no use denying the fact that the immediate prospect is not attractive. However, it is believed by some that the next ninety days should witness the solution of many vexatious problems.

New York Cotton Market.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, March 28.—Opening prices were about in line with cables today, and after a slight recession the market closed at about the top for the day, with prices 5 to 9 points higher on old crops, and up 3 to 4 on new. Fluctuations were narrow, but the market had a decidedly steady undertone throughout the session. There was some selling for Wall street accounts at the opening, while trade houses were the best buyers. Advices from Manchester again were favorable. Spinners are calling for more cotton. The spot situation still remains steady, holders not appearing willing sellers.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET

First offenders against the full-weight berry basket have already been made examples of by City Sealer J. E. Harshman, who secured fines for three jobbers whose baskets failed to weigh up to requirements. These fines aggregated $60 and it was only several small dealers who were found short in their package of strawberries. The growers in the shoestring strip were reported as the ones who made the light pack. Old boxes have been only two inches deep, but under instruction from the City Sealer, a new box two and one-quarter inches deep is being made and advised by him for general use since it will admit more readily of carrying twelve ounces than the smaller box, which must be packed very tight in order to contain this amount of fruit. Several of the dealers are advocating the old-fashioned false-bottom box, one that will give full weight, however, and not intended to cheat the customer. The false bottom, they claim, allows better air circulation around the berries, is cleaner, and more easy to handle than the box now in use. Receipts of berries have been light during the week on account of cool weather. Sales have ranged between 5 and 12 cents, according to quality and quantity.

Light receipts of eggs during the past two or three days caused an advance in the price to 21 cents for case count stock. In San Francisco the market dropped to 19½ cents instead of going up. Much of the Petaluma stock that has been shipped here recently has been diverted to the northern market on account of the lower shipping rates. At the present differential in northern and local quotations, shipments will immediately increase. Only 533 cases were reported in yesterday.

Butter arrivals were 43,400 pounds. The market here remained at 23 cents. The call was only fair and the supply reported on hand is light. Cheese receipts were 3910 pounds. The San Francisco cheese market is down as low as 13 cents on new full cream, but the official quotation holds at 15½ cents. Demand here has been fair.

There was no change in the potato market. Receipts were 221 sacks. The call for onions is light, with the price up to $5. Sweet potatoes closed the week. The vegetable market remained unchanged practically. Asparagus as yet has failed to glut the market or break prices. Some local stock is expected this week, which may reduce prices to some extent.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Los Angeles Investment Shows Stronger Tone—United Oil Weak on Profit-Taking.

Although trading was confined within narrow limits, there was a slight revival of activity yesterday morning on the Stock Exchange. Los Angeles Investment was the principal attraction; it sold up to 92 cents, but reacted to 90. The close was firmer than the previous day. United oil was soft, owing to some profit-taking. With one exception, sales were at 20 cents. Maricopa Northern was at 6 cents. One off-board trade in Union at $74.50 was reported, but the stock was quiet and revealed a slightly easier tone on the exchange. An odd-lot of Los Angeles Athletic Club stock sold at $7.75.

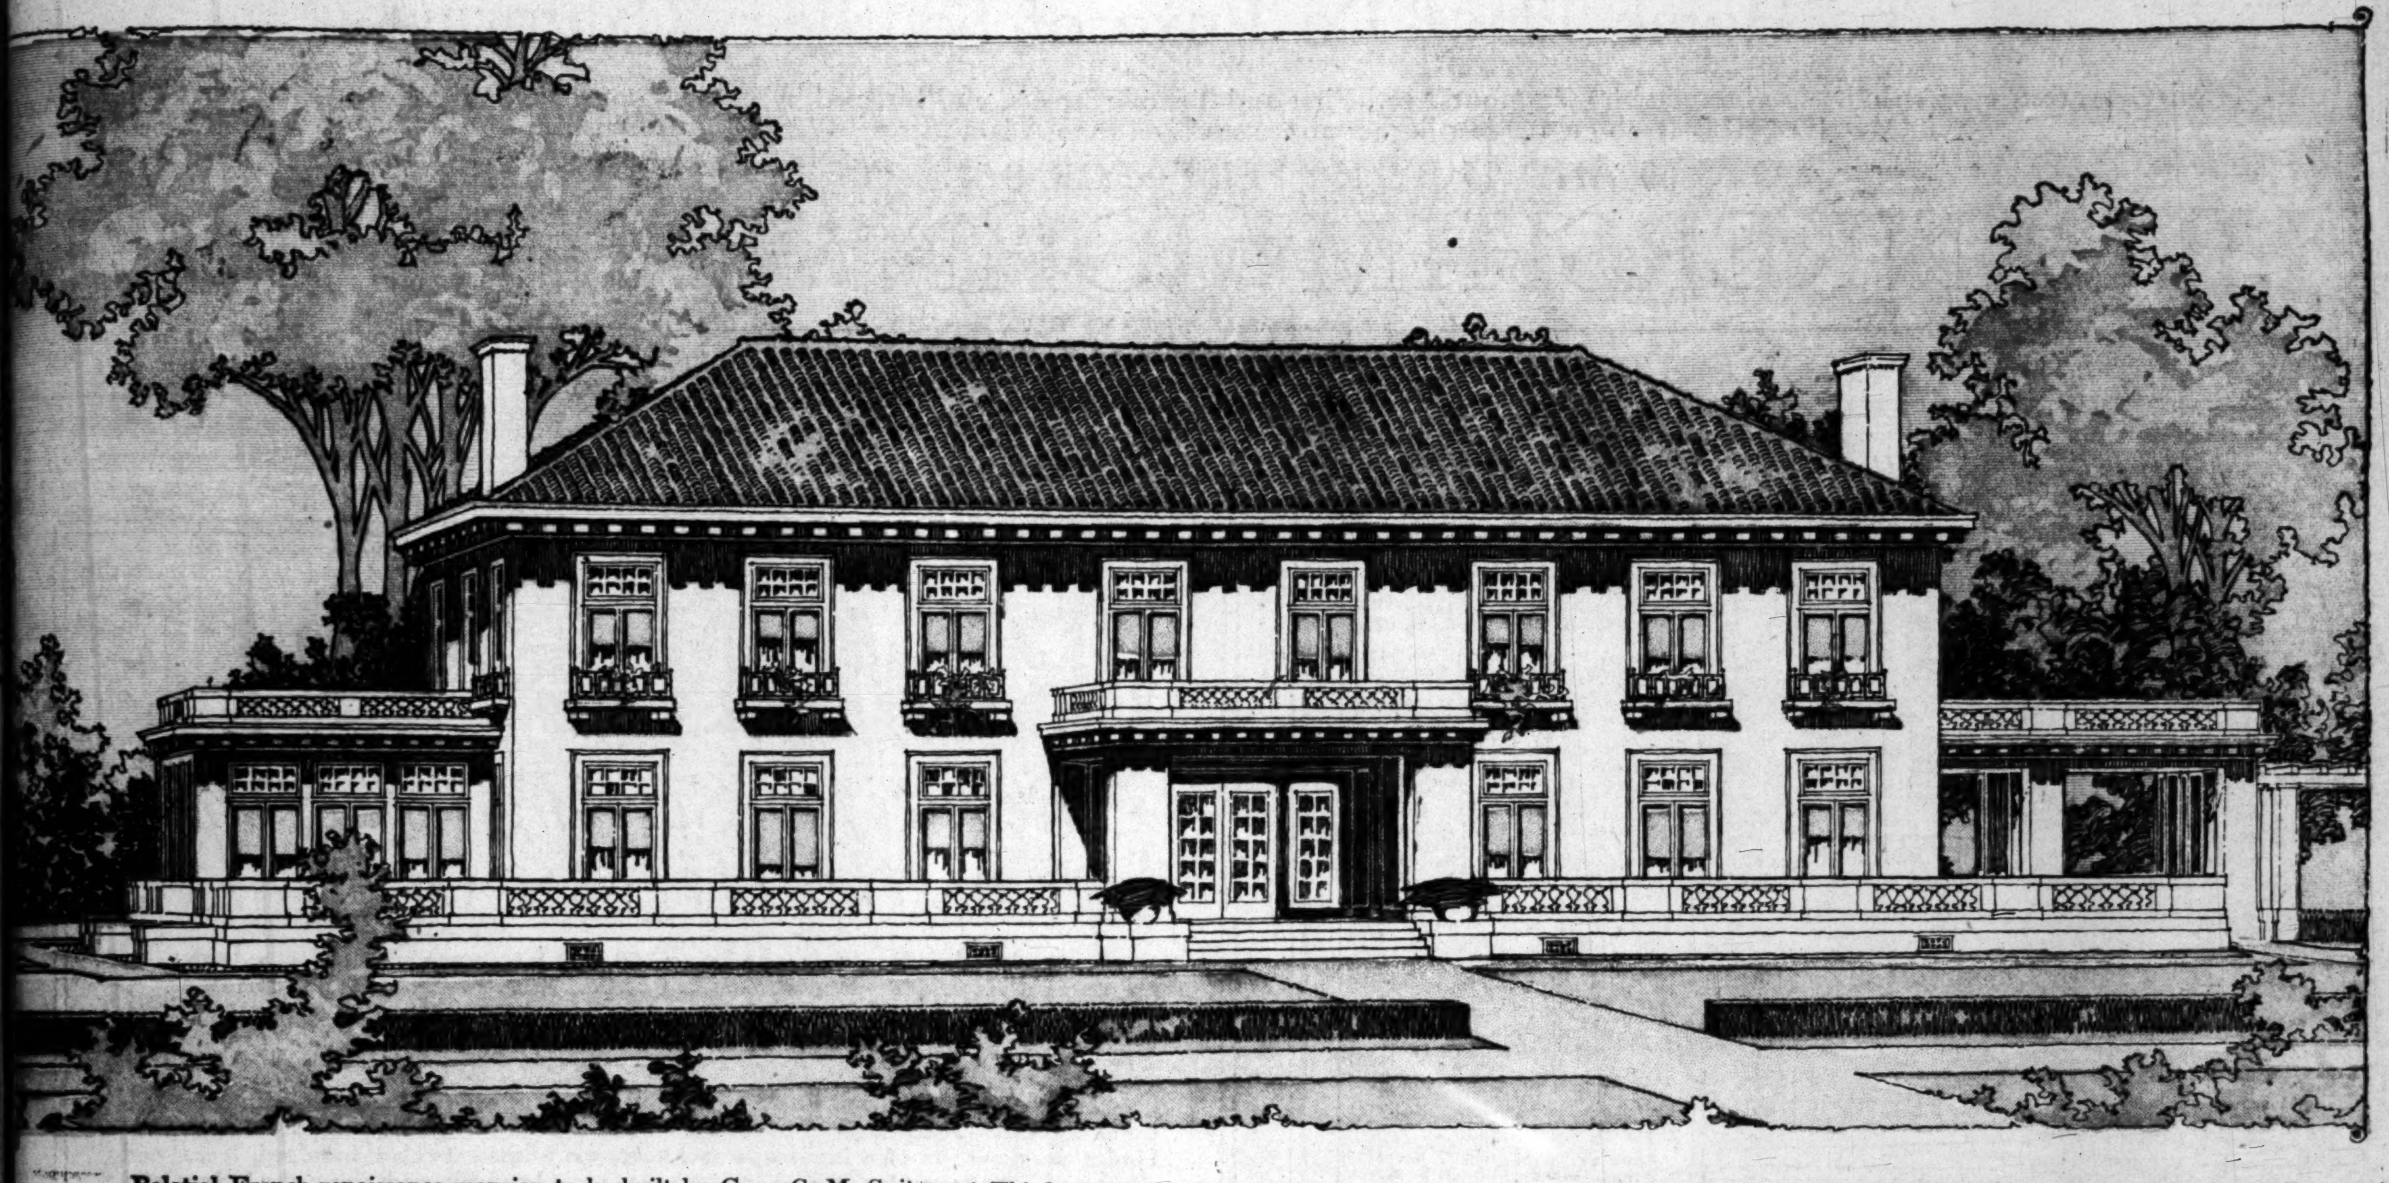
IN THE ACTIVE INDUSTRIES.

XXXIII^RD YEAR. SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 29, 1914. THE LAND: For Free Soil and Free Men, For Free Shops and Free Workers.

ITY'S MOST HANDSOME HOMES FILLING WILSHIRE DISTRICT.



Palatial French renaissance mansion to be built by Gen. C. M. Spitzer at Third street and Andrews boulevard, in the close-in Wilshire district. Hunt & Burns are the architects.

a commanding and beautiful site nearly 300 feet square, the home of Gen. Spitzer will be one of the most imposing in Southern California. In luxuriousness of interior finish it will probably surpass any other residence in the city. The new Wilshire "show place" will be started at once, the contract having been let and the grounds having been put into shape. The builder, who is a leading Ohio banker, will, it is understood, invest approximately $100,000 in his new Los Angeles home.

Remarkable Transition.

OM BARLEY FIELDS TO PALATIAL HOMES.

otable Activity in the Magnificent Wilshire District, here Highly Improved Subdivisions Are Being pened and Scores of Expensive Residences Are eing Built on Roomy Lots.

EWAL of activity in Los An- les real estate is just now ongly reflected in the magnifi- Wilshire district, where improve- aggregating $1,500,000 to ,000 are being made, and where fine tracts are about to be d.

the many phases of the tre- development and growth of geles and surrounding territory past decade none has been remarkable than the transition low-priced barley fields to resi- property valued at $10,000 per eight or ten years in the dis- west of Westlake Park. 1902 100 acres on Wilshire bou- west of Western avenue went at $400 an acre. One piece in the district was originally sed at $1.25 an acre and later hands at $27.50 per acre. The same land is now being improved as residence property and will be sold at $100 and higher per front foot.

In eight years the barley fields have disappeared. Nearly all the land west of Westlake Park in the city limits has been subdivided into tracts. Without exception these tracts have high-class street and other improvements and building restrictions. Of the houses now in process of construction the cost ranges all the way from $3500 to $80,000, with scores of new residences that will cost when completed $20,000 to $25,000 each. Values are high throughout the Wilshire district proper, building lots probably averaging more than $5000 each.

Ten years ago practically all the land in the district was acreage. A pioneer in the early development of the district is James V. Baldwin, who organized a syndicate and purchased several hundred acres. Baldwin and his associates built a railroad

WILSHIRE TRANSFERS.

Two Corners on Westmoreland Avenue Sold to Investors—Other Deals Reported in Close-in Districts.

Hastings Bros. report the following recent sales in the Wilshire Westlake section: Southwest corner Westmoreland avenue and Fourth street, 116x180 feet, Clara R. Shatto, to Frank Upman, $10,000. Upman is a retired capitalist from Chicago, and has plans for a substantial home. Northeast corner Fourth and Normandie 95x132 feet, S. M. Cooper to R. W. Poindexter, $8650. Poindexter is having plans drawn for a magnificent house.

Lot on east side of Westmoreland avenue, adjoining the corner of Fourth street, 60x170 feet, Clara R. Shatto to Margarite Donato, $3600. Lot on west side of Virgil avenue, north of Geneva street, 60x135 feet, E. G. Howard to W. J. Harris, $3500. Northwest corner of Sixth and Westmoreland, 100x170 feet, local capitalist, to J. F. Pitt, $20,000.

IN WINDSOR SQUARE.

Sales in Big Tract Speedily Followed by Erection of High-class Residences—Expensive Improvements.

Windsor Square, the biggest subdivision in the Wilshire district, is building up rapidly. The tract contains 100 acres that has been highly improved and divided into lots, and 100 acres that will be ready to open in a few months. The property is being handled by R. A. Rowan & Co.

The restrictions on this tract are adequately protective, but not prohibitive. There has been expended in streets, curbs and other improvements $500,000. All the wires are laid through conduits and there isn't a pole on the tract.

Mrs. Nellie E. Powers has begun the construction of a $50,000 residence at Sixth street and Windsor boulevard. A handsome $25,000 Italian renaissance house is being erected for Miss Crimmins on Windsor boulevard.

Edward Lyman has recently purchased the corner of Fourth street and Windsor boulevard and is having plans drawn for a $20,000 house. The place will be of white plaster, red-tiled roof, and will follow the lines of the Spanish mission architecture.

Milton Getz is completing a beautiful home at Sixth street and Windsor boulevard. It is of tapestry brick exterior and surrounded by gardens inclosed by old English brick walls.

In Ridgewood Park, lying east and northeast of Windsor Square, several fine homes have already been completed and a number are projected for early construction. The tract is being handled by the Wright-Callender-Andrews Company.

AMID MOUNTAIN SCENERY.

New Residences to Be Built Soon in Beautiful Tract at the Entrance to Griffith Park.

In Laughlin Park, at the entrance to Griffith Park, where the wooded slopes have been beautified by the planting of many plants and shrubs, several fine homes are about to be constructed. The tract contains thirty-six acres and is divided into lots of exceptionally large size. They range from 100-foot frontage to two and a half acres.

Part of the tract is on very high ground and the streets have been laid out in winding curves to preserve the natural beauties and complete a harmonious whole. Twelve years' growth of trees and shrubs are being supplemented by the setting out of plants, 40,000 of which are now in the hothouses ready for distribution.

The tract is bounded by Franklin and Lick streets and Los Feliz boulevard.

C. F. Perry is completing a $30,000 home in the tract, and plans have been drawn and accepted for three other fine houses, each of which will cost more than $20,000.

OPENS NEW OFFICE.

Irving L. Mayer, formerly of the firm of Macdermott & Mayer, has opened a new office at 1105 Story building. Mayer will handle downtown leases, loans and insurance.

FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT.

Manufacturers of Torrance Launch Club for Promotion of Closer Relations Among Industrial Developers.

Having as its aim the cementing of closer relations among manufacturers in Southern California, an organization known as the Manufacturers' Club, has just been formed at Torrance. It is composed of leading manufacturers at the new industrial city and several Los Angeles men interested in industrial development. W. C. Hendrie, president of the Hendrie Rubber Company, was elected president; Thomas D. Campbell, vice-president; J. W. Post, treasurer, and F. L. Riordan, secretary. Included among the other charter members are Rudolph Ahrens, J. S. Torrance, John S. Cravens, Dr. S. P. Thacher, George W. Neill, Fred L. Harris, John S. Daggett, Guy W. Finney, W. V. Hedges.

The club has fitted up temporary quarters in a clubhouse at Torrance, where hospitality is open to members and visiting manufacturing representatives. Later it is proposed to erect a suitable clubhouse which will be surrounded by spacious grounds.

NEW SUBDIVISION.

The McCarthy Company announces the subdivision of a new tract close to Main street on Florence avenue, with San Pedro street running on its westerly side. The surveyors are now putting the finishing touches on maps for record and the property will soon be offered for sale. The tract adjoins three tracts formerly subdivided by The McCarthy Company, these being the Greater Los Angeles tract, the Main-street Villa tract, and Addition No. 1 to the Greater Los Angeles tract. The restrictions for the new tract will give buyers the privilege of building temporary houses on the rear of the lots for two years, until permanent structures can be constructed.

Residence De Luxe.

OHIO BANKER TO BUILD SUPERB WILSHIRE HOME.

Work to Be Begun Tomorrow on French Renaissance Mansion Projected for Large Site on Andrews Boulevard—Luxurious Finish of Interior Feature of Design. Will Be Another Southern California Show Place.

CONSTRUCTION is to be begun tomorrow upon what will in all probability be the best finished home in Los Angeles. Gen. C. M. Spitzer, the builder, is a leading banker of Ohio, hailing from Toledo, where he now has one of the sightliest residences in the Buckeye State. His determination to make his winter home in this city led him a few months ago to pay close to $45,000 for a magnificent site on Andrews boulevard, in the close-in Wilshire district, and here he expects to build a mansion that will rank as one of the show places of Southern California.

Plans for the house have been completed by Architects Hunt & Burns, who are also supervising the laying out of the grounds. The dwelling will be in the French renaissance style and will contain twenty rooms. Of hollow tile construction, it will have white plastered exterior walls and a roof of green-glazed tile. The cornices and other details will be effectively brought out in moulded concrete. The foundations are to be of artificial stone faced with granite. Balconies set off with wrought-iron grills will emphasize the character of the design.

The grounds have a frontage of 300 feet on the east side of Andrews boulevard by a depth of 233 feet on Third street, extending back to Benton way. The house itself will be 126x80 feet in size and will be set 100 feet back of the sidewalk line, fronting on the boulevard. It will be completely surrounded by paved terraces fourteen feet in width, together with an encircling five-foot walk. The architects have worked out an elaborate scheme of pergolas, drives and walks, which, with an attractive garage and pavilion, will fit harmoniously and beautifully into the general ground plan.

The site has already been put into shape for the building work, a massive retaining wall with granite facing having been constructed entirely around the grounds. The contract for the house was awarded to C. J. Nordquist during the past week. The total investment which Gen. Spitzer will make in his palatial Los Angeles home will, it is understood, be in the neighborhood of $100,000. The owner will leave for Europe in a short time, leaving the construction details entirely with the architects. He hopes to occupy the place next January.

LUXURIOUS FINISH.

The most striking characteristic of the Spitzer home will be the luxuriousness of its finish and appointment. The finest of hard woods will be used throughout, even to the quarters of the servants and the garage. Where wood is not adaptable, as in the baths, kitchen, pantries and laundry, the walls will be in white tile from floor to ceiling. The house-keeping arrangements will be as complete as those of a metropolitan hotel.

The plans call for an entrance hall twenty feet wide and thirty feet long finished entirely in solid African mahogany of selected grain, the walls

PIONEER DEVELOPMENT.

How Residence District Was Extended and Improved West of Sunset Park—Eight Years' Work.

Eight years ago when The Briggs Company laid out its first tract in this city they selected a district tapped by a narrow country road running west from what today is the corner of Vermont avenue and Wilshire boulevard. This winding road with scarcely room for two wagons to pass, threaded between rolling hills and crossed rickety bridges till it came to an abrupt end about three miles west of Sunset Park. At that time the main growth of Los Angeles practically stopped on the west at this park.

The touch of development to open this district into a section of fine homes was supplied by The Briggs Company when it opened the Kensington Place Tract on Wilshire boulevard and Western avenue. Briggs, with the united effort of subsequent land owners in this district, succeeded in obtaining water, gas, electric lights and extension of car lines so that practically over night the barley fields and country roads changed to magnificent avenues and costly homesites.

Kensington Place was followed by twenty-four other tratcs, all located on the high lands between Wilshire boulevard and Hollywood, until today this section has over fifty miles of graded and asphalted streets completed, all lined with the finest residences in Los Angeles. The Briggs Company is now giving its attention to Crescent City, well to the north of the Wilshire district, against the Hollywood foothills.

LEASE ACADEMY.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy E. Payne, dancing teachers, have leased for ten years the new brick dancing academy now being erected at No. 2018 Orange street, by Henry Laub. The building will be attractively furnished in blue silk draperies. A ten-foot dome in the center will be finished in brass with purple glass. Especial attention has been given by the builder to the ventilation of the ballroom.

TURKISH "CEMENT."

Mixture of Slaked Lime, Linseed Oil and Cotton Fiber Often Used in Place of Concrete.

In Turkey, where cement is not used or scarcely known, a substitute has been found that has met with rather good results when applied in exposed places, in filling crevices in water pipes, covering joints in stone floors, in fountains and for numerous other purposes where cement would be required, says Construction News. The mixture is as satisfactory in water as in exposed places, but it must be allowed to become thoroughly dry before it is submerged, writes W. W. Masterson, United States Consul at Harput, Turkey.

The mixture is slaked lime, linseed oil and cotton fiber. Generally a hollowed-out stone is used, although a flat, hard surface will answer, and the process is started by pouring the oil on a handful of cotton, after which the lime is dusted in. It is then kneaded until the whole is thoroughly mixed and about the consistency of dough. The more it is kneaded the better it becomes.

This compound has undergone a severe endurance test at this consulate. Two years ago the stone floor in the balcony on the north side of the house leaked in several places and rotted the woodwork supporting the balcony. The floor was finally taken up, new timber added and the stone flags again put down. Between each stone this mixture was forced in and smoothed over the joints.

It took several days for hardening the oil spread out on the stones for about half an inch from each joint, leaving a slight mark, but the compound soon hardened like cement, and today the surface over the part where the stones are joined is as hard and smooth and watertight as if cement had been used.

AFTON SQUARE OPENED.

New Tract in Northern Part of Wilshire District Has Fine Location and High-class Improvements.

The new Afton Square tract has been planted and improved and is now on the market to home builders. It is on the northern edge of the Wilshire district and is bounded by Vine and Gower streets and Sunset and Santa Monica boulevards. It is a part of the old Senator Cole homestead and comprises thirty acres.

The streets have been paved with asphalt according to the new city specifications, and the improvements are high grade throughout. Building restrictions call for residences of $3500.

The tract is being handled by Mayberry & Van Winkle. H. H. Mayberry, senior member of the firm, is the owner of Mayberry Heights, which was subdivided and placed on the market about three years ago and which is one of the most attractive subdivisions in the North Wilshire district. The property overlooks Silver Lake Park, and sixteen fine residences have already been built by purchasers of sites.

FREMONT PLACE

A Beautiful Setting for Homes of the Highest Order

Forty-eight building sites, averaging 200x200 feet, some smaller, some larger, on an elevated ridge extending from Wilshire Boulevard to Country Club Drive,

In the Best Part of the Best Residence Section

These homesites slope down to curved drives, paved with asphalt, following natural contours. The address for each is Fremont Place, with the number of the site. Under the direction of a landscape architect, more than twelve hundred trees and shrubs of over seventy varieties, many rare, have been planted along the drives and over the property.

The improvements are the most complete and costly in the city, including underground drains to avoid ditches across street intersections, sidewalks seven feet wide, bronze street lights, asphalt pavements, four underground conduits for electricity, telephones and street lights, making poles unnecessary. Gas, water and sewers were brought to the curbs, so that pavements will not be torn up for connections.

The principal drives begin at four granite gateways, two on Wilshire Boulevard and two on Country Club Drive, each about eighty feet wide and fifteen high.

The yellow street cars run to the middle of the east edge of Fremont Place, not inside.

The owners bought this high ground about eight years ago, and recognizing its advantages for homes of the best type, held it for that purpose. They have recently created Fremont Place. Do not think, because of its beauty and completeness, that prices are beyond you. The low cost of the land at the value of eight years ago is the reason the prices are relatively low.

Over half of the homesites in Fremont Place have been sold. The personal environment of your home is important. Call and see who have bought in Fremont Place.

PICTURESQUE SETTING.

New Santa Paula High School to Occupy Sightly Wooded Tract. Classic Style to Be Followed.

SANTA PAULA, March 28.—Revised plans for the new Santa Paula High School have been accepted by the local Board of Education and work upon the splendid building projected is to be rushed, according to those in charge of the project. Set in the midst of a wooded, ten-acre tract at the base of the foothills, the building will have an ideal site.

The structure, for which the people of Santa Paula recently voted $70,000 bonds, was designed by Architects Allison & Allison of Los Angeles. It is in the classic spirit, the dominating feature being a central portico with large columns. The building will be of brick construction, the exterior walls being plastered. The roof will be of tile.

The school will cover a ground area of 170x111 feet, standing directly in front of the spot occupied by the old High School. Provision is made for a large auditorium, laboratories, a library, a study hall, lecture-rooms and various departments on the ground floor. The second story will contain eight classrooms. The basement, opening directly upon an athletic field, will be provided with lockers, showers and other equipment associated with courses in physical development.

GLENDALE TO GET HALF-MILE OF NEW RAILWAY.

Pacific Electric Explains Plan for Opening Sightly Region in East Part of Valley City—Site for Depot Deeded to Company by Property Owners.

GLENDALE, March 28.—Paul Shoup, president of the Pacific Electric Railway Company, has informed the residents of the east side of this city that the service of that company's line to Glendale will be extended at once over Broadway to the corner of Everett street. At this point the citizens have purchased the site for the new Pacific Electric building, at an expense of $7000, and have already turned over the deeds for the property to the railway company. A franchise has been granted the company on Broadway from Everett street, east to the Childs tract line, a distance of something like half a mile, and the course of the new electric line will be on this street rather than at the back of the lots facing on Broadway. A number of pieces of property along the course of the proposed line have been purchased, and the proposition is being vigorously boosted.

H. B. Woodill has had plans drawn for a $10,000 residence, which he will erect on his property at Opeeche way in Glendale Heights. It is understood that work on this building will begin just as soon as the Opeeche way bridge, which was damaged by the recent storm, has been repaired.

A franchise will soon be granted by the Trustees of this city to the Glendale and Montrose Railway Company covering the construction and maintenance of that road within the limits of this city. The company is making extensive improvements to its line here, and more are to follow. It has made application to the State Railroad Commission for permission to issue $150,000 in bonds, with which to reimburse the sinking fund of the company.

Preparations are being made by members of the Thursday Afternoon Club for the erection of a clubhouse on the lot owned by the society. A sum for this purpose has been raised and it is understood that work will begin soon.

NEW HILL TRACT OPEN.

Richmond Hill Subdivision Between First and Temple Has Elevation of Nearly Three Hundred Feet.

The opening of the new Richmond Hill tract, bounded by First, Temple and Vermont, was announced yesterday. This sightly property, 100 feet above Wilshire boulevard and beautifully located, has been subdivided and placed on the market by the owners, J. B. Lankershim and John W. Mitchell. It contains thirty acres, the lots being large and deep.

The improvements are of the highest type, $75,000 having been expended in street paving, curbs, electroliers, water, sewers, gas, etc. The tract is within a short block of Vermont avenue, which is about to be paved from Sixth street to Temple street. The contract for this mile of paving has been let at $48,000.

Mitchell's home, which occupies an entire block, lies between New Hampshire street and Vermont avenue, on the eastern edge of the tract. His assessment alone for the Vermont-avenue paving work is nearly $10,000.

The building restrictions are $10,000. The new Girls' High School is to be erected at First street and Vermont avenue, adjoining the tract. The Normal School site is five blocks north and Silver Lake Park is two blocks away.

HINGES UPON SALE.

New South Pasadena City Building to Be Started as Soon as Site Has Been Purchased.

SOUTH PASADENA, March 28.—Preparations are being made on the lot at the corner of Mound avenue and Mission street for the erection of the contemplated new city building, the construction of which will be begun as soon as negotiations are completed for the purchase of the property. The lots are now being graded and levelled. The building planned is to house a fire department building and a City Jail. It will be of brick and two stories in height, the lot, building and new equipment to be paid for with the $28,000 worth of bonds recently sold for the purpose.

The Young Men's Christian Association playground at the corner of Fairview and El Centro streets, although not entirely finished, is in use every day. A one-story structure to contain lockers and dressing-rooms, is to be started at once.

Jack Pierce has purchased two lots, each 50x135 feet in size, from A. F. Leavitt. The sites are on Ramona avenue between Oak and Rollins street. The consideration is given at $3000 for the two lots. The buyer has already started a six-room bungalow on one of the sites.

O. Hibbard & Co. report the sale for Gertrude Ozmun to Allison O. Blake, of Pasadena, of 50x180 feet in Ozmun Court, on Fremont avenue, between Hope and Columbia streets, for $600. A five-room bungalow is to be erected at once. P. J. Dolan reports the sale of two lots, each 100x125 feet in size, in Watts, to Charles Millhoff, of that place. The property is improved with a house.

SCHOOL BONDS SOLD.

Seal Beach Soon to Have Ample Educational Facilities—Contract Let for Cement Sidewalk and Curb.

SEAL BEACH, March 28.—The Seal Beach school bonds, voted a short time ago by the citizens of that city, were this week sold by the Orange County Board of Supervisors to the Crown City National Bank of Pasadena. The selling of these bonds means that the new school building at Seal Beach will be under way in a short time and will be entirely completed by the opening of the fall term. Plans for the new structure are already being considered by the Supervisors. The contract for the installing of 2000 feet of cement sidewalk and curb was let this week. The work is to be done on the south side of Ocean avenue, between Second and Main, and is to connect the new Seal Beach court with the center of town.

HIGH ABOVE WILSHIRE.

Eight Houses Going Up in Wilton Heights Subdivision Along Line of West First Street Boulevard.

Eight new houses are in process of construction on the Wilton Heights tract, the highest in the Wilshire district. The tract contains a little over thirty-two acres and is ninety feet above Wilshire boulevard. It is bounded by Wilton Place on the east and the new First Street boulevard on the south and adjoins Windsor Square.

The lots have frontage varying from fifty to 100 feet and are all deep. The tract has high-class improvements throughout and adequate building restrictions. The elevation above sea level and the comparative elevations are indicated by signs placed at each street corner in the tract.

The McCarthy Company, which is handling Wilton Heights, also placed Van Ness Square on the market. The latter tract is now almost solidly built up and is one of the most attractive sections of the Western Wilshire district.

Ten thousand dollars per acre, a record price, even for the Wilshire district, is said to have been paid by the McCarthy Company for the twenty acres included in the West Ninth Street Heights tract recently opened by that company. This tract is two blocks west of Vermont, is highly improved and on high ground.

TRACTS OF QUALITY

ON ARDMORE HEIGHTS.

Former Prominent Eastern Operator to Have Charge of One of New High-class Subdivisions.

One of the newest of the highly improved Wilshire tracts is Ardmore Heights, which was opened about four months ago with high-class restrictions. The tract which is located at Melrose and Normandie avenues, contains thirty-eight acres and 160 large lots.

Ardmore Heights is four blocks from the new Normal School site and five blocks from the proposed new High School. Parkways, sidewalks, curbs and tree ornamentation have been put in and the streets are now being macadamized.

This tract, as well as the older Francisca Park tract, was subdivided by the Edward D. Silent Company. Both are now being handled by Robert L. Ware, for many years a prominent and successful real estate operator in St. Paul. Homer Collins is Ware's superintendent of agents.

Francisca Park, which contains forty acres and 138 very large lots, is now well built up. A dozen new residences are now in course of construction on this tract. The fine new Wilshire Presbyterian church will be erected on the tract at Third street and Western avenue.

WHERE VALUES SOARED.

New Pellissier Tract Illustrates Rapid Transition of Barley Fields to High-class Residence Property.

The Pellissier tract of eighty acres, containing 218 large lots and recently subdivided, is a notable illustration of the tremendous increase in values and development in the Wilshire district. It is bounded by Wilshire, Western, Hobart and San Marino and represents $200,000 in street and curb improvements.

It has wide parkways, electroliers and palm trees, and asphalt paving is to be laid in all the streets. The tract is being handled by L. H. Mitchel & Son, who are the general agents.

The land where this tract is located changed hands not many years ago at less than $30 an acre and for years was a barley field.

The restrictions call for houses worth $10,000 and upward, but the owners of several lots already sold are said to be planning to considerably exceed this limit. D. T. Althouse will build a $35,000 residence and Jules Kauffman has plans completed for a $20,000 residence in the tract.

VALUE OF WILLOWS.

Effectiveness of Trees as Protection Against Flood Waters Is Clearly Shown—Experiments Planned.

[Southwest Contractor:] The effectiveness of willow trees as a means of holding streams to a given channel should be more generally recognized. This tree is used very extensively throughout the Middle West for this purpose, but is not as common in California as one might expect it to be, where the prevalence of sandy soil is the primary cause of so great an erosion of stream banks, and the easy breaking into new channels when the volume of flood waters cannot be taken care of by the choked-up channels.

That rows of willows will effectually hold even the most sandy bank is proved by the resistance such a barrier presented to the swollen Los Angeles River at Ivanhoe on the Glendale line of the Pacific Electric Railroad where it crosses the river. Here the river banks are intermittently lined with willows for some distance along the banks of the stream. Just above the railroad bridge, however, the ordinary channel was not wide enough to care for the unusual volume of flood waters that swept down during the February storm. At a point about 1000 feet above the bridge the river cut a new channel through a break in the row of willows, sweeping in a wide curve to a point some 2000 feet north of the bridge, ate its way through the high earth embankment on which the railroad bed was built, but was prevented from further passage down the artificial channel by a double row of willows below the railroad right of way.

This row of willows turned the river southward to the regular channel under the bridge, but in seeking this outlet the river swept away a long stretch of the railroad embankment, the long trestle approach and also the bridge and leaving a quarter-mile gap in the trackage that is now being replaced with a continuous pile trestle of heavier construction. Had the double row of willows been above instead of immediately below the right of way, it would have saved both earth embankment and trestle approach.

The planting of willows should, however, not be indiscriminate or their presence will do more harm than good through restricting the channel to so narrow a width that it cannot carry the waters during the rainy season. Placed where they are needed they are beneficial, but where not required present an obstruction that merely aggravates the choking of channels.

The State department of engineering has taken up the planting of willow trees as a protection to the weak spots in the levees along the Sacramento River and will experiment extensively with their use on Brannon and Sherman islands, at Oak Knoll and Paradise Bend. The work outlined for the first experiment is estimated by the Board of Control to cost $6000, half of which will be borne by the property owners and the balance by the State.

PROMISING FIELD.

Development of Suburbs of Great Cities Important Form of Real Estate Activity—Often Overlooked.

[National Real Estate Journal:] We feel that the real estate broker could do no better than to lend his aid to development of the suburbs of the large cities and to the encouragement of the workers in a city to reside in such suburbs. The greatest jumps in valuation are naturally to be found in the heart of the great cities where prices are quoted by the millions of dollars, but in this only a small part of the residents of a city can be directly interested.

The advancement of the interest of the suburbs, whether they be manufacturing or residential, means the increase in the value of property in the central part of the city, and it means more than this. It means a broadening of the city's influence, a gain in the valuations of the suburbs, a better and healthier condition of those who earn their daily bread within the city or near it.

The suburbs are the lungs of the great city. They offer to those who have to work within its limits a place to which they can retire at night, and secure the ozone which is needed for the recuperation of the body, worn out by the toil of the day.

Suburban property should not be overlooked. It is absolutely essential to the right growth of a city, and we should be much pleased if we were to hear fewer of the sneering remarks that are sometimes made at the expense of the commuter.

SELLS CITRUS GROVE.

The San Dimas Real Estate Company has just sold to J. D. Klepper of Pasadena a ten-acre citrus grove, one-half lemons and one-half navels, on the corner of Gladstone and Walnut avenues, in San Dimas. The seller was George R. Weller, who takes in payment an income property in Pasadena. Theodore Haynes, of J. W. Wright & Co., of Pasadena, represented Klepper in the transaction. The consideration in the deal is given at $30,000, or $3000 an acre.

ADD FLOOR SPACE.

The Weber Showcase and Fixture Company this week leased the third floor of the building at Boyd and Los Angeles streets. The space acquired will be used for the display of office furniture and will add 10,000 square feet to the display rooms adjoining the company's building at Nos. 316 to 322 South Los Angeles street. During the past year the Weber company built a $50,000 brick addition to its factory on Seaton street.

BUYS ALFALFA RANCH.

Irvine W. Biggar reports the sale of a thirty-eight-acre improved alfalfa ranch near Burbank for J. J. Morgan of Hollywood, to Andrew Rasmussen, of Utah, for a given consideration of $28,875. Rasmussen has brought his family to Southern California and will make the ranch his home.

LARCHMONT HEIGHTS.

Another Baldwin Tract With High-Class Improvements But With Less Rigid Restrictions—Many Homes.

More houses are said to be in course of construction in Larchmont Heights than in any other tract in the Wilshire district. Twenty are being erected now and several others are to be started in the next few weeks.

Larchmont Heights is just northwest of Windsor Square, and contains 250 lots. The improvements are just as good and as expensive as in Wilshire Hills and Wilshire Heights, northwest tracts under the same control, but the lots are not quite so large and the prices are not so high.

All lots have adequate building restrictions. Bungalows are permitted under the terms of sale, but this far, it is said, only one buyer has taken advantage of the privilege. All the other houses are one and a half and two stories.

FACTORY UNDER ROOF.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 28.—John De Long has let a contract to C. T. Ingersoll for the construction of a fourteen-room-apartment on the corner of Nineteenth and Magnolia. The first of the new buildings of the Pacific Oilcloth and Linoleum Factory, a structure 335 feet long and of solid masonry, is being put under the roof. The machinery will be installed as soon as the building is ready and the actual manufacture of oilcloth is scheduled to begin in June or July. The paved boulevard between Huntington Beach and Santa Ana, which has been opened to traffic for the last two weeks, is now getting its final wearing surface of gravel and asphalt.

ACQUIRES VILLA SITES.

Hugo Loewenbach, a real estate operator and head of B. Loewenbach & Son, a printing and binding house of Milwaukee, has completed the purchase of two villa lots at Ethelwyn Manor Heights, the Santa Monica subdivision recently placed on the market by Robert Marsh & Co. Negotiations were conducted by A. F. Hartley of the Marsh subdivision staff. Loewenbach plans to have his home at Ethelwyn Manor Heights completed and ready for occupancy before the opening of the next winter season. The residence, is is announced, will cost about $15,000.

IN HARBOR DISTRICT.

The Southern California Home Builders announce that a group of bungalows being built by them in the Harbor View addition in San Pedro are nearing completion. The houses are on Sepulveda and Bandina streets and overlook the entire harbor district. Plans for another group of bungalows are now being prepared by the company.

National Government to Build a Railroad in Alaska at a Cost of $35,000,000—To be Constructed from one of the Three Southern Ports, to Fairbanks.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

James Wickersham,
The champion of the Alaska Railroad.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—A man or a letter is on the road for thirty days between the city Washington and the town of Fairbanks in Alaska. When the government railroad, recently voted by Congress, is built the journey will be reduced to nine days—five days by rail, Washington to Seattle; three by boat, Seattle to the south of Alaska, and one day over the railway to Fairbanks.

The winter route, at present, is Seattle to Cordova, a southern port on the North Pacific Ocean, straight north over the Copper River Railroad to Chitina, 131 miles distant. From Chitina the man or the letter travels to Fairbanks, 310 miles away, in a bobsled drawn by four horses. The horses are changed every twenty miles at a road house.

The government contract for carrying the mail requires that the trip from Chitina to Fairbanks be made in eight days. The time has been cut, in good weather and over broken trails, to six days. But seven days is the average length of the journey. Arrived at Cordova by ship, the passenger pays the Alaskan Syndicate $10 for taking him to Chitina over the railroad. Thus the fare, as a little figuring will show, is at the rate of about 13 1-3 cents a mile.

Onward, Chitina to Fairbanks, 310 miles, the fare by the syndicate's bobsled, is $135. Meals average $1.50 each. Lodging is the same. The charge for carrying the passenger's baggage amounts to $1000 a ton. A trunk and a valise, for instance, cost the traveler $46. Now all of this money, even down to that paid for a meal or a bed, goes into the treasury of the Alaskan Syndicate. Such is the winter journey, Washington to Fairbanks, 4800 miles in round numbers.

The summer route—continuing from May 10 to October 10,, 5800 miles in length—also takes thirty days and is by water, Seattle to Fairbanks, except for 111 miles between Skagway and White Horse. Passenger fares and freight rates are the same as over the winter route. The money paid for traveling either way flows into the coffers of the syndicate.

WHERE RAILROAD WILL END.

Fairbanks is the northern point of importance and interest in this article because it is the town, probably, to which the government railroad will be built. It has some 4000 inhabitants, about 450 miles from the southern seaboard and is the gateway into the interior of Alaska. From it, east and west, north and south, by reason of the Yukon and Tanana rivers, merchandise and machinery can be distributed to the vast mineralized regions now awaiting development.

Judge James Wickersham, the Alaskan delegate in Congress, says there are immense quantities of gold still in the vicinity of Fairbanks. And the rich placer mines are very far from being exhausted. Up to the present, he declares, $74,000,000 of gold has been taken out of the territory in and around that frontier city—taken out by working men, mostly, who have owned the claims. Half of these millions, Judge Wickersham says, was paid for freights—not for food, clothing and machinery, but for the item of transportation alone.

"The freight rates of Alaska," he said to me, "are the highest in the civilized world. Every white man, woman and child in the territory has an annual freight bill of $350. Such is part of the tribute we pay to the Alaskan syndicate."

Moreover, the syndicate owns all the warehouses and stores. Independent merchants going into the country, Judge Wickersham states, soon become bankrupts. The syndicate, by its own vessels, carries provisions, clothing, tools, machinery, and hay from Seattle to Cordova. It hauls the necessary supplies for living and working over its railroad to Chitina and thence in its own sleds to Fairbanks. No outside man, partnership or corporation can compete, Judge Wickersham points out, against such an all-embracing monoply.

So Judge Wickersham came to believe that the national government should build a railroad from a southern port in Alaska to Fairbanks, and so liberate 36,000 white Americans in the Territory from the extortions of the syndicate. He claims that no private interest in the United States could get the $35,000,000 necessary for the construction of the railway. The syndicate is so powerful, he says, that the banks in this country would be afraid to finance the project.

MANY LOBBYISTS.

Therefore, he went before Congress with a bill for a government road from the shore of the Pacific Ocean to the interior water ways of the Territory. The bill was debated and became a law, "though lobbyists," Judge Wickersham says, "roosted on the gallery rails of the Senate and the House of Representatives."

The President of the United States will choose the route and build the road. Army engineers, no doubt, will recommend a route and it is equally certain that they will superintend the work of construction. Judge Wickersham believes that the road will be started this year and will be completed by the autumn of 1916. He hopes, of course, that Fairbanks, his home, will be the northern terminus of the line. Branch roads will tap the great coal stores of the Territory. It is about 450 miles from the Pacific Ocean to Fairbanks. The law limits the President to the construction of 1000 miles of railway and to the expenditure of $35,000,000. And he must reach coal for the use of the army and navy.

The President of the United States built the Panama Canal. There was neither graft nor mismanagement. Congress is sure the President can construct a railroad in Alaska without scandal or any loss of money. When the road is built, it will be operated by the national government or leased, under regulations, to private persons. As yet that matter has not been decided. Leasing, however, is favored by many members of Congress.

If Alaska, finally, is "liberated," logically, Judge Wickersham hence will be called the "liberator." He looks the part and has lived up to it ever since he began his battle with monopolists in the city of Tacoma, though Tacoma was but a small village at the time. He arrived in Tacoma with a wife, a baby, and $35 in cash.

He was born back in Illinois on a farm. "I went barefooted," he told me, "until I was 18 years old." He put on his shoes at that age, walked to Springfield, and studied law with Gen. John M. Palmer, afterward a Senator in Congress and, in 1896, the candidate of the Gold Democrats for President.

LIVED ON $5 A MONTH.

"I slept in a back room of the office," Judge Wickersham informed me, "and on a bed of my own manufacture. I swept the floors, kindled the fire, and washed the windows—occasionally. Gen. Palmer paid me $5 a month. I lived on that sum, actually, for two years. My father would have helped me, but I wanted to worry along without his assistance. After I was admitted to the bar, Gen. Palmer got me a place in the local Census Office. A year later I was married."

At Tacoma, Attorney Wickersham turned to carpentering. He had learned to use hammers and saws at home. Tacoma was then a town of 1800 people, a goodly number of whom were trying to practice law and do collecting. The year was 1883.

"In 1884 a bunch of men met to nominate a county ticket," Judge Wickersham said to me. "I was still shingling houses, making fences, and so on, and, being busy and not present to defend myself, the bunch nominated me for probate judge. 'Honest John,' long in the office, ran on the other ticket. I beat him, much to his surprise and disgust, and to the amazement of the rest of the inhabitants.

"I held the office for four years and was then appointed City Attorney. The water and lighting company, after a vote of the citizens, had previously sold its plant to the municipality for $1,750,000. Coming into office, I held that the City Council had been bought up, that voters had been brought in from the outside, and that the city had been swindled. Thus believing, I brought suit. Bitter days followed. I was attacked by newspapers, politicians and business men, but I got the ing company."

By this time James Wickersham had many friends and many enemies. His friends headed by Addison G. Foster, whom he helped to elect to the United States Senate, asked President McKinley to appoint him a Federal judge in Alaska. His enemies, without his knowledge, joined in the request—they wished to get him out of Tacoma and the State of Washington. He went to Alaska as judge of the interior district.

HIS BIG BATTLE AT NOME.

About that time scandalous acts were being done at Nome. Placer claims worth a million dollars each, the gold lying on the ground, almost, had fallen into the hands of their discoverers, Laplanders and Norwegians, principally. Certain men in the United States organized a camorra and proceeded to rob the Laplanders and Norwegians of their property. Government officers assisted in the work.

When the government officers were taken to San Francisco under arrest, Judge Wickersham was sent to Nome and instructed to "clean up the situation." He did so vigorously. Then he resigned from the bench to become the Alaskan delegate in Congress. Fairbanks, containing but three houses, built in a clearing of the wilderness, "500 miles from civilization," to use his own description, was his home.

Next he grappled with the fiercest and most powerful monopoly of all—the Alaskan Syndicate, composed, as he still maintains, of the Guggenheims, mostly. He found the three southern gateways of Alaska—Valdez, Seward and Cordova—in possession of the syndicate. Immediately he began strenuously to appeal for a nationalized railroad running from one of the three ports named northward into the interior of the Territory.

The road has been authorized and will be built. Agricultural and mineral lands will be given or sold to settlers. Alaska will fill up with small competitors instead of big monopolists. Before long it will be a State. James Wickersham, it is reasonable to predict, will be the first Senator in Congress to be elected by the new commonwealth. He is 56 years old—a gray-eyed man, with a short, thick mustache and a modern-looking man in well-fitting and high-priced clothes.

Were he to be met in Wall street one would think he belonged in a bank or a broker's office. He could ride in a private car and his very appearance would make people believe he was president of the road. He is no Eskimo or Indian, nor trapper with moccasins on his feet and a bundle of furs on his back.

HIS GREAT SIX-HOUR SPEECH.

Ethnology, or the study of the races of men, has been enriched by his writings and investigations. He has a decided talent for composition and oral statement, and his six-hour speech in the House of Representatives on Alaska, its resources and possibilities, brought him wide fame as an orator and an author.

"The words government ownership have no terror for me when a region as great in area as the thirteen original States of the Union and of Vermont, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois in addition, awaits development and deliverance from monopoly," Judge Wickersham said to me. "The people forget that the Cumberland road, reaching from the Potomac to the Ohio, and costing $8,000,000, was built more than a century ago and paid for with money out of the public Treasury.

"When we wanted railroads to the Pacific Coast immense tracts of the people's land were given to the men who had agreed to construct the roads. The lands were the same as money put out at interest. The government will pay for the Alaskan road and keep its Alaskan lands. By and by when the lands have increased in value they can be sold to settlers. The Treasury in the end, therefore, will have taken in more than was paid out.

"The ignorance of the American people concerning their Alaskan property is astonishing. It is a land, they think or say, locked in ice or buried in snow. As much could be said of Norway, Sweden and Finland, which are in the same northern latitude as Alaska and where 11,000,000 men, women and children are living in comfort right now.

"Let me give you some elementary information about a region which, so far, has only mildly interested the United States. Alaska is twelve times larger in square miles than is New York. With a realization of its size let us now proceed to consider something else. The standing timber in Alaska is valued at $800,000,000. Alaska has more coal that have Pennsylvania, Ohio and the two Virginias; more copper than Michigan, Montana and Arizona; more gold than California and Colorado; more fish than can be found in all the rest of American waters and more agricultural lands than have Norway, Sweden and Finland.

SNOW WILL NOT BOTHER ROAD.

"The American people as a whole may be ignorant respecting Alaska. No such charge, however, can be brought against the Alaskan Syndicate. The climate has not kept the syndicate out of the country. Persons approaching our southern coast in ships see glaciers in the distance. They imagine, therefore, that the interior must be a pincushion of glaciers clear up to the Arctic Ocean. As a matter of fact, all of our glaciers are along the southern seaboard and are caused by moisture arising from the Pacific and falling on the slopes of the mountainside.

"Our coastal mountains divide the country into two climatic regions. There is a great deal of rain and snow on the side toward the shore of the Pacific. The climate back of the mountains, beyond the glaciers, is dry and cold in winter and hot in summer. I am thus particular in speaking of our climate because many persons believe that once the government railroad is built it cannot be operated but for a short period each year.

"Trains, however, will be run every day in the year. Winter stages carry passengers from Valdez, a port on our southern coast, to Fairbanks, more than 400 miles northward. For nine years in succession these stages never missed a scheduled trip. There are harbors in Alaska, washed by the warm Japanese current, in which ice never forms, no matter how cold it may be in North Dakota, Northern New York, Montana, Canada or the interior of Alaska.

"Mines forty-five miles from Fairbanks are worked twelve months in the year. Nine automobiles go daily to the mines throughout the winter. More than 200 species of birds live in Alaska, taking one month with another. Prairie chickens, owls, ravens, hawks and Canadian jays are to be seen in winter, and geese, ducks, robins, swallows and humming birds come to us from the south when the snow melts and the ice goes out of the rivers.

"Our farmers grow wheat, barley, oats, rye, potatoes, berries, all kinds of vegetables and the finest celery in the world, Kalamazoo included. They begin planting the latter part of May. The crops grow and ripen during June, July, August and September. There are five months of navigation says—

The way the roses bloom all the year round at BEAUTIFUL BRENTWOOD PLACE is wonderful. The warm days of winter their perfume is wafted through the open windows, scenting the whole house, while in summer their fragrance floating on the cool breeze is a delightful incense perpetually in the air. We all take a great pride in our gardens at BEAUTIFUL BRENTWOOD PLACE, and if you come out next Sunday I want to show you my garden. If you enjoy roses, you will enjoy looking at some of the rare roses I grow. I really wish you could come and spend a whole day, from early morning until evening so that you could see the wonderful sunrise and sunset that are so beautiful that they seem almost holy, and make you desire to live, be, and do better.

FACTS

It is a fact that those who make money in real estate are those who can correctly anticipate future development and get in ahead of that development.

There are certain developments that will take place in the not distant future that will greatly enhance the value of BEAUTIFUL BRENTWOOD PLACE and all surrounding property: First and most important of them all is the building of the projected subway to Santa Monica. This is an assured fact within the next few years, as there is a demand for a subway right now.

The development of the large tract recently purchased by Mr. Fleming and his associates of Pasadena, for two and one-half million dollars, is one factor that is going to greatly increase realty valuations on surrounding property.

In a word: Property located like BEAUTIFUL BRENTWOOD PLACE, with the magnificent view of the ocean and mountains, is very scarce and it will soon all be gone. Then the lucky owners, if they care to sell, will be able to command very high figures.

Come with us next Sunday in a comfortable 7-passenger car and let us show you BEAUTIFUL BRENTWOOD PLACE. We will be glad to show you whether or not you buy.

Telephone Main 8160 or 60437, for a reservation, leaving at 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

GOOD ROADS IS NEED OF NATION.

Shackelford Bill Arouses Interest of Public.

United States Way Behind Countries of Europe.

Construction Should Be Cheap and Effective.

Representative Shackelford of Missouri, an ardent advocate of good roads and an enthusiast, in his bill recently passed by the lower house of Congress, followed the basic principle which underlies all highway construction, that of common interests—the interests of all the people. There certainly can be no more common interest than the common road, open to all alike. The national government has recognized this universal conviction, through taking steps to give Federal aid to the States, or subdivisions of States for the improvement of public roads. The imperative need of such aid is not denied by Congress, and the only matter at issue is how this aid shall be applied and to what authorities the money shall be given. This, however, is but minor when compared to the weightier fact, that the aid is to be given.

At this time a question which is giving concern to road builders and road authorities, is that of kind or class of construction. It goes to the very root of the whole subject. It may be taken as granted that there is no such thing as permanent construction. All classes of construction will in time show signs of use, and give evidence of the necessity for repair. The expense of upkeep must enter into all calculations where highways are either to be constructed or improved. The only issue to be determined therefore, is what character of construction is best suited to present demands, according to locality, and which through a term of years will meet the requirements of the minimum cost.

BEST ROADS NEEDED.

The United States is woefully behind many of the countries of the old world in road construction and maintenance, and particularly the latter. This is because the question has not received serious attention until within the past few years. But gradually, the great importance of this is forcing itself upon the attention of the people. They are awakening to the fact that poor roads are an exceedingly poor public investment; with the result that thousands of miles of highways of the country are being improved each year. Eventually there will not be an unimproved stretch of main market road in any State.

Frank D. Lyon, former Deputy Commissioner of the New York State Department of Highways, and a leading expert on road construction, is now in Ohio studying conditions. He has given a statement concerning the different kinds of construction, their cost, the cost of maintenance and durability. It contains information which has not heretofore been published, and valuable statistics of which the people at large have no knowledge. He said:

Brick pavements wear out. There are instances, however, where such pavements have lasted about twenty years, but which were exceedingly unsatisfactory and disagreeable for the last four or five years of their existence. Brick streets twenty years old are in existence, and look as if they might last many years longer, but the travel on them is light.

In Cuyahoga county, O., brick roads have been rebuilt that were not over nine years old. There is nothing to warrant an estimate of the life of an average brick road. At best, it is generally conceded that it will not last more than twenty years.

BRICK ROADS EXPENSIVE.

The average cost of a brick road, sixteen feet wide, properly constructed, cannot be estimated at much less than $25,000 per mile. Money being worth 5 per cent. interest, fixes the interest maintenance at $1250 per mile per year. Add to this a low estimated cost for care and attention of $125 per mile per year, together with a fund that naturally and necessarily must be collected to resurface the brick road. Assuming that the foundation is intact and will last for an indefinite period, a reasonable estimate of the cost of such resurfacing, would be from $10,000 to $15,000 per mile.

Therefore a fund must be collected of from $500 to $700 per mile per year for such resurfacing. It therefore follows that it is fair and proper to estimate the actual cost of the maintenance of the average brick road at from $1875 to $2075 per mile per year. The above is based on the supposition that the sub-grade has been so thoroughly drained and the base so carefully constructed, that it will not be thrown out of position and will not need rebuilding and reshaping.

Concrete construction is in a purely experimental stage. In some localities, notably in Wayne county, Michigan, it is claimed that satisfactory results have been attained. But from reports from many other localities, it is proved conclusively that until proper methods of construction are known, that it seems highly improvident to adopt this mode of highway construction, excepting for the purpose of meeting some local requirement, to utilize local materials and for experimental purposes.

THE MACADAM ROAD.

A bituminous macadam road, sixteen feet wide, made by the penetration method, based on an experience of about six years, and carrying a heavy traffic, can be built for about $12,000 per mile. Money being worth 5 per cent. interest, fixes the interest maintenance at $600 per mile per year. Add to this a sum not to exceed $500 per mile per year, for proper continuous maintenance, and this means maintenance for an indefinite period. This last statement or proposition may seem strange to the layman, but it is the conclusion reached by authorities who have given this subject careful thought and study.

The average cost of an ordinary water-bonded macadam road, sixteen feet wide, with a carpet or a bituminous cover, properly constructed, cannot be estimated at much less than $8000 per mile. Money being worth 5 per cent. interest, fixes the interest maintenance at $400 per mile per year. To which must be added a maintenance charge of an average of about $250 per mile per year.

The above estimated cost of maintenance of a water-bonded macadam highway is based upon French reports, because of the fact that there are no authentic records in existence on the maintenance of such roads, of any country or any State, with the exception of France. The French reports cover the maintenance of 24,000 miles of so-called State highways for the year 1912.

The proper maintenance of a water-bonded macadam highway is also continuous maintenance. Continuous maintenance means added strength and a better road from year to year. Eternal vigilance must be the watchword when we speak of maintenance.

The average cost of a gravel road, sixteen feet wide, cannot be estimated at much less than about $4000 per mile. Apply the interest charges as above, together with an estimate of about $200 per mile per year for maintenance, and you have another extremely desirable type of construction.

Apply the same ideas as above to the more inexpensive types or classes, such as sand clay and earth roads. Under proper supervision and direction of proper authorities, problems are presented that are worthy of the consideration of all who are interested in highway improvement.

The following should be given careful consideration, viz.: Given two centers of population, which, of course, are marketing points connected by a public highway, say, thirty miles in length. A wise and experienced road builder naturally would take into consideration the units that such highway at various points would be called upon to carry. Should he be mindful of the real science of road building, viz., the construction of the greatest number of miles at the minimum cost, he would recognize the fact that at a point equi-distant from these two centers of population the highway would be called upon to carary, the minimum number of units, while at and near the centers of population, the same highway might be clled upon to carry the maximum number of units.

Therefore no road builder with experience, and desirous of conserving the best interests of the public at large, would assume to adopt a uniform plan of construction on this particular road for its entire length. This same principle naturally and necessarily must apply to the construction of any main thoroughfare connecting any principal points.

The vital problem to be solved is that of maintenance, and it is safe to say that no system has ever been inaugurated in any State for systematic maintenance of macadam highways, equal to that of France. However, the French plan or system was in existence in New York State for a short period, and proved to be very successful and efficient, until such system was subserved for the purpose of conserving political interests. Many miles of poorly-constructed stone roads are classified as macadam highways, and the layman or the eleventh-hour experts, as above referred to, are too prone to condemn without a knowledge of the subject.

The French road builders are pronounced in advising the American people to continue the construction of macadam highways, wherever practicable, with the statement that such construction is the greatest added asset in highway work. But in this country, where conditions are somewhat different, the conservative and considerate road builders are advising the construction or improvement of earth and gravel roads, wherever and whenever such types or classes of improvement will serve local requirements and where the soil conditions will permit.

All should be careful to inform themselves to the end that in advancing their opinions they are not prone to damage the very interests that they most wish to conserve. Knowledge of this subject is essential, so that public opinion will not be formed of a character that may have a tendency to retard progress in this national movement.

All interests should join hands in a propaganda for a wise and carefully-devised plan for better roads.

LIABILITY LAW ON CANAL ZONE.

Follows an Order Issued by President Taft.

Adjusts Employees' Claims for Personal Injuries.

Believed Good Model for Legislation in States.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—What regarded as a model employees' ility law is embodied in an execu- order made public providing for adjustment of claims arising out personal injury to employees on Panama Canal and the Panama road.

The order is the result of more than year's study of the subject by Sec- ary Garrison, Maj. P. C. Boggs, of the Canal Commission offices, the law officers of the War De- ment, and is based upon a sim- order issued by President Taft ch 3, 1913. For lack of funds it found necessary to withdraw the inal order, which was also re- ded as defective in practical fea- . The new order, while framed special reference to the condi- s in the canal zone, is regarded sufficiently comprehensive to serve a pattern for legislative action in various States.

Under the new order no benefits to be paid to an employee or his resentatives if his injury or death the result of his own intention or intention to injure some other ployee, nor if it is brought about his own intoxication. INGRATITUDE OF STRIKERS.

AMONG the stories circulated by the sympathizers with the strikers in the Michigan copper district, were reports that the mining companies disregarded the welfare of their employees and showed them no consideration. Royal Meeker, commissioner for the United States Bureau of Labor, conducted a thorough investigation of the conditions, and his report shows that the mining companies were attentive to employees and went to much expense to provide comforts and advantages for them.

The Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, which employs the largest number of miners, maintains at its own expense a public library containing 35,000 volumes, in the various languages which may be of interest to its employees. The library is free to any resident of the township.

This company also operates a modern bathhouse, built at a cost of $50,000, containing tubs, showers and a swimming pool. For the use of a bathhouse a fee of 2½ cents is charged (except in the case of women and children, to whom the use of the bathhouse is free,) to pay the cost of washing the towels.

The company maintains a hospital for which a charge of 50 cents per month is made to single men and $1 per month to married men—that covering the medicine and the medical attention that may be necessary for the entire family.

An aid fund and pension fund is also maintained.

Free coal and wood are supplied to the widows and orphans of employees, or unfortunate employees who are in need.

In 1903 the company built and equipped a broom factory and engaged a teacher to instruct the employees who had become blind to make brooms so that they would have employment.

The company furnishes pasturage for one cow to all employees, a charge being made for each additional cow.

All garbage is collected and removed without expense to the employees.

The company forced an electric light company to furnish electricity to all employees living in company houses at a reduced rate.

In May, 1912, the company inaugurated a voluntary relief fund providing monthly payments to the widows and orphans of deceased employees who had lost their lives through sickness or accidents. Up to date, over $30,000 has been paid from the fund.

The company has given a free site for all churches on its location, and has contributed to their support. The company also owns ten school buildings which are maintained for the children of all residents in the community.

Practically all of the other companies look after their employees in much the same manner with minor variations on different matters.

In many instances free house rent is given the family that is left handicapped by the death of the bread-winner, as well as other donations.

Some of the companies provide free land for gardens which the employees are privileged to use.

During the summer months free band concerts are provided.

Commissioner Meeker reports that most of the companies maintained company stores, and that the people in the district consider that the prices charged are fair.

It is also shown in the report that the hours which the miners are working at present would be but little reduced if given the eight-hour shift, by reason of the fact that the hours of the miners at present are nine and one-half hours per day for five days and but five and one-half hours on Saturday.

The commissioner also found that employees have always been able to present grievances to the companies, and in the case of the Calumet and Hecla, an employee was privileged to carry his case to the president of the company if necessary. There was also a distinct understanding that no employee was to be discriminated against because he had carried his case over the heads of his superintendents.

Veterans.

AT WORK FIFTY YEARS IN THE COUNTRY'S SERVICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Secretary McAdoo has written to Thomas C. Bailey and Thomas P. Keene, employees in the office of the Auditor for the Interior Department, congratulating them on the fact that they recently completed a half century of service to the government.

Secretary McAdoo had been advised that despite the fact that Mr. Bailey was 83 years old and Mr. Keene 75, and a Civil War veteran, both were discharging their duties in connection with the auditing of the complicated Indian accounts with the greatest satisfaction to the Auditor.

To Mr. Bailey, Secretary McAdoo, after extending hearty congratulations, and best wishes wrote:

"I hope that you may long be spared to serve your country and that each year may bring added happiness and renewed vigor and health."

The Secretary congratulated Mr. Keene on his fine record and wished him many more years of unimpaired vigor and capacity and increased prosperity and happiness.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

Bulletin No. 139 of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics deals with the "Michigan Copper District Strike," in referring to the wages of mine workers, brings out the fact that practically all of the companies in the district increased wages and contract prices 10 per cent. in May, 1912. Prior to that the following increases of pay had been given by the largest company—the Calumet and Hecla:

March, 1899	10	per cent.
January, 1901	2½	per cent.
May, 1907, to December, 1907	10	per cent.

In December, 1907, there was a cut of 10 per cent., but it, as stated above, was put back in May, 1912. Doubtless the other mining companies in the district followed the lead of the Calumet and Hecla.

The average daily earnings of the 4406 miners in the district in 1913 were:

Six months ended December 31, 1912	$3.11
Six months ended June 30, 1913	3.48
Year ended June 30, 1913	3.28
In the thirteen smaller companies—
Six months ended December 31, 1912	$2.74
Six months ended June 30, 1913	2.78
Year ended June 30, 1913	2.74
Average for all companies—
Six months ended December 31, 1912	$2.91
Six months ended June 30, 1913	3.08
Year ended June 30, 1913	2.98

These figures and those that follow relate to the earnings of 7055 miners and trammers, who together compose about half of the mine workers and who comprised the greater number of mine workers that went out on strike. The sums named are what the employees received after deductions had been made for materials used in the mines, such as powder, caps, fuse and carbide (much of the work being done on contract,) but not including deductions for medical attention, aid fund, rent, fuel, etc., all of which workers of all kinds have to pay anyway.

The average daily earnings of the 2649 trammers in the district in 1913 were:

In the twelve larger companies—
Six months ended December 31, 1912	$2.71
Six months ended June 30, 1913	2.80
Year ended June 30, 1913	2.75
In the thirteen smaller companies—
Six months ended December 31, 1912	$2.40
Six months ended June 30, 1913	2.41
Year ended June 30, 1913	2.40
Average for all companies—
Six months ended December 31, 1912	$2.57
Six months ended June 30, 1913	2.63
Year ended June 30, 1913	2.50

In May, 1913 (two months before the strike,) the average daily earnings per day or shift of the miners in the larger companies ranged from under $2 to $4.50 and over; with about half the number earning from $3 to $3.50, the average for all being $3.48; the range of wages was the same in the smaller companies, but four-fifths of those miners earned from $2.50 to $3 per day. In the same month the daily earnings of trammers working for the larger companies ranged from less than $2 to $4.50 and over, the average being $2.83; in the smaller companies the range was from less than $2 to $3, with an average of $2.40.

As there has been a shortage of labor in the Michigan copper district for several years, the mine workers (until they struck in July, 1913,) have steady work the year around, which, in itself, is worth a great deal in wages, compared with other occupations wherein work is intermittent. In copper mining there is no season of shortened production, as during some months in coal mining. For instance, in 1911 the copper mines in the United States were operated an average of 308 days, while the average of operation of the coal mines was 220 days. In other words, the country's copper miners in 1911 were better off than the country's coal miners, by eighty-eight days' work.

In the Michigan copper range the nominal hours of labor for underground workers are ten, or from 7 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and for the night shift from 7 p.m., to 5 a.m., not including one hour allowed for luncheon. But the cages used for carrying the men up and down are of limited capacity, losing most of the men thirty minutes each way in waiting for room. Offhand it strikes one that ten and one-half hours underground is too long, or even ten hours. The nominal ten hours is from surface to surface. That should be reduced to eight hours—say from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The government report under review herein does not say that, but the situation strikes the writer that way. In California, Washington, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, Missouri, Oregon, Arizona, Alaska, Pennsylvania and Oklahoma the underground work day is limited by law to eight hours.

Will Employ Eight Hundred More.

The St. Louis Screw Company is enlarging its capacity and will employ 800 more men. Three hundred are employed in the present plant.

Will Employ Five Thousand Men.

The immense factory of J. H. Williams & Co., at Tonawanda is near completion. More than 5000 operatives will be employed. They are beginning to arrive. Dwelling houses are being "rushed up."

Foreign-born Wage Earners' Savings.

In spite of all the stories of great hardships put upon foreign workers in the mills at Lawrence, Mass., and other textile centers in the State, the fact remains that in the past three years (ending October 31, 1913,) more than $22,000,000 of the wages earned by foreign-born workers in Massachusetts have been sent abroad, as follows:

Year ending October 31—
1912	7,110,860
Total in three years	$22,658,976

This great total does not include the great sums sent through the post-offices, express companies and other agencies, amounting to many millions more, but is only what was sent through banks and licensed private partnerships, as shown by reports of the Bank Commissioner of the State. In addition, large sums were carried back by foreigners and friends returning to their home lands. The lesson these facts teach is obvious. They refute all the "hard luck" stories put out by the I.W.W. strike agitators during the Lawrence strike.

Wrong Conception.

FALLACY OF LABOR EQUALITY.

ALL MEN ARE NOT EQUALLY INDUSTRIOUS.

If the Workers Carried on the Mills and Factories They Would Soon Find Themselves in Need of Capital Which Would Not Be Forthcoming.

[New York Commercial:] Organized labor seeks to dominate the political affairs of this country and many close observers of the trend of the times believe that an international movement of the working class is on foot which will have much influence upon the relations of the great powers of the world. This would not be a change to dread if the labor element was led by men of ability and true devotion to the cause. In the ranks of labor are to be found thousands of the best citizens we have, but the trouble is that loud-mouthed agitators and demagogues are always able to get control of the organization, which they use to further their own ends without any regard for the interests of the members as a whole. It would be the realization of an almost impossible dream were the workers to unite in a great federation for the purpose of preventing war. If they were led or if they would submit to be led by men unselfishly devoted to the cause of peace this might come to pass, but as long as men like Haywood and Gompers, who are professional law-breakers, are able to put themselves in the front of a labor movement little good can come of it.

In order to attain dominance the labor unions must throw open their doors to all applicants. Since the Knights of Labor were organized, more than a quarter of a century ago, the tendency has been to admit any organization that pretends to be composed of workers and all restrictions upon admission through apprenticeship or other tests of skill have been abandoned. The Federation of Labor seems to be working along the same lines because the desire is not so much to secure better terms for employees as to gain political power. The Industrial Workers of the World in their turn welcome everybody for similar reasons, but as this organization is essentially anarchistic it may be dismissed from consideration because the working classes are not in favor of anarchy and will not support its advocates in the long run.

If the day comes when a labor party, as such, is able to get control of the government, the outcome willl be that practically every one in the country will join some union or other to share in the benefits which the labor leaders promise the workers if they can control the government. As more than 90 per cent. of the adult male population of the United States are engaged in gainful occupations and are compelled to earn their daily bread by work of some kind or other, the end would be that all of the workers would have a right to share in the advantages gained by labor control over the reins of power. No matter how high wages were raised the cost of what labor produced would rise just as fast. With the gradual elimination of employers the workers have to form themselves into groups for the purpose of carrying on mills and factories. The dream of the extremists in the labor organizations, as well as of the Industrial Workers of the World and the Socialists, is that the workers shall take possession of the property of the capitalists, especially the work shops of all descriptions and that the full fruits of labor shall be enjoyed by those who work.

If this could be brought about only a few months would elapse before labor would find itself in need of capital. New factories could not be built, old ones could not be repaired, and worn-out plants replaced without capital. Men living from hand to mouth could not form themselves into a group and work for weeks or months to build a factory and the machinery with which it must be equipped. If they could, and if they did, they would be unwilling to turn over the completed workshop on which they had spent months of labor without reward, and let others who had done nothing towards erecting it share with them the full use and profit to be derived from it. As soon as those who had built the factory took this stand they would become capitalists, exactly like the abused owners of property are today. Every man who spends less than he earns and saves the surplus is a capitalist, and these savings need not necessarily take the form of money or tokens of wealth in order to make him a capitalist.

At the time of the French Revolution the wealth of the country was scattered among the people without discrimination, but in less than three years the people of France had traveled the whole circle and were back to just where they were before, so far as a division of the population of the capitalists and persons without means of support beyond what they earn from day to day were concerned. The experiment has been tried on a smaller scale in other cases and it has always worked out in the same way. An equal division of all the wealth in this country among all the people in it, would inevitably result in less than half the people having all the surplus wealth inside of a week.

We cannot change human nature, and as long as some men persistently spend all or more than they have, and others are thrifty, the world's goods will not be equally divided, or, if equally divided, will not stay so. The Socialists and other dreamers claim that if all men work and all the produce of labor was equally divided everybody would have all that he needed. This is perfectly true, but the weak spot is that all are not equally industrious and honest. Wherever people have worked together honestly they have become prosperous, and to attain a fair share of prosperity in this way, it is not necessary to work to the point of exhaustion. Trappists monks make their monasteries wealthy by working on the surrounding land for six hours a day. The old Shaker communities in this county accumulated much wealth in the same way, and in the northern part of this State the Oneida community demonstrated the same truth; but it is impossible to get the masses of the people to work together in such a manner, even if it were wise to abolish individualism and substitute strict communism in its place.

If organized labor ever acquires political control in this country it will merely travel in a circle and its ranks will be broken up into opposing parties. Prosperity will never be fostered by the abolition of capital. In every case where people working together, as in a Trappist monastery, have become firmly established and prosperous they have really become capitalists. The farmer or the gardener who lays by part of his produce to sustain life until the next harvest is to that extent a capitalist, and when labor realizes that capital cannot be destroyed without injuring the workers as well as the owners, this antagonism will cease.

EXACTLY EQUAL RIGHTS.

If There Is to Be No Sugar Lobby at Washington There Should Be No Labor Lobby.

[Marion D. Shutter, D.D., pastor of First Universalist Church, Minneapolis, Minn.:] While all occupations are honorable, even the humblest; while manual toil is as dignified and as worthy of respect as the work of the teacher, or lawyer, or preacher, those who perform that work are not in a class by themselves; they are a part of the community, no better and no worse than other citizens. Consequently, they have exactly the same rights and no other and no greater rights; they are to expect the same treatment under the laws of their country that other men get and nothing different.

We see no reason, therefore, why inciting to violence and to destruction of life and property should be interpreted as "freedom of speech," in the case of the Industrial Workers of the World, when anyone else would be sent to prison without question. Free speech is one thing, incendiary speech is quite another. Freedom to discuss principles is one thing, freedom to attack and threaten men who differ with us is quite another. Freedom of speech is one thing, treasonable denunciation of this government is quite another. And I remark incidentally that whoever prefers the red flag of anarchy to the Stars and Stripes has no reason to invoke the protection of the Stars and Stripes when he gets into trouble. If he despises the flag of his country there is no reason why he should be compelled to live under its folds.

I repeat, we are all citizens with equal rights and no special favors. If organized labor, or agricultural labor, combines in "restraint of trade," as it is called, it is no more to be exempted from the operation of the Sherman law than any body of manufacturers should be exempted. That is social justice. If there is to be no "sugar lobby" at Washington there should be no lobby of any kind—not even the "labor lobby," which has existed for eight years or more. Let every interest have its "lobby," or else do away with them all; do away with every method of influencing legislation.

And yet I believe that labor and business both have a right to present their "case" to any body of legislators, but without any attempt at corruption—whether with notes or with cash. Only this, what is fair and right for one is fair and right for all. No one has a right to denounce one sort of "lobby" while maintaining another. That is not justice. So, men who appeal to the laws for protection must respect the laws they invoke. If the striker breaks the head of another workman he must not complain if his own head is broken by a policeman's club.

He who demands justice must do justice. A thoughtful editorial in the World's Work for October concludes with these words: "There are indications that the same anger which overtook the corporations will also overtake the unions, for the great mass of the American people are no more tolerant of special privileges taken by labor organizations than they are of privileges usurped by the corporations."

NEW COMPENSATION RULING.

State Commission Says Workman May Recover for Injuries Sustained After Leaving Scene of Labors.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—The State Accident Insurance Commission ruled Wednesday that a workman is entitled to compensation for injuries sustained after leaving the scene of his labors, provided his work is such that it does not actually cease until he reaches his home. In this respect, a clear line is drawn between those employed in such occupations and those laboring in factories and similar establishments, where the employer's responsibility ceases at the moment the men leave the gates.

This decision was handed down in the case of J. Ferguson against the Royal Indemnity Company. Ferguson was a "trouble investigator" for the Southern California Gas Company and was run down and seriously injured by an automobile while riding a motorcycle on his way home.

Commissioner Harry Weinstock wrote the only dissenting opinion.

Rival Unions' Quarrel.

[Boston Advertiser:] The situation in the boot and shoe trade in Massachusetts is unpleasant in one particular. Two rival unions have entered a campaign against each other, and each is trying to force the manufacturers to promise not to employ any worker from a rival union. The law of Massachusetts explicitly and very emphatically forbids any employer of labor to refuse to employ any man because of his membership in any particular labor organization. The situation, just now, in a number of Lynn factories, is calculated to make one wonder what the District Attorney for Essex county is doing. When any group of men combine and conspire to force another person to do an act which all admit is illegal it would appear that the sworn officers of the law might investigate the conditions, with a view to action by their own office.

Refuse to Affiliate.

[The Square Deal:] Bricklayers, Masons' and Plasterers' International Union, in convention at Houston, Tex., refused to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor by a vote of approximately 400 to 200. Opponents of affiliation contended that to enter the federation would invite complications at a time when the union is getting all it asks in wages and terms. Brick manufacture will be added to the business of the union.

TEETERING.

[EDITORIAL.]

COMMENTING upon the alleged saying of Abraham Lincoln that labor deserves more consideration than capital, Freeman Otis Willey, in his book, "The Laborer and the Capitalists," says: "Suppose the distinguished martyr were upon the earth in these troublous times, and that he had authority to send you forth to pour oil upon the troubled waters, and he should tell you to go and counsel with capital and labor and use your best efforts to have them come together and effect an amicable settlement of their differences, but that you should always bear in mind that labor deserves much the higher consideration, because labor is the father of capital, that capital owes its existence to labor."

The supposititious argument placed in the mouth of Mr. Lincoln could never have been formulated by his logical brain. If labor deserves the higher consideration because it produces capital, then the father deserves a higher consideration than the son, the caterpillar than the butterfly, the cloud than the rain, since the latter could not have existed if the former had not first existed.

The truth is that priority of existence, the fact of one thing being the producer and the other the thing produced has nothing to do with the consideration that belongs to either.

"You worked," says Mr. Willey, "and earned fifty dollars; therefore, your labor created fifty dollars of capital. You then paid the $50 out for labor; that is, you employed $50 worth of labor that would not have been employed had you kept your $50 in your pocket. Why, then, is it not as correct to say that capital creates labor, as it is to say that labor creates capital, since the labor would not have been employed without the use of the $50 or its equivalent in some other kind of capital?"

The principle involved is illustrated in what is called the game of "teetering." A plank is placed across the fence and a boy gets upon either end. One presses his feet upon the ground, and sends himself into the air; then the other does the same, and the result is a pleasant motion and an enjoyable season for both. A dispute arises as to which deserves the most praise for all this. One boy says: "I deserve the most praise for the reason that I kicked the ground first and set the whole thing in motion." The other boy replies: "If you kicked the ground first at one movement, I kicked it first the next, and during the hour we teetered, I set the thing in motion as many times as you did. I do not see that either of us deserves any very great praise, since both worked for his own interest, but owing to a natural law, which we did not create, each was obliged to give the other a bound upward in order to get one for himself."

This illustrates the relationship of capital and labor. One cannot teeter unless the other teeters at the same time, and not one whit more of consideration belongs to one than belongs to the other.

The capitalist who is erecting a building will not pay a plasterer $5 for eight hours' work if he can find one equally competent who will accept $4 for ten hours' work. The plasterer will not work ten hours for $4 if by combination and collective bargaining he can obtain $5 for eight hours' work. The capitalist will not invest $100,000 in the erection of a skyscraper if by loaning $80,000 on a mortgage which he can foreclose he can obtain one for the latter sum. The investment of capital may very occasionally be made upon an eleemosynary basis, but nobody ever heard of a carpenter or a plumber working a month to benefit or educate humanity.

There are quite a number of men camped in the bed of the Los Angeles River upholding the dignity and the claims of labor, and making ready to join Coxey's army. If you offer any of them three good meals for three hours' work, or a chance at the hen roost and the garbage can for no work at all, the chances are that the latter offer will be accepted.

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES AND STRIKERS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

SINCE September last the marble workers of Carrara, Italy, have been on strike. They were earning 73 cents per day and were offered 81 cents per day by the Union of Marble Exporters. This they refused and struck for 87 cents. Exporters were boycotted as to shipments by the loaders' and stevedores' unions, which were in sympathy with the strikers. In November the associations of producers, exporters and studio, sawmill and other proprietors declared (in self-defense) a general lockout, throwing 10,000 men out of work.

The suffering among the workmen's families was intense, in spite of several relief agencies. About 5000 troops were stationed in and about the city during the lockout and the number of city and rural police was doubled, but there was comparatively little disorder until January 18, when a bomb was exploded in the courtyard of the Carrara barrack of the national police. No damage was caused, but the imprisonment of the labor leaders delayed the settlement of the strike and lockout.

Now the marble workers have gone back to work at the terms offered before the strike began, namely, 81 cents per day, and the boycott and lockout are thereby ended. It is calculated that during the seventy-nine days of the lockout the wages loss was approximately $790,000. Did this totally unnecessary loss of $790,000 wages by the workers, to secure for 200 men, a raise of 8 cents a day, which was offered without any strike or strike loss, pay from the standpoint of union labor? As matter of fact, do strikes pay in 10 or even 5 per cent. of the cases? Wages once lost are lost forever. The industrial clock does not run backward. The absent weekly pay envelope creates an aching void. Even since the wage settlement there has been boycotting and the industry is threatened with another costly lockout.

Notice of the foregoing foolish strike loss reminds one that in the past ten years British strikers suffered a wages loss of $84,741,000 (besides a vast sum of union labor's wages money spent in strike pay) to secure a total wages advance of $13,209,000, leaving a net loss of $71,531,000. Did that pay?

"Lynch the police!" yelled the I.W.W. gang in Chicago when one of their number, arrested for rioting, was taken to the police station. If the savages who yelled this had been arrested, they would have set up the cry that they were within their rights under the constitutional privilege of free speech. It will probably be necessary to teach rioters from foreign lands that the American Constitution does not grant such kind of "free speech," yet are they to be blamed so much in view of the fact that they hear Idaho Haywood constantly urging the workers to violence, without his being arrested?

"I advocate it (sabotage) every day, as a daily diet for the capitalist class," declares Haywood, "and there should be a general strike once a year in every industry."

Which is the worst, an occasional I.W.W yell of "Lynch the police," which is quickly suppressed, or the Haywood yell of "Destroy the industries," which has come to be an unchecked continuous performance?

Five thousand girls in New York City, members of the Children's Dressmakers' Union, employed in non-union shops, are on strike for a fifty-hour working week, a 15 per cent. increase in wages, union shop conditions and a price committee in the shops to arrange for the wages of the piece workers. They went out in obedience to union red paper circulars printed in Yiddish, Italian and English.

The 2000 members in Paterson of the I.W.W. (all that are left of the 23,000 who were in the recent futile strike) want to raise $500 outside—or 25 cents for each member if they paid it themselves—to carry on a legal "defense" of their leaders, who are out on bail. What kind of loyalty to the I.W.W. is it that the 2000 do not put up the 25 cents each to prevent their leaders from going to jail? Is it possible that these 2000 Paterson I.W.W.'s will not spend twice $500 in the saloons during the next ten days, says F. G. R. Gordon in the Paterson Press. Yet they won't give half this sum for the defense of their leaders. If the Madison Square pageant receipts, run by the I.W.W. leaders, had made the returns in cash to Paterson which it ought to have made there would have been now on hand several times the $500 needed. Perhaps this is the main reason why the Paterson I.W.W. rank and file do not hand over another $500 to Haywood and his associates. They may fear that a few of the leaders will have a "grand time" on the money as they did in the Needham Hotel at Lawrence, Mass., when they were handling the Lawrence strike funds, contributed out of union labor's wages money.

The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company is preparing suits for $4,000,000 damages growing out of the still-existing coal strike against the national and State officers of the United Mine Workers of America. The officers of the union are charged with conspiracy to injure the company's business. After going through all the courts a matter like that in the East is costing the Hatters' Union no less than $263,000 cold, hard cash, and the property of each member of that union is individually liable for the debt—just as if the union was a partnership, without any "limited" partners.

One man shot dead, ten seriously wounded and a score more or less injured is the report from Depew, N. Y., of an attack upon a train bearing strike-breakers from Buffalo to supplant the Gould Coupler Company strikers. The strike situation at Depew is getting worse every day.

Bulletin 139 of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics tells us that dissatisfaction regarding wages, hours of labor and the use of the one-man drill was the principal cause of the strike of mine workers, which began in the Michigan copper district on July 23, 1913, and is still on, though many of the strikers are back at work, unconditionally. Every mine in the district was closed on July 23, except two of the very small mines. Including the strikers, about 14,500 mine workers were made idle by the strike. The mines being closed, work was necessarily stopped in the stamps and smelters, throwing 1500 more men out of work, or a total of 16,000 in idleness. Of this total the Western Federation of Miners claimed 9000 as members of that organization, of whom, the officers stated, 98 per cent. had voted for the strike. Though the Western Federation has been more or less active during the strike, neither of its claims of power, as above stated, have been substantiated, but the contrary. It has not been able to prevent thousands going back to work on the old terms (glad to do so) and now the federation president, Moyer, has "thrown up the sponge" against the wishes of the local union leaders, who want to keep their "easy" jobs by continued agitation, at the expense of union labor's wages. The strikers were exclusively Western Federation men. The other thousands thrown out of work suffered with their families against their will. Though the strike began on July 23, 1913, payment of strike benefits did not begin till September. In two days after the strike began the State troops commenced arriving and occupying the strike region, in all 2600 men. Some violence has occurred, but no damage has been done to property. It might have been very different had not the State troops been so early on the scene. Both the Governor of the State and the United States Department of Labor failed to bring about arbitration, as the companies will not recognize the Western Federation of Miners, directly or indirectly. The companies have, however, of their own accord reduced the working day from ten to eight hours since January 1 of this year. They have also set off a day or half a day each week for hearing and adjusting grievances. Mine wages in Michigan are not as good as in Montana, but the cost of living is much higher in Montana than in Michigan.

NEAR THE PARKWAY.

Part of Close-in North Wilshire District Just West of Occidental Boulevard Advancing Rapidly.

One of the north Wilshire districts that has rapidly advanced in the past two years is that lying just west of Occidental boulevard, between Sixth street and Sunset boulevard. Between Occidental and the Bimini ravine are a number of streets that have witnessed a remarkable construction activity since announcement was first made of the project of creating the Silver Lake parkway, and considerable of the building has undoubtedly been due to the early prospect of this, the city's most magnificent park improvement. The actual starting of the parkway, it is believed, will speedily insure the compact upbuilding of the entire section.

The greatest activity in the district in question has been that in Westlake Addition, where scores of attractive homes have been erected in the past twenty-four months. The building up of this tract, where today but few lots remain unimproved, has carried the development of the close-in Wilshire district northward to Temple street. North of Temple the Silver Lake Terrace and Walbrook Heights tracts have been put into first-class condition for builders. Both tracts lie along the edge of the future Silver Lake parkway.

East of Occidental, in the same sightly and accessible vicinity, Rampart boulevard and Coronado, Carondelet and Park View streets have been improved as far north as Temple street in the past two or three years, and plans are shaping for extensive development between Temple and Sunset.

TWO BALDWIN TRACTS.

Wilshire Hills and Wilshire Heights, Two of Wilshire District's Best-Improved Subdivisions.

James V. Baldwin, as a pioneer in the district and since, has been prominently identified with the progress of Wilshire, but none of his subdivisions have been more attractive nor more desirable than the two he has recently opened, Wilshire Heights and Wilshire Hills.

Wilshire Heights fronts on Wilshire boulevard and joins Windsor Square. There are fifty lots in the tract, with frontage ranging from seventy to 130 feet and a uniform depth of 180 feet. The owners paid $2000 an acre to improve this property, which has the highest grade of street and other improvements and macadamized eighty-foot boulevards.

One home is under construction now in the tract. Several other lots have been sold in the past few days and the owners intend to build on them soon.

Wilshire Hills, which joins the heights on the north, has exactly the same class of improvements as Wilshire Heights. It contains sixty-four large lots.

SIGHTLY AND EXCLUSIVE.

Large Lots, High-Class Improvements and Private Streets the Features of Fremont Place Tract.

For some years the city built to the southwest along the car line to Santa Monica and to the northwest along the Hollywood car line, the sightly district without car service on each side of Wilshire boulevard remaining untenanted. With the building of car lines both north and south of Wilshire boulevard, this comparatively close-in section has been built up with celerity and beauty almost magical. It is today recognized as the best residence district of Los Angeles.

Foreseeing this development, operators familiar with conditions bought about eight years ago an elevated ridge on Wilshire boulevard, about fifty acres in extent, and reserved it for homes of the best type, where the well-to-do, building permanent homes, might find an ideal location. Helped by the best engineers and landscape architects these men have lately created Fremont place. It contains less than fifty homesites, averaging about 200x200 feet. The boundaries of the property are marked by handsome granite gateways, each about eighty feet wide. The agents for the tract are Charles B. Ingram Co., David Barry & Co., George H. Briggs and S. R. Barry.

Values in this part of the Wilshire district are six times as great as they were a few years ago and are constantly going higher. Two fine residences are in course of construction in Fremont place, the contract has been let for a third and a dozen more are proposed.

STANDARD KEPT HIGH.

Chapman Park Improvements Are in Keeping With High Class of Improvements That Surround it.

The Wilshire district and its reputation for high-grade residence property owes much to the owners of Chapman Park, F. M. Chapman, Charles C. Chapman and S. J. Chapman. This fine tract of eighty acres was subdivided seven years ago, and its owners have continued ever since to develop it. More than $225,000 has, it is said, been spent in improving the property thus far.

F. M. Chapman was prominent in improving the holding at first. Now Charles C. and S. J. Chapman are actively engaged in building up the park and further improving it. Part of the tract is on high ground. Some of it was considerably lower when it was first subdivided. That part of the tract required much filling and the expenditure of a large sum of money to bring it to its present high-class condition.

The park is bounded by Wilshire boulevard, Fifth street and Normandie and Catalina avenues. Many fine residences have been built and a handsome $50,000 mission church of unique and attractive type of architecture has been erected by the Wilshire Christian Church. Nine residences are now in process of construction and as many more are projected. The streets are eighty feet wide and all the lots are large, the frontage varying from sixty to 125 feet.

Normandie square tract, also subdivided by the Chapmans, has all been sold and is almost solidly built up.

WILL RAISE FEE.

Cost of Becoming Member of Los Angeles Realty Board to Be Higher First of July.

An active campaign for membership, lasting ninety days and ending July 1, will be started by the Los Angeles Realty Board the coming week. At the end of this whirlwind "crusade" the membership fee will be raised from $10 to $50 and the memberships made transferrable, subject to approval of the Membership Committee.

At last Thursday's meeting the board voted to increase the fee on July 1 and President James R. H. Wagner appointed the following Campaign Committee to secure new members during the next quarter: Sidney L. Briggs, chairman; W. H. Akin, T. R. Cadwalader, Bernard A. Vollmer, Roy C. Seeley, C. E. W. Palmer, Robert H. Bloomer, Fred Latimer, Tim Brown, Horace G. Hamilton, Harold Janss, R. B. Armstrong, Charles G. Andrews, Roy Silent, W. W. Mines and Dr. Herman Janss.

The board now has 425 members, an average that has been maintained for a considerable time, the number of new members equalizing those who have either dropped out by reasons of failing to keep up their dues or have been removed "for cause."

The Los Angeles Board will make a showing at the Pittsburgh convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges in July and at that time expects to clinch the 1915 convention for this city.

The masses of the are little more than bar- although "some of the In- found chiefly in Southern are descendants of tribes which were engaged in agriculture at the time of the Spanish conquest. Such Indians are intelligent and peacable, and are capable of making great improvement. On the other hand, there are some Indians who bear a close resemblance to the degenerate specimens to be seen in Arizona—dirty, ignorant and impossible to improve.

"Over two millions of the Mexican Indians are unable to speak Spanish, although living in the midst of Spanish-speaking communities. Only a small portion of the Indian population can read and write.

"In the north large numbers of the peons are descended from fierce tribes somewhat akin to the American Apaches, but having a slight infusion of degenerate blood. Their development and advancement have been hindered by their inheritance of certain savage traits. To this class belong the typical Mexican 'greasers,' so numerous in the Northern States just below the American border. Many of these Mexicans have lived in Texas, Arizona, or New Mexico, employed as farm hands or railroad laborers; some of them were born in the border States. Mexicans of this class are very different from the peons living further south. Having become slightly Americanized they are more difficult to manage than the other native laborers; they demand higher wages and are dissatisfied with present conditions in Mexico. Incidentally, this serves to explain why revolutions have recently made such rapid headway in the north.

"It may be added that the ignorance and superstition of the average peon are almost beyond belief. He will, for instance, make a long pilgrimage to some holy shrine for the purpose of increasing his luck at some lottery or success in killing an enemy. His religion is ofttimes strangely blended with the grossest paganism. Temperamentally he displays the most amazing contrasts. While he will invariably treat his children with the greatest tenderness he will seldom show the slightest kindness to dependent animals, and will callously beat and starve his horse or burro. At peace he shares his last tortilla with a friend and will risk his life for his employer. As a revolutionist he becomes transformed into the embodiment of lust and ferocity. He will then take delight in outraging women and slaughtering defenseless prisoners.

MUST BE RULED BY FEAR.

"As a rule the peons respect no government that they do not fear; but when kept in order by a strong hand most of them are quiet, inoffensive working people with wants so simple that they will toil for very low wages. Curiously enough, if paid much in excess of what they want it does not improve their condition. The extra money is spent for pulque, mescal and other intoxicants and results in fewer working days. Thousands in the north have no other earthly possessions than their ragged clothes and tattered blankets. They are ignorant, dirty, immoral and are savages at heart. Having nothing at stake in the country, they are ready to join any revolution, regardless of its object.

"Of the fifteen million Mexicans less than a half million are real whites, pure Indians or mixtures of some kind forming the bulk of the population. The mestizos or mixed bloods, constitute about 43 per cent. of the population. To this mixed class belong certain grades of professional men, and also the better types of the working population, such as clerks and mechanics. From this class are drawn the great majority of Mexican voters, for, as already mentioned, the suffrage in practice is limited. In fact, it is said that of the fifteen million Mexicans, less than 20,000 ever cast ballots. It may be added that, according to the last census, there were over 60,000 foreigners resident in Mexico—Spaniards, Americans, French and English predominating.

RICH ARE APATHETIC.

"The well-to-do Mexicans are strangely apathetic, and until recently have seldom been willing to make any sacrifices for their country. A Mexican of the higher class has usually but one ambition, namely, to enter political life and obtain some well-paid appointment. Almost every man of this type thinks that he ought to be President, and is firmly convinced that he is the only man who can save the country by filling that important office. To become President such men have been ready to arm savages and to fight their way to power. As long as his own interests are not affected, the average upper-class Mexican is indifferent to what his fellow-citizens elsewhere may be enduring; he will not serve in the army; he is utterly helpless and he expects the government to do almost everything for him.

"The events that have happened since the retirement of Gen. Diaz have furnished conclusive evidence that Mexico is unfitted to be a republic in the ordinary sense of the term. In fact, the great mass of Indian peons would be utterly unable to understand the meaning of the ballot or to make any use of it.

CAUSES OF REVOLUTIONS?

"As to the causes of the various revolutionary outbreaks in Mexico several explanations have been given. It has been asserted, for instance, that they were the direct result of the rivalries of the British and the American oil interests in their struggle for the control of the Mexican oil properties. One interest has been accused of supporting the revolutionists; the other has been charged with upholding the Huerta government in order to gain valuable concessions. As a recent writer has observed, 'the whole Mexican situation has reeked with crude petroleum.

"While certain oil interests may possibly have assisted in fomenting the present revolutions, it seems more probable that their principal cause was the spread of distorted Socialistic ideas among the laboring population of Northern Mexico. It is in the north that most of the vast private estates exist, while in Southern Mexico, to a large extent, the land has been divided among the small owners. The revolutionists in the north are insisting that the great haciendas must be divided among the laboring population. This doctrine, it will be recalled, formed part of the programme of the late President Madero; but his theories of land ownership were like his theories on universal suffrage, far in advance of his time. His downfall, in fact, was largely due to his inability to put these theories into practice.

"It is explained by Mr. Carson that even the division of the big estate would not bring relief to the peons, first because so much of the country is arid, cactus-strewn deserts, so that it would be impossible to live on it until it had been irrigated, and then because it would be necessary for the government to provide the settlers with agricultural instruments, and furthermore, it is utterly hopeless to expect the average peon to work unless he is driven—even when he would be given the opportunity of working for himself.

"Mexico would be vastly improved if there could be a great influx of European immigration, with a resulting admixture of new blood. The beneficial effects of such immigration in Argentina and other South American republics might be experienced by Mexico if extensive immigration were only possible. But, unfortunately, Mexico is not a poor man's country in the same sense as Canada and other countries. As a rule, large capital is required to develop Mexican land properly, and moreover, owing to the miserable wages for which the Indian peons are willing to work, white manual laborers could not make a decent living in Mexico. This constitutes a serious problem, because without immigration, the introduction of new blood, and a consequent improvement of the population, it will be difficult for Mexico to make any rapid advance.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

"The truth is that what Mexico needs is a strong central government headed by such a man as Lord Kitchener, one of unblemished record, a soldier, a statesman and administrator; and what Lord Kitchener accomplished in Egypt, might, to a great extent, be brought about in Mexico. But as Kitchener is not to be found in Mexico today, the place must needs be filled by a Mexican substitute—a man of strong character, who understands his countrymen, who has the confidence of the army and is able to restore order. It is clear that the first step toward the future betterment of the people must be the suppression of the present insurrections and the establishment of peace."

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Opal Silica.

GILA BEND (Ariz.) March 10.—Q.: I am sending you two samples that come from west of Phoenix. The assayer only got 35 cents gold and silver, but he says that "there is some kind of metal in the rock that he does not know what it is." He thought first it was "tellurium, but could not tell." I am sending it to you, and you will notice that on one side I have made a mark where there are several very dark green spots. This ore comes in on a contact between phonolite and conglomerate. Has the small piece of white quartz any value in it? Thanking you again for this great help. MRS. J. C. R.

A.: Very glad to hear from you. The white sample is a variety of common (milk) opal without opalescence and of but little commercial value. The grayish conglomerate carries lime, magnesia, silica and traces of arsenic, antimony and lead.

Platinum Absent.

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 10.—Q.: Herewith sample of bluish rock that is reported to be "rich in rare minerals and platinum." Will you kindly test the sample in a qualitative way and give results in "In the Earth" column? T.

A.: And after repeated tests (not only by the editor of this department) our associates report that the mineral "reacts for no rare substances and platinum is absent."

For "the gaity of the nations" we analyzed the samples submitted by you and find: Silica, 33.50; alumina, 15; iron peroxide, 2.50; oxide of chrome, 1.50; magnesia, 33; iron protoxide, 3.50; water, 9.50 percentages, respectively, with traces of arsenopyrite, antimony, pyrite and ilmenite. The mineral is a variety of clinochlore.

Granite and Quartz.

JUNCTION (Ariz.) March 10.—Q.: Under separate wrapper am sending you two samples of rock from near here. No. 1, the black, heavy iron ore, is from a very wide prospect running northerly and southerly. It is taken at surface, and it must bear minerals, which I would be glad to have you classify. Your opinion as to whether depth would develop values would be thankfully received. No. 2 is taken from a ledge of good width on which is a forty-foot shaft, in a direct line, 300 feet below ledge from which sample No. 1 is taken. At surface the rock had good gold values, gold being visible to the naked eye, but with depth the gold disappeared. Your opinion on this, as well as the itemizing of minerals it carries would be of great value to us. Do you think by drifting into this body if iron from the shaft values would be obtained? F. S. S.

A.: You boys well know that there has been a lot of money lost by counting too much on gold (native gold) at depth.

The Breckenridge (Colo.) district is famous for its surface native gold, and some of the mines have made good in that district at depth also.

A very common happening is to find gold for many feet down, and then, all of a sudden, sulphide ore comes in with free gold no longer appearing in the horn or in the pan. Millions in money have been lost by this changing of ores, and chiefly by the erection of metallurgical works and machinery for free gold only.

The samples show: "Black iron ore from surface immense ledge running up mountain north and south." This No. 1 is composed of two samples of granite with one of gneiss; iron oxides present with zinc traces. No. 2 you refer to as "From forty-foot shaft of quartz, in direct north and south line 300 feet below the iron ore croppings of ledge No. 1." This sample is quartz (ferruginous quartz,) with manganese carbonate (pink stains;) manganese dioxide (bluish-black matter,) and zinc traces in the mass.

It would appear that the "very wide prospect" is granitiferous, and by no means gossan.

We detect no sulphides in the mass and the samples are too minute to pass an opinion upon.

Nevertheless, if the find is represented by the samples only, the outlook is not encouraging. It is probable that we have practically the same thought that you have regarding this prospect: Good mines have been opened and are being worked today with both walls granite.

If you have time it would be well to drift on that body of iron (if it is really iron ore) under the granite, and then submit samples for further testing.

No sample was assayed for gold or silver, and no free gold is in any specimen.

Tungsten Present.

LOS ANGELES, March 10.—Q.: For gold and tungsten. D.

A.: The concentrates are chiefly those from iron and silica. Lime a trace with magnetic iron ore, manganese dioxide, titanic iron ore, feldspathic matter, aluminum silicate and trace of vanadium. In the mass we find, sparingly disseminated microscopical globules of mercury and gold (amalgam.) Tungstic acid present in low percentage.

Black and White.

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Q.: I am enclosing under separate covers two samples. No. 1 contains, I think, lime phosphates, if not would ask: Any commercial values? No. 2, of which there is quite a deposit on a claim we have, is what? Would also like to have your valued opinion on this, and its contents, etc. Both are from about sixty-five miles northeast of Banning. C. E. S.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is a silicious lime-bearing aluminous substance carrying phosphoric acid approximately 4 per cent. No. 2 (black and white) is quartz with tourmaline and hornblende present. There is no great commercial value in material represented by the samples.

Phosphates Present.

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Q.: Herewith please find three samples from near Good Springs, Clark county, Nevada. No. 1 is, I think, a zinc carbonate; it comes in a stratified or bedded formation, and is about fifty feet in width, with hard blue limestone above and below. Out of about fifteen assays one or two were blanks, and the others ran from a trace to 4 per cent. zinc. No. 2 is, I think, a silicate of some kind; it comes in blue lime and the walls are badly shattered, and in the fractures is deposited a bright-red material. Out of five assays for zinc four were blanks, and one gave a little better than 4 per cent., and the sample was taken from a ten-foot hole. No. 3 is, I think, a slate or shale, and comes in an immense strata in limestone. Assayed for gold and silver I got as high as $1.65 gold, and 31 cents in silver—a total of $1.96. Any information you see fit to give me in regard to these samples will be thankfully received. G. M.

A.: Glad to hear from you. Classifying the samples under those of gold and zinc, and, in the vernacular of the day, the ores are on the "bum" order.

Sample No. 1 is a gritty (silicious) lime carbonate with iron oxides and trace of zinc. No. 2 is ferruginous lime carbonate, with zinc a trace. Phosphoric acid present. No. 3 is an aluminous shale in part talc; zinc a trace, iron oxides present.

It might be possible to find good phosphate rock at the locality, and while we have not had a "squint" at the blue limestone you refer to, or the "bright-red material," it would be well to test each and both.

Ferruginous Quartz.

PASADENA, March 12.—Q.: Will you please tell me what is contained in these specimens found near Pasadena? What is the yellow-slimy stuff? Has it any commercial value? G. E. M.

A.: That yellow-slimy stuff is talc carrying ferrous and ferric oxides. Sulphides of copper, iron and of arsenic, sparingly present. Not tested for gold or silver. Rather doubtful ore when referring to commercial values.

Fairly Good Salines.

YERMO, March 12.—Q.: We send you under separate cover two pieces of solid matter (both the same,) and it has a great tendency to air-slack. Please let us know what it contains through "In the Earth" columns. R. and W.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The samples are of interest and of probable commercial value; in fact, it would be well to offer samples to wholesale chemists. Some "soda ash" of commerce is in the mass; lime traces; sodium and magnesium sulphates, and sodium chloride. Boron a trace. Nitrate of soda traces.

Doubtful Stuff.

MONROVIA, March 12.—Q.: Enclosed please find some sand which contains a quantity of something which I would like to know what it really is? Will you kindly examine and give your opinion in your Sunday issue? M. L.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The sample is a yellowish aluminum silicate with quartz, yellow mica, iron oxides, and trace of microscopical pyrite.

A Combination.

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—Q.: Please answer through Sunday Times the returns you get from this ore, which I have numbered Nos. 3, 4 and 5. H. J. G. (Colorado.)

A.: Glad to hear from you. The "returns" are qualitative only. No. 3 is quartz, iron, copper, zinc, lead (cerussite,) pyrite and titanium in the mass. No. 4, tourmaline, hornblende and pyroxene. No. 4 is a granular powder with iron oxides and lead present. For further test would prefer native sample—if obtainable.

Porphyritic Matter.

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—I leave at your office some samples taken from prospects in San Diego county, not many miles from Pala. Will you be kind enough to tell me about this rock? You will see by the glass that the rock carries some black crystals—what kind of crystals? What is the name of the square crystals in the gray samples? C. M.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The samples can be referred to chiefly as pegmatite (graphic granite.) The blackish crystals are hornblende in the big sample and the crystals in the small samples are those of fractured and worthless tourmaline.

The "square crystals" are often referred to by the term "porphyry," but a more elegant and common-sense description of these "square" substances of mineralogy is understood more clearly when named orthoclase (potash feldspar.)

Silicates.

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—Q.: Inclosed please find two samples. C. B.

A.: Samples found O.K. The rock specimen is ferruginous quartz with aluminum silicate in the mass. The white material is a good grade of Fuller's earth.

Some Doubts.

PARCEL POST AND INSURANCE.

THE NEW PLAN COSTS MORE THAN REGISTRY.

Six Months' Experience Seems to Indicate a Loss on the Insurance and "Collect on Delivery" Feature, but There Are Still Many Things to Be Worked Out.

[Washington Post:] Although postal authorities still declare their inability to ascertain in what manner the insurance feature of the parcel post law is going to work out from a monetary point of view, it has been learned that payments of indemnity for lost and destroyed fourth-class matter covered by postal insurance will constitute a rather significant figure annually.

When the parcel post was inaugurated $25,000 was set aside for the payment of insurance losses. At the end of the six months ended June 30, last, approximately $20,000 had been expended in payment of claims of this nature. All the claims, however, for the elapsed six months had not been presented, and Third Assistant Postmaster-General Dockery, who executes this phase of the law, and his assistants, have estimated that the entire $25,000 will have been exhausted when all charges against this fund have been passed upon and paid.

Consequently, in making the estimates for the year 1914, Mr. Dockery has asked for $65,000. Fifty thousand dollars probably would have been sufficient to cover the losses for the year had the system been conducted as it was during the six months on which the estimate was based.

But, beginning July 1, last, a "collect on delivery" feature was inaugurated. Under it merchants may send throughout the country goods of the nature permitted in the parcel post, and payment will be made for these goods by the addressee at the office of delivery. All these goods must be insured, and it is thought that indemnity losses will be increased to an extent. The additional $15,000 was asked to meet this increase.

Mr. Dockery, however, frankly admits that his estimates, particularly as far as the "C.O.D." losses are concerned, are purely conjectural. He made such a statement to the Appropriation Committee. Up to the present time, he said, there are no definite figures on which estimates may be based, and added that the loss for the year may be much more, or less, than the sum for which he has asked.

Before the passage of the parcel post law and the inauguration of that system, any package, whether it comprised first, second or third-class mail matter, could be registered. With the establishment of the parcel post, however, and the provision for the insurance of fourth-class matter, former Postmaster-General Hitchcock ruled all fourth-class matter out of the registry division, and fixed that it must be sent, if protection was desired by the sender, under the parcel post insurance system.

This necessarily took out of the registered mail a large number of packages. The total indemnity paid by the postal service for registered mail of all classes during the year ended June 30, 1912, was [illegible] This, however, not only included claims for that current year, but a large number for losses which had been sustained during the two preceding fiscal years. Tabulations are now in progress at the Postoffice Department to determine what the losses for the last year have been.

PARCEL POST AND INSURANCE

Six Months' Experience Seems to Indicate a Loss on the Insurance and "Collect on Delivery" Features, but There Are Still Many Things to Be Worked Out.

[Washington Post:] Although postal authorities still declare their inability to ascertain in what manner the insurance feature of the parcel post law is going to work out from a monetary point of view, it has been learned that payments of indemnity for lost and destroyed fourth-class matter covered by postal insurance will constitute a rather significant figure annually.

When the parcel post was inaugurated $25,000 was set aside for the payment of insurance losses. At the end of the six months ended June 30, last, approximately $20,000 had been expended in payment of claims of this nature. All the claims, however, for the elapsed six months, had not been presented, and Third Assistant Postmaster-General Dockery, who executes this phase of the law and his assistants, have estimated that the entire $25,000 will have been exhausted when all charges against this fund have been passed upon and paid.

Consequently, in making the estimates for the year 1914, Mr. Dockery has asked for $65,000. Fifty thousand dollars probably would have been sufficient to cover the losses for the year had the system been conducted as it was during the six months on which the estimate was based.

But, beginning July 1, last, a "collect on delivery" feature was inaugurated. Under it merchants may send throughout the country goods of the nature permitted in the parcel post, and payment will be made for these goods by the addressee at the office of delivery. All these goods must be insured, and it is thought that indemnity losses will be increased to an extent. The additional $15,000 was asked to meet this increase.

Mr. Dockery, however, frankly admits that his estimates, particularly as far as the "C.O.D." losses are concerned, are purely conjectural. He made such a statement to the Appropriation Committee. Up to the present time, he said, there are no definite figures on which estimates may be based, and added that the losses for the year may be much more, or less, than the sum for which he has asked.

Before the passage of the parcel post law and the inauguration of that system, any package, whether it comprised first, second or third class mail matter, could be registered. With the establishment of the parcel post, however, and the provision for the insurance of fourth-class matter former Postmaster-General Hitchcock ruled all fourth-class matter out of the registry division, and directed that it must be sent, if protection was desired by the sender, under the parcel post insurance system.

This necessarily took out of the registered mail a large number of packages. The total indemnity paid by the postal service for registered mail of all classes during the year ended June 30, 1912, was $19,7 This, however, not only included claims for that current year, but a large number for losses which had been sustained during the two preceding fiscal years. Tabulations are now in progress at the Postoffice Department to determine what the losses for the last year have been.

It is believed, however, that the registry indemnity payments will not be quite as heavy, owing to the removal of fourth-class matter from that service.

Under the parcel post provisions any package weighing up to eleven pounds which is not composed of prohibited goods and is fourth-class matter may be insured and sent to any place in the country. Originally there was a uniform 10-cent fee charged for insurance and carried a $50 indemnity. Later, however, it was concluded to establish both 5-cent and 10-cent fees. The former gives insurance up to $ and the latter, as originally, covers up to $50.

This is a guarantee only for absolute loss. No payment is made when the package is simply damaged. The marked difference in the aggregate losses sustained by the department in registration and insurance is due to the fact that packages sent in the former manner are placed in special pouches and every clerk who handles them must sign a receipt, whereas an insured parcel post package is sent with the ordinary mail and receives no attention except at the office of dispatch and receipt.

While that is all that the law requires for the handling of insured packages, the postal authorities endeavor to prevent loss, and have the senders of such packages, if the article be fragile, to so mark it. Then, there are a number of fragile packages, they are placed together in a separate pouch marked to attract the attention of railway clerks.

A person who insures a package, some of the postal officials say, does so not to protect himself against monetary loss, but from a desire to insure that his package will reach its destination. Consequently, these officials say, a greater degree of satisfaction would be given the general public if all the fourth-class matter were again placed under the registry division.

To do so, they say, would necessarily entail more work upon that division and incur a greater expense. The losses, however, they say, would be less, and some of the advocates of this policy go so far as to say that the reduction in indemnity payments would practically offset the additional clerks who would have to be taken on in the registry division.

Mr. Dockery, when asked whether the Postmaster-General had contemplated making such a change, said that neither had, and added that it was impossible until time had given more experience with the system to say whether such a move would be advantageous.

"Borax" Smith Interests After Nitrate Deposits.

Sheriff Strikes Fine Pay in Old Kentuck Mine.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) March 27.—Three claims have been sold during the past week by Thomas Higgins to the Calumet and Arizona Company. The claims adjoin the Calumet and Bisbee property lately purchased by the Calumet and Arizona.

A lease has been taken on the hise property by I. M. Kinsey of gias. He will pump out the mine clear at least the 500 level and attack some known ore-bodies on the three lower levels. The ore, though of low grade, is expected to pay more than expenses, while there is the added incentive of the possibility of striking something better.

A Los Angeles company leasing the gins property has secured an extension and may continue work for a year. It is understood that the has little more than paid expenses and that the owners are willing to extend time for the sake of development work.

At the annual meetings at Bisbee of Shattuck-Arizona and Denn-Arizona companies directors and officers were re-elected.

The cost of concreting the junction shaft to the depth of 1800 feet is said to have been about $200,000. The job consumed exactly 295 days. The enormous expense has been considered in the way of insurance of the mines at a lower altitude, in the district, which are unwatered through the junction shaft and which would be damaged to an enormous degree if it were to stop the pumps for even a few hours. Around the shaft has been left a block of ground almost solid for 400 feet each way, this precluding any possibility of a change in alignment.

The Ruby Copper Company, which is operating the once notorious field property near Patagonia, is said to be really mining for profit from the mine itself and not from the sale of stock. A gasoline hoist has been installed with capacity for sinking the 400-foot shaft to the depth of 1100 feet and an air compressor is planned.

The nine-mile railroad between gen station and Johnson camp has been leased by Halstead Lindsley, a Denver mining man. He has a bond on the Old Republic copper mine and is shipping 100 tons of ore a day to the Copper Queen smelter. The railroad was abandoned in 1907, practically as soon as completed.

The "Borax" Smith corporation of San Francisco has taken an option from Fremont Frasee upon nitrate deposits in Sulphur Springs Valley. One of the deposits is 2000 feet long by 700 feet wide and is outlined on the mountain side to depth of 800 feet. In places it is almost pure nitrate of soda.

A strike of silver ore averaging $50 to the ton in value has been made on the property of the Lampazos Silver Mine Company in Northern Sonora, adjoining the famous Lampazos property lately purchased by Epes Randolph and associates.

SHERIFF HAS LUCK.

STRIKES RICH ORE AT LAST.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 27.—Scott White, late Sheriff of Cochise county, for several years had been developing the Old Kentuck mine north of Phoenix, in a district where small ledges of free gold abound, but there no very great success has attended operations in the past. A few days ago, however, White struck at depth a four-foot ledge of gold ore with a pay streak assaying as high as $1000.

Not far distant is the Union mine, which was worked at a depth of several hundred feet more than thirty years and which has a well-defined vein said to sample not less than $5 to the ton in gold at any point. The surface croppings were comparatively rich and were gophered out under two deep gashes which appear on the surface marking the location of the mineralised ledges in a way that fills the average mining man with the deepest of disgust. The workings now are filled with surface water and the mill was dismantled years ago, but there is general belief among well informed parties that the property, if rightly handled, will prove very valuable.

The mines and equipment of the Arizona Gold and Copper Company—north of Phoenix, have been ordered sold under a decree of foreclosure secured by Thomas Treadwell, a local mining man, on a judgment for $1621. Much work has been done at the property, for which a large part of the capital was furnished by Los Angeles stockholders.

Capt. William McDermott of Tucson has taken over the lease of the mine near Casa Grande Station and is working fifteen men. The mill is to be enlarged to 100 tons daily capacity, although it is expected that a large part of the ore produced will be shipped direct to the El Paso smelter.

POWER SECURED.

MILL OPERATING.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) March 27.—The experimental mill of the Inspiration Copper Company is now being operated with power transmitted from the Reclamation Service works at Roosevelt. The electrical machinery was in waiting and has proved satisfactory, having been operated continuously since the current was turned on.

The concrete storage bin capable of holding a reserve of 2500 tons of crushed ore is now available on the Inspiration property. Within a short time the main bins of the works will be completed. They will have capacity of 87,000 tons, and will cost over $100,000. While the customary amount of underground development is being done, interest especially attaches to the tests of the various concentrating devices installed in the experimental mill. These are watched closely by experts in the employ of the company for the determination of the process best suited for economical reduction of ores. Additional machines now being installed will soon bring the capacity of the plant to 1000 tons a day, about one-tenth the capacity of the projected mill.

New pumps have been installed on the 1800 level of the Old Dominion, handling an additional flow of water, lately struck. A connection for motor haulage is about complete from the A shaft to the Grey shaft. The Kingdon shaft is to be sunk from the fourteenth to the sixteenth level. A big new hoist is to be erected on the Grey shaft, where a large miner's change house is to be built at once. At the smelter three furnaces are regularly in operation and the new basic converter shell has a record of producing 22,000,000 pounds of copper without relining.

On the 800 level of the Iron Cap an east drift has been cut through three feet of high-grade ore, under the big stopes on the 650 level, from which a large tonnage has been shipped. The company is reported to be putting aside about $7000 a month above all costs of development.

Zinc ore running up to 50 per cent. lately was struck by Charles Dixon in Powers Gulch, near Globe.

Rushing Work.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLIFTON (Ariz.) March 27.—Work is being prosecuted with all energy by the Detroit Copper Mining Company upon the New England claims near Metcalf, purchased last year. Electrical power will be used in the work, a power line being about completed from the company's works at Morenci.

Near Safford a young Mexican has brought in samples of gold ore said to assay at the rate of $50,000 to the ton. Several Americans have become interested in the strike and will finance its development.

In the same section of Graham county a San Francisco company is considering working placer beds by dredging. The claims have been sampled with good returns.

BRISK MOVEMENT IS NOTED IN RESCUE STOCK.

Indications of Ore Body Are Encountered in Upraise—West End and Jim Butler Still Arguing Over Rights to Disputed Territory. Lawsuit Not Expected.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) March 27.—The Rescue-Eula Company has opened indications of an ore body in the upraise that was started last week from the 800-foot level, according to well-founded reports, and on the strength of this there was brisk movement in the stock. Rescue lies in territory that should be well favored, but, up to date, nothing in the shape of values has been found there.

Some time ago Manager Chandler began cross-cutting in hope of catching one of the numerous veins from the Stone Cabin, opened in both Jim Butler and Belmont, but work in this direction ceased about a week ago when operations were diverted to raising for ore into trachyte.

The intention of the company was to run an incline in a northerly direction, to be continued to the cap rock which would give about 400 feet to explore. It is in this raise that the strike is said to have been made. Official confirmation is lacking, however.

Nevertheless, the ground is so well located between Belmont, Halifax and Jim Butler that it has always been regarded as a good prospect. The Rescue is one of the Zadig properties that was involved in the recent fiasco of North Star.

West End has placed in commission the new mill with thirty stamps and has turned out $37,000 gross in eighteen days, the largest bullion production in the history of the mine. This is at the rate of $65,000 a month, which is close to the dividend requirements if the 10-cent rate is maintained. This is not expected, in view of the present difference between the company and the Jim Butler.

The rejection of the West End proposition by the Butler people was a surprise to many, but as it resulted in a counter proposition from the latter, it is expected that the two companies will finally agree, without any serious entanglement. It is known that the heaviest stockholder of the Butler is averse to any litigation and others deeply interested in the welfare of the camp also are. It is conceded that a law suit would involve many months of costly litigation, and then, at the end of the suit, neither company would be much better off than with a compromise settlement, if as well.

West End offered to divide the value of the ore blocked out or to be mined from the disputed ground and local authorities believe that this proposition, with minor and unimportant modifications, will obtain in the final adjudication.

West End has ample ore reserves to keep its big mill running for the next two years without having recourse to the apexed area. On the other hand the Jim Butler has not stoped a pound of ore from the disputed ground and has ample ore in sight on three other levels to enable it to maintain its present rate of shipping up to the standard of 550 to 600 tons a week, established three months ago.

Tonopah Extension, which has been on the wrong side of the ledger since last fall, is coming to the front with leaps and bounds through development of the Murray vein, which is assuming larger and more profitable proportions every day. This enormous ore body is furnishing the remodelled mill with 170 tons daily and bullion shipments begin to reflect the improvement. The clean-up of the mill for the first half of March resulted in a shipment of 32,540 ounces of bullion, valued at $25,050, and it is expected that the gross output will approximate $60,000 for March, compared with $47,500 for February and $44,300 for January. A much better grade of ore is being handled and a higher percentage of the assay value is being recovered.

The Merger has returned to the shipping list, with 200 tons sent to the mill and it is expected that this rate of production will be kept up until the winze that was drowned out last winter is in shape to add a quota of high-grade to the output. This will enable the company to ship to the smelter. The tonnage of the camp is growing and last week the shipments showed an aggregate of 11,240 tons, against 10,272 of the previous week, with an increase in value of $20,000.

With the Halifax beginning daily shipments of fifty tons it should not be long before the camp is back to the grand total of 12,000 tons weekly that was shown early in the winter.

PREMIER RUNS INTO RICH ORE.

Mine Operated by Local People Is Promising.

Amador Coal May Be Exploited Commercially.

Three Months' Dividends Over Half-Million.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GRASS VALLEY (Cal.) March 27.—The Premier Mining Company, composed of Los Angeles and Pasadena people, is meeting with encouraging results in developing the Premier mine, north of this city. Last week a shoot of rich ore was intersected, the quartz showing considerable free gold and indications favoring the near proximity of a large ore-body.

Tunneling will continue until the main ore-body is intersected, when lateral development will commence. It is said sufficient ore has been blocked out to keep a small mill in operation for three years, but the owners will delay the building of a plant until more comprehensive development has been effected.

The Premier was originally a gravel proposition, and the owners are preparing to give the old channel some attention. It is expected to tap the old river channel, which yielded rich surface returns in the early days of the camp. The holdings comprise 150 acres and approximately $50,000 has been expended by the company in securing ground and improvements. Jesse Butler is superintendent.

The Metals Recovery Company of Los Angeles is arranging to work extensively the old mine dumps in the vicinity of Dayton, Nev. The company has purchased several of the old dumps along the Carson River, and has commenced building a treatment plant.

Sampling of the dumps has shown the presence of considerable rich rock, much of the product having come from the old mines worked between Dayton and Virginia City, when ore assaying under $30 per ton received little attention.

After months of idleness the old mill of the Central Eureka, near Sutter Creek, has been placed in commission. The shaft was recently deepened to a point exceeding 3100 feet, and large bodies of milling quartz opened in the new workings. It is reported the vein structure is less broken in the new levels than in the upper workings, and that values are well maintained, an experience that has attended most deep work in this district.

The Tuolumne Deep Channel Mining Company has commenced opening Sledge Gravel mine, near Confidence, recently taken under bond and option. The property is traversed by an ancient gravel channel overlaid by a huge capping of lava. Sufficient work has been done on portions of the group to prove the existence of the channel, and the new operators will determine the depth and extent of the channel.

A Los Angeles company which recently acquired the O.K. group of quartz claims, adjoining the noted Tarantula mine, has commenced operations. The old workings are being cleaned out and opening of new ground will start in a few days. The group comprises three patented claims; some good ore is blocked out in the old workings.

MAY EXPLOIT COAL.

There is a distinct probability that the coal resources of Amador county will be commercially exploited on a large scale in the immediate future. The Ione Coal and Iron Company is negotiating for the sale of its coal output to a syndicate being formed to manufacture briquettes from the product. The coal has for several months found a ready market in neighboring towns and the Ione mine has for years been the principal coal producer in the central portion of California.

An example of the luck sometimes attending the prospector was given last week when after a long period of persistent work C. C. McDonald discovered bonanza ore near Redding. For years McDonald has been working claims on Mule Mountain, four miles west of Redding. Six months ago he resumed regular winter activities after a brief season of inaction, and now reports the discovery of a shoot four feet wide, averaging around $400 per ton. The strike was made on the Midnight claim and so satisfactory are conditions that McDonald has arranged for the immediate construction of a five-stamp mill, which will treat ore from the Midnight and an adjoining property, the Lucky Boy.

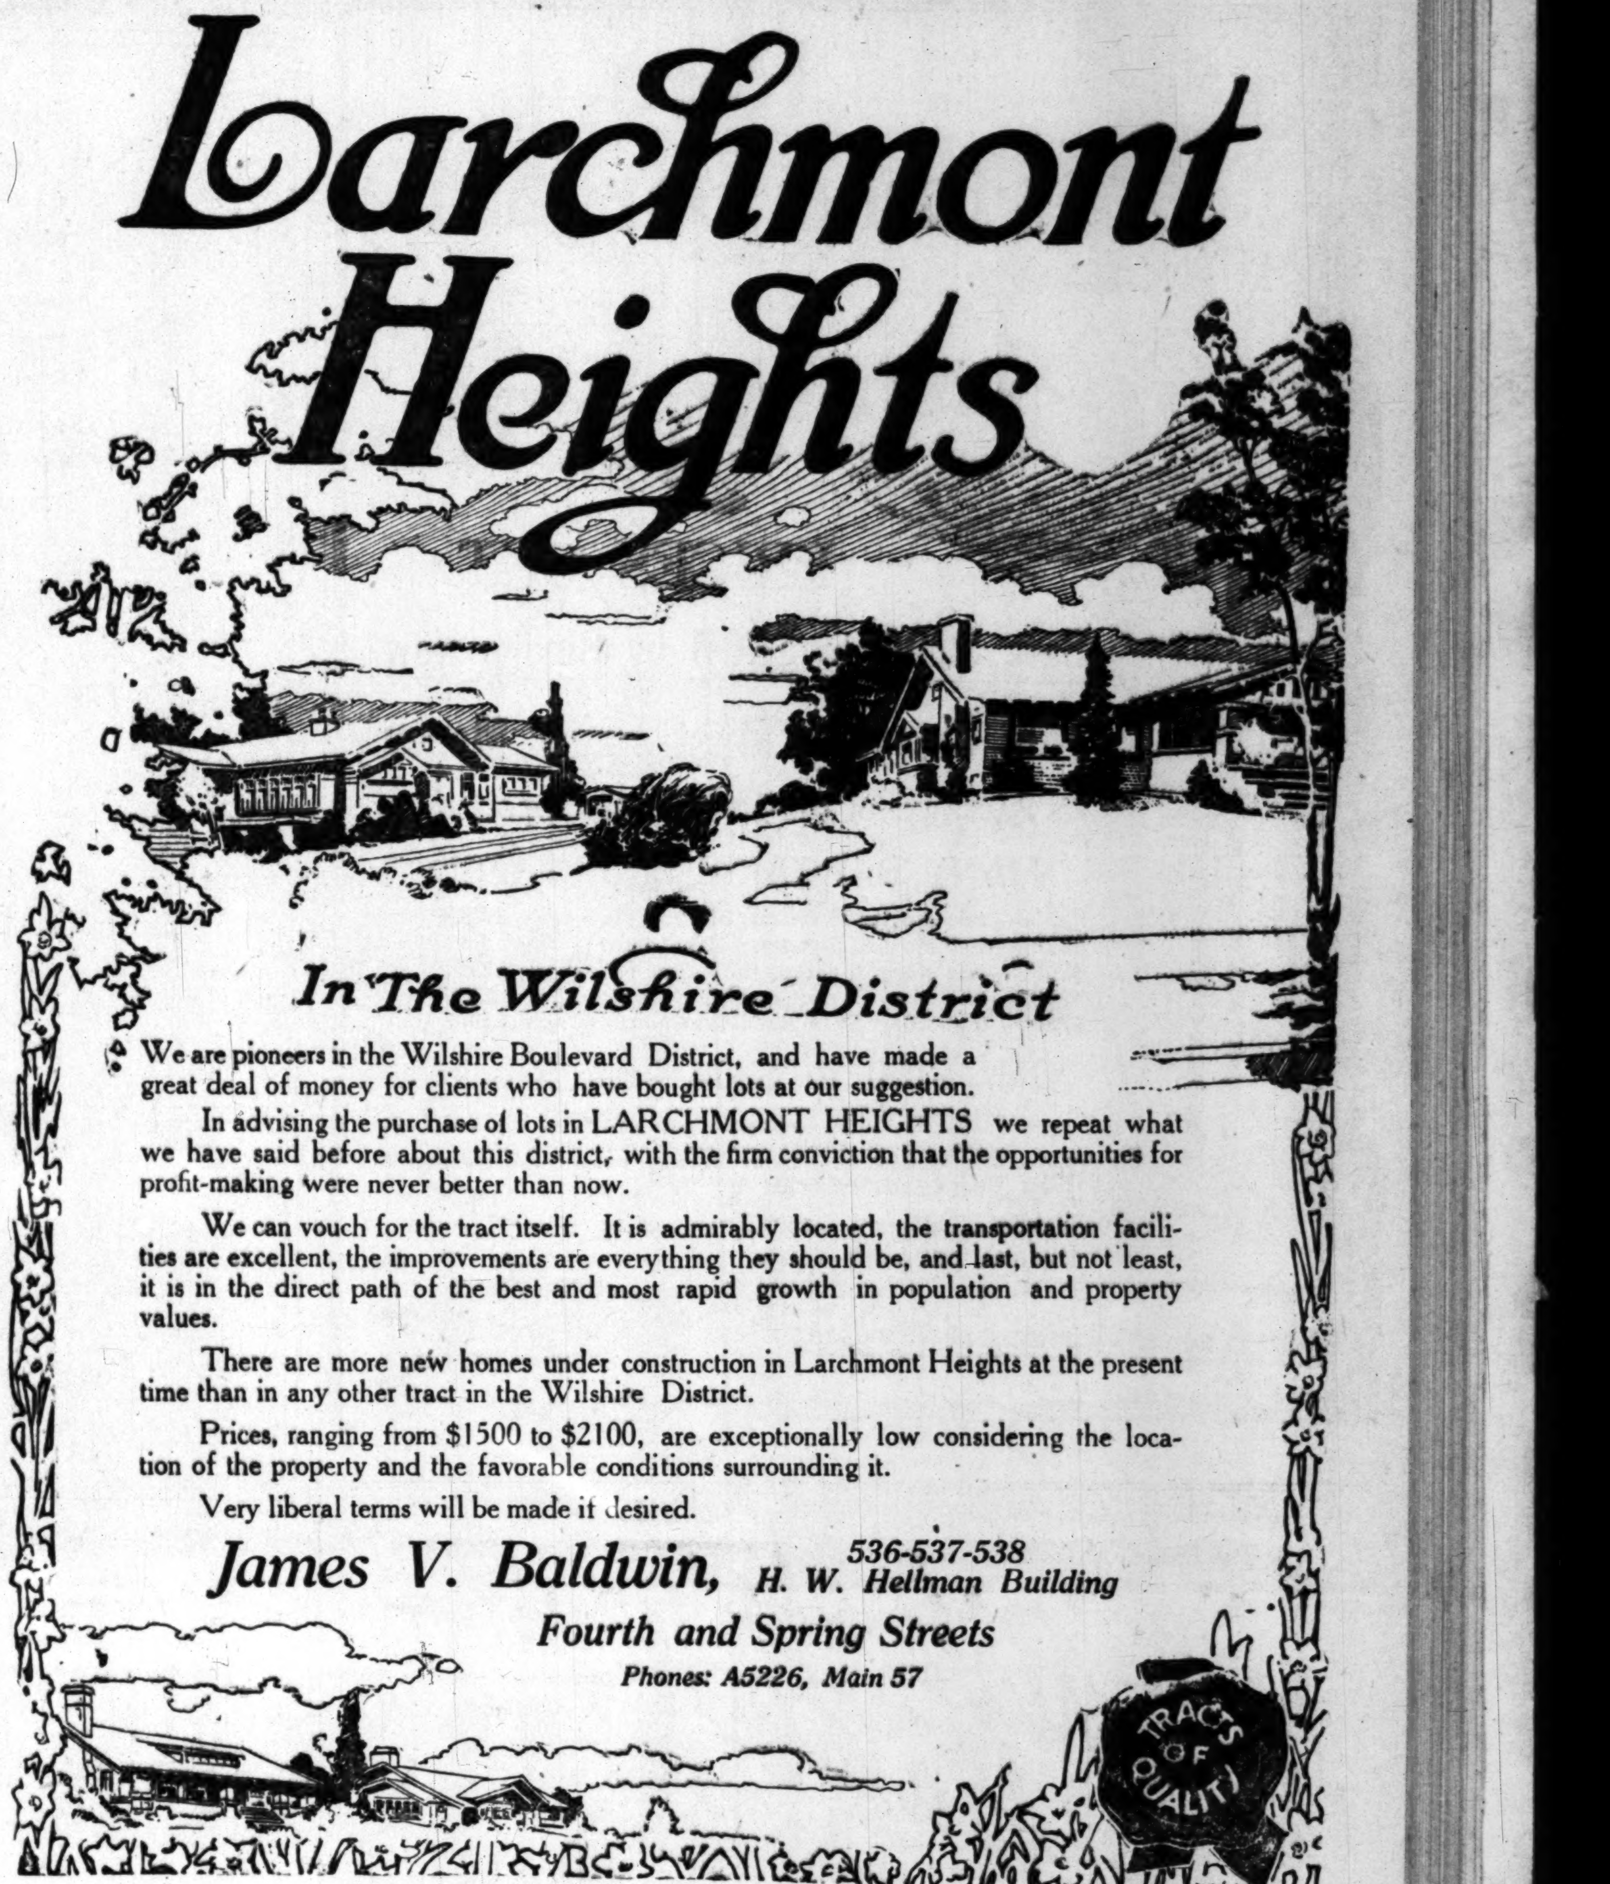
DIVIDEND ESTIMATE.

It is estimated that dividends disbursed by California gold mines in the first three months of the present year will exceed $600,000. Most of this money was disbursed by the quartz gold producers, including the North Star, $50,000; the South Eureka, about $82,000; the Gladstone, $27,000; the Bunker Hill, $15,000, and many others.

Several private companies known to be earning good profits, such as the Empire and Pennsylvania, at Grass Valley, and the Kennedy, Jackson district, are averse to publishing profits, consequently no data is available on which to base accurate estimates. The placer mining companies distributing generous dividends include the Yuba Consolidated Goldfields, Oroville Dredging, Yosemite Dredging, and several other companies. Several copper and quicksilver companies also distributed profits.

Developments at the Globe mine, near Dedrick, Trinity county, in which several Southern California people are interested, continue highly satisfactory. With the approach of summer the company is planning the development of additional ground outside the main group. The twenty-stamp, all-sliming plant is operating at top capacity and conditions generally are thoroughly satisfactory. Wallace Macgregor, formerly connected with the Nevada-Goldfield Reduction Company, is general manager.

George Meesey of Los Angeles and David F. Degan of Kansas City, Mo., are examining the Comet mine in the Jerseydale section, Mariposa county. The property has been extensively developed and is equipped with an excellent plant, including a ten-stamp mill, concentrators and assay office.



Larchmont Heights

In The Wilshire District

We are pioneers in the Wilshire Boulevard District, and have made a great deal of money for clients who have bought lots at our suggestion.

In advising the purchase of lots in LARCHMONT HEIGHTS we repeat what we have said before about this district, with the firm conviction that the opportunities for profit-making were never better than now.

We can vouch for the tract itself. It is admirably located, the transportation facilities are excellent, the improvements are everything they should be, and last, but not least, it is in the direct path of the best and most rapid growth in population and property values.

There are more new homes under construction in Larchmont Heights at the present time than in any other tract in the Wilshire District.

Prices, ranging from $1500 to $2100, are exceptionally low considering the location of the property and the favorable conditions surrounding it.

Very liberal terms will be made if desired.

line on West Sixth street, three miles out to Melrose avenue. The line cost $59,000 and was turned over to the Los Angeles Railway Company upon the company's agreement to keep it in operation.

Several hundred acres of the purchase by Baldwin's syndicate have been converted into homes and improved tracts. He still retains 200 acres, which will soon be subdivided. A deal for fifty acres of this tract is now pending.

All the tracts have uniformly high-class improvements and restrictions. All the lots are large and two and three-story houses predominate over bungalows.

Other men who were prominently identified with Baldwin with the early development of the district are David Barry and the Briggs Company. The first tracts to be subdivided by the Baldwin syndicate were the Copenhagen, Normandie Hill and Wellington Place tracts. Kensington Place, Westborough and Van Ness Avenue Square were sold to other agents and improved by them. All these tracts are now almost solidly built up and the trend of development has been westward.

There are many reasons for the present activity in the district aside from the general growth of the city. Costly improvements have been made in tracts now ready to be placed on the market and new subdivisions are projected. The building of tunnels through First and Second streets is assured, as well as important street improvements on First street and other important arteries of travel through the northern part of the Wilshire district and to Hollywood.

The growing prominence of the fashionable close-in hotel district just west of Westlake Park and in the eastern edge of the Wilshire district has also contributed to the conditions which real estate men believe indicate a period of activity and growth in the next twelve months greater than any that has preceded it in the entire region.

The hotel men are claiming site after site in the vicinity of Westlake and Sunset Parks and are gradually, but surely, replacing the beautiful homes of this "original Wilshire district" with splendid hostelries and apartments that compare in elegance with those of the metropolis itself. Sites in the vicinity are at a big premium as the result of this kind of improvement activity, and a strikingly apparent effect has been the expansion out Wilshire and to the north and south of that boulevard of the highest class of residential development.

The impetus to the Wilshire district due to the successful agitation for the great Silver Lake Parkway cannot be overstated. The assessment rolls are now being prepared for this epoch-marking public improvement, and it will be only a question of months until work upon the parkway will be started.

The so-called Bimini slough, a swampy ravine extending from Sixth street to a point well north of Sunset boulevard, has always constituted an obstacle to the development of what, but for its presence, would long ago have been one of the most attractive portions of Los Angeles. The park department has completed plans for the transformation of this unsightly natural barrier to progress into what will probably be the most beautiful parkway for its length in the United States. Through its wooded slopes will extend a boulevard linking Wilshire boulevard with Elysian Park and the highways to Pasadena.

It is a foregone conclusion that the undeveloped holdings around Silver Lake will soon become highly desirable for the better class of homes, thereby assuring the early filling in of the entire close-in residence area northward from Wilshire boulevard between Occidental boulevard and Alexandria street, a district that has heretofore suffered on account of Bimini slough. The carrying of the West First-street boulevard across the parkway will bring about the compact building up of another part of the North Wilshire district that has been comparatively inaccessible because of the lack of through east-and-west streets.

Careful observers predict that it will soon be hard to tell just where the North Wilshire district leaves off and Hollywood begins, so sure is the advancement of this large and sightly area as the result of the improvements under way and contemplated. The subdividers are wisely laying out streets that shall be continuous with established thoroughfares on both sides of the rapidly-closing gap, foreseeing the time when everything north of Wilshire boulevard to the Hollywood foothills will be one unbroken development. Meanwhile the foresight of those who have anticipated the filling in of the area north of Wilshire by buying the unsubdivided acreage west of the city limits is being rapidly justified. The term "Wilshire district" is already beginning to apply to a wide strip of land stretching westward along the county highway extension of Wilshire boulevard to the very edge of Santa Monica itself.

NEW SCHOOL NEEDED.

At a special election April 7 voters of the Alhambra-Ramona district will express their opinion on a bond issue of $250,000 to erect new schoolhouses in that part of the San Gabriel Valley. Of this amount $40,000 is for a handsome grade school for Ramona Acres, which a few years ago was only undeveloped acreage. By reason of its rapid settlement with bungalows and houses it has been difficult to keep pace with the school problem. Every building put up for school purposes has quickly been filled, until now there is an imperative demand for the contemplated $40,000 building to house the grammar grades of the district.

Goldfield Consolidated.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company was held last Monday at Evanston, Wyo. It resulted in the re-election for the ensuing year of the entire board of directors. The annual reports of the various officers, submitted at the session, showed the company to be in excellent condition. The report of President George Wingfield showed that at the beginning of the present year the cash balances of the company totaled $1,074,372.12, with bullion and miscellaneous products settlements outstanding of $161,217.05.

According to the report of the secretary and treasurer, A. H. Howe, the gross production of the company's ground up to January 1 last was 1,778,304 tons, of an average value of $33.44 a ton, and a total gross value of $59,475,201. Of this production, $11,200,000 was made by lessees in the early days of the camp and $2,700,000 was made by the constituent companies prior to their acquisition by the present company. The gross production by the present company has been, therefore, approximately $45,575,000. Up to January 1 last the company had paid dividends amounting to $26,330,470.60.

It was officially announced Thursday that President George Wingfield concluded Wednesday in Reno with the Jesse Knight interests of Utah, a deal for an option upon 80 or a greater per cent. of the stock of the Aurora Consolidated Mining Company, operating at the old camp of Aurora, in Mineral county, Nevada. The negotiations for the option had been pending about a month.

The Aurora Consolidated mine is a low-grade proposition with a large tonnage of ore blocked out. A mill is being erected on the property at present. If the option is exercised the mine will be operated under the direct management of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company.

being paneled to door height and the frieze and ceiling being of the same valuable wood. The ceiling itself is designed in panels four feet square. The living-room, of the same wood and opening from the hall, will be finished in a similar manner, excepting that in addition to the heavy mahogany beams there will be a wood cornice extending out two feet from the wall.

The dining-room will be finished in Circassian walnut, being paneled to a massive cornice extending two and a half feet on the ceiling. Great beams will extend entirely across the room, which will be of like size with the hall and living-room. A sideboard and recessed china cupboards will occupy one whole side of the room.

Both living-room and dining-room will be to the left of the main hall and will open into a sunroom or loggia at the extreme end of the house. To the right of the main hall will be the library, an ample stair hall, a morning-room, a cloakroom and the service hall, the latter including the kitchen, pantries, a refrigerating-room and servants' dining-room, kitchen and porch.

The library will be in Circassian walnut and will have built-in bookcases. The stair hall will be finished in mahogany and the morning-room in light French gray enamel.

The feature of the second story will be a hall 60x11 feet in dimensions, from which will open the various rooms. There will be three principal bedrooms, each with private dressing-room and bath. On the same floor will be servants' quarters comprising four bedrooms and two baths. The bedrooms will be in white enamel, with paneled base and First Empire cornice.

The doors throughout the house will be of the French type, as will also the windows. The doors of all the secondary rooms will be unique in that they will be backed with plate mirrors, an idea borrowed by the owner during a recent visit in Paris. Gen. Spitzer is the possesor of one of the rarest and most valuable art collections in the country, these paintings being now at "Collingwood," his Toledo mansion. The paneling of the various rooms of the Andrews-boulevard place has been so designed as to permit of the hanging of the art treasures in the builder's Los Angeles home.

The completeness of the plans is revealed in the drawings for the basement and the garage, the former of which is to be entirely finished for use, with elaborate provisions for heating, ventilation, vacuum cleaning and laundry facilities. The garage will be in architectural keeping with the house and will be 73x32 feet in size.

Half of the building will be given over to the machine-room, which is to be wainscoated in brown glazed tile, all woodwork being in oak. The rest of the structure will be occupied by the caretaker of the place, being divided into a complete living suite and an office. The finish will be in quartered oak and white enamel.

STARTS CHALET.

Howard G. O'Hara has started a chalet bungalow on the west side of Wilton place between Temple street and Elmwood avenue, in The McCarthy Company's Wilton Heights tract. Six new houses are in course of construction at the present time in this property, according to the tract managers.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VER (Colo.) March 28.—A rib- n of shining steel strikes west- rd from Denver to the front of the Rockies, pierces hills d granite, winds among moun- tops from which are afforded vistas of peak and plain, along the eyebrow of an abyss, glides among summer flowers and nal snow fields on the crest of continental divide.

e hours' ride, sixty miles of nt—and the trick is done. The stands at an elevation of 11,660 above sea level. At that point track is the highest standard- railroad in the world.

e line winds westward through pleasant mountain park, slips gh the red grandeur of Gore on, turns north to the fertile River Valley, passing in all gh fifty-seven tunnels, into an re for which a king would risk heritage, in its virgin state, and rd to Salt Lake City.

h is the Moffat road, known on ad time tables as the Denver and Lake Railroad.

TUNNEL 6.04 MILES.

h the completion of the link be- n Steamboat Springs and Salt City it will be the shortest trans- ental route by four hours. When Moffat tunnel, 6.04 miles in length, en under James Peak, twenty- miles of 4 per cent. grade will been eliminated, the elevation have been lowered 2431 feet, and road will be practical at all times the year—as it was conceived in brain of its creator.

it stands today the Moffat road the uncompleted dream of Colo- 's master builder, David Holliday at. His was the vision, the genius the daring that encompassed this eering marvel.

offat would have lived to see the m realized had it not been that railroad magnates threw obsta- in his way more obdurate than granite mountains he tunneled. western financier, with his pal- $10,000,000, played against the of Wall street. He lost most of fortune. He lost his life eventual- victim of financial worry, while ing to put through a deal to push road onward a few miles more. David H. Moffat had done gh to insure the realization of dream. The people of Denver on ruary 17, 1914, voted to enter into ntract with the new owners of Moffat road, which insures success st.

$3,000,000 BONDS VOTED.

e Moffat tunnel commission, an nt of the government of the city Denver, will have charge of the truction of the tunnel. The sale $3,000,000 bonds voted by the peo- virtually has been arranged for. that remains is the settlement of it brought by a taxpayer, one l A. Lord, which will test the ty of the bond issue.

Lord's suit, while not a friendly one, set at rest for all time the right e city to issue the bonds, and in opinion of Denver lawyers, there t the slightest doubt that the Supreme Court will uphold the of the election.

ork on the tunnel will begin as as these details are disposed of, h, it is declared, will be within days.

eastern portal of the Moffat l will be on an air line, 37.5 due west of Denver, and three west of the little town of Tol- Over the operated line of the er and Salt Lake road this portal be approximately fifty miles from er.

e west portal is 6.04 miles from east portal, thus making the con- plated Moffat tunnel the longest on the western hemisphere. The nce between the two portals over line operated now is thirty-two therefore the Denver and Salt , by virtue of the tunnel, will 28.96 miles in actual distance, addition to the great saving in mo- power.

EXTENDS UNDER ROCKIES.

e tunnel will extend through the nental divide under James Peak, of the stately promontories of Rockies. The highest point of the as operated now in its windings the peak is 11,660 feet. The imum altitude of the road through tunnel—the apex of the roadbed h will be near the center—will 9229 feet, or 2431 feet lower than maximum of the present road.

e average grade of the road r the mountain" is 4 per cent. The ge through the tunnel will be fourths of 1 per cent.

e saving in motive power thus d will be enormous.

e average grade of the Denver Salt Lake to Salt Lake City, when pleted under the new plan, will pare favorably with that of the roads which will be its rivals— Union Pacific and the Denver and Grande. However, the gain in age over the shortest route now existing—the Union Pacific—will be seventy-three miles.

SHORTER THAN RIVALS.

Here is the mileage of the two roads now operating between Denver and Salt Lake City and the one which in a few years will be in operation:

Union Pacific	628 miles
Denver and Rio Grande	742 miles
Denver and Salt Lake	555 miles

The tunnel's dimensions, considering only the railroad, are to be: Length, 6.04 miles; width, 18 feet; depth, 24 feet.

But, as the city of Denver has reserved the perpetual rights for water piping, either the width or the depth necessarily will be changed. This question will not be decided until the final plans are drawn.

There are two ways in which the city may pipe water through the tunnel from the Fraser River, which lies just beyond the divide from Denver.

One plan, apparently the most popular just now, is to make the tunnel wider and extend pipes on either side on a level with the road. The other (and this may eventually be adopted) is to excavate on either side and below the level of roadbed. This would not necessitate the widening of the tunnel nor would it change the original level of the road.

It is estimated that it will take about three years to complete the Moffatt tunnel. The Denver and Salt Lake Railroad has announced that the $1,500000 which it is required to add to the city's $3,000,000 under the bond issue agreement is now available. Newman Erb, the road's president, recently returned from Europe, where, he announced, he obtained the necessary financial support, not only for the tunnel but to extend the road to the Utah emtropolis.

ROAD IS READY TO ACT.

Under the agreement with the city of Denver the line must be built and operating into Salt Lake City within five years after the completion of the tunnel. However, it is considered certain that the company will have its tracks laid to Salt Lake by the time the tunnel is finished.

In providing financial aid to the road the city of Denver has retained not only perpetual rights to pipe water from beyond the divide, but has reserved perpetual rights to whatever minerals may be found in making the bore, as well as to the use of the bore as a power and light conveyor. Many believe it almost certain that rich veins of ore—possibly gold—will be struck.

The city's $3,000,000 bond issue runs for fifty years. The railroad company has the right to take up these bonds at maturity and has created a sinking fund for that purpose. If, however, the bonds are not taken up by the road within the time limit, the city of Denver reserves the right to take over the tunnel and operate the trains that run through it.

The Moffatt Tunnel Commission consists of Jesse E. Fleming, chairman; C. MacA. Willcox and J. C. Helm. These men will award the contract and will supervise in every way the handling of the $4,500,000 used in the construction of this great piece of engineering.

David H. Moffatt came within five years of seeing his dream an accomplished fact.

The story of the Titanic struggle, the foundation laid for it, the lesser visions upon which his great dream of putting Denver on the main transcontinental artery of the county were builded—these things are interwoven with the romance of Colorado's birth and growth. It is the story of a second Rhodesia and a second Cecil Rhodes.

A few words will suffice to cover the early history of David H. Moffatt. He was born in Orange county, New Jersey, July 22, 1839, of Scotch-Irish ancestry. At 12 years of age he started business life as a messenger in a New York bank. At 16 he had become assistant teller of the New York Exchange Bank. When he was 17 he was cashier of an Omaha bank.

Moffatt went to St. Joseph, entering into a partnership with C. C. Woolworth. The two decided to start a stationery store in Denver, a strange idea for a frontier settlement.

Moffatt started across the plains with six wagons and mule teams, driving one himself. He passed over burning plains and through herds of buffalo that covered the plains as far as the eye could see.

On St. Patrick's Day, March 17, 1860, he reached Auraria, the first settlement on the present site of Denver. The town was a revelation to his eastern eyes, prepared though they were by life in Omaha and St. Joseph. Log cabins, board shanties and tents were mingled in nondescript fashion.

Across Cherry Creek the tepees of Indians added to the savage appearance. Horses and mules and oxen were tethered along the haphazard streets. Antelope and buffalo often appeared on the surrounding prairie swells where Denver's finest residence section now stands.

It was the day of high-heeled riding boots, of red flannel shirts. Arms were as common as eating utensils. Flurries of excitement over gold discoveries were even then causing stampedes or secret departures from the infant city.

David H. Moffatt, a lad of 20, looked about him and decided that when he had made a fortune of $75,000 he would leave the uncouth and unsightly land and return to the East to enjoy the comforts of civilization.

HIS STORE PROSPERED.

But his stationery store prospered. In 1867 he became cashier of the First Ntaional Bank. In 1880 he became its president. In 1885 he was elected president of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad. Long before this he had forgotten the East.

Under Moffatt the First National Bank expanded—became the financial heart of Colorado Territory. To build up his bank Moffatt started to build up Denver. To build up Denver he reached out on every hand, projecting railroad lines.

As he sent these steel tentacles of commerce into the mountains and over the plains he fed the new camps that sprang up with the merchandise and supplies drawn from the East and later produced here. The first trains into every camp carried Denver's traders and merchandise.

But before the roads reached their destinations Moffatt had secured, with his associates, mining enterprises in the new camps and the first trains back bore him gold and silver ore.

The plan of David H. Moffatt, the builder, was as simple, yet as complete in detail, as that employed by the merchant princes of Jerusalem when the holy city was at its zenith. They loaded their camels with the products of Palestine and the then civilized world and sent them over the deserts of Arabia and Africa, into Persia and India and China.

When the caravans returned they brought rare fabrics from the East, frankincense and myrrh, ivory and jewels. There were no caravans, going or coming, that did not carry their bales of merchandise, no ships that furrowed the seas unladen.

FELT THRILL OF GOLD.

Moffatt sat in his bank, which under his management rapidly became the fiscal agent of the Territory of Colorado. His finger was on the pulse of industry. He was the first to feel the thrill of a great gold discovery hundreds of miles away in mountainous regions. He saw Gregory Gulch, Boulder, Leadville, Aspen, Creede and Cripple Creek—each a romance of the West—boom and die and boom again.

Moffat saw the millions made, almost overnight. Poor prospectors, who had nothing but the rough clothes in which they delved in the earth, suddenly built fine homes in Denver, and threw their money right and left with childish innocence of its value.

It was Moffat and his associates who gave Denver its first coal supply by building the railroad from Boulder to the Marshall coal fields. It was the same combination of men who in later years built Denver's water supply and organized its tramway system.

But his first step was to get Denver on a railroad map. The Union Pacific, fortified by congressional grants and government support, passed through Cheyenne, Wyo., 100 miles to the north.

BUILT LINE TO CHEYENNE.

With Gov. John Evans, the first Governor of Colorado territory, Moffat built a branch line to Cheyenne, called the Denver Pacific. The Union Pacific took the road over. This forced the construction of the Kansas Pacific into Denver. The first locomotive that steamed into the rough frontier town bore the name "David H. Moffat" on the engine cab.

When the Boulder mining boom started, Moffat and his associates secured the Carbou mine, in its time the greatest ore producer in the West.

Leadville startled the world with its carbonate hills. Moffat and his associates, chief among them Eben Smith, king of Colorado mining princes, were on the ground floor. They took over supposedly "worked-out" properties in the Maid and Henrietta. Both yielded heavy returns.

Moffat bought some dump ground for the Henrietta. It was discovered that this dump ground was a valuable mine. The Louisville, the Penrose, the Resurrection group, the Little Pittsburgh, which gave Senator H. A. W. Taylor his start toward millions, came into possession of the Moffat-Smith combination and yielded handsome profits.

THEN THE LEADVILLE BOOM.

It was when the Leadville boom started that Moffat and his associates built the Denver and South Park Railroad, a tremenous mountain line, 150 miles long, the most marvelous revenue producing road in the world in its time.

The first train carried machinery, stores, merchandise, adventurers, miners, fortune seekers, from all parts of the world. The first train back brought gold and silver ore from the Moffat mines to the Denver smelters.

As early as 1881 Moffat began to dream of greater conquests. He and associates began the construction of the Denver and New Orleans Railroad. They constructed from Denver to Pueblo. Gen. Granville Dodge of Iowa then joined the enterprise and the road was built to Ft. Worth. Now it is the Colorado and Southern, part of the Burlington system.

When Aspen sprang into prominence as a silver camp, Moffat put through the Aspen-Grand Junction branch of the Rio Grande.

When the Creede boom began Moffat, as president of the Denver and Rio Grande, advocated the construction of a branch over Wagon Wheel gap. The directorate of the Rio Grande laughed at him as a visionary. They had not learned that it was foolish to laugh at his visions. Moffat coined the phrase he later made famous.

"I'll build it myself," he said, and he did. The Rio Grande took over the branch. Needless to say, Moffat had mines in Creede.

Then followed the great gold excitement at Cripple Creek, when countless prairie schooners, hauled by oxen and mules, crawled across the plains, with the crazy legend upon the canvas tops, "Pike's Peak or Bust."

Moffat urged the construction of the Florence and Cripple Creek route and was laughed at again. Again he said, "I'll build it myself." Again the Rio Grande took the branch over. Now it is a far-famed scenic route.

With Eben Smith, Moffat bought the Victor mine at Cripple Creek for $25,000. In four years they had netted profits amounting to $750,000. They sold the mine for an enormous sum.

The Anaconda, the Golden Cycle and other famous Cripple Creek mines poured their golden toll into the Moffat coffers. In the six years during which he was president of the Rio Grande, Moffat standardized the line from Pueblo to Trinidad in the south and from Pueblo to Grand Junction in the west. He completed the circle route through Southern Colorado among the silvery San Juan peaks.

In all he was connected with nine railroad enterprises during his career.

The Moffat interests became the most powerful in Colorado. When it became known that they had entered a new region, other investors rushed in, confident that where the banner of the master builder flew, there was to be found wealth untold. When Moffat turned aside from some newly established camp it passed into obscurity.

HIS BANK THE LEADER.

Men looked for the First National Bank of Denver to lead the way to fortune and success.

Naturally the Moffat interests became a great political power, but Moffat time and again turned away the proffered honor of United States office, once as adjutant-general, when Senator. Only twice he held public Gov. Evans was in office, and once as State Treasurer under Gov. Elbert. He took these places only upon pressure and as a public duty.

In a personal way, Moffat was generous and his friendship was unswerving. He stood by his old friends in time of adversity. When the panic of 1893 paralyzed commerce and industry, it was the proud boast of Moffat that not a customer of the First National Bank went under. He liquidated $2,000,000 in gilt-edged government bonds, his personal holdings, and turned the money into the bank treasury.

When other banks foreclosed mortgages, Moffat extended credit.

A story is told in this connection of Frank Avery, president of the First National Bank of Ft. Collins. Avery came to Denver to get backing for his bank. Panic-stricken people were making runs on every bank in the State. Avery brought a grip full of gilt-edged securities. Though his bank was sound, the banks with which he had dealt would not guarantee his establishment. Then he went to Moffat and handed his securities to the master builder.

"I have never done business with your bank," said Avery, "but I may need your help."

DECLINED THE SECURITIES.

Moffat pushed the securities back without looking at them.

"I know your bank," he said. "Go back to Ft. Collins and if you need help telegraph. I will send you a telegram stating that the First National Bank of Ft. Collins will never go under until the First National Bank of Denver does. You can paste that notice on your front door."

On one occasion Moffat made a present of $100,000 to George Ross-Lewin, an officer of the bank. On another occasion he gave $75,000 as a present to another officer of the bank. A head waiter in the Hotel Belmont, New York, whose unostentatious manner had pleased Moffat once expressed a wish for a western ranch. The next day Moffat handed him a deed to a $15,000 ranch in Routt county.

This was the man and his work up to 1902, when, at the age of 63, the dream of placing Denver on the shortest transcontinental line and opening the empire of Routt county, took hold of him.

Since Moffat died in New York City, March 18, 1911, at the age of 72, harassed to his grave by the fight against his great dream, many have wondered why he undertook the construction of the Moffat road. They knew his business ability. They knew him as Colorado's greatest banker. They knew of the successes narrated above. But they could not see how he hoped to succeed with his most gigantic undertaking.

ROAD SEEMED ASSURED.

When Moffat first went East in connection with the Moffat road in the fall of 1902, he had the road absolutely assured. There was no chance about it. The plan was built upon as sound business principles as anything which he ever undertook.

Moffat arranged with the Hill-Morgan interests for the necessary support to complete the Moffat road. They promised him that they would see him through successfully.

The next year the road was started. At that time the Hill-Morgan and the Harriman interests were at war in the West. Harriman became alarmed at the prospect of a shortline in the hands of his enemies. Six months later he succeeded in forming the Great Northern Securities Company, formed by a pool of the Harriman and Hill interests.

The merger was afterward dissolved but by that time the Western policies of the transcontinental lines were formed so strongly that Moffat never could swing the Hill-Morgan interests back to his side. He also had gone so far in the construction of his road when the merger was formed that he could not stop.

Nine million dollars of his personal fortune went into the road, according to his closest friends. In spite of the opposition of the powerful railroad kings he raised money, now in one place, now in another, and pushed the road westward to Steamboat. Then the strain became too great. The iron constitution of the man was broken. He died, a victim of circumstances, but true to his dream until the last minute.

MONEY MASTERS WONDERED.

None but Moffat's closest associates know the story of that terrific struggle from 1903 until 1911. While the world marveled at the energy and engineering genius that built a standard gauge road over the highest point that any had ever reached, the money masters of Wall street wondered at the financial genius and indomitable will that overcame hidden obstacles they threw in his way.

The first 124 miles of the road cost $12,600,000. The people of Colorado remember the Gore canon fight, when the government stepped in and tried to block Moffat from the only pass through the Gore range into the empire of Routt county. He won that in the courts and the last physical obstacle was cleared away.

Almost the last words of Moffat were: "If I succeed in putting Denver on a through transcontinental line I will then think that I have done something for my State."

DREAM NOW REALIZED.

It is now the hour of realization. Had Moffat undertaken the construction of the Moffat road a few years earlier he would have succeeded. But his vast and varied interests were a detriment when it came to carrying out his dream. At his death he was interested in local utilities, in railroads, in mines, in banks, in the Equitable Life Assurance Company.

. . . .

Now Denver, the city of Muffat's adoption, for which he did so much, has inherited the dream and will carry it out to the end.

It means that tourists to the Coast will pass through this city when the Salt Lake connection is made and the tunnel bored. One of the most beautiful scenic trips in the world is over the Moffat road. Government reports show that the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of Routt and Moffat counties are as great as those of Pennsylvania, and the fields have never been fully surveyed or fully tapped.

Great natural outbreaks of coal, eighty and eighty-five feet high, can be seen in the coal regions beyond Steamboat Springs. This vast storehouse of fuel has not even been scratched.

Routt and Moffat counties are not surpassed anywhere in Montana, Wyoming or Idaho for grazing or farming purposes. The country is level and rolling, covered with abundant grass and excellently watered.

Beyond, in the Vernal country of Utah and in the Utah Valley, is one of the choice fruit sections of the West. Just across the line from Colorado are immense copper and iron beds, untouched by the miner.

Practically inexhaustible gilsonite beds exist in Utah along the projected line of the Moffat road. Now the gilsonite is shipped to Mack, on the Rio Grande Railroad, on a twenty-four mile mountain branch, from Dragon. The gilsonite beds are 130 miles from Dragon. It costs $22 a ton to place the gilsonite on the cars at Mack. Yet 52,000 tons were shipped out last year and that is not 20 per cent. of the possible annual output.

PURPOSE OF BOARDS.

[National Real Estate Journal:]

The object of a real estate board is to establish and standardize the business of real estate brokerage, so that it will obtain and hold the confidence and respect of both owners and purchasers; to maintain the dignity and responsibility of its members in their duty to the public; to institute rules for uniform commissions, customs and practice, so far as they may be reasonable; to cultivate good-fellowship among its members in their business of buying, selling, renting and managing real estate and loaning money thereon; to provide an organized center of effort for adequate and economic civic development; to procure just and even taxation; to promote such a system of law and administration as shall protect our citizens, encourage industry and attract the desirable population to which our condition entitles us; especially to guard and advance the interests of real estate ownership and leaseholds and to devise, advocate and support legislation calculated to improve our cities.

WHAT THE NEW TUNNEL WILL BE.

It will be the longest tunnel in the western hemisphere, 6.04 miles from portal to portal.

It will extend under the great continental divide thousands of feet below the crest of the Rockies.

It will be used for railway trains and for water pipes from beyond the divide to Denver.

Hog Raising at Patterson

Hog raising is exceedingly profitable on a Patterson Farm.

Alfalfa is an ideal food for growing hogs. L. D. Coburn, America's greatest hog expert, says "He who would raise swine to the best advantage, should have alfalfa. It possesses material for economic food production equaled by no other crop."

Eight crops of alfalfa a year can be grown at Patterson. Here hogs are fed alfalfa until a few weeks before sending them to market.

Hogs are in demand in California. Many carloads must be shipped in from the East each week. They are a money crop—can be turned into cash at any time—prepared for market at any season.

News From Cailfornia Oil Fields.

For Export Trade.

BIG TANKER IS DUE NEXT WEEK.

Oil Ship Barneson Soon to Be in Service.

New Union Vessel En Route to This Coast.

Millions Being Spent on Additions to Fleet.

The oil-carrying fleet on this Coast, which already this year has been considerably strengthened, will receive another important addition next month when the tanker Barneson of the General Petroleum Company is placed in service. This ship, which has a capacity of approximately 65,000 barrels, is due to arrive at Los Angeles Harbor April 7, having come around the Horn from England. It is named after the president of the company, Capt. John Barneson.

The Barneson will be the second ship placed in service by the General Petroleum. The De Sabla, named after the company's former president, and which arrived on this coast about two months ago, has already completed one round trip to South America with a cargo of oil, and about a week ago left with a second load.

This oil is being applied on contracts with the Union Oil Company, under an exchange arrangement, and is secured from the General Pipe Line at the harbor. The cargo just loaded will be the last which the De Sabla will transport for the Union for the present.

The vessel will then be used to fill certain contracts which the General Petroleum is making in the Northwest. L. N. Farnum of that concern has been in that section for several weeks for the purpose of securing new contracts, in anticipation of additional transportation facilities which the company will have at its disposal.

TANKER EN ROUTE.

The Union Oil Company's chartered tank steamer, the La Habra, left England about two months ago, and is due to arrive on this coast in about two months. This vessel, which is 65,000 barrels, is the third of four new chartered tankers of the Union to be completed. The fourth, the Lompoc, of the same capacity, will be finished in June.

Two vessels, the San Joaquin and the Elsinor, which recently arrived on this coast, have been placed in service. Both left from Port San Luis within the past two weeks for Chile, carrying oil cargoes. They also have capacity for 65,000 barrels each.

The six tankers which have been referred to—with the Associated Oil Company's Frank H. Buck and the Standard's J. A. Moffett, tankers with a capacity of 65,000 barrels—will increase the capacity of the oil-carrying fleet to the extent of over 250,000 barrels, making the total carrying capacity about 2,000,000 barrels. This means that if all the ships left Los Angeles Harbor at once they would carry with them that amount of oil—about one-quarter of the total production of the State during a month.

The aggregate cost of the eight new tankers will be about $4,000,000, but the expenditure of this amount of money will ease the export transportation situation greatly. The two tankers which the Union has just placed in service have helped that company to a marked degree. During the past few months the Union has been under the necessity of purchasing oil from the Mexican Petroleum Company to save time in filling its South American contracts, on account of the shortage of tankers.

If the business of the various companies keeps on increasing as it has in the past year, the relief afforded by the new tankers will be only of a very temporary character. But in anticipation of this the companies are already showing a tendency to make arrangements well in advance. The Union has placed an order for a tanker similar to the Frank H. Buck. It will be constructed at San Francisco and is due for completion in January, 1915, but it is expected to anticipate this time by several months. The parts are already being assembled.

Finishing touches are now being put upon the Associated's Frank H. Buck, which was launched a few weeks ago with considerable ceremony. This is the largest tanker thus far built under the American flag.

LEVIES ASSESSMENT.

Irish Dividend of Three Cents a Share on Pyramid—Company Starts New Well in North Midway.

The Pyramid Oil Company has levied an assessment of 3 cents a share on its capital stock. The assessment will be delinquent April 28. The company should raise over $35,000 by the assessment.

The following is a statement by the company regarding developments on its properties:

"A new well has been started on the North Midway property, seeking the big sand found in the State Consolidated well. The two properties corner, and the Pyramid well, No. 16, is located 1300 feet north of the State well. This is shallow territory, the State having struck sand at 870 feet.

On the east line and near the center of the lease the Pyramid will deepen No. 5, which stopped drilling at 1750 feet, having found no oil in the upper sand. This well is two locations from No. 4, which is a good pumper. The hole is in good condition to go ahead, with the eight-inch casing free. The lower sand should be encountered within 300 feet, according to logs of nearby wells.

"On the Central Midway property the Pyramid has one flowing well, No. 24, and is preparing to recement No. 1, which produced 200 to 250 barrels daily until the water broke in. The company will also try for a deeper sand on this property, on the advice of its geologist. Nothing is being done at the Santa Paula property beyond pumping the old and new wells, and the company does not contemplate further drilling operations here for the present."

Annual Meetings.

The Independent Oil Producers' Association will hold its annual meeting April 8, at Bakersfield.

The Mexican Petroleum Company will hold its annual meeting April 14, in this city. Books closed for stock transfer last Tuesday.

Stockholders of the Pure Oil Company will hold their annual meeting April 7, and will pass on levying an assessment.

SHIPS SIX CARLOADS.

Returns of Saint Anthony Mine for February to Total Over Three Thousand Dollars.

The Saint Anthony Mining Company shipped six carliods of copper-bearing ore last month from its property in the Yellow Pine mining district, Clark county, Nevada. Returns on five carloads, thus far secured, totaled over $2700.

The new company, which is headed by Josephy Dederichs, began operating the property about six months ago. Dederichs has been identified wtih mining and mill building in the West for a number of years. The company is capitalized at $1,000,000.

A report recently sent out by the company shows that shipments for 1913 aggregated about 1,750,000 pounds, showing net returns of over $24,000.

REPORT SHOWS LARGE OUTPUT.

RECORD OF DOHENY COMPANIES IN CADIFORNIA.

Annual Statement of California Petroleum Shows that Subsidiaries Have Produced Over Twenty-three Million Barrels of Oil Since Organization.

Up to the first of this year the properties of the Doheny companies in California, since their organization, had produced approximately 23,096,000 barrels gross of oil, according to a statement in the annual report to stockholders of the California Petroleum Corporation for year 1913, from E. L. Doheny, president of the company.

The gross production for the year of the California Petroleum Corporation for 1913 showed a falling off from the previous year, the total being 5,463,600, against 5,700,015 for 1912.

The report shows in part:

From twenty-six new wells brought in at different periods during the year 1913 there have been produced 599,663 barrels gross oil. Total number of wells producing December 31, 1913, was 141, as compared with 120 December 31, 1912. Twenty-one wells were shut in at the same date, however, as compared with seven the end of the preceding year. The production was adversely affected during the year by the influx of water in certain parts of the property.

The revenue from the sales of crude petroleum was $2,298,822 last year, while the sales of tops brought in $456,924. This compares with a revenue from the sales of crude petroleum of $2,472,569 in 1912, and returns from the sales of tops of $35,925. The total sales revenue was $2,755,746 in 1913, as against $2,508,494 in 1912. Contract No. 1 of the American Petroleum Company calling for a delivery of 5000 barrels of oil daily at approximately 61 cents per barrel has been filled and expired December 31. Delivery from the American Petroleum property is now being made under contract No. 2 at 50 cents a barrel.

The report goes on to speak of the success had with the American Oilfields topping plant, the acquisition of the Fullerton holding and the large well on the property of the Midlands Oil Company brought in this year.

One of the most important features is the remarks with reference to the exhaustion of the oil supply. It is stated:

"Charges for exhaustion of oil deposits were made against profit and loss, aggregating 10 cents per barrel on the gross production of 5,463,600 barrels, amounting to $546,360. Half of this sum or at the rate of 5 cents per barrel, was applied to the reduction of the property account, being at a rate more than sufficient on the basis of Ralph Arnold's appraisal of the property and estimate of the oil content, to amortize the preferred stock. The remaining half or $273,180 was set up as a special reserve not available for dividends on common stock and to be applied to writing down the value of the property account or such other uses as the directors may determine."

It is shown that the gross income from the properties during 1913 amounted to $2,885,188, from which was deducted $708,758, operating expenses leaving a net balance of $2,176,430, as previously reported in The Times. The earnings last year fell short of predictions made in the annual report for 1912, owing to the trouble with water in the wells. It is significant that no predictions are made in the report for 1913 as to the outcome of operations during the present year.

Near Completion.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BUENA PARK, March 27.—The large machine shop now under construction by the Standard Oil Company will be completed at an early date. This will make it possible for all of the heavy work appertaining to the leases on the Emory and Murphy holding to be done at this point, and will necessitate a larger force of workmen. At this time the number is over 400, while the pay roll aggregates approximately $50,000.

Realty transactions of considerable magnitude have been consummated during the past few weeks at prices greatly in advance of those asked before the oil discoveries throughout this territory.

NEW MEXICAN GUSHER.

National Oil Company Brings in Twenty Thousand-Barrel Well in Panuco Field.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

The National Oil Company, operating in the Panuco field, Mexico, recently brought in its No. 2 Chijol well, with a production estimated at 20,000 barrels a day, according to advices from Tampico. The famous No. 5 of the La Corona Oil Company continues to yield over 20,000 barrels a day. The flow is restrained as much as possible.

The ground storage in the Mexican fields has been increased to the extent of nearly 1,000,000 barrels during the past month, largely to take care of the Royal Dutch-Shell's big Corona well's output.

Greater attention than ever is attracted to the Mexican fields on account of the recent successes, and it is said that a large number of companies are preparing to operate. Meanwhile some inquiry is arising as to what disposal is to be made of all the oil.

For February.

BOTH SHOW A FALLING OFF.

Decrease in Production and Shipments.

Large Quantity of Oil Still Is Shut In.

Standard's Official Prices Reveal No Change.

Production and shipments of oil in California during the month of February both showed moderate decrease, as compared with the previous month. The daily average yield was 280,561 barrels during February, a decrease of 1274 barrels, according to figures given in the Standard Oil bulletin, issued last week. Shipments showed a decrease of 2677 barrels daily average. The bulletin states that it is estimated that the 14,000 barrels of production per day are shut in. Total crude oil stocks February 28 were 49,797,205 barrels, as compared with 49,308,560 barrels January 31.

Every important field in the State showed a decrease in production except Fullerton-Whittier, Los Angeles-Salt Lake, and Coalinga. The following tabulation reveals the output of the important producing districts for the two months and the increase or decrease shown:

	Feb.	Jan.	Dec.
Kern River	19,980	20,015	35
McKittrick	10,822	10,875	53
Midway and Sunset	132,598	133,822	1,224
Lost Hills and Belridge	14,312	14,626	314
Coalinga	44,480	43,758	*722
Lompoc and Santa Maria	11,989	13,140	1,151
Ventura county and Newhall	2,129	2,203	74
Los Angeles and Salt Lake	7,366	6,646	*720
Whittier-Fullerton	36,648	36,505	*143

*—Increase.

The bulletin gives the following resume regarding the field developments of the month:

"Outside of the Record Oil Company's No. 3 well on the northeast quarter of section 28, 31-23, in the North Midway field, developments during the month were not sensational. This well was completed on March 3, at a depth of 2840 feet, with a production of 2500 barrels, gravity 27.9 degrees. On March 6, the well fittings were carried away by the heavy pressure, and it is estimated that the well produced for several days at the rate of 15,000 barrels. At the date of writing the production is in excess of 7000 barrels daily.

"No. 3 well of the Obispo Oil Company in the Sunset district, completed in December and good for 10,000 barrels, is now producing 7500 barrels per day.

"In La Habra Valley, the best wells of the month were the Union Oil Company's No. 11, section 13, 3-10, which was completed to a depth of 3410 feet with a daily production of 1100 barrels, gravity 22 degrees, and the St. Helen's Petroleum Company's No. 3, on section 18, 3-9, completed at a depth of 3105 feet, with a daily production of 600 barrels, gravity 21."

LESS PRODUCERS.

There was a smaller number of wells producing by fifty-seven last month. About the same number was completed as the previous month. Thirty-three new rigs were up, as compared with twenty-seven in January, and 244 wells were drilling, as compared with 260.

Contrary to rumors which have been in circulation regarding the Standard advancing the price for oil, no changes are shown in the official price list in the bulletin. There appears no evidence except the aforesaid rumors that the company has paid more than 40 cents a barrel for heavy oil.

Production of oil for the first two months of this year exceeds the record for the same two months last year by 1,707,496 barrels, while shipments show a gain of 1,412,886 barrels. The surplus of production over consumption for January and February totals 986,166 barrels, and for the past six months a surplus of 1,847,327 barrels is shown. It seems conclusively established that this is due to the accumulation of light oil stocks, as heavy oil is still in demand.

Delinquent This Week.

Among the oil company assessments delinquent this week are the following:

Crafton Oil Company, 10 cents a share, delinquent Tuesday, sale date April 21.

Lost Hills Hanford Oil Company, 13 cents a share, delinquent Wednesday, sale date April 18.

Broadway Oil Company, 1 cent a share, delinquent Wednesday, sale date April 22.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO, March 27.—The Pitt Oil Company, which has a lease on a portion of the Harbor Oil Company's tract in the Palos Verde Hills, has commenced building a rig. The company is backed by Pittsburgh capitalists.

The Harbor Oil Company's test well has had casing trouble and consequently no adequate test has as yet been made. The showing is considered favorable, and following the repairing of the casing, the well will be given a thorough test.

CONTRACTING FOR LINE.

Royal Dutch-Shell Combine to Start Construction of Pipe Line Shortly, Is Report.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, March 27.—Reports are again in active circulation in this section that the Royal Dutch-Shell combine will begin construction upon its pipe line without delay, and it is said that preliminary steps in the letting of a contract have already been taken at San Francisco. The line will begin at the Continental lease of the General Petroleum Company in Midway field, and following along the general route of the Associated pipe line will terminate at San Francisco harbor, it is stated.

The reason for starting the line in the Midway field is easily discovered in the fact that the Royal Dutch-Shell combine contemplates the purchase of holdings in this section, beside oil production from operating companies.

The construction of the Royal Dutch line would mean a decided revival of activity in the fields, because of a new concern being in the market for oil. It is known that the great European combine contemplates the developing of a large market for fuel oil in Europe following the completion of the Panama Canal. The fact that they will enter the field as competitors of the other big companies should contribute further to strengthen the market for fuel oil.

The old Virginia Petroleum lease in McKittrick field has been taken over by the Associated Oil Company. The equipment is to be hauled to the North Midway property of the Associated.

The production of the Standard Oil Company in Midway and Coalinga is averaging about 30,000 barrels per day, while the company's total production in the State is about 40,000.

Progress Apparent.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, March 27.—The extensive development work predicted for the Whittier oil field when it became known that the Standard had secured the Murphy lease is already appearing in part here, both in the oil fields and in the city. Rapid progress is being made on construction of the office building here, which is to become the headquarters for the producing department of the southern field.

The Standard has already this month spudded in five new wells on the Murphy lease and one on the Emory lease. Standard No. 7 on the Emory lease is the most spectacular well ever brought in south of the Tehachepi.

The Standard has acquired an acre of land in the west part of town close to the Southern Pacific tracks.

TRADES FOR ORCHARD.

REDLANDS, March 28.—Real estate and building in this section show gratifying movement. The most important transaction of the week was the sale of a bungalow and lot with a 100-foot frontage on Parkwood drive, by C. M. Wade to J. A. Wilson. The value of the property was $5000. Figuring in the deal was a ten-acre peach and apricot ranch at Hemet.

on the rivers of interior Alaska. There is a fixed day, May 10, when the ice breaks up. We set a day, but, of course, nature often interferes with our calendar. The ice may begin moving out on May 8 or May 12. On October 10 the rivers are closed for the winter.

A MIGHTY SYSTEM OF RIVERS.

"Also I would like to say a few words about our interior rivers, seven in number, now navigated by large packet steamers. The government railroad is to connect them, you understand, with the southern coast. The Yukon, let me tell my fellow countrymen, discharges one-third more water than does the Mississippi. From St. Michael, its mouth, in Bering Sea, to White Horse, in Canada, is 2164 miles. This great stretch of the Yukon is always navigated in season. Freights from the railroad will reach the Yukon a month before the ice breaks up at St. Michael and before ships from San Francisco and Seattle can reach that port.

"Thus the railroad will lengthen the shipping season for freight over our entire system of interior waterways. We have 6000 miles of inland rivers, all navigable, which the new railroad will connect with our southern seaboard. It must be remembered that at present the Alaskan syndicate controls our whole transportation system—ships at sea and on the rivers, the little railroad from Cordova to its copper mines and the stage route from Chitina to Fairbanks. It brings our goods and machinery in and, after getting them in, sells them to us at monopolistic prices. The railroad, soon to be built, will break that utterly destructive monopoly. Independent ships will unload their cargoes at the Pacific terminus of the railroad. And independent boats will appear on our rivers. Furthermore, independent merchants will open stores in our towns and small settlements.

"The American people ought to know what the Alaskan syndicate charges for transporting the things we require in our work of t

Syndicate vessels carry grain and feed at $11 a ton from Seattle to Cordova, the port on the south coast. The freight on hay is $20 a ton, on hardware $12 a ton, on mining machinery $15 a ton and on coal $8 a ton. In length the haul is 1236 miles.

WHERE RAILROADS DO PAY.

"The grain, feed, hardware, machinery and coal are loaded on the cars of the syndicate railroad at Cordova and hauled 131 miles to Chitina. The price of that service is: Grain and feed, $25 a ton; hay, $20; hardware and mining machinery, $34; coal, $7. For the 131 miles from Cordova to Chitina the rate on hardware is $34 a ton. The rate on hardware from New York to Seattle, 3184 miles, also by rail, is $35 a ton! No, the syndicate is not afraid of coastal glaciers, nor of snow and ice. Yet I suspect it has created and spread, in speeches and magazine articles, a great deal of fear in this country about the climate of Alaska.

"Grain and feed having reached Chitina by water and rail, the freightage totals up to $36 a ton. The freightage on the hay amounts to $40, on hardware to $46, on mining machinery to $49—and on coal to $15. Now comes a haul of 310 miles to Fairbanks in syndicate sleighs over a wagon road, mark you, built by the national government itself for postal purposes. Lumping all the items together, the average charge at Fairbanks, on freight from Seattle, is $125 a ton. Hay at that price is pretty dear; so are all kinds of machinery and merchandise.

Ten Years; Does this Appeal to Yo

Ten per cent. interest—and an increase in property valuation of another ten per cent. every year for ten years, is certainly an investment attractive to anyone. Where else can you make such money as this on such limited capital? Where else can you invest your dollars where you know every natural and commercial facility for your consistent success has been made ready for you? Probably nowhere else in the world. Not even in the famous Valley of the Nile.

If you will consider for a moment the gigantic work now being done here on Nile-Land Farms—the additional irrigation canals being put in—the army of men and teams working incessantly in leveling, ditching and bordering our vast lands—then, and only then will you be able to grasp the full meaning of what this 47,000-acre tract represents to California and to the entire agricultural world. To take a trip in automobile over Nile-Land Farms is an education in itself—and an occasion never to be forgotten.

Imperial Valley land is, today, the most sought-for property in the State. About this American Nile many conflicting stories have been told. A great many crop reports, seemingly unbelievable and purely unfounded, have been spread abroad, yet one needs only to make a trip into Imperial Valley and investigate the conditions and harvests to find that most of the stories are true. * * * We know that W. P. Mansfield cleared $20,000.00 from his 320 acres of cantaloupes last year; that L. F. Farnsworth netted $250 an acre from his grapefruit; that Al. Heydlouff in only 8 years' time has been able to acquire some 1000 acres of land said to be worth $250.00 an acre; and that much alfalfa and barley land is actually being rented out at from $20 to $35 an acre.

Nile-Land Farms Your Opportunity!

In Nile-Land Farms we offer to discriminating buyers some of the finest dairy land in the world. Alfalfa and barley grow here in marvelously quick time, 6 to 8 cuttings of the finest feed grown anywhere; the greatest irrigation system in the country is here, providing an inexhaustible, unlimited quantity of fine, fresh water for you at less cost than water is to be had in any other section of California; sunshine is here practically every day in the year—and the land has proved itself to be the richest, most productive in the univer

ED WALSH IS BACK IN FORM.

Allows Only One Blow in Five Innings.

After that the Tigers Lick Eddie Cicotte.

White Holds Former Mates to Lone Single.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Chicago should begin to feel right chipper.

The prospects for a successful season in the breezy burg brightened considerable yesterday, when Ed Walsh made good his threat of long standing to "come back."

To make it perfectly clear that he had recovered his pitching genius, the "Big Moose" allowed only one hit in the five innings that he worked. Subsequently, the Tigers heaped certain indignities on Eddie Cicotte and ultimately established Venice on the succulent end of a 3 to 2 score, but that part of the affair does not interest Chicago, as they figured long ago that the opening of the season would find Eddie in shape to repeat his performance of last season.

With Walsh and Cicotte gunning for the Sox and White and Powell pushing 'em over for Venice, the game bore a close resemblance to an honest-to-goodness big league affair.

Both of Chicago's runs were made off Powell, and scratch hits figured prominently in both of them. White, who worked the last four innings, allowed only one hit. The way things are going now, the Sox will draft "Doc" along about next September. Carlisle tripled off Walsh in the first inning, Ed's arm not yet having attained full headway. Walt was later hounded to death between third and home on Kane's drive to Weaver. Further than that the Tigers were unable to fathom Ed's damp delivery, but errors by Collins and Lord nearly caused him a bushel of trouble in the second. The high wind caused Collins to misjudge Hosp's fly, and after finally locating the ball, he failed to squeeze it. Walsh hit Borton before "Babe" had a chance to duck him. Litschi bunted to Lord, and Harry, acting in great haste, heaved wild to Chase, Hosp going to third and Borton to second.

Right at this point Collins repaired the damage. Bliss put a fly in right, Hosp lighting out for the plate after the catch. Collins catapulted to Daly with perfect precision, and Franz was nailed so far that he refused to soil his bloomers by making a hopeless slide. Powell popped to Lord for the final out.

Again in the fifth, Walsh was forced to pitch himself out of an acute situation. Ed made trouble for himself by fumbling Bliss's dinky grounder, Wilhoit, batting for Powell, sacrificed, and Walsh soiled Carlisle's shirt front with a "spitter." Leard forced Walter at second, and Kane fouled to Lord.

Walsh, having satisfied his curiosity regarding his condition, here packed up his worldly goods and beat it to the shower stadium.

Cicotte took hold, and the Tigers proceeded to even up the two-run lead which Chicago had commanded since the fourth.

Eddie got by the first two batters in the sixth. Bpt just as he was beginning to feel safe, Borton whammed a "knuckle" ball to center for one base. Litschi doubled over Russell, who never was designed by nature to be an outfielder, and Borton scored. Singles, slammed through the box with great gusto by Elliott and White, put Litschi around. Carlisle sought to inflict further violence, but Hal Chase would not have it so.

Leard's single, a passed ball, Kane's

Results of "Southern Invasion" of Berkeley.

Drew's Remarkable Time Is Ruled Out.

Pritchett's Great Two-Mile Sensation.

BY HOMER HAVERMALE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERKELEY, March 28.—Two surprises were sprung at today's double-header meet when Occidental failed to annex more than 22 points, and when the Blue and Gold freshmen came perilously near walking away with the big end of the Trojan score.

Final results gave the varsity 100, Occidental 22.

U.S.C., 66 1-3; California freshmen, 55 2-3.

Drew, the U.S.C. sprinter, pulled off the most spectacular event of the day when, following a poor start, he tore down the 100-yard straightaway in 9 3-5s. Every one of the five watches that caught the time of this remarkable runner registered the same, but, because of a slight wind that was blowing down the track, P.A.A. officials who were present refused to allow the time.

"Dad" Moulton states that the slight wind had almost ceased when the gun sounded, and that in spite of the action of the P.A.A. representatives, the time is legitimate and correct. Drew received an ovation from the California bleachers at the conclusion of his race.

BERGSTROM INJURED.

Kelly came through in his usual manner, bringing his college 14 points besides running a lap in the relay. He did not cover the high sticks with the speed which was anticipated, and he only landed third in the shot put, but he redeemed himself by taking first in the broad jump.

Bergstrom had no trouble in taking the pole vault at 12ft. 6in. He attempted to break the Coast record of 13ft. and on his last trial lost control and fell, injuring his ankle. It was necessary to carry him from the field.

Toward the close of the U.S.C.-freshman contest, with only the pole vault and the relay to be heard from, the score stood U.S.C. 55, freshmen 53. The 1917 men were wild, for, with the possible splitting of points in the pole and the uncertainty of what might occur in the relay, they saw a

RUESS TAKES ON A NEW AGENCY.

William R. Ruess, Southern California Pope-Hartford and King distributor, is also agent for the Stearns-Knight.

This announcement was made by J. H. McDuffee, western manager for the F. B. Stearns Company, yesterday, after receiving a wire from the Cleveland factory which stated that the William R. Ruess Company was to handle the Stearns-Knight line in Southern California.

The deal has been hanging fire for some time and McDuffee and Ruess had spent a great deal of time together before the latter went east, to close the deal, leaving Bert Dingley in charge of the business here.

TROUT FISHERMEN PUT TOO MUCH ON AUTOS.

Sporting Experts Give Practical Instruction in Packing Camp Outfits for Motor Car Travel and in the Selection of Equipment for Opening of the Trout Season Next Wednesday.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

TROUT fishing parties have used the automobile for many occasions, but the motor car has not always made good.

The cause of the automobile's failure has been discovered. Fishermen have not loaded their cars properly. Pleasure machines have been loaded down like motor trucks. It was not the weight which causeu trouble for the fishermen, but in many cases the manner in which the camp outfits were packed.

Many sportsmen want to know just how to pack an automobile with a trout outfit. This really is a simple matter, according to Bernal Dyas, of the B. H. Dyas sporting goods concern. Dyas has made a study of the use of automobiles for fishing, hunting and general outing purposes, and has come to the conclusion that the car has been abused.

"A large percentage of our sportsmen overload their cars," said Dyas when interviewed on the subject. "The auto has accomplished great things and motorists seem to be of the impression that there is no limit."

H. W. Tuttle of the Howard Automobile Company, is considered an authority on automobiling outing subjects, and he has planned to try out Dyas's theory on opening day of the trout season.

Three Buick machines are to be used. These machines were loaded for demonstration purposes last Thursday afternoon, before a large crowd of local fishermen, who drive cars.

Dyas and Tuttle both agreed that the great mistake has always been that the fisherman has stocked up with too much equipment. A party of two, going out in a small stripped car or roadster, carried enough equipment for the Mexican standing army. Five fishermen in a small touring car have been guilty of loading down with an outfit suitable for a summer in the African jungle, and, according to Dyas, sportsmen who have gone out six strong, in large touring cars, have taken enough furniture on a two or three days' trip to supply a summer hotel.

When a man goes into a sporting goods store for his trout outfit, he should tell how many are to be in his party. Everything in the line of camp equipment is now being made for the convenience of the motorist.

No longer is it necessary for the fisherman to pack his machine with a heavy load of canned goods. Enough soup to supply a party of six for a week may be carried in a coat pocket. Tea and coffee is put up in small cans. There is no need for a dozen camp lanterns. The lights on the machine may often be used and one or two small sportsman's lanterns will furnish enough light for most any camp.

According to the number in the party, the cook kit should be made up. For a small price the pocket Kook-Kit may be had. This outfit contains utensils for broiling, toasting, frying, baking, stewing, roasting and for boiling coffee, tea or soups. There is also room for knives, forks, spoons, salt, pepper, tea, coffee and sugar for four persons.

When packed this outfit weighs but thirty-one ounces and may easily be carried in a side coat pocket.

For a party of more than four persons, it is recommended that a camp stove be taken. This is a light affair, easily packed and inside the frame there is room for camp articles which are really necessary.

There is what is known as the Auto-Kook outfit. This contains plates, knives, forks, spoons, cups, frying pan, folding broiler, rack and a boiling tin for a party of six and may be carried in a space equal to the size of a two-quart measure.

The new trout boots, blankets, sleeping bags and outing clothing are being made light and there should be no excuse for excess weight in a modern trout fishing camp outfit.

In a large party there is usually some one who wants to sleep on a cot. These are made in the folding type and are very light, but the new sleeping bags, made of a material similiar to that used in aeroplanes, are very popular this season. These may be folded and carried in a pocket, yet they are as warm as a blanket. When two are taken, they may be put together and used as a shelter tent.

In packing an auto trout outfit, the rods should be carried in a stiff leather case, as the tips easily break.

A large-sized creel, which may be strapped on the side of the car, will carry most everything else in the line of tacle. The leather-bound creels are very strong and may be used to great advantage in the auto outfit. A leather book should also be carried, for spoons and lines.

The leaders should be carried in a leather box, where they are kept damp and pliable. The shoes, which may be worn in the car, as well as on the streams, should be well viscalized.

Perhaps, the most important thing for the motorist, is the dunnage bag. This may be strapped on the running board or in rear of the tonneau. The camp ax and hunting knife should be carried on the machine, no matter how small the party may be.

If rifles are carried by the party,

BEN HENDERSON MISSING AGAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Pitcher Benny Henderson is still among the missing. He did not show up at the ball park this morning, nor this afternoon, and the scouts whom Manager Howard sent out to look after him, reported that he was nowhere in sight. Howard had little to say regarding the absence of his big pitcher, but the chances are that things will go hard with Benny unless he puts in an appearance tomorrow. He complained of a sore arm yesterday and was excused. He disappeared mysteriously then, and has not been heard from since. Benny was to have taken his turn in the box this afternoon.

Big Track Meet at Y.M.C.A. Field, Participated in by Twenty-three High Schools, Proved to Be a Continued Succession of Surprises. Beebe, Bagnard and House Stars.

On the far side of the Y.M.C.A. track, two runners danced around in nervous excitement as they eyed the third lap men tearing around the turn. It was the last event of the day and upon it rested the honors of the meet.

Through the first two laps in the relay, the Manual Arts' men established a two-yard lead. Hughes streaked around the third lap with Mosley, the Long Beach flyer, on his heels. Slowly the Manual boy pulled ahead and Repath was sent off with a five-yard lead. Around the turn he held this lead, but as they hit the straightaway, the splendid burst of speed threw Wark across the tape ahead of Repath and Long Beach had won the track championship of the Southern California High Schools.

Never was a meet more crowded with surprises, never were more old stars and favorites crushed and left by the wayside as new and greater stars leaped into points and the glory of winning. The Long Beach team won. They had hardly been figured and entered the meet almost unknown in class and ability. To them must go the high honors with due credit. They were battled all the way

Spending Tens of Thousands of Dollars a Day

Business Men Astounded at Enormous Expenditure

It is estimated that this sum or more is spent almost daily in advertising six-cylinder cars selling around $2000.

Telling you what?—Principally that these cars perform stunts, such as throttling down to two miles per hour on direct speed.

Extravagant statements try to lead you to believe that only cars of this kind sell: that anything else is obsolete.

Hammer and tongs sales schemes, ever varied, and millions of dollars have never before been required to sell anything true.

Juggled statistics are confusingly presented to your gaze.

Truth in its entirety seemingly has gone begging—temporarily.

But truth will out:

Four-cylinder cars are made by the thousands—that's the truth.

One manufacturer of four-cylinder cars (selling around $2000) shows a national registration more than double that of two manufacturers selling six-cylinder cars at about the same price—that's the truth.

The largest automobile factory in the world discarded the manufacture of sixes selling around this price, about 1905—that's the truth.

—300 to 500 lbs. saved in weight.

Oil consumption he virtually guarantees to be not greater than a certain definite amount.

Superfluous cylinders are eliminated by manufacturers selling four-cylinder cars around $2000 and under, for the sake of economy and best results.

Other large manufacturers make only four-cylinder cars; their factories turning out thousands of them yearly—that's the truth.

All Europe at the Paris show this year displayed 90 per cent. four-cylinder cars—that's the truth.

Here is the question:

Do you want imitations of high-grade sixes or an honest, substantial, constant four.

Economy can be applied to every phase of life.

Motoring can be done economically.

Thousands and thousands and thousands of four cylinder cars are sold to automobilists who motor economically.

Economize, honestly economize, is the watchword of the manufacturer who supplies the economical automobile.

—Tire Pump—motor driven.

His advertising is done truthfully and economically.

He advertises the mileage per gallon of gasoline.

Eight inches less wheel base in a four than in a six is required to supply the same seating capacity.

Long-wheel-base arguments are misleading.

Springs properly applied and built of the right materials make cars ride easy without unnecessary length of wheel base.

You hundreds of thousands of four-cylinder car owners know these facts:

Your friends possibly don't; some of them probably have yet to purchase their first car.

Tell your friends your experience. It will be doing them an everlasting favor.

Manufacturers of four-cylinder cars are not afraid of "word of mouth" advertising; they encourage it.

"Word of mouth" advertising can eventually make or break any concern.

Imitation is the poorest kind of deceit.

Your neighbor knows if you are an imitator. He can judge if you live within your means—by appearances.

Leaving.

PITTSBURGH PARTY TO RETURN EAST SOON.

PORTER R. FLYNN, the Pittsburgh millionaire, who spends his winters in California, will soon start East on a transcontinental trip. Flynn, with his wife and C. K. Baker, are to leave within the next ten days in a 1914 Winton "Six" for their home.

It was Flynn's intention to go the southern route by way of Phoenix, but last week he changed his plans and will go by way of the central route. He will first drive to San Francisco.

In all probability the path of the Winton will be blocked by the snow in the mountains and to escape the Placerville grade it will probably be necessary for the Flynn party to come south again as far as Wesgard Pass and then cross over into Nevada. After crossing the mountains the car will be worked back to the main highway and from there on should not have any trouble with the snow.

The party will travel at fair speed in order to get through the middle western country before the heavy spring floods. Flynn and Baker realize that they have no joy-ride before them and are going prepared to fight their way. This is Flynn's second transcontinental trip, but he has never attempted the run at this season of the year.

Baker has done considerable touring and knows the rough country game.

The rivers are usually high in the spring and unless the party reaches the Mississippi before the first of May there will be some wet country.

NEW CAR APPEARS ON LOCAL MARKET.

R. A. Whitney, California factory representative for the Glide Motor Car Company of Peoria, Ill., has established headquarters in this city with offices in the H. W. Hellman building.

Since the arrival of his demonstrator, a five-passenger touring car, he has been busy making agency contracts for California territory.

Another Trip.

LOCAL DEALER IS TO MAKE ANNUAL TOUR.

CLARENCE SMITH of Smith Bros., local Peerless and Ohio Electric agents, will leave within another week for Cleveland and Toledo to visit the Peerless and Ohio factories.

This will be Smith's annual spring visit to the factory and he will spend several days in conference with the heads of the plants. Smith also intends to visit many of the other large cities in the East to study the motor car and general business conditions.

"This has been a wonderfully successful season thus far," said Smith, "and we expect to break all sales records for the Peerless line in Southern California. Our one order of fifty Peerless trucks put us ahead of all former marks, but we are striving to eclipse former sales records without counting this order for fifty trucks and another to the Union Oil Company for fifteen.

"The Peerless factory has found it necessary to double the truck facilities at the factory, with the result of twice the former output."

The Boston Athletic Associations' eighteenth annual twenty-five-mile Marathon race will be decided on Monday, April 20.

SALES HEAD LOOKS, FEELS SATISFIED.

A. I. Philp, general sales manager for the Studebaker corporation, who succeeded E. R. Benson when the latter was appointed to fill the vice-president's chair, left Los Angeles last Thursday well satisfied with the condition of the local distributing station.

During his visit to Los Angeles and Southern California Mr. Philp inspected the retail and wholesale branches here and the sub agencies throughout the territory. He was piloted on his tour of inspection by L. J. Ollier, district manager, and R. D. Maxwell, local retail sales manager.

OVERDUE CARS ARE PROMISED.

"This week sure," is the word that has gone out from the Western Motor Car Company regarding the new Saxon cars.

This new small automobile has been promised for two weeks, and last week Manager Headlee was assured by the railroads that it would arrive without fail, but the car containing the first shipment went astray, and now Tuesday is named as the day the hundreds of Saxon purchasers will have the first opportunity of viewing the car.

Among the Ancients.

OLD-TIMERS WITH OLD TIME CARS ORGANIZE.

HOW far have you driven your Cadillac?

Have you gone 50,000 miles? If so, you are eligible to membership in one of the most unique clubs ever formed in the West. This organization grew out of a boasting session at the Don Lee garage last week when a few old-timers were telling of the mileage they had gotten out of their cars.

One had gone 50,000 miles, another had covered 70,000 and a third was nearing the hundred-thousand mark.

"You fellows should organize a long-distance touring club," suggested J. E. Brown in a joking way.

The idea, while not intended seriously, immediately met with favor and after discussing the matter in order to let in some of the owners of two and three years standing, 50,000 miles was decided upon as a conservative figure and thus was formed the "Cadillac 50,000-mile Club."

Many of the Cadillacs have gone over a hundred thousand miles, but 50,000 is a figure that should win distinction for an owner and a car.

The club is to be extended to include Cadillac owners in all parts of the State and it should soon pass the thousand mark. A majority of the 1905-1906-1907-1908-1909-1910 and 1911 Cadillacs have passed the 50,000-mile mark and when told of the new club Don Lee stated that he could now expect to see the 100,000-mile owners organize a more exclusive association.

The following are the original members of the 50,000-mile club:

Harry Brown, Henry Baer, J. E. Brown, G. M. Duntley, A. W. Wood, S. C. Dunlap, Charles Batcheller, George Maxon, Bob Levy, S. A. McKee, B. S. Jerrett, Alex Culver, C. D. Thomas, H. G. Ressman, Harry Owen, Homer Hamlin (City Engineer,) J. M. Hunter, C. M. Pierce, Dr. C. A. Broughton, E. J. Brent, C. G. Somarundyke, W. K. Reese, A. Lofton, F. S. Barnes, W. D. Fawcett and J. H. Fulcher.

TROUT VACATION.

Harry Lord of the Lord Motor Car Company is to leave Tuesday morning for a week of trout fishing at Thousand Pines. He is to be accompanied by his wife and family.

Beware of Fake-Price Automobiles

The attractive "trading-in" values offered you by some motor car dealers are based on a fake list price.

Some cars that should list—on production cost—at $1200 are priced and advertised at $1800 or $2000. Thus the dealer can apparently allow the buyer from $600 to $800 more for his old car than can a dealer who sells an honestly-priced car.

But the purchaser "holds the bag." Eventually he pays more for the "fake-price" car than he would for one legitimately priced.

Used Cars Have Known Value

There is no mystery about the value of a used car.

Cars of every make, of certain models, have a standard, maximum market value. Poor condition of car reduces this figure. Good condition does not increase it.

Any dealer who offers more than the average known value of a used car usually makes it up in some other way. Either the car he wishes to sell is over-priced; or it is a depreciated model; or he figures on charging the buyer later for attention given the car; or he is making a quick clean-up—possibly going out of business.

Be suspicious of any trade-in offer that is higher than the average offered by reputable and established dealers.

Look Ahead!

It is a well-known fact that buyers of "cut-price" and "fake-price" cars need look for nothing in the way of service or care from the dealer.

The legitimate dealer's effort is to keep you out of trouble, to have you call frequently that your car may be kept in best possible condition. The other dealer welcomes trouble, for it enables him to charge you for work done on your car. He expects to make his profit out of pay-work that should be free-work. Unless he sees a repair job he would prefer that you never came near him again.

Service—future care—should be bought with your car.

Look ahead!

How Would You Select the Best Car?

If you were not limited by price, prejudice, or time, how would you choose it, and what would it be?

A Los Angeles man recently investigated the matter in a logical, conclusive way.

His method was to question Chauffeurs. He would step to the curb and ask the driver of a waiting motor car which particular make ranked the highest, and why. Many chauffeurs, in charge of all kinds of cars, readily answered his questions.

As a result of his inquiries, he purchased a Locomobile. He bought it on account of its standing among well-informed and unprejudiced men.

The practical automobile driver recommends the Locomobile because it is safe to drive at speed. It is economical in fuel consumption. It is well-balanced and easy on tires. It is reliable—little trouble to maintain.

Chauffeurs like an up-to-date car as much as the owner. They like four speeds instead of three, just as they like six cylinders instead of four; they like the disc clutch better than the cone clutch once used everywhere; most of them like left drive and center control instead of right drive.

Analyze Style as a most important matter. The best car will be in the best taste, and without conspicuous features. Have you ever considered style in this way?

There is no label on the Locomobile. It is designed for the Owner, and the usual conspicuous features tending to advertise the manufacturer at the expense of the owner are omitted.

Look for yacht-like effects, smooth body surfaces without external door hinges or door handles. Spare tires should be carried at the rear to leave the running boards clear.

Investigate comfort personally. Never take the riding qualities of any car for granted. The Locomobile has been given preference in recent years because of its deep, soft upholstery, and easy riding.

Look into Safety. Give us the opportunity to show you why our car is particularly safe.

Do not overlook Service. The Locomobile idea is: Service Above Sales. Our chain of sixteen branch houses gives direct Locomobile Service throughout the country. Our limited output (not more than Four Cars a Day) enables us to build a better car by watching it more carefully during its construction. It also enables us to give more personal attention to owners.

Select your car because it has the most good points and the fewest bad ones. The best car must have the best chassis. Its comfort must be proven superior by comparison with other cars. Its appearance must be modish, but refined, to rank highest.

The more carefully you make your selection, the better it will satisfy us. We have such faith in the Locomobile that the more thorough you are in choosing the car, the more likely we will be to secure the order.

Our car is at your disposal to examine, test, and compare with all other cars.

BOOTHE ADDS ANOTHER LINE.

Earle Y. Boothe, well known as agent for the National, has taken the Southern California agency for the Lewis car.

A short time ago Boothe took over the Marion agency and the addition of the Lewis line gives him three cars to work on in this territory.

The deal for the Lewis was closed during Boothe's recent eastern trip. The car, which is built in Racine, Wis., comes in six-cylinder models, only roadsters and full-line touring cars.

Old Quarters Are Outgrown by Magneto Concern and Modern Building, Equipped With Latest Machinery and Special Tools, Is Being Rushed to Completion.

The new building which is being erected for the local branch of the Splitdorf Electrical Company is nearing completion and is to be ready for occupancy May 1, if not at an earlier date.

The new home of the Splitdorf branch is to be located at No. 1215 South Hope street. Special machinery, tools and equipment for the handling of all lighting and ignition systems is being installed.

An expert is to be placed in charge of every department who is familiar with all standard ignition systems and special attention to be given to magnetos, batteries and coils, according to D. G. Taylor of the Los Angeles Splitdorf house.

In the present location on South Olive street, the company has been cramped for room and the new place is expected to give ample space for the concern's growing business.

The new building is to be modern in construction, with a salesroom in front and the work shops located in the rear.

GASOLINE PLAYS PART IN MEXICAN WARFARE

American Makes of All Kinds Do Arduous Duty Firing Line—Bullet-Ridden Cars Tell Graphic of Strenuous Service—Some Purchased and Captured in Conflict.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

VIVA LA GASOLINE!

The Mexican soldier, Federal and Constitutionalist alike, has developed a fondness for American-built automobiles. Machines of every description are to be found playing important parts in the battles now being waged in the once-peaceful republic.

From reports brought in by those who have been on the firing line we are led to believe that the Mexican war is a joy-ride engagement. Gen. Villa is said to have seventeen automobiles and five motor trucks at his command.

One of Villa's cars, a Mitchell "Big Six," is equipped with a huge gasoline tank which gives it a close resemblance to a village sprinkling cart. This machine is driven by a former taxicab driver of Mexico City, and an experienced mechanician rides with him. The latter's duty is to look after the upkeep of the cars in the motor corps, while in the field.

A number of Villa's cars were purchased from El Paso dealers; but the majority are said to have come into el general's hands, according to the rules of guerilla warfare.

One of Villa's machines, a Packard, carries an El Paso city license. This machine was seen on the streets of El Paso last week. While the gallant general must remain on the other side of the Rio Grande, his machine is permitted to cross the line at will. It is said that the women members of the Villa household, who reside in El Paso's suburbs, use the commander's private car to smuggle dainties and missives of good cheer back to him.

A trooper of the Thirteenth United States Calvary, who is in Los Angeles on furlough, says that Villa's relatives, who are non-combatants, have been allowed to cross the border in the machine. This Packard car is used by Villa for himself and staff, while on duty at the front.

WELL-KNOWN MAKES.

Three six-cylinder Kissel-Kars siezed by Villa's rebels from refugees fleeing from Monterey are also to be found in the fighting squadron. These Kissels have been armored like battleships and equipped with small machine guns. It is claimed that they were used to great advantage in the recent attack on Torreon.

Gen. Obregon of the Constitutionalist forces was presented with a new Packard last week by Julio Madero, a brother of the late President. This car was purchased in the United States from McArthur's Garage, Packard agents at Phoenix. The tonneau of this car has been fitted with auxiliary seats for members of the general's staff.

Packards have also found favor with the Federal faction in Mexico. They are used in the rapid mobilization of small bodies of troops. The roads in Mexico are known to be poor, but the motor cars of all makes have made a conspicuously creditable showing in the military activities.

The Cadillac has also found favor with troops of all forces. Don Lee received a personal letter from the Cadillac agent at El Paso, stating that business was fine and that he was decidedly opposed to intervention. Villa had just purchased

PRINCETON TO GET GIFT STADIUM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PRINCETON (N. J.) March 28.—The announcement was made today by President Hibben of Princeton University that Edgar Palmer of Rye, N. Y., a graduate of the class of 1903, had offered to build a stadium and present it to the university for the use of the association in time to be used for the Yale team next season.

The Committee on Grounds and Buildings met today and approved the plan. The board of trustees will formally accept the gift April 9.

The stadium will be built of reinforced concrete in the shape of the letter "U" and will seat 41,000 persons. The estimated cost is $300,000, to be given entirely by Palmer.

The object of the gift is to increase the endowment of the university by giving back into the treasury for scholastic purposes the money now spent annually for the erection of temporary bleachers for big football games. The field will be used for football and track athletics only.

INITIAL RUN OF CYCLECARS TODAY.

Fleet cyclecars meet in their first run today, when machines of seven makes tour the San Gabriel Valley, after a start from Pico and Grand avenue in this city at 11 a.m.

Pasadena, Azusa, Glendora, Pomona and other cities are included in the route to be covered by the midget vehicles.

This run is made by a group of owners forming the nucleus of the Southern California Cyclecar Club, an organization to be formally launched within two weeks, according to D. L. Whitford, one of the prime movers.

Whitford owns the Bidella, a French car acknowledger as mother by nearly all youngsters of the pigmy race, and which he would have raced at Santa Monica if transit difficulties had not intervened.

Predictions are freely made that a cyclecar will be quoted as winner of the great cup race within a few years, also that at least 2000 of the popular type will be on our streets next year.

The truck is in first-class condition and does not show hardly any wear for the months of use I have put it to.
People admire my truck on the streets and stop and ask me about it and I will tell you that I am always boosting this truck, as it has proved so satisfactory to me.

SPEEDWAY TO BE STARTED.

Novel Features Offered for Ground Breaking.

Glenn Martin to Fly for the Government Men.

First Race Date Set for Admission Day.

Pomona is ready to touch a match to the speedway fireworks.

With a spectacular "Battle of the Clouds" and other features groundbreaking for the new race course will be held at the Valley City Friday and Saturday of this week.

The celebration has been well planned. Glenn Martin, the great aviator, has been placed in charge of the sky fete. He has gathered together all the best fliers in the West.

Paul J. C. Derkum, in charge of construction, has chosen the shovel carriers and official pick-ax men, and the ground-breaking promises to start with a rush.

From the time the first bit of earth is turned until the last stretch of concrete is laid, there will be no let-up. Pomona already figures on having her first race September 9, with a $50,000 purse, to prove that the new course is on a par with Indianapolis for generosity.

The American Automobile Association, it is claimed, has granted the sanction for the Admission Day date.

Considering these facts, and the greater fact that Pomona industry and money is ready to push the enterprise to a successful realization, it begins to look as though Southern California is in line to add the one remaining automobile racing honor not now in our possession. Santa Monica long ago captured the world's road competition crown. Bakersfield is secure in the best mile ever negotiated on a dirt track. Playa del Rey, during its brief life, grabbed off all the board-track plums. With Pomona after the speedway laurels, it looks as though the home of racing would be moved to Southern California.

The celebration scheduled for this week is being boosted with all Pomona's enthusiasm. With Martin and his cohorts and Co. D furnishing talent a-plenty, the Pomona residents went even stronger. Pulling wires resulted in Uncle Sam taking official notice of the ground-breaking fete, and three representatives of the government have been appointed official referees of the "Battle of the Clouds." Lieuts. Muller, Taliaferro and Dodd, now with the First Aero Squad at North Island, are to fly up from San Diego next Thursday.

Ground-breaking days will also mark the first appearance of the new Martin scout cruiser, which its maker is intent on having adopted by the United States Aerial Corps. Charles Willard, who recently has refrained from going into the air, will pilot the latest type. Martin will also have his famous life pack on display before the government sleuths, and in order to show them its absolute reliability and worth, he is to drop 18-year-old Tiny Broadwick over the side of his aeroplane when the machine is 3000 feet above the ground.

In an emergency, metal polish is an effective headlight dimmer. If a little of the polish is rubbed on the inside of the headlight glass, on the upper part, it will dry and give a frosted effect that will take the glare away from the lens. On leaving the city the dry coating may be removed in a minute with a piece of waste. The white liquid window polishing compound that is used to be-cloud vacant store windows may also be used for the same purpose.

CYCLE CAR TIRES ADDED TO LISTS.

It has been announced by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company that cycle car tires are to be marketed. The importance of the cycle car industry is recognized by the Firestone company and much experimenting was done before the product was placed upon the market.

These cycle tires are in four sizes—28x2½, 29x2 3-4, 28x2 3-4, and 28x3, and they may be had with either the non-skid tread or a new corrugated tread. Gray and red tubes are to be made to fit all sizes.

HARD TEST FOR LATE MODEL CAR.

The new Lozier Four was put to a terrific test at the Lozier factory the other day. The remarkable part of the test was the fact that the car used received no preparation for the test.

President Gilbert of the Lozier company walked into the plant and took the first car he came to. He selected seven heavy men to make the forty-five-mile trip to Monroe, Mich., and back again.

Without any tuning up and only filling the oil and gasoline tanks, they started. The entire trip was made through a slush of mud and snow, which is the hardest kind of surface to drive over.

The roads were so bad that a horse pulling a light buggy was stalled.

The car covered twenty-one miles in first and second gear on the trip. It was a test that few owners would put their cars through and few cars just off the shipping floor have ever had such a severe try-out. hTe trip was bad enough for the car alone not to speak of the seven men.

PLACE IN NORTH FOR OLD-TIMER.

W. A. Murray, who has been a member of the sales force of the Moreland Motor Truck Company of this city for the past two years, has announced that he will leave the service of the local concern this coming week.

Murray is to go to San Francisco, where he will take up the duties of traveling representative of the Western Motor Car Company, handling the Chalmers line. The employees of the Moreland factory gave a farewell dinner in honor of Murray last night and his many friends in Southern California will be surprised to learn of his leaving the local concern.

Harvard University football candidates, who look promising after the spring workouts, will be given footballs, together with instructions for practice during the summer vacation.

Too Many.

NO MORE AUTOS SAYS PENNSYLVANIA VISITOR.

LOS ANGELES is advised to discourage motorists.

E. S. Markley of Bethlehem, Pa., believes that too much encouragement is being shown eastern motorists. Already Los Angeles has too many machines, he says.

Markley is a steel man of the Keystone State, and arrived here Monday after a drive from Omaha in his 1914 Mitchell "Six." The Pennsylvanian was visiting in Omaha, the new Mitchells caught his eye, and he at once bought. The first thing he did was to give the car a test over the roads between here and Nebraska.

All during the past week Markley has been touring along near-by lanes, and wound up the week with a round trip to Santa Barbara. Next week San Diego is to be his itinerary.

"I'm not trying to knock when I say there are too many machines here," says Markley. "Broadway in New York during the rush hour is a paradise compared to your Broadway here on a busy afternoon. If your traffic force wasn't perfectly trained there would be nothing to it but a mad jumble of machines all along the street.

"Perhaps you natives don't notice it, but even your country roads are too crowded. I have tried a lot of them, but there seem to be more machines on the Venice highway, for instance, than can be found on the Motor Parkway of Long Island."

All Mr. Markley says may be true, but Los Angeles is hardly going to act on his suggestion.

Compare the Jeffery with the Best Car You Know:

When I say we invite comparison, I mean just what I say. Jeffery cars are sold by comparison.

I have had it said to me many times in the past while talking motor cars or talking to a prospective customer—"I am not a judge of automobiles and cannot tell value when I see it."

If this is so in your case, come in, let me go over the Jeffery chassis and car with you, point for point. Take a catalog and detailed information home with you; study the chassis drawing and specifications of the Jeffery carefully. (I make no statements or claims I cannot back up.)

Get catalogs and literature on other cars that might be of interest to you. (Don't be afraid to go up into the $3500.00 or $5000.00 class either.) Jeffery cars compare favorably with any machine built.

As I say, study the literature of other manufacturers—pick out the best points, and then compare your results with the tabulated specifications of the Jeffery (the Four sells for only $1700 and the Six for only $2400.) You will be surprised at the results—I know it. Then if you don't think you are competent to judge, ask any mechanic or garage man to go over the Jeffery for you. I am not afraid to leave the decision up to him.

He knows what vanadium steel rear axles, drive shafts, front axles, steering knuckles and springs mean; he knows what the best in material, equipment and construction is and recognizes the quality in Duplex Bosch magneto, the highest price Rayfield carburetor, Spicer universal joints, imported annular ball bearings, full floating rear axle, pressed steel housing, Daimler leather coupling, U. S. L. starting and lighting system, four speed transmission, etc.—he also knows that the highest degree of economy is to be gotten out of a car with this equipment.

I know, and he knows, that the car that the public is demanding is the light, high grade, economical, well constructed car, to sell at a reasonable price, and a car that is good for 150,000 miles of service.

I say this car is the Jeffery Four at $1700 or the Six at $2400.

I can show you that the Jeffery moves on a level floor with only a forty-pound pull; I can show you that the Jeffery will make eighteen or more miles to a gallon of gasoline and six hundred or more miles to a gallon of lubricating oil; I can show you, and you can see, the careful manner in which Jeffery cars are finished and assembled. The body (designed by Rothschild) is comfortable, wide and roomy, and the springs are a delight on rough and bumpy roads.

The claims and statements of motor car manufacturers today are many and, to say the least, they are extravagant, but, mind you, I make not a single claim or statement about the Jeffery car or Jeffery organization that I cannot substantiate or that you cannot prove.

Again I say, compare the Jeffery car with the best car you know.

Compare the top and top material, the top boot, the glass front; compare the leather used in the upholstering—see if it is padded with real curled hair; compare the finish and detail work—the manner in which the gasoline tank and tire irons are supported; compare the crown, enameled fenders, with no bolt heads showing; compare the complete, finished, ready-for-the-road product—the Jeffery car—with the best car you know and I am sure, even if you do not buy one, you will agree with me that the Jeffery is the best automobile value you ever saw.

I know you will agree that such value as is offered in the Jeffery cannot be produced except by a sound and financially responsible manufacturer, so I say, compare the statement that any manufacturer of motor cars can make—see if they have a capital of $5,500,000.00—see if they have a plant with equipment valued at over $3,000,000.00—see if they have never in the history of this business allowed a single bill to pass discount, and I know these things are true of The Thomas B. Jeffery Company, builders and manufacturers (not assemblers) of Jeffery cars.

Is it not reasonable to suppose, and can you not prove by your comparison, that there is not a single untried, unproven part or principle in the Jeffery car? The Thomas B. Jeffery Company sent their engineers to Europe, who spent months in looking into motor car design and construction so that they could produce a moderate priced car—a high-grade, light-weight car and one without a fault or flaw, on which they could invite the closest and most rigid inspection and comparison.

I say that the light weight, high speed motor (capable of driving the car at forty miles per hour on the second gear) is a marvel. I ask that you prove that it is a marvel by comparison and, just by way of information, I wish to say that it is necessary for the motor to do over 2600 revolutions per minute to attain this speed on the second gear.

I take no credit upon myself for the many sales of Jeffery cars since I started to handle this line, for each day I become more enthusiastic and appreciate more clearly the really remarkable merit and value offered in the Jeffery, and I know if you will only compare it with the best car you know, your choice will be a Jeffery Four at $1700 or a Jeffery Six at $2400.

Police Land Offender When Car Is Reported.

Money Had Been Paid on the Missing Machine.

Unscrupulous motorists cannot insure their machines against theft, hide them in a garage, and collect the insurance. It was tried, but did not work.

It may seem like a simple thing to hire a chauffeur to drive an insured car to an out-of-town garage, lay it up for repairs, thereby proving an alibi for the owner, report the theft of the car to the police, wait thirty days, then step in and collect—but it can't be done.

Auto Club officials, detectives and the police have just succeeded in unearthing a clever scheme to beat the inter-insurance department of the Automobile Club.

Standish L. Mitchell, secretary of the club, learned over the telephone that a car which had been reported stolen was then located in the garage of the Hotel Virginia at Long Beach. On this car $900 worth of insurance had been collected.

Calling into action Guy Van Alegen of the insurance department, John Powell of the auto theft bureau and Erven and Hickock of the Central Station, a chase which for shrewd diplomacy has never been equaled on auto row, followed.

It developed that on January building contractor, reported to the police and to the Auto Club, where his car was insured, that it had been stolen. Exactly two months later, and after the insurance money had been paid, Standish Mitchell learned of the presence of the car in the Long Beach garage and of a connection with the story of a chauffeur.

The upshot of the matter was a confession by the chauffeur that he had been hired to drive the car to Long Beach and leave it in a garage for $4. The trial will be set for an early date.

MOTOR TRACTOR PLANT LATEST ADDITION HERE.

PLANS were formulated last week for the organization of a $100,000 corporation which is to manufacture the Bulkley-Rider tractor in Los Angeles.

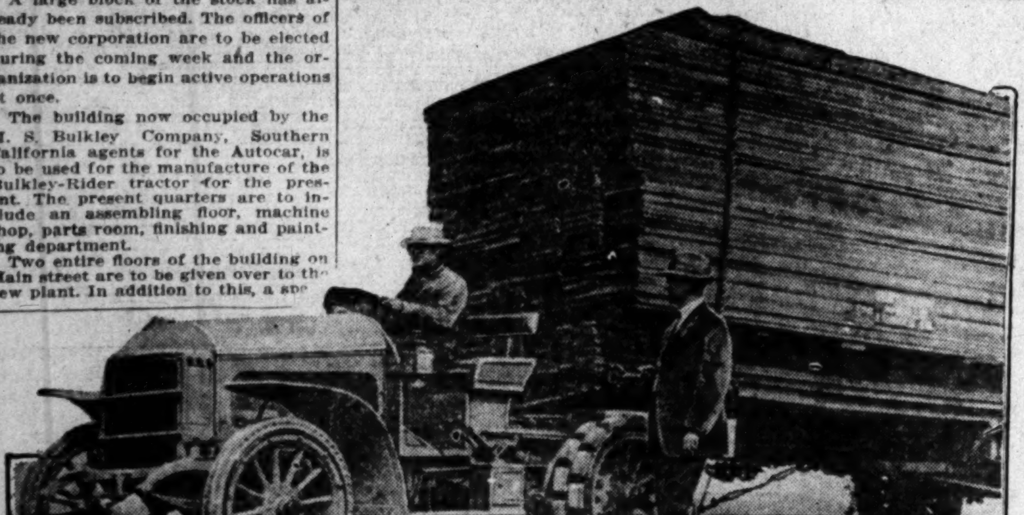
The M. S. Bulkley Company has contracted to market all the motor tractors built by the new company.

A large block of the stock has already been subscribed. The officers of the new corporation are to be elected during the coming week and the organization is to begin active operations at once.

The building now occupied by the M. S. Bulkley Company, Southern California agents for the Autocar, is to be used for the manufacture of the Bulkley-Rider tractor for the present. The present quarters are to include an assembling floor, machine shop, parts room, finishing and painting department.

Two entire floors of the building on Main street are to be given over to the new plant. In addition to this, a sp of 65x150 feet is to be devoted to a blacksmith shop and forging rooms in the rear.

Patents covering the special features of the new tractor have been applied for. All working parts of the tractor are hung on an individual frame. A load of any length may be hauled without interfering with the traffic.



The Bulkley-Rider tractor.

New Los Angeles-built power wagon loaded with fifteen tons of lumber, which is claimed to be the heaviest load ever hauled by a tractor.

Any body now used on a horse-drawn vehicle can be attached to the Bulkley-Rider tractor. The capacity of the tractor is twenty tons, and recently the tractor hauled eighteen tons of lumber from San Pedro to this city.

One of the features of the tractor is the fact that it does not chop up the surface of the roads. In spite of the heavy loads hauled the large tires make the tractor a smooth-running vehicle which will not damage the highways.

The two men back of the proposition to market this tractor are M. S. Bulkley, agent for the Autocar, and W. A. Rider. Both are experienced automobile men who know the inside workings of the industry.

SCOUT MACHINE FINDS ROUTES.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB PILOT CAR INSPECTS ROADS.

D. C. Mitchell Brings Back Report on Condition of Coast Route Stretches to the North by Way of Santa Susana Pass and Ventura Which Have Bothered Motorists.

A road car of the Automobile Club of Southern California has completed an inspection of the coast route north to Santa Barbara by way of the Santa Susana Pass and Ventura. This is the portion of the road which has been worrying the automobilist.

D. C. Mitchell, who piloted the scout car, reports that the road is now open but dangerous, due to slides on the Rincon stretch, and because of the ford across the Ventura River. The bridge at this point, however, is expected to be completed this week.

Mitchell says that the east side of the Santa Susana Pass is good, but the west side is rough. From Santa Susana to Moorpark the road is satisfactory. There are a few rough spots from Moorpark to Simi, and from Simi to Saticoy the road is fair From Montalvo to Ventura the going is good.

The Ventura River must be forded, crossing three channels. The water is about two inches over the running boards. The Rincon is passable but a slide leaves but about three inches to spare for the wheels.

Auto club officials are routing the majority of motorists to San Francisco by the inland route at the present time.

Frank M. Jordan of the touring department reports that both the coast and valley routes are in good condition to San Diego.

Those who wish to tour East will find the Cajon Pass in excellent condition, according to a report from Chief Engineer O. B. Parker. The county road crew has cleared away practically all traces of the recent storms.

From Barstow to Needles the road is in fine condition and two road gangs are putting on the finishing touches for summer travel. The Kingman road from Needles to Kingman, Ariz., is in excellent condition.

One gallon of gasoline, if completely burned, is capable of producing the energy equivalent of about forty-five horse-power hours. About 92 per cent. of this is lost as the result of incomplete combustion, waste through the exhaust and cylinder jackets, or absorption in overcoming the frictional resistance of the car's mechanism and tires. Thus only 8 per cent. of the theoretical heating value of the fuel is converted into useful work, meaning that only about half a pint of fuel out of every gallon is utilized in actual propulsion—acceleration, 'and overcoming tractive and wind resistance.

SICILIAN RACES.

Sicily will have two automobile races this year. The Targa Florio will be an 800-mile two-day race right around the island, starting from and returning to Palermo, and following the coast line the whole way. The date selected is May 25 and 26. Practically any type of car can be entered, for the maximum cylinder area is 549 cubic inches. It is practically impossible to make a good showing with a motor of this size, for the course is a succession of hills with dangerous hairpin turns. The second Sicilian race will be the Coupe Florio, run on the Madonie course, not far from Palermo, on June 1. The course is ninety-three miles around and has to be covered three times.

MAILING TIRES.

Automobile tire dealers have reason to be happy in a ruling announced by the Postoffice Department that tires may be sent by parcel post. It will facilitate the delivery of tires to individuals out of town. The ruling specifies how the measurements of tires are to be taken in accord with parcel-post regulations. In measuring tires merely wrapped, with an opening space in the center, the outside diameter shall be considered the length and the circumference of the tubing as the girth. In measuring tires packed solidly without clear space in the center, the diameter of the parcel shall be considered the length and twice the diameter and thickness as the girth.

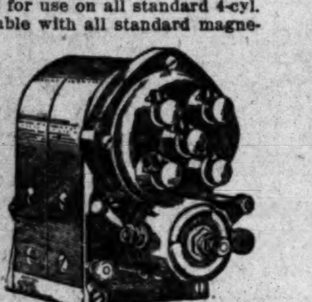
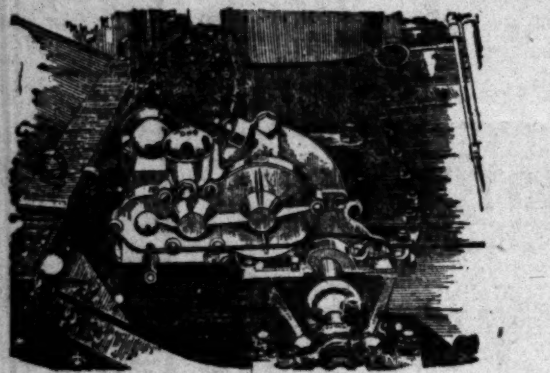
Splitdorf Model A Magneto

The MODEL A MAGNETO has been designed not only to incorporate the result of the work done during the past year by SPLITDORF engineers to improve the product, but to meet the requirements of the automobile engineers in general. It is for use on all standard 4-cyl. motors and is interchangeable with all standard magnetos, there being no necessity for special couplings. The demountability of this new model will especially commend it to those unaccustomed to handling tools. Cheapness has been absolutely eliminated and the instrument constructed for rugged service only.

It has been found unnecessary to case in this type of magneto, as the distributor parts are well protected.



Splitdorf Ford Special Waterproof High-Tension Magneto



Enclosed direct gear driven—no chains or open gears—the SPLITDORF high-tension magneto is revolutionizing the running of the remarkable Ford cars.

Splitdorf Motorcycle Magneto

SPLITDORF ignition has played a leading part in the development of the motorcycle. Coils and plugs of SPLITDORF manufacture set the standard for motorcycle ignition from the inception of the "steed of the road" more than a decade ago.

When the more intense source of ignition came into demand for the speedier, higher-powered motors, the SPLITDORF ELECTRICAL COMPANY developed a magneto on the lines that ripe experience with motorcycles had laid down as cardinal—an attractive, compact instrument, efficient under all circumstances, waterproof and proof positive against the admission of waste oil, etc.—an instrument, in a word, to "stand up."

All the qualities that go to make ideal ignition possible are incorporated in SPLITDORF MAGNETOS, and they stand, today, strictly on their merits, typifying magneto ignition at once attractive and serviceable to the highest degree—staunch, rugged and manufactured to bear the hardest usage with minimum attention.

Splitdorf EU4 Magneto

Tremendous success with the waterproof, high-tension motorcycle magneto encouraged the Splitdorf Electrical Co. to produce the MODEL EU4 MAGNETO, an instrument of high tension type. In design and construction the newcomer is destined to fill a long-felt want in the motoring world, as low-powered, high-speed engines can now be equipped with a powerful instrument to give them the "kick" in their cylinders they have so sadly needed.

In short, with a simple instrument, simple in wiring, simply installed, to produce a hot, fat spark at high or low motor speed the SPLITDORF high-tension magnetos make for tremendously greater efficiency with a real flexible ignition system, which saves gasoline and gives the small-powered high-speed cars a world of reliable sparking never before attained.

Splitdorf Common Sense Plugs

Standard Automobile Type

The highest priced automobile as well as the most popular priced car and every motorcycle, motorboat, aeroplane, farm engine, etc., must have the BEST PLUGS to get the BEST MOTOR EFFICIENCY, and SPLITDORF COMMON SENSE PLUGS have always been the standard for effective results.

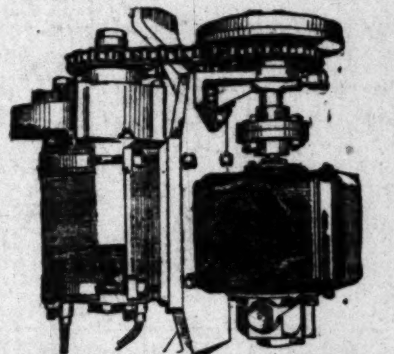
Splitdorf Starting Motor and Lighting Generator



The SPLITDORF STARTING SYSTEM is simplicity itself, thanks to an automatic clutch of ingenious construction. The SPLITDORF clutch is free—there are no gears to disengage—there is absolutely no chance of it binding or wearing when the motor is running. As the engine stops the clutch becomes automatically engaged for re-starting. The motor, a 12-volt battery, a transmission reducing gear and a switch complete the positive starting outfit.

The SPLITDORF LIGHTING SYSTEM has the cleanest possible installation and is, above all, reliable. Perfect regulation is the keynote to the whole SPLITDORF system, the controller parts, incorporated in the generator, answering for the output of the dynamo as well as the flow of the current to the battery, at all times and under every condition.

DOUBLE-ROLE ROADSTER DUE HERE THIS W

THE new Maxwell roadster is due to make its appearance in Los Angeles Wednesday.

This is a twenty-five model and is to be known as the double-role car. It is equipped with a convertible body, which is intended for business purposes and pleasure service as well.

The rear deck may be transformed, giving a double service car, which has great possibilities.

While this roadster is due during the week, the Lord Motor Car Company, Southern California Maxwell distributors, will not be able to offer the double-role equipment for at least two weeks, as shipments from the Detroit factory have been delayed, owing to piled up orders.

Attempts have been made at such a car as the double-role Maxwell, according to Harry Lord, but the great difficulty has sightliness.

ROUND TRIP THROUGH IMPERIAL IS POSS

OFFICIALS of the Automobile Club of Southern California made a complete road survey throughout the Imperial and Coachella Valleys last week and returned Friday with a road report which covers practically that entire territory.

Southern California motorists have shown a great interest in road conditions throughout that section during the past few months. The opening of new lands there has called for a great amount of automobile travel.

Frank M. Jordan of the Auto Club says that it is possible to reach Brawley and other Imperial Valley towns from San Diego or Los Angeles. The roads are said to be in rather poor condition, but there is no need for shovel work. The only warning is—take plenty water for the trip across the desert.

It is possible to make the round trip from Los Angeles by way of San Diego through Campo, Dixieland, El Centro, Imperial, Brawley, Mecca, Thermo and return by way of Palms Springs, Banning, Beaumont and San Bernardino. On the run from Brawley to Mecca water holes are scarce and hard to find.

"We passed two machines," said Jordan, while telling of the trip. "One was a truck and the other a small touring car. These were the only cars we saw in the sixty miles. Rogers, at Rogers's ranch, told us that sometimes two or three days pass without anyone attempting the crossing to Brawley.

Ernest McGill made a trip of 320 miles on twenty gallons of gasoline in a Detroiter car last week, taking in the Imperial Valley and San Diego en route. Deep sand and storm-chopped roads formed a part of the difficulties encountered, but no mishap occurred from the start at the Mission motor car salesroom, to the return.

Gears were shifted but twice between San Diego and Riverside, one being on the Torey ly for safety. Thursday run covered seventy day, 270. The 20 grade was made on gears without boiling radiator.

Easy-Riding Valley Boulevards to Rough Mountain Roads Is Shown What Southern Has to Offer in the Way Variations for Motor Tourists.

K. Pillmore, president of the Rubber Company of Akron, given a taste of California climbing last week when he taken up the Pinecrest grade by Walter Jackson and George Eno, local agents for this new tire.

Pillmore comes from a flat country, where there is never a hill steep enough to call for the use of the low gear. He wanted to see some of the California roads.

The first sixty miles of the drive took the Ohio man over boulevards, but as soon as San Bernardino was reached, the climb into the hills began. The visitor was soon transferred from the gardens of the valley to a rugged country that caused him to marvel.

The heavy rains have played havoc with the road, and it is dangerous and impassable in places. But Pillmore saw enough to satisfy him. He was also taken to Riverside, but after his experience on the Pinecrest grade, the run up Rubidoux was quite tame.

President Pillmore announced that his factory has started work on an addition which will double the capacity of the plant. He also expressed pleasure at the introduction the Jackson and Eno company has given the Mohawk line in this field.

OXFORD BEATEN BY CAMBRIDGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LONDON, March 28.—The Cambridge University crew won easily today from Oxford in the annual eight-oared race from Putney to Mortlake on the Thames.

The distance, four and a quarter miles, was covered in the fast time of 20m. 23s. Cambridge crossed the line four and a half lengths in the lead. The Cambridge crew had been the favorite throughout the training season and justified the prediction that it would win by making the race a procession from start to finish.

Cambridge won the toss for position and chose the Surrey side of the river, thus obtaining the advantage of shelter from a light wind. Oars of the Oxford crew were the first to grip the water, but the longer stroke of the Light Blues immediately gave them the lead. After this there was no doubt as to the result.

A platform on which 150 spectators were standing collapsed during the race and all were thrown into the hold of a barge. Fourteen persons were badly injured.

Repeated testing is the keynote of Haynes factory excellence, from material to most finished fittings and connections. Tightening, drawing, braking and adjusting until all parts work in absolute unison, the car is tested finally on the road and tuned to highest efficiency.

It's hard to tell what Gilbert Woodill will do next and he is not inclined to tell his plans.

For several weeks after it was announced that Woodill was to leave the services of Hawley, King and Company, his future plans remained dark. Then he came to the front as sales manager for the W. K. Cowan Company and has been stirring things up for the Jeffery line in Southern California for the past two weeks.

It is known that the Jeffery car is to be featured in some novel way during the next few days, but whether it's to be a trip to Villa's headquarters, a transcontinental tour or the entry of the Jeffery in the racing game, Woodill refuses to say.

WHITTIER BEATS PASADENA HIGH.

The baseball club representing Whittier High School defeated the Pasadena High nine by a 2 to 0 count on the Crown City lot yesterday afternoon.

Benton on third and Buckmaster in the box were the shining lights for the Poet preps. Buckmaster held the Pasadena boys to four scratch hits during the nine innings.

"Puss" McDowell of football fame, landed on the Whittier pitcher for two of the hits credited to the Pasadena team.

Whittier scored both her counts in the first inning. With two men on, Woollomes, all-Southern California prep full back last season, rapped out a double, scoring Cooper and Crooks.

The Jack Johnson vs. Frank Moran boxing match for the heavyweight championship will take place in Paris on June 29, in an arena that is being built for the purpose.

STUTZ

MAKING GOOD

The Stutz car is making good. You will all acknowledge that fact—even our competitors acknowledge it. The Stutz car is the "champion car of America." The Stutz has met and defeated the best cars of Europe and America. Not once, but time and time again. That is how it has gained its title, not by one victory but by nine consecutive victories.

The Stutz car is popular, it always has been and is getting more so every day. It has "made good" in individual use—owners will tell you that. There is no better engine made than the Stutz built Wisconsin motor. The rest of the car, the famous Stutz rear system, is all built in porportion. An improved rear system that will stand without trouble the roughest usage.

Harry C. Stutz has never produced a failure. Why experiment with a car that was once a failure? Why not purchase a Stutz, and know that you are buying the very best automobile value on the market.

Prices range from $2150.00 at Los Angeles to $2750.00 Four and Six Cylinder models. Business judgment tells you to buy the car that is making good. It is the Stutz car.

VETERAN BACK ON AUTO ROW.

To Manage Local Branch of Truck Company.

Well Known Here as Expert Efficiency Man.

Two New Models Coming Out in His Line.

J. A., better known as "Jack," Stoner, has returned to Los Angeles as manager for the Mack Truck Company.

Stoner is one of the veterans of the motor industry and is one of the best known automobile men in the West.

The Mack Company will handle trucks exclusively and Stoner has elaborate plans for co-operating with the merchants and other users of trucks in this field. The Mack and Sauer are the company's leaders, and last week Stoner announced that a new line of small trucks made by the Durant-Dort Company of Flint, Mich., had been secured, and the first shipment is now en route to the Coast.

The new models will be known as the "Best" and the "Flint." This is following a custom of the carriage makers in giving their different models individual names.

The Best is a 1000 to 1500-pounds capacity truck, and the Flint 1600 to 2000 pounds. The smaller truck has a two-cylinder motor and the larger a four-cylinder type. The Flint is also distinguished by a full-floating, double reduction rear axle, and the smaller type has friction transmission, considered the ideal type for this size car.

SWEDEN'S FUEL.

Sweden will, if possible, make its own motor fuels, the importation of which now costs the country nearly $5,000,000. Parliament last year petitioned the government to undertake the experimental work and a syndicate of manufacturers placed a patented process for deriving the oils from alum shale at disposal and has promised to bear one-half of the expense in ascertaining whether the enterprise can be made practicable. The shale is found in large quantity in Vestergotland, where the deposits equal in heat value one-half of that of all the peat bogs in Sweden, and also in Oeland, Sconia, Oestergotland, Nerike and Jemteland. The by-products would be sulphur and sulphate of ammonium, which are both substances now imported.

GRAPPLERS AFTER AMATEUR TITLES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 28.—Four champions will defend their title in the A.A.U. national wrestling tournament, which will be held at the Chicago Athletic Association April 2, 3 and 4, it was announced today. Valvosen of the Bronx Athletic Club, New York, holder of the featherweight championship, will find a popular opponent in S. Vorres of the Hercules Athletic Club of Chicago, and C. Johnson of the New York Athletic Club will defend his honors against Dr. W. L. other likely candidates.

H. H. Foote of Rochester, N. Y., New England champion, will try for middleweight honors against the title holder, J. W. Smith of the New York Athletic Club.

H. G. Pendleton, commission weight champion, will be opposed by Richard Goudie of Lima, O.

A Studebaker "six" was heard running in a sealed car destined for the Pacific Coast. Breaking open the car, the investigators were unable to determine whether the car had started itself on a non-stop run for the Occident or whether the loading crew had failed to notice the quiet operation of an engine left running.

Investigations prove that with "Nobby Tread" Tires punctures are 90% less than with the average tire.

The big, thick "nobs" on "Nobby Tread" Tires stand out so far from the shoe that nails, glass, sharp stones, etc., hardly ever reach the shoe.

Study the "nobs," their size, their thickness, and the way they are placed, and you will understand why.

And remember this—you have got to wear out these big, thick, tough "nobs" before you even start to wear out the extra strong tire underneath—that is one reason why experts call "Nobby Treads"

America's Best

Beardsley Electric

California's First

The Long Mileage Car

THE Beardsley Electric—particularly in its extra long mileage—is the one perfect car for the Coast. It is not unusual for it to run 85 to 100 miles on a single charge costing about one cent a mile.

This is due to a battery and a motor which work in absolute harmony with the rest of the car. Also to improved transmission — resilient wire wheels—and a most effective elimination of useless weight.

Demonstration at any time, gladly. You owe it to yourself to investigate.

LOS ANGELES—"Look at the bunch of pitchers we had. All old soldiers with sore wings. With two regular pitchers we would have won with ten games to spare. Besides we missed those twenty-three triples off Ivan Howard's bat and don't let anyone tell you we didn't."

Venice—"What do you think of Hogan trading Baum and giving away Brashear. With Baum back and Brashear's old clean-up wallops we would have cinched the rag in July."

San Francisco—"Who said Howard was a manager? He couldn't manage a peanut stand. What sucker would have traded McArdle and Henley for old man Baum? And then we didn't have Jimmy Johnston to steal all those bases for us and then Overall would have helped some."

Oakland—"We didn't expect to win, but if they had kept Ben O'Brien and Leard we would have been in the running just the same."

Portland—"The best team never won that pennant. We would have walked away with it only Krause had a sore arm and we sure missed the two Bills, Lindsay and James. Anyway we were a little too confident, but wait until next year."

Sacramento—"Wolverton might as well have rented last place when he sold Bliss. He was our whole team anyway."

Hupmobile

The car of The American Family

Why?

Winter travelers returning from the West Indies, the South Seas, and the Antipodes—

European tourists back from the Continent—

Care-free adventurers exploring the remotest corners of the earth—

All come back with the same good story—Hupmobiles everywhere!

"It did my heart good," they all say, and one of them wrote: "I was so hungry in Moscow for the sight of something American, that when my startled eyes saw the first of a succession of Hupmobiles in front of the Church Kazan (with an ex-droshky-driver at the wheel, who looked, in his furs, like a Newfoundland dog) it was all I could do to hold back a good old-fashioned eagle-scream of exultation."

This man afterward learned, to his amazement, that the Hupmobile had just been awarded a silver cup for winning the first Russian Grand Prize Contest—a 200-mile race with much larger cars.

In Australia the wandering American finds Hupmobile ownership mounting into the thousands.

He finds, likewise, that it is not classed with the cars of low price, and that it sells for approximately $2000.

In South Africa the story is the same—the same high price, the same remarkable growth in sales and in quality—reputation of the first-class.

France has found the Hupmobile distinctly French in its tendencies of design—some are friendly enough to say, in advance of French tendencies.

In England, Hupmobiles are thoroughly distributed and cared for through an organization of over 150 dealers, covering every important trade center in the United Kingdom.

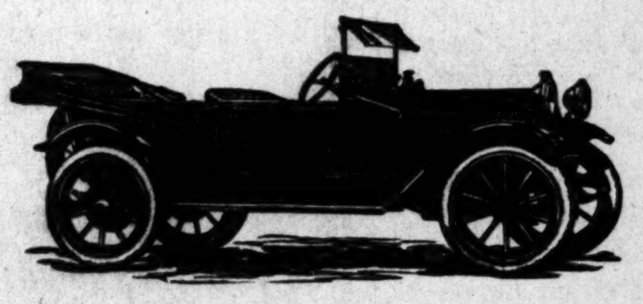
So it goes, everywhere—a growth great in numbers, but particularly great and impressive in esteem and admiration.

The whole world is learning what every American Hupmobilist has long known, to wit:

That the Hupmobile is not moderate in quality though it is moderate in price.

That it separates itself automatically from cars whose chief appeal is price.

That it justifies, both at home and abroad, the well-founded belief that it is "the best car of its class in the world."



Unit en bloc power plant, small-bore, long-stroke motor, 3¼-inch bore by 5½-inch stroke; trouble-proof carburetor; full-floating rear axle. FRANCO-GERMAN PACT.

While the various States of the Union are still wrangling over the momentous questions of reciprocity—as far as automobiles are concerned—and certain of the New England States are timidly approaching the subject of assisting each other in the control of chronic offenders of the traffic rules, Germany and France have signed a pact under which violators of the law will find it difficult to go unchecked. These two great nations since March 1 have communicated with each other the names, residences and other details in regard to all automobilists who have been convicted for violations of the traffic regulations in the respective countries.

Detroit's total production of motor vehicles of all classes for February was 36,890. Nearly thirty concerns contributed to the production. The predominating class of vehicle was the passenger car, of which 35,900 were manufactured during February. The commercial car total was 540, while the electric vehicle-makers contributed several hundred more.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE MEETS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 28.—James E. Sullivan, secretary of the American Olympic Committee, has issued a call for a meeting on Monday of the Executive Committee to prepare for America's participation in the Olympic games which will be held in Berlin in 1916.

Lawn tennis is the most popular game in London parks. During the year ended September 30, 144,642 games were played; bowls came next with 124,896. Cricket matches numbered 23,182, and football, 15,514.

Others Come and are Cured

Some people regard the word CURE as a joke, and no wonder, when you consider how it is abused and overworked. However, you do not refuse all money because some coins are counterfeit, and while you are "thinking about it," or are being "experimented" upon, wise sufferers come to me and are CURED.

Health is too PRECIOUS to "joke" with, and I want you to call for a man to man talk. I will make a free examination, and in cases I accept, I offer convincing professional and financial evidence, to which patients ARE ENTITLED, that I save them time, money and disappointment.

CHRONIC DISEASES, BLOOD, NERVOUS AND SKIN TROUBLES, PILES, FISTULA, ULCERATION OF THE RECTUM AND BOWEL, KIDNEY, BLADDER AND PROSTATIC TROUBLES, VARICOSE VEINS, DEFORMITIES, HERNIA (Rupture,) RHEUMATISM and CONSTIPATION come within my specialty.

Twice Around The World

OUR 1914 output of 50,000 cars if placed but a mile apart would reach twice around the world.

If placed end to end they would cover a distance of over 720,000 feet which would make an unbroken string of Overlands from New York City to Springfield, Mass.

Some cars!

And the point we wish to hammer home is the enormous economy of producing automobiles in such vast quantities.

No other manufacturer in the business can produce a car to duplicate the $950 Overland for less than $1200.

Every time our production goes up our price comes down.

That is why we are selling more cars of this type than any other manufacturer in the world.

It is certain that if we did not give more value we could not sell more cars, and the sooner you find this out the quicker you can save yourself considerable money.

The Overland has power, speed, beauty, grace, strength and everlasting ability.

The 1914 Overland costs you 30% less than any other similar car made.

There is an Overland dealer near you. See this car today.

Hints for Fishermen.

as they often are for target practice when the fishing grows monotonous, they should be carried inside the car.

The special camp blankets may be wrapped in the sleeping bag and carried on the tank of the stripped car, but in a touring car the blankets may be used on the seat or strapped on the running board.

A large piece of canvas should be carried, which is used to cover the machine at night and for packing while the car is on the road.

The Mackinaw is recommended as the most suitable auto coat. It is short and, while warm, does not hinder the motorist's movements in getting in and out of the car. The Mackinaw may also be used on the streams if the water is not too deep, in cold weather.

The new light trout boot or waterproof stockings are more popular now than the old-time heavy boot. A heavy wool sock is to be worn under these and a leather or heavy rubber sole shoe must be worn on the outside.

According to Dyas, the modern trout outfit will weigh less than fifty pounds for a party of two. A party of four need not carry more than 100 pounds and 150 to 200 pounds is said to be enough weight for a party of six in a seven-passenger car.

When the Buicks were packed, only one side of the touring cars was used. On the other side, the doors were used. The running boards carried practically all the baggage, leaving room for the passengers inside the car. The load was strapped to the running board with clamps, which go over the edges and are tightened according to the load.

The Buick racer carried the outfit on the rear ditty box. The cook outfits were placed inside the box and the rest of the outfit was strapped on the top with ropes running from the seat, down and around the box, which made the baggage solid.

Announcing—

The Year's "Six" Sensation

FOR FIVE YEARS the automobile industry has been whispering the expected coming of the Ultimate Car—a fully equipped motor car of the $3000–$5000 class selling at $1600 to $2000. That very car has been created — it is the wonderful

New Lewis Six

But now, the man who denied himself a "Six"—with all its new driving sensations, its wonderful "pick-up"—the feeling of flying rather than being propelled by machinery—because a good six cost $3,000 to $5,000 need no longer put up with the drawbacks of "fours."

This is the first instance in automobile history that a 6-cylinder car of 135-inch wheel base with every refinement and luxury—mechanically perfected—has been offered anywhere near this price.

The 4-cylinder price now gives you the world's greatest motor car value in the new Lewis Six at $1750.

A Famous European Engineer's Masterpiece

The designer is M. Peturd, a famous French engineer, formerly with the Fiat, Italia, Darracqu and Unic.

The Lewis Six is a 6-cylinder car, 135-inch wheel base, 6-passenger body, equipped with every luxury and convenience that dealers in $5,000 cars have had to sell. Note the features and specifications.

It not only is attractive to the owners of moderate-priced cars, but people in the $500 and $1,000 class buying their second cars.

We are concentrating our energies on one chassis, one body. That manufacturing economy, plus the wonderful simplicity of the car (approximately 1,200 fewer parts than an average car) accounts for the extraordinary value.

Removes the Six's Last Snag

Road tests show that this is the most economical Six ever produced, 18 to 19½ miles to the gallon being secured. Its simplicity means upkeep on this car will be practically nil — and that means the highest degree of automobile satisfaction.

Never Before Such Features at the Price

This is the initial announcement of the most astounding value the automobile industry has ever known. The mere word-of-mouth news of the expected creation of this car has brought letters from practically every territory in this country. Come and see the new car—but first phone or write for a copy of the new catalog and photograph. Write to chance of doing what the 'varsity had failed to do—defeat the Trojans.

RELAY WAS EASY.

But a little thing like a near-tie score, and two events to be heard from, did not bother the southern men. The pole netted them 5 1-3 points, and the relay was so easy that Drew turned around in the last lap and waited for the perspiring freshmen, who were trudging along about ten yards behind.

Clean-cut wins and losses marked the U.S.C.-freshman battle. Few of the races brought thrills because of the evenness or because of fighting finishes. From a spectator's point of view the 880 furnished the best run. Tipton took the lead in the third lap, but he was trailed by Cohen until, for a time, it looked dubious for the southern man.

Once on the straightaway, he soon pulled out, however, and Cohen found himself getting to the tape three yards behind his competitor.

HATS OFF TO PRITCHARD.

Blue and Gold hats are off to Pritchard, the Occidental two-miler with the wonderful finish sprint. His race caused the one sensation of the varsity-Occidental contest. Stowitts led out from the start, followed by Zielle and Pritchard. The relative positions were maintained through the whole contest until the last lap. When the gun for the final round was fired, Stowitts opened up and soon placed twenty-five yards between him and Pritchard.

At the curve leading to the final sprint, Pritchard found himself and, in the most muscle-tearing sprint seen on the track this season, he grabbed the pole away from the California man on the high-banked turn and led him when the straightaway was reached. Stowitts fought hard, but the Occidental runner beat him to the tape by six good yards.

COOK IN THE 440.

Cook ran a consistent race in the 440. He took the lead from the start and maintained it for the whole course, though Clark threatened it severely in the last fifty yards. Cook won out by a foot and a half at the finish.

Coffeen carried away the third first place for the wearers of the orange and black by wresting the pole vault from Wright at twelve feet.

A feature of the early afternoon events was the mile run by Harry Wood. He took the pole on the second lap and proceeded to kick dust in the face of the whole squad, until, when he came around on the home stretch, he ran seventy-five yards ahead of the pack. His time of 4m. 21 3-5s. betters last season's California-Stanford record by five seconds.

As in the U.S.C.-freshmen meet, first places were cleanly won, with the exception of the events above. In most of the races ability to land in the first money was so unequally scattered among the entrants that the contest lacked the dash of those more evenly matched.

by the Manual team, but when little Wark broke the tape in the relay, everyone knew that the best team had won. It was the unexpected, but even the favorites take hats off to the new champs.

Beebe ran true to form, winning the mile and half miles without apparent effort. Yerkes ran him a good race in the mile, but the lanky Anaheim boy had a powerful finish tucked away in his slender legs that denied defeat. The muddy track and raw day prohibited records, but his time was good at that.

The 100-yard dash brought the first big surprise, when Jones, an awkward speeder from Whittier High, beat the favorites to the tape in good time considering the condition of the track. He had absolutely no form winning his race solely on a terrific flash of speed in the final twenty-five yards. He did not fare so well in the furlong, finishing second to Wark, who ran like a frightened deer all the way.

Murray, the Orange climber, loped away with the high hurdles, but was forced out of the low sticks when he fell in the trial heats. His time of 16s. was remarkable for that track. House came back strong over the low barriers, covering them in 26s. He also captured the broad jump with a fair leap.

Bagnard had things all his way in both the shot and discus. Pete won the shot with a put that taped 51ft. and 1 inch. His discus efforts were way below standard, barely passing the 115ft. mark.

Grieve of Hollywood surprised when he won the pole vault at 11ft. 9in., defeating Hall, the Santa Paula bear, who won the event last year. Creighton took a first place for Manual Arts in the high jump when he sailed over the bar at 5ft. 11in.

The time for the track events was slow on an average on account of the mud and wind. Taken as a whole, the meet was a big success and a splendid boost to Mr. Van Patten, the manager.

Points scored—Long Beach, 16; Manual Arts, 14; Anaheim, 14; Pasadena, 13; Riverside, 10; Santa Paula, 8; Whittier, 8; Santa Ana, 7; Hollywood, 7; Orange, 5; Pomona, 4; Hemet, 3; Harvard, 3; San Diego, 3; Monrovia, 1; Glendale, 1.

Less Money— More Mileage

AUTOMOBILE owners are to be congratulated, and we congratulate ourselves, over the conditions that make possible the present lowered prices on Firestone Tires.

The lower cost of rubber, due to increased production of raw gum—

The lower cost of building, due to greatly extended and improved manufacturing facilities—

The lower cost of producing the individual tire as our output rapidly increases to meet growing demand—

All these favorable conditions more than offset the increasing cost of skilled labor, and you, the car owner, get the benefit.

and Liefield under his J. Cal Ewing, high mogul Francisco club, is suspected of being unduly friendly with the Chicago Cubs. Charley O'Leary came to him from the St. Louis Cardinals. But there Ewing's National League relations seem to end. He has the White Sox to thank for Frank Miller and "Dutch" Schaller, and the St. Louis Browns for Willie Hogan. Jimmy Johnson, leading base-stealer here in 1912, came to the Seals from the White Sox, and returned to the major league as a member of the Cubs, indicating that Mr. Ewing has a friendly feeling for at least two clubs in Chicago.

Oakland seems to have somewhat of a leaning toward the St. Louis Browns. Of a number of players secured from that club last season, Catcher Alexander still survives. Jack Killilay and "Buck" O'Brien came to the Oaks from the Boston Red Sox. Possibly the Sox felt that they had a debt of gratitude to pay Oakland for saving sent them Duffy Lewis. Manager Arthur Devlin also is a Bostonian, but with National League persuasion. Devlin, it is figured, may look to the Braves and Giants for help from time to time, having seen service on both of those clubs. This may result in more National League talent being transplanted on the Coast than heretofore. Oakland drew Harry Ables from the New York Americans.

Sacramento boasts quite a bunch of former majors; Frank Arellanes and Jimmy Shinn, who came from the Boston Americans, Munsell of the Giants, Moran of Washington, Young of the Yankees and Hallinan of the Browns. Wolverton is known to be on good terms with several major league clubs, but Detroit will be his main dependence in the future.

The Portland-Cleveland scandal has already been mentioned. McCredie is deeply indebted to the Cleveland club for services rendered in the past. His present indebtedness to Somers consists of Fisher, West, Doane, Ryan, Krause and Krapp.

MOTOR-BOAT RACE FROM NEW YORK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—A feature of the international regatta to be held in connection with the Panama-Pacific Exposition next year will be a race for motor cruisers from New York to San Francisco, for prizes aggregating $10,000.

Preliminary arrangements for the contest were announced by the exposition today. The distance to be traversed is approximately 5000 nautical miles and about one month will be required for the race. Deep-sea boats of sixty-five-foot water line and over will be the contestants. Two entrants of the many have been announced.

The regatta plans call for races for every type of speed and cruising boat. A committee made up of motor boat men from various parts of the United States will be selected by the exposition to take charge of the events.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The framing of the America's cup defense sloop under construction at Nepon for A. S. Cochran of the New York Yacht Club, is completed, and plating was started today. The yacht, which has not yet been named, will be launched during the last week of April.

STUTZ COMPANY EXTENDING PLANT.

Returning from the Santa Monica road races, Harry C. Stutz, president of the company which bears his name, said that he would continue competing in such races as long as he could see a chance of demonstrating the superiority of his cars by that method.

An extensive plant is to be erected at Indianapolis, the present facilities being insufficient for the increasing output demanded on the "official road-race champion of 1913."

Road Dope.

SPORTSMEN INSPECT ROUTES TO STREAMS.

GEORGE CLINE, the local sporting goods man, accompanied Jack Russell, manager for Earle Y. Boothe, agent for the National, Marion and Lewis automobiles, on a tour of Southern California last week. The trip was made in a National roadster and was of the business and pleasure combination variety.

Russell had to go to Riverside on automobile business and Cline was called to the same place on a golf deal. While out, the two sportsmen covered a great deal of ground and brought in reports on many of the trout streams and information regarding the roads.

The sporting goods man says that the automobile may be used to great advantage by fishing parties, but it is foolish for motorists to think that they will be able to get in their cars and drive to the streams. According to Cline and Russell, fishermen will have to indulge in a certain amount of foot work.

Fishing in the vicinity of the popular resorts is reported to be good. The Auto Club is to make a survey of all the canyons of Southern California within another week or so. Trout fishing parties will then be able to learn the condition of roads, off the main highways, but until then, Cline advises auto parties to drive to the towns near the streams and make inquiry there regarding the roads.

The Santa Ana Canyon road to Big Bear Valley is impassable. A flume is out and the water is said to be from six to ten feet deep at the creek crossings. The Crest road is also impassable to automobiles after leaving Little Bear.

The road to Little Bear is in fair condition by way of Pine Crest and Squirrel Inn.

The desert road around Victorville is good, but rather heavy grades are encountered on the desert side of the mountain. About three feet of snow makes it practically impossible for an auto to get into Bear Valley, although a Buick got in more than a week ago and won the distinction of being the first car in this season.

Mill Creek road is open. Lytle Creek Canyon road is open half way. The San Gabriel Canyon road is absolutely impassable. The bridges have been washed out and the stream is about seven feet deep and seventy feet wide at the crossings.

The Sespe is open to machines for about four miles above Fillmore, according to Cline.

Water in the Ventura River is said to be high and roads will not be in shape for several weeks.

Good fishing should be found in the Little Santa Anita. To get there it is suggested that the machines be left at Monrovia and trails be taken with light pack outfits.

Roads to Azusa, San Bernardino, Riverside and Redlands are all good. It is suggested that fishing parties go to these towns and get directions there, from the garage men, who are all said to be acquainted with local road conditions.

CREDIT GIVEN TO TETZLAFF'S TIRES.

Anyone who has ever ridden in a fast motor car at a rate of speed approaching a mile a minute can easily realize how strong pneumatic tires must be constructed. It would be impossible to create new racing records were it not for the pneumatic tire and its staunch construction.

In the recent Grand Prize race at Santa Monica, Tetzlaff, driving the giant Fiat, created a new world's record for the 8.401 miles, which was the lap distance. It was in Tetzlaff's twelfth lap that he circled the course in 5m. 49s., or an average speed of 86.6 miles per hour. This is the fastest lap that has ever been turned in a Grand Prize or Santa Monica race.

Tetzlaff's 120 Fiat, which he used in making this record, was equipped with Savage tires, and to them must be given due credit for their share in the creation of the record.

Mr. Tire User What Does Extra Price Buy?

What More Than Men Get in No-Rim-Cut Tires —the Most Popular Tires in the World?

Many tires—particularly anti-skids—are sold at advances up to 50 per cent over Goodyear prices.

Lower prices are easily explained. One can always skimp quality. But how do makers justify those vastly higher prices?

What Do They Say?

Do they claim that they have an anti-skid better than our double-thick All-Weather tread? If so, won't you make a comparison?

Do they claim greater mileage? If so, how have Goodyears, in the test of time, become the most popular tires in the world?

Do they claim better features? Note that the four greatest features used in tires today are found in Goodyears only.

The Costliest Tire

The fact is that Goodyears are the costliest tires built, save for what we gain by output and efficiency.

They are the only tires final-cured on air bags, to save the blow-outs due to wrinkled fabric. That extra process costs us $1,500 daily.

They are the only tires in which hundreds of large rubber rivets are formed to combat tread separation.

They are the only tires which have All-Weather treads, or any anti-skid which compares with them.

The Limit in Low Cost Per Mile

No man knows of any way to lower our cost per mile. And, in all probability, nobody ever will.

We spend $100,000 yearly on research and experiment. But we haven't in years found a single way to better formula or fabric materially.

On a value basis, No-Rim-Cut tires should be the highest-priced tires in America. And once they were. They sold for one-fifth more than other standard tires, because of costly methods no one else employs.

They can't be rim-cut. And no other maker does what we do to save blow-outs and loose treads.

A higher price means simply higher profit. Else it means small output or inefficiency. You cannot wish to pay for things like that.

DETROIT HELPS THE WOLVES.

Sacramento Expects to Be in First Division.

Skeptics Say Pitching Staff Is Weak.

Finger of Scorn Is Pointed at Third.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—Carl Brazier, the baseball writer of the Sacramento Union, writes of the prospects of the baseball teams of the Pacific Coast League:

From this distance it looks as though Venice, Sacramento and Portland would fight it out for the pennant, with San Francisco, Los Angeles and Oakland left to fight it out for the second-division honors.

Sacramento enters the race with Harry Wolverton at the helm for the second year. Last year he came here under a disadvantage. In the first place, he was bound to feel a bit humiliated on his failure to stick in the big brush. In the second place, he was coming to a town that had been educated to tail-end baseball, and he inherited a second division family. He gathered new material, but all of his players were new to each other. This year Harry is enthusiastic over Sacramento baseball.

And Sacramento this spring, by virtue of its alliance with the Detroit Americans, stands better chances to bolster up any weak spots that may develop than any other club of the league. Wolverton will get the pick of the Detroit discards in another two weeks, and Detroit has more young players in camp and thus must release more next month than any other major league club.

The skeptics in Sacramento fandom say that the pitching staff of the Wolves is weak. But they admit that Klawitter, Stroud, Slagle and Kremer look like reliable men and that the other twirlers may deliver the goods. When it comes to a showdown, no club in the league can boast of more than two or three pitchers who are sure to deliver, so why should Sacramento's pitching staff look weak?

The Wolves' catching staff is unquestionably stronger than last year. The outfield is at least as strong as last year, and it won't be long before the doubters admit that it is stronger —for Al Schweitzer will soon establish his superiority to Jimmy Lewis.

About that infield—Tennant, Hallinan and Young look better now than they did when they were working together in a well-developed infield machine last fall. At the second, young Forrest is the center of the shots of the knockers. The writer believes that Forrest will be in the fray up to the end of the season and that the knockers will be climbing on the band wagon in a couple of months.

But even admitting for the sake of argument that there is a weakness at second base—there is the Detroit alliance to plug up the hole. And that's more than can be said of the weaknesses that appear in the other clubs of the league. San Francisco is notably weak at first and second; Oakland is weak at first, behind the plate, in the pitching staff, and Hetling is slipping at third; Portland has an inexperienced man on third and is weak on pitchers; Los Angeles is weak at third base, in the outfield and possibly at first; Venice is woefully weak in pitchers, and Litschi is on the decline, leaving a weakness at third.

PROJECT LAND BUREAU.

With the announced intention of affording its members and others an efficient method of getting in touch with immigrants and prospective settlers entering California through Los Angeles and of advertising Southern California, the California Land and Immigration Bureau, an organization now being perfected, is making preparations to open an exhibit hall and lecture-room on the ground floor of the Marsh-Strong building at Ninth and Spring streets. Those back of the plan say that a number of prominent realty men have given the organization their indorsement.

In Frisco.

SEALS HAVE EXPERIENCE BUT ARE LACKING SPEED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—San Francisco has an aggregation of former big leaguers with plenty of hitting strength and experience, but the club looks shy of speed.

Jimmy Johnston, Cack Henley, Overall and McArdle are absentees. Justin Fitzgerald will fill center, but is handicapped by a weak arm, which weakens the team on the defensive. O'Leary adds strength at third, but is only a fair sticker, and is slow of foot on the paths.

Howard, if he is able to cover first, will help the Seals with his heavy hitting, but is slow in fielding and on the bases, and furthermore it is doubtful if he will go through the season.

Downs, second; Corhan, short; Schaller, left, and Mundorff, right, are going good. The real class of the team is in having such pitchers as Fanning, Leifield, Baum and Standridge, with prospects of Tozer, Hughes, Arlett, Pernoll and Henderson delivering the goods. Also the three catchers, Schmidt, Sepulveda and Clarke, compare favorably with any in league. The team is in great condition and will likely get a flying start.

The Oaks.

OAKLAND TEAM LOOKS LIKE A POOR PROSPECT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OAKLAND, March 28.—Not much difference from last year's tail-end club.

Devlin has an inexperienced semipro player at second in place of Bill Leard, a couple of speedy outfielders, and a couple of new pitchers, but that's all.

Besides losing Ables, the old pitchers—Malarkey, Christian, Pruitt and Killilay—have been slow in displaying the form they did in 1912 in pitching the Oaks into a pennant.

Geyer and Barrenkamp have shown best of the new men, and look the goods, although they have yet to go under fire.

Alexander, the catcher, has shown improvement, and Mitze and Arbogast will help out.

The rest of the team will be made up of Ness, first; Murphy, second; Cook, short; Hetling, third; Quinlan, left; Middleton or Zacher, center, and Kaylor right.

Quinlan is a good one, but is light, and may not hold up. Devlin does not rave about his chances, but he says the team will play better baseball than last season.

The Pennant Grabbers.

BEAVERS' BATTING ORDER PUZZLES WALT M'CREDIE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STOCKTON, March 28.—Portland's batting order for the opening week of the Coast season against Sacramento is causing deep ravines and crowsfeet to scroll themselves across the phiz of Walter McCredie, manager of the champions.

The big pennant baron is wavering between Derrick and Doane as lead-off batter and from present indications Doane will land the job despite announcements some days ago to the contrary.

So much Manager McCredie admitted as he led his charges off across country to Stockton for the brief interim before the league opening Tuesday.

Under the revised programme of attack the batting array for March 31 will be:

Husky Elmer Hanson has been the biffing sensation in the Portland camp so far in the campaign. While the San Bernardino giant has pitched in only four spring games, his batting is up to the stupendous height of .625.

Bill Rodgers, Gus Fisher and Walter Doane likewise have been going at a tremendous clip. In six games the doughty captain has averaged .416 and Doane, in seven, .392. Doane was the big star against the negroes and Kores against Chicago with two screeching safeties.

Buddy Ryan, Bill Speas and Fred Derrick appear to be the only regulars off their hitting. Ryan's average in six games has been only .222, but nobody who has seen Buddy whang the sphere around the lot is worried a bit. Had Buddy been getting the breaks in luck on his line drives his average would read close to the .300 mark.

In the last game against the negroes at Watsonville, Bud nearly tore the cover off the ball every time he faced the pitchers. The first baseman leaped up and knocked down one of his shots with his gloved hand, but Bud came back afterwards with a screaming triple and a home run over a 350-foot stockade.

Haworth and Perkins, the two kid catchers, appear to be fair hitters. Neither likely will beat .250 this year if kept but Perkins, particularly, takes a nice cut and ought some day to blossom into a .300 biffer.

The complete Portland averages for the nine games of the spring training period to date are as follows:

	G.	A.B.	H.	Avg.

SALESMEN STUDY TIRE MAKING.

Salesmen of the J. W. Leavitt Company, local agents for Overland cars, attended a lecture Tuesday night at the Fisk Rubber Company's new building. J. P. Campbell of the Fisk factory gave a talk on the general construction of Fisk tires.

This method of familiarizing the salesmen with the quality of these tires was taken because the Overland company has decided to equip all Overland cars with Fisk tires. After the lecture the men were entertained at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

How Would You Like To Have These Master Minds Help You Choose Your Electric Car?

Think what a great privilege it would be to have the advice of Henry Ford, the world's greatest automobile manufacturer, and Thomas A. Edison, the world's greatest electrical authority, in settling the problem of which electric to buy.

We can offer you the result of their investigation and the benefit of their judgment on electric cars.

Three Times the Choice of Ford and Edison

Mr. Ford has owned three Detroit Electrics; and this is the only make of electric car he has ever owned.

Mr. Edison has owned three Detroit Electrics; and these are the only electric cars he has ever owned since we placed our cars on the market.

Why not be guided by these two men in choosing your electric? Their repeated purchases of Detroit Electric cars furnish the strongest endorsement they can give.

Advice Worth Millions

It is equivalent to what their advice would be if you were able to take them with you as you examine electric cars and choose the one you will buy.

Mr. Ford and Mr. Edison are only two of many men of national prominence in the automobile world, who after thorough investigation have purchased Detroit Electric cars. A partial list of these critical owners includes:

Henry B. Joy, President Packard Motor Car Co.
C. J. Moore, Operating Mgr. Packard Motor Car Co.
C. H. Wills, Factory Mgr., Ford Motor Co.
Lee Counselman, Vice-Pres. and Gen. Mgr. Chalmers Motor Co.
Geo. W. Dunham, Chief Eng., Chalmers Motor Co.
J. Frank Duryea, Vice-Pres. and Factory Mgr. Stevens-Duryea Automobile Co.
Howard Marmon, President Nordyke & Marmon Co.
S. J. Kuqua, Vice-Pres. Cole Motor Car Co.
J. Walter Drake, President Hupmobile Motor Car Co.
Gilbert W. Lee, Director Lozier Motor Co.
Charles J. Butler, President Morgan & Wright Co.

Never before in the history of the automobile business has any one manufacturer been able to offer such concrete proof of the superior design, material and workmanship of his product as is shown by the choice of such men as these.

These Men Know

These men know the advantages of a manufactured car as compared with an assembled one. They realize the advantage of the Detroit Electric chainless direct shaft drive power plant; the large powerful motor; the patented braking system; the pure aluminum plate in bodies, window sash and fenders; the refined elegance of the upholstery, painting and general appointments of the Detroit Electric.

High Quality—Large Production

The Detroit Electric is, first, last and always a quality car. Yet, because of our volume of business, the Detroit Electric is not over-priced—nor even high-priced.

Large production and scientific methods of manufacture enable us to sell the Detroit Electric at from $300 to $500 lower than is asked for electric pleasure cars, which, we think, do not compare with the Detroit Electric in quality.

Detroit Electrics are manufactured, not assembled cars. Motors, bodies, axles, controllers, batteries, etc., are all built in the Detroit Electric factory—the world's largest and most completely equipped electric pleasure car factory.

The Car of the Year

Detroit Electric cars this year—as always—offer you the highest possible perfection in motor car building—utmost elegance and beauty in design and finish, the most modern features of convenience and luxury, the best of electrical engineering practice in power, speed, endurance, economy, safety.

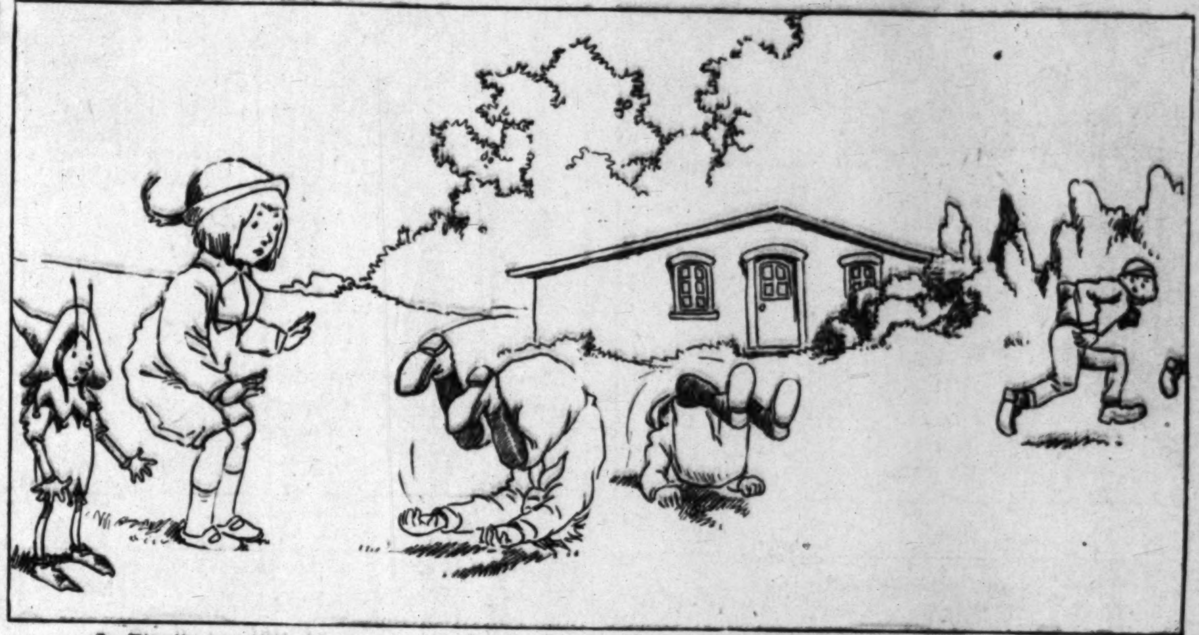
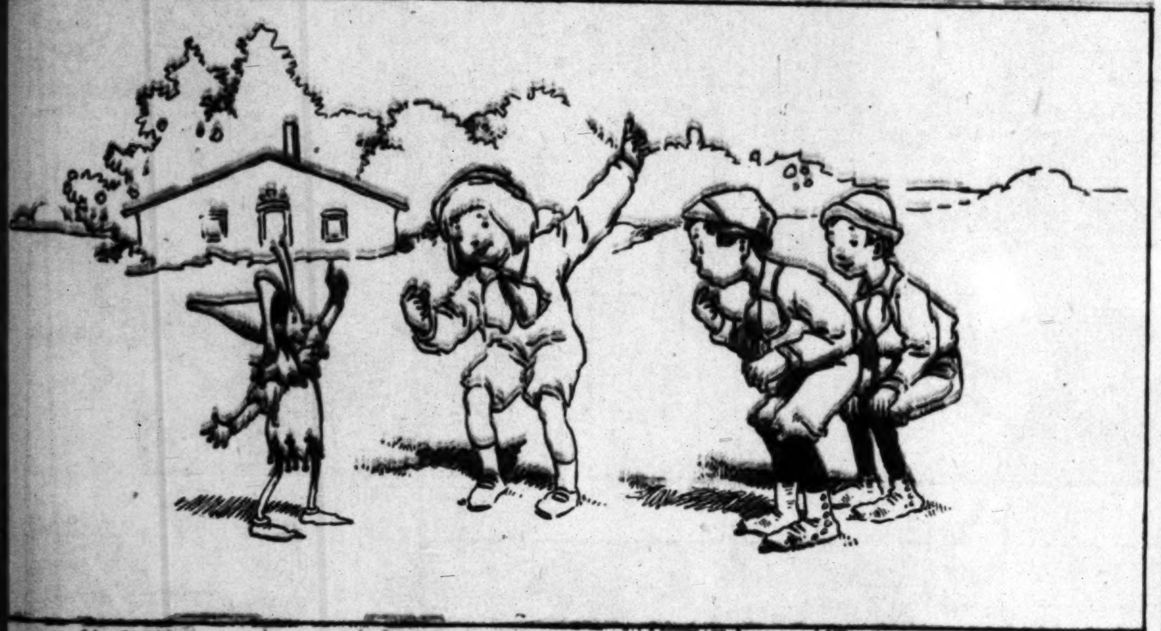
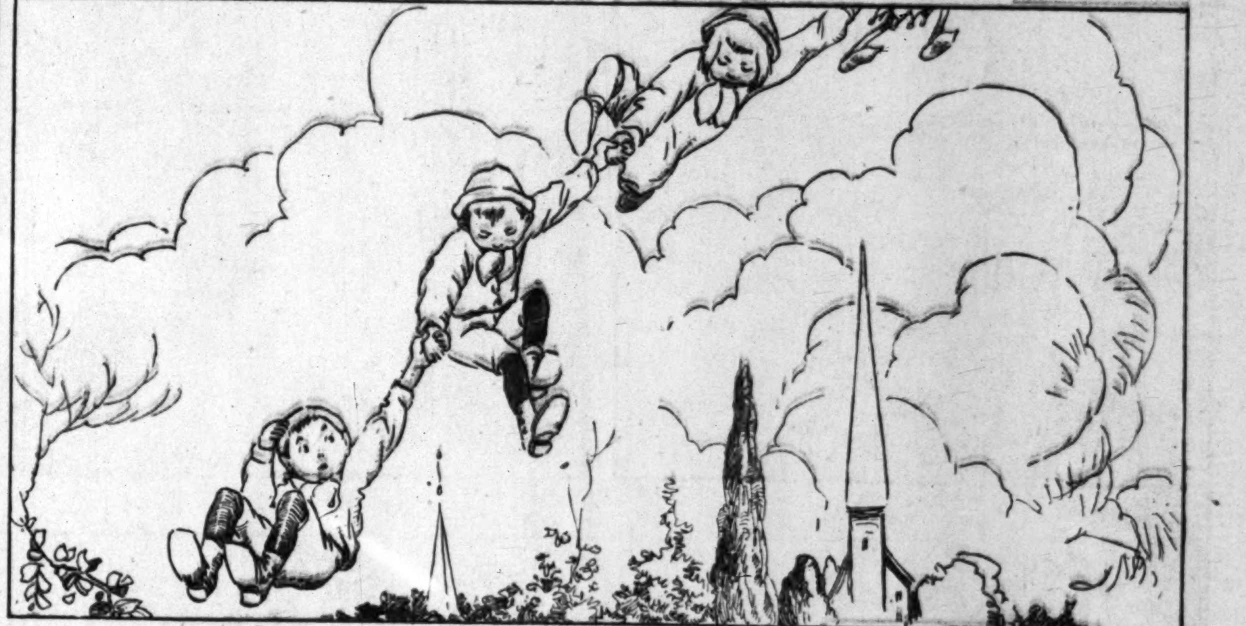
1—One day Dickie and Mr. Twee Deedle noticed some boys playing "crack the whip." The smaller boys were usually thrown to the ground because the larger boys made them take the end.



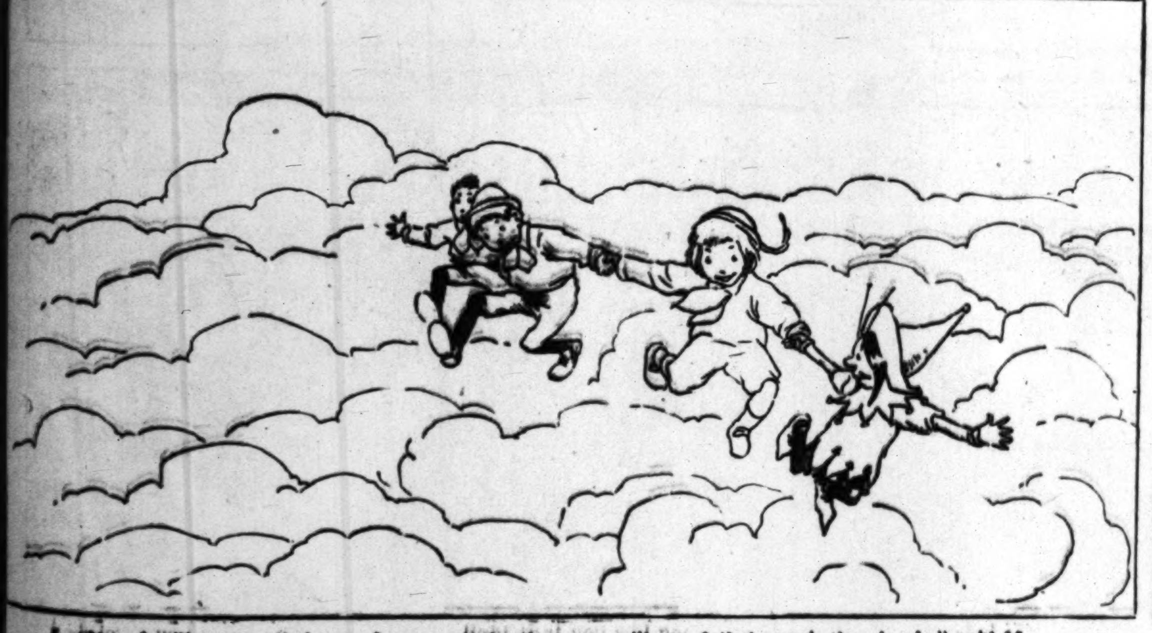
2—Finally two little boys on the end were thrown so hard they whirled over and over and were hurt.



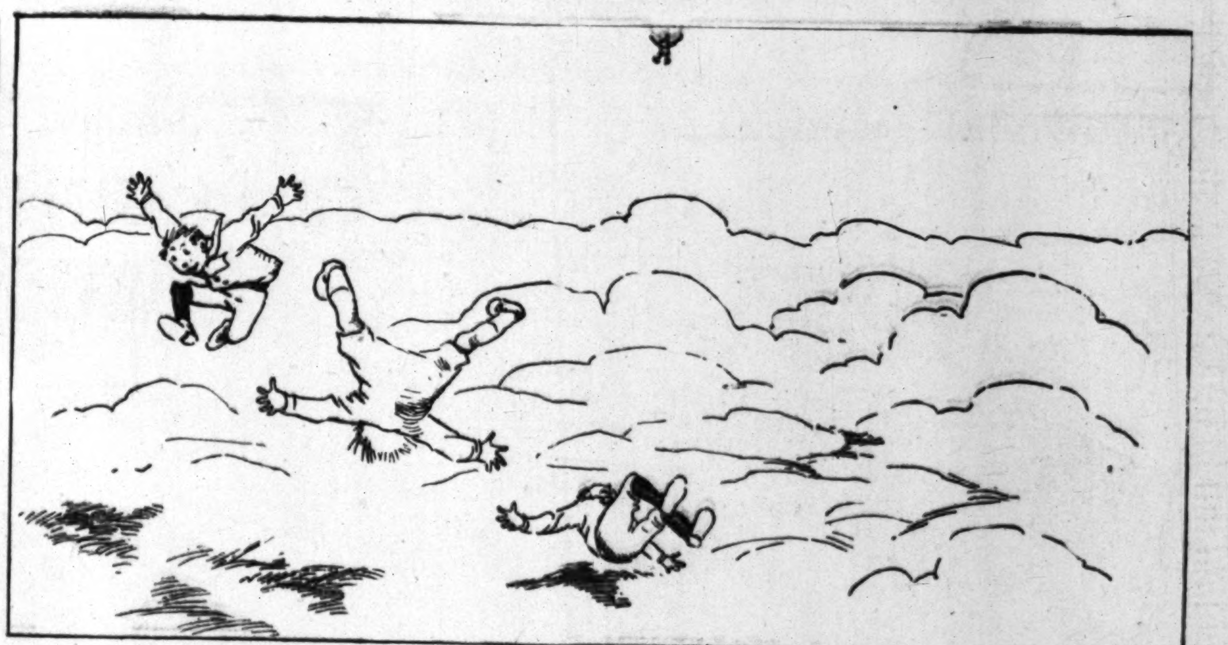
3—Mr. Twee Deedle told Dickie he would take the little boys up on the soft clouds to play "crack the whip."



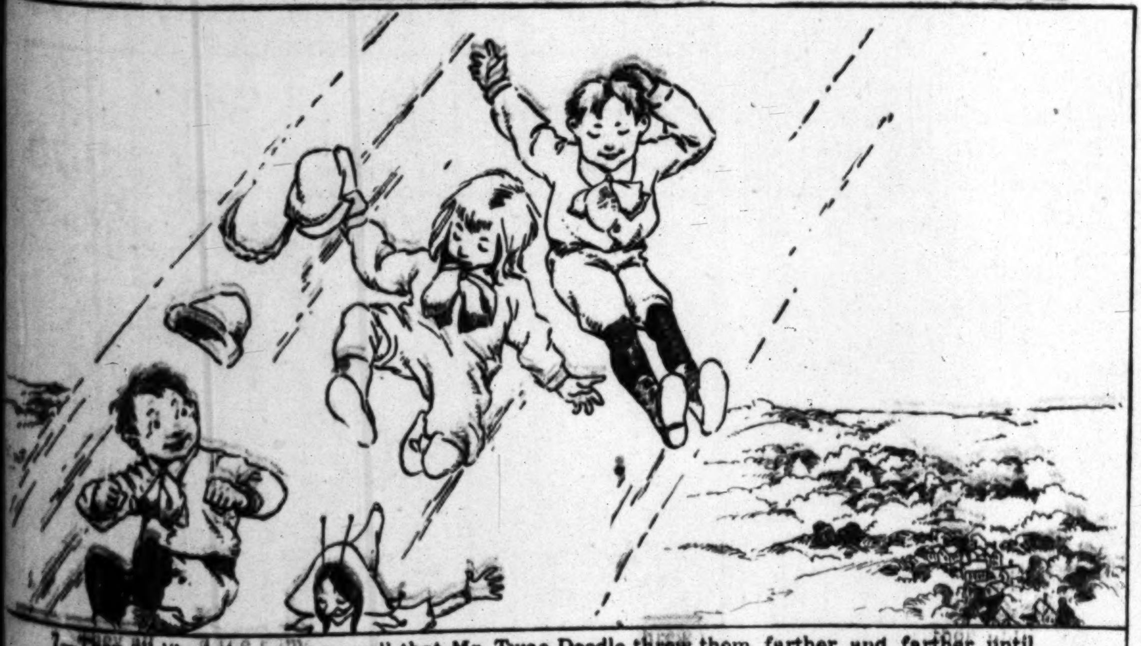
4—So Mr. Twee Deedle took the boys and Dickie away up above the clouds.



5—"Now I will make all three of you so light that you will not fall through the clouds," said Mr. Twee Deedle. "And we will play 'crack the whip.'"



6—Mr. Twee Deedle caught hold of the boys' hands and flew like the wind. The boys were so light that they bounced up and down against the clouds like rubber balls.



7—They all liked the game so well that Mr. Twee Deedle threw them farther and farther until they were tired. Then he found a rainbow stretching to the meadow below and they all slid down on it.

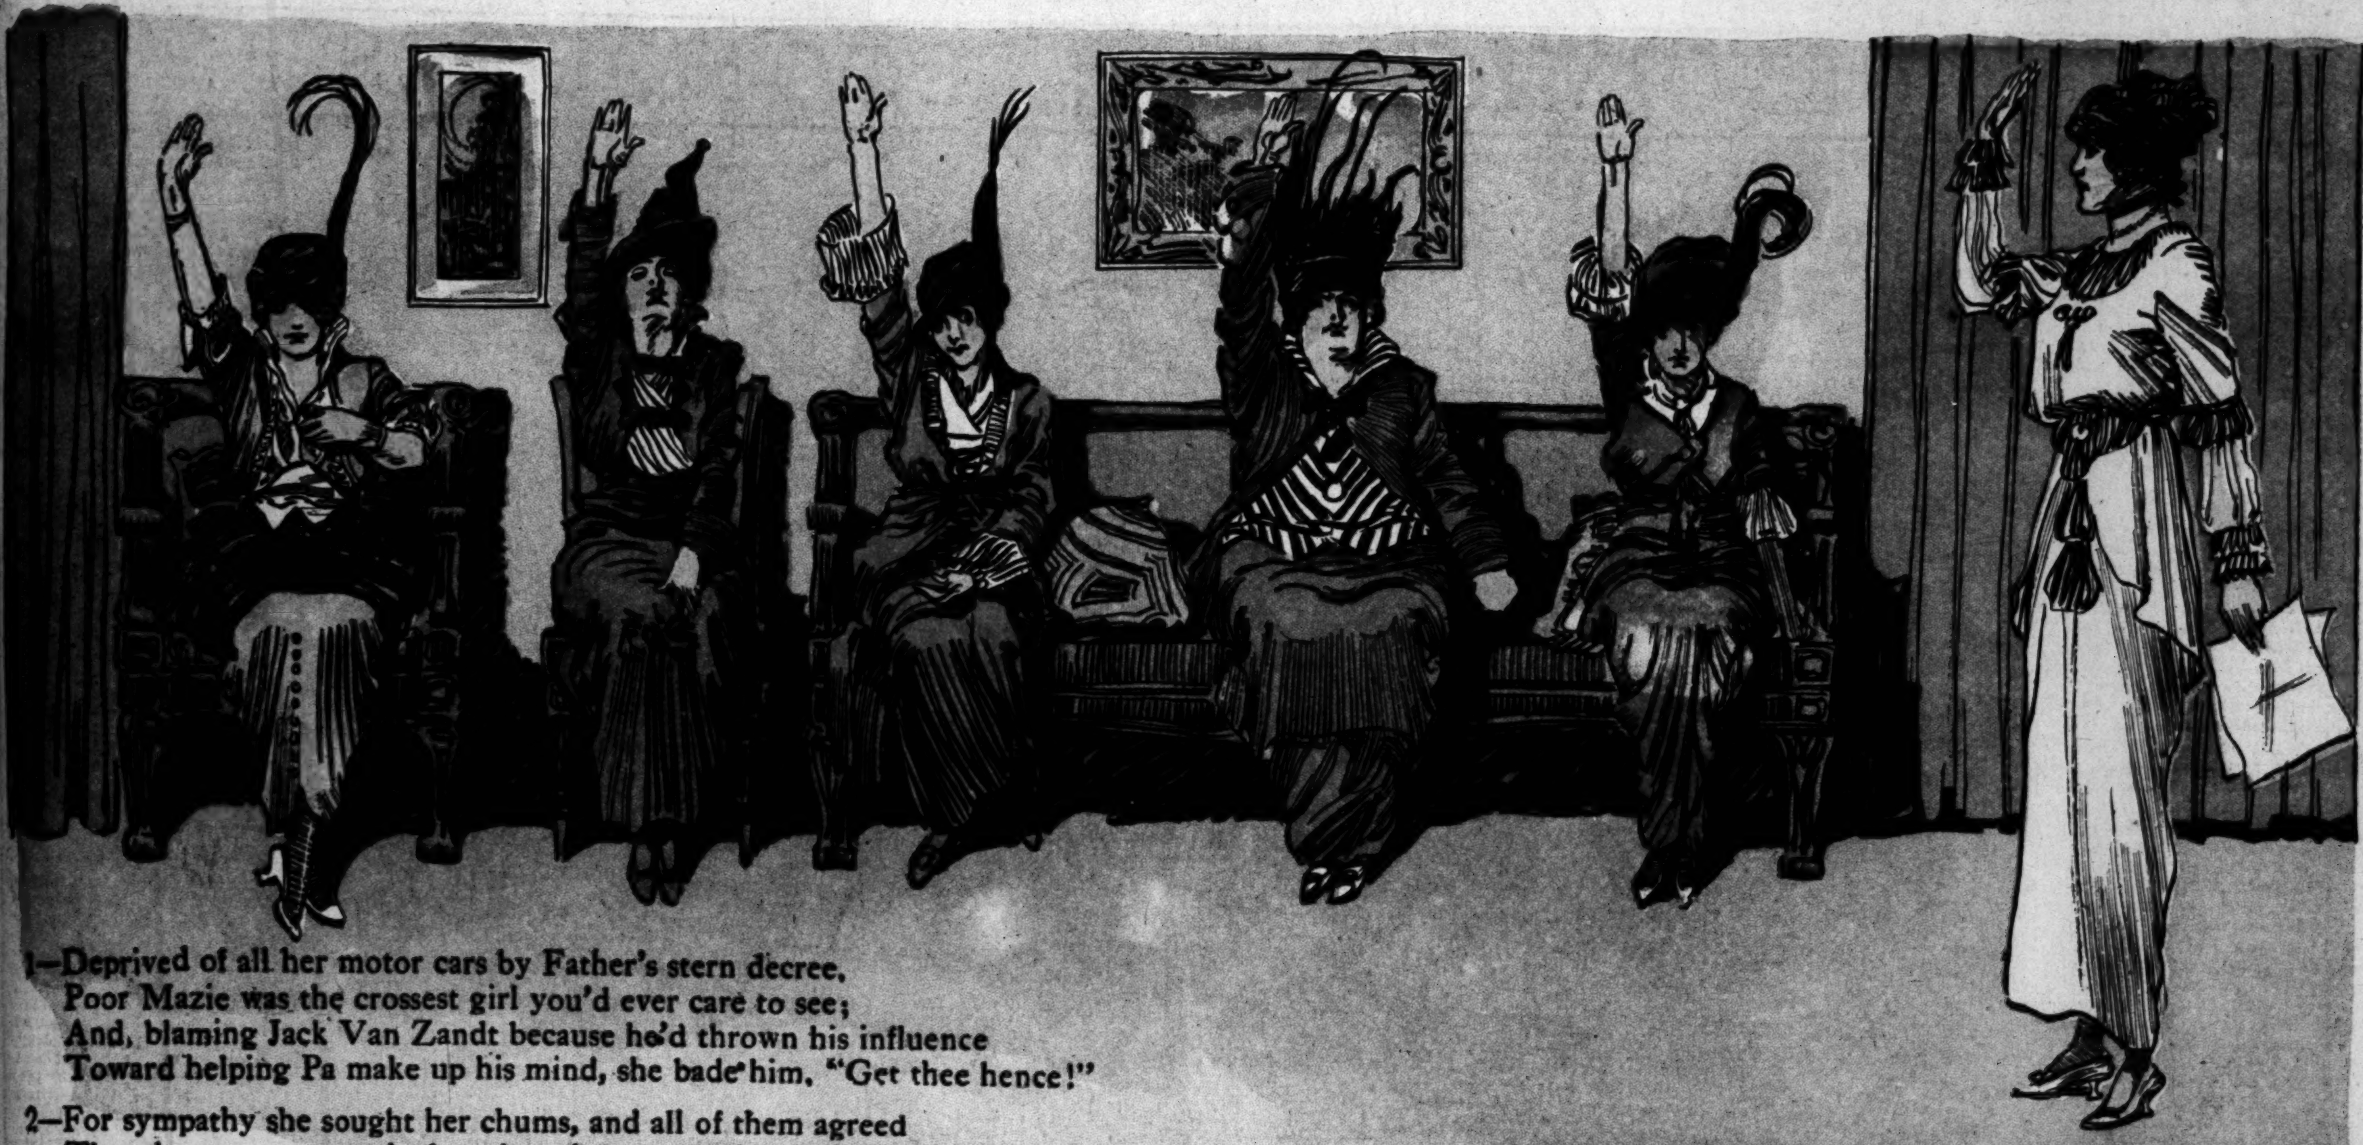
MAZIE

VERSES BY PAUL WEST

ILLUSTRATIONS BY J. NORMAN LYND



1—Deprived of all her motor cars by Father's stern decree,
Poor Mazie was the crossest girl you'd ever care to see;
And, blaming Jack Van Zandt because he'd thrown his influence
Toward helping Pa make up his mind, she bade him, "Get thee hence!"

2—For sympathy she sought her chums, and all of them agreed
That she was very much abused, and men were brutes indeed;
And when they'd sighed and cried themselves into the proper mood,
They listened to her plan to form a club for spinsterhood.

3—"Men love to rule us," Mazie cried. "Let's show them that they can't!
Let's vow to live apart from them, defiant, adamant!
Look at our chums who've married men—slaves every one, poor things!
Let's swear eternal enmity to love and wedding rings!"

4—With foolish joy the silly group the oath accepted then.
They called themselves the BACHELOR GIRLS. Their motto, "DOWN WITH MEN!"
"And if," said Mazie, "one should fall, enslaved by Cupid's tricks, We'll take another member in and keep the number six!"

5—And Bessie Brown was picked to make their badges (blue, of satin), Embellished with their motto, which she said she'd write in Latin.
And so they met at Mazie's house when Saturday came on,
And waited there for Bessie and the badges new to don.

6—Each girl while waiting made report of spurning Man's advances—
One had declined a dinner, all a lot of teas and dances.
"Good!" Mazie cried, "we're doing well! We'll show them, never fear!
Let's get right down to business now—but Bessie isn't here!"

7—And then—a note from Bessie, with six little knots of blue:—
"Accept my resignation, Dears; I can't be there with you.
You see, I called in Tommy Smith to help me write our motto,
And—well, congratulate us, girls. You really know you ought to!"

8—They gasped. But Mazie cried: "Weak girl! Who cares? We'll let her go!
Shall that disrupt the Bachelor Girls?" "No, no!" they chorused, "No!
We'll take another member in, Man's downfall yet to wreak!"
AND SO THE BACHELOR GIRLS ADJOURNED, TO MEET AGAIN NEXT WEEK!

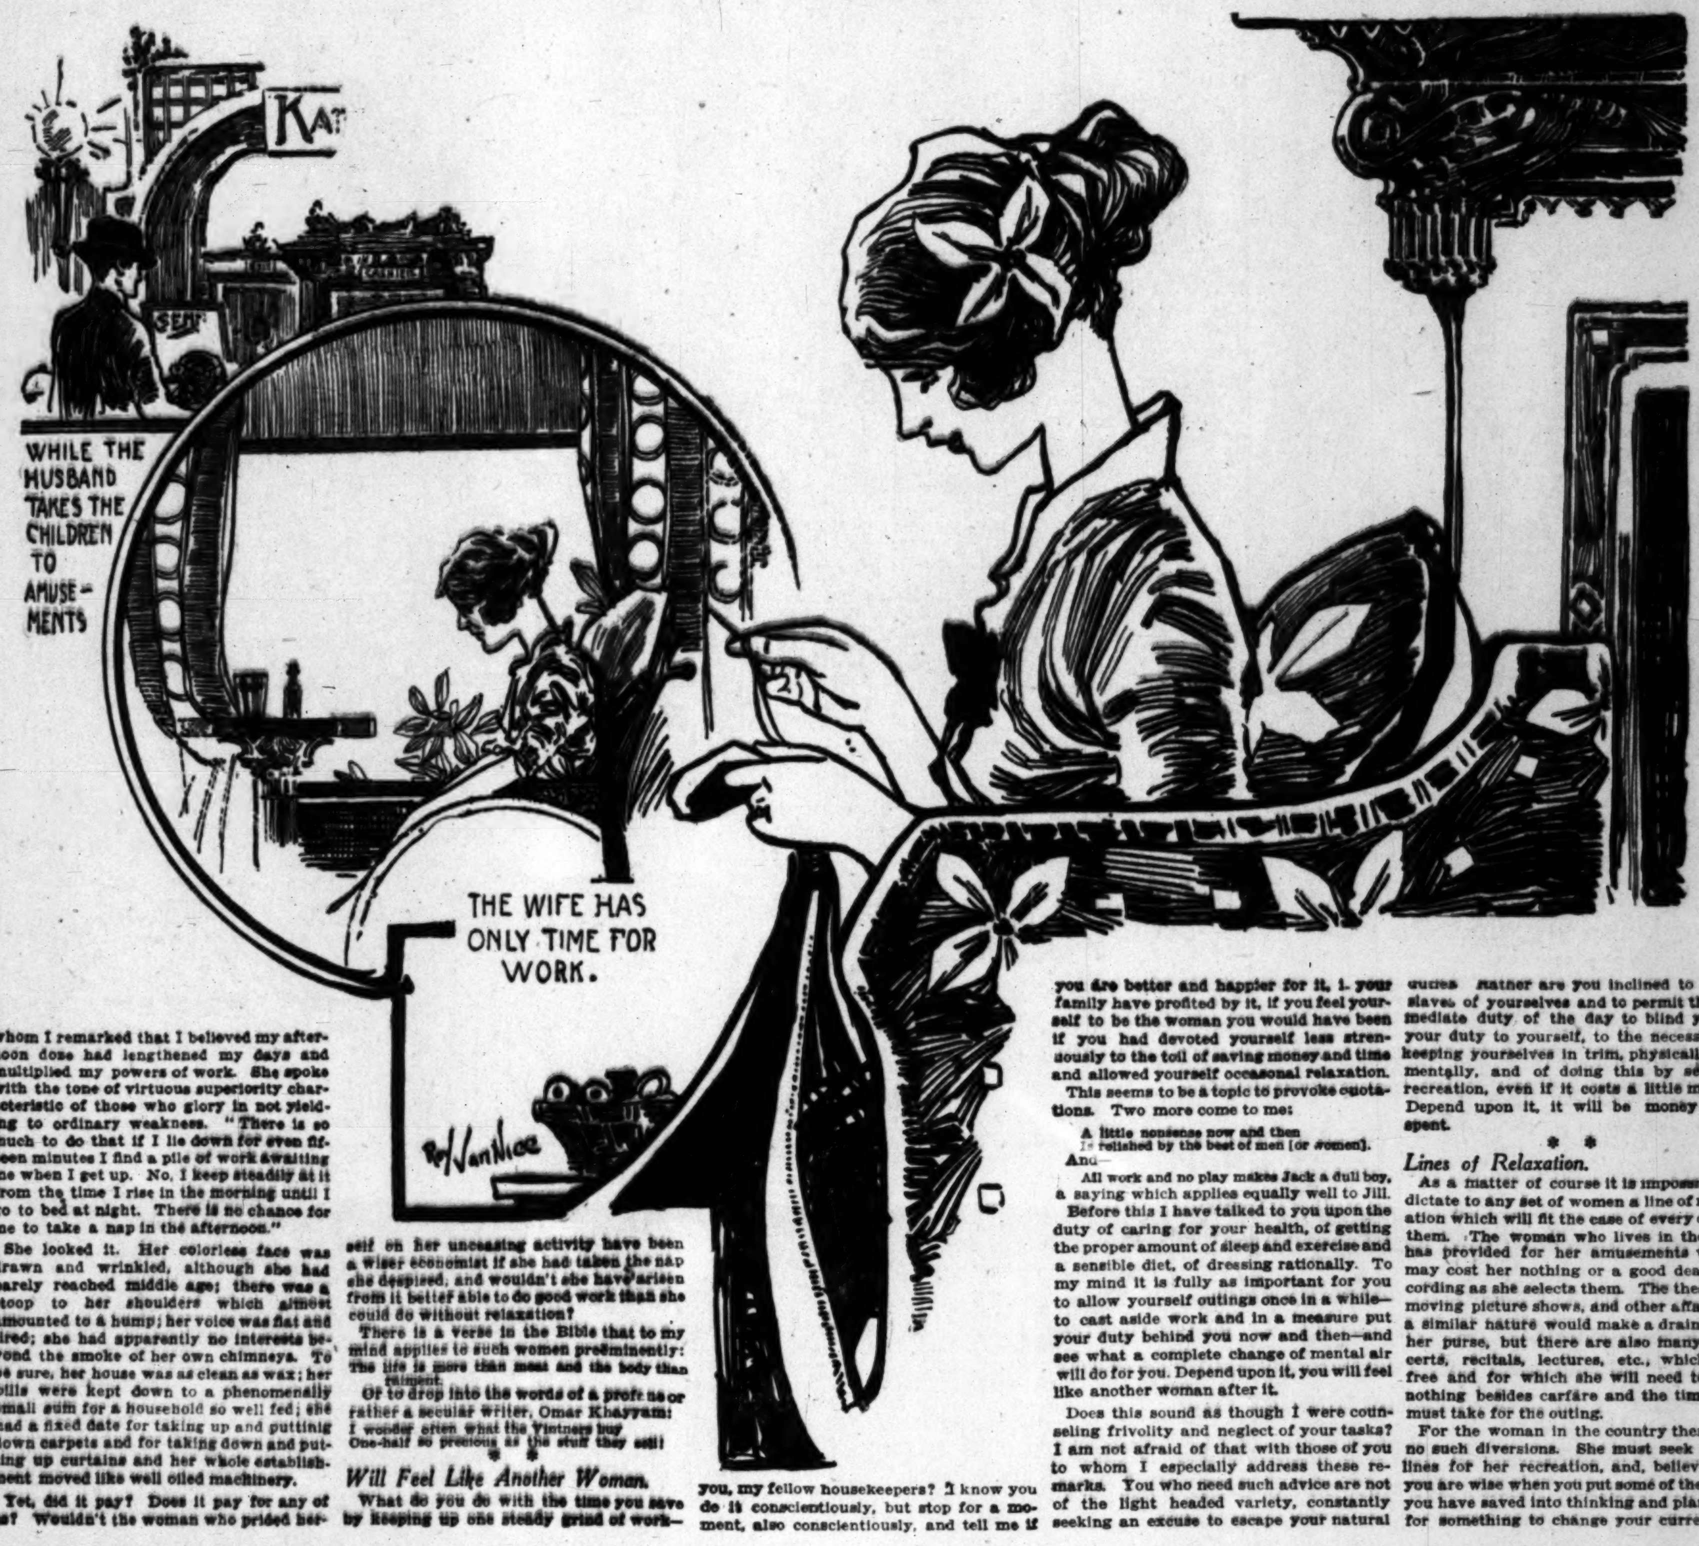
COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

A FEW MISTAKEN ECONOMIES.



KAT
WHILE THE HUSBAND TAKES THE CHILDREN TO AMUSEMENTS
THE WIFE HAS ONLY TIME FOR WORK.
Roy Van Nice

EVERY woman who is worth anything has a certain pride in her economies. Yet sometimes I wonder if they all understand just what is meant by wise economy. When I say this I am not speaking of the saving of money, of the care of leftovers, of the endeavor to set a good table for a limited sum, of the attempt to make a dollar do the work of a dollar and a half without the suspicion of the family that you are cutting down outlay. All these things we who are housekeepers strive to do constantly and continuously and for such economies only praise is due. But there are other savings into which you are led in your effort to reduce expenses, and it is the wisdom of these which I question.

Take in the first place the saving of time. How do you save it and what do you put into it after it is saved? I know what some of you do. Only the other day I was told by a woman that she had made four rag rugs since the first of last October, cut the pieces, sewed them, and braided them. "I did them in the odd moments," she said, proudly, "and in the evenings I haven't been out anywhere this winter. My husband and my children go off together to lectures and plays and concerts and they beg me to go along, but I tell them I can't afford the time. When I look at my rugs," contemplating complacently the four spread out on the floor between us, "I feel amply repaid for having saved my time and money."

Was such an economy worth while? I wondered within myself while I sat and chatted with her and heard her details of how long it had taken her to sew the rags for this rug and the difficulties and interruptions she had had while braiding that. The rugs were pretty and useful—but the woman who made them looked tired, her complexion showed the lack of outdoor exercise, the lines in her face testified to the little cares which she had mused on while she worked; her conversation was limited to home happenings and household occupations. She showed through all her being the need of a breath of fresh air, of diversion, of outside occurrences which would take her mind off the small things which encompassed her.

She Never Took a Nap.

Such economy is really extravagance. What else had the rugmaker paid for the labors of her hands besides time and effort? She had given up the companionship of her husband and children, the chance to brighten herself up, the opportunity to keep in touch with her nearest and dearest and to save herself from slipping into the ranks of the old fogies and back numbers. More than this, she had made her children pay, too, and her husband had contributed his share, although she didn't know it and perhaps he hardly suspected it himself. But he had learned that her society was not necessary to him any more than his was to her; she had had shown him that their interests and those of her children were divergent.

As I pondered over it all I came to the conclusion that those rugs were among the costliest floor coverings that had ever come my way.

"I never have time for a nap," was the reply made to me by an acquaintance to whom I remarked that I believed my afternoon doze had lengthened my days and multiplied my powers of work. She spoke with the tone of virtuous superiority characteristic of those who glory in not yielding to ordinary weakness. "There is so much to do that if I lie down for even fifteen minutes I find a pile of work awaiting me when I get up. No, I keep steadily at it from the time I rise in the morning until I go to bed at night. There is no chance for me to take a nap in the afternoon."

She looked it. Her colorless face was drawn and wrinkled, although she had barely reached middle age; there was a stoop to her shoulders which almost amounted to a hump; her voice was flat and tired; she had apparently no interests beyond the smoke of her own chimneys. To be sure, her house was as clean as wax; her bills were kept down to a phenomenally small sum for a household so well fed; she had a fixed date for taking up and putting down carpets and for taking down and putting up curtains and her whole establishment moved like well oiled machinery.

Yet, did it pay? Does it pay for any of us? Wouldn't the woman who prided herself on her unceasing activity have been a wiser economist if she had taken the nap she despised, and wouldn't she have arisen from it better able to do good work than she could do without relaxation?

There is a verse in the Bible that to my mind applies to such women preëminently:

> The life is more than meat and the body than raiment.

Or to drop into the words of a profane or rather a secular writer, Omar Khayyam:

> I wonder often what the Vintners buy
> One-half so precious as the stuff they sell!

Will Feel Like Another Woman.

What do you do with the time you save by keeping up one steady grind of work—you, my fellow housekeepers? I know you do it conscientiously, but stop for a moment, also conscientiously, and tell me if you are better and happier for it, if your family have profited by it, if you feel yourself to be the woman you would have been if you had devoted yourself less strenuously to the toil of saving money and time and allowed yourself occasional relaxation.

This seems to be a topic to provoke quotations. Two more come to me:

> A little nonsense now and then
> Is relished by the best of men [or women].

And—

> All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy,

a saying which applies equally well to Jill.

Before this I have talked to you upon the duty of caring for your health, of getting the proper amount of sleep and exercise and a sensible diet, of dressing rationally. To my mind it is fully as important for you to allow yourself outings once in a while—to cast aside work and in a measure put your duty behind you now and then—and see what a complete change of mental air will do for you. Depend upon it, you will feel like another woman after it.

Does this sound as though I were counseling frivolity and neglect of your tasks? I am not afraid of that with those of you to whom I especially address these remarks. You who need such advice are not of the light headed variety, constantly seeking an excuse to escape your natural duties. Rather are you inclined to make slaves of yourselves and to permit the immediate duty of the day to blind you to your duty to yourself, to the necessity of keeping yourselves in trim, physically and mentally, and of doing this by seeking recreation, even if it costs a little money. Depend upon it, it will be money well spent.

Lines of Relaxation.

As a matter of course it is impossible to dictate to any set of women a line of relaxation which will fit the case of every one of them. The woman who lives in the city has provided for her amusements which may cost her nothing or a good deal, according as she selects them. The theaters, moving picture shows, and other affairs of a similar nature would make a drain upon her purse, but there are also many concerts, recitals, lectures, etc., which are free and for which she will need to pay nothing besides carfare and the time she must take for the outing.

For the woman in the country there are no such diversions. She must seek other lines for her recreation, and, believe me, you are wise when you put some of the time you have saved into thinking and planning for something to change your current of life. If you live in a country n hood inclined to sociability, don't le self slip into the idea that you are too old for such giddiness and that th for you is at your own fireside. you are more comfortable there th where else, an occasional excurs send you back home better satisfi before and with a fresh apprec the delights that surround you there.

Don't be afraid to join a woman's If there isn't one for you to join, You will find enough other wom courage you to make success may not study deep subjects; you discuss home problems, but they different after you have talked with others, and from such a you are pretty sure to work natur the topics of which the world is f the work women are doing everyw themselves and for other women is meant by settlement and indust in women's lives; the strides taken in literature and the arts ences; the new modes of educati hundred cognate themes.

Many of the new theories and you will take up only to throw will turn from others with co there may be few of which you w approve, but none the less they you to thinking, they will tug yo the environment in which you self fixed, and when you go back will feel awakened and roused able to do your work than when Pleasures at the Fireside.

Bring your children and your h into your change of air. Perhaps y such that it is next to impossib to leave your home for a neigh club. Even so, the world is still number of things which you m about without quitting your firesid pare the farm life of today, with ephone, the rural free delivery, the post, the cheap magazines, the daily with what it was a couple of deca Is there any real reason why you not keep in touch with what is go the world; that you should not your family in nature clubs, clubs, in study clubs; that you sh read together and play together to keep one another from slipp grooves so deep that you cannot the edges of them?

Don't think I am going too fa urge you, the busy woman wh always of working for others an time that she may do the more to bestow a little attention on you We all of us know—or ought to stimulating effect of good lo ments. Try to see what a bec or gown or a new way of dressing will do in the way of lifting you rut. I can't believe you will s one will see you except your even if you add that they never you look.

I don't credit that statement, you think it over carefully either. They may not observe they are not blind to the general know if you look trim or shabb you are becomingly dressed. Try the other changes, too, know the result, and if it co tradicts my theories that economies are marked by genuin

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"YOUR talk on 'The Problem of Charge or Cash' was of much interest to me. I have always found it to my advantage to pay as I go. One reason for my doing so is because we change our address quite frequently on account of my husband's position and there is nothing so dreadful as a stack of bills to settle when one has to leave hurriedly. Another reason is that I find I get my money's worth and I always, when trying a new brand of goods, tell my dealer that I will return it if not satisfactory. I always buy the best—not necessarily the most expensive—as it pays in the long run. I do my own buying personally, never by telephone. One can learn a great deal by talking over the different articles with some one who knows about them. Something I would like to suggest in the way of economy is that before going out to market the housekeeper should make a list of the articles wanted and of their approximate prices. You have no idea how much can be saved by this simple little habit. I don't keep a regular expense account, because I allow myself just about so much a week, and I find the checking up before spending is better than doing so afterwards. My husband and I each have a savings account and every two weeks we divide what has been left above running expenses and put it to our separate accounts. Besides that I have a separate account made up of odds and ends. I save for maybe a month or six weeks; then I buy something that I need. I do nearly all of my own sewing, so that bargains have little temptation for me. Just now I am saving to buy the fine white linen for a summer dress. As soon as the new spring goods come in I will get material and embroider it, and when I get through I will have a dress that if bought ready-made would cost me $40 or $50, but will cost me about $10, and it will be something out of the ordinary. In buying food I always think of the stomach and not the garbage can. I try not to waste, but sometimes it cannot be avoided, especially in summer. I hope some of these ideas may be o use to others. Mrs. J. H. G."

This is a long letter, but I have printed it because it is rich in helpful suggestions which I believe will be of genuine assistance to other housekeepers. I am especially impressed with the management of money affairs as well as with the plan followed in marketing. I am not sure that I agree with her entirely in thinking that there is bound to be waste in summer, for I believe by purchasing judiciously and by understanding how to use up the scraps that cannot be eaten at once—as canning vegetables, preserving fruit, and potting meats or fish, even if only a small amount of each is put up at a time—it is possible to eliminate practically all waste from the kitchen—that is, if the buying has been done wisely in the first place. I would like to know if other housekeepers agree with me in this or if they think that some waste is inevitable.

Instructions in Basket Making.

"Can you advise me where I can get instuctions in basket making and get the materials? My brother, who is an invalid, wishes he could find a way of learning to make baskets. He is paralyzed in the legs and is anxious to find some means of earning money as well as to help pass the time. "Mrs. R. B. W."

It is impossible for me to give addresses on this page, as I have said frequently, but I hope your letter may reach the eye of some one who can write to you or to your brother personally and supply directions for making the baskets and tell where to procure the reed and raffia used in their manufacture. It is work that is easily learned, I know, and it would certainly furnish a way to pass the time, even if it would not be possible to earn large sums until a certain degree of proficiency was acquired. I will give your address to any one inclined to assist you.

Apples on Sticks.

"I notice that some one applies for a recipe for apples on sticks. I inclose the recipe, although I call it candy apples. I don't know why children consider them an improvement upon plain apples, but they seem to: Cook without stirring two and one-half cups of granulated sugar with a gill of water; when a little forms a soft ball in cold water add a tablespoon of butter and cook until a brittle thread forms in cold water. Have apples washed, dried, and impaled at the blossom end on a skewer. Dip each apple into the sirup, cool and dip again until the coating is the desired thickness. L. H. L."

Thank you much for the recipe, which I hope may meet the eyes of the correspondents who have requested it, and thank you even more for the friendly words you write in the personal part of your letter. Such gratitude means a great deal to me in the way of encouragement and cheer.

Exchange for Crochet Work.

"I have a number of books in excellent shape, some health books, some history, some on chemistry, physical geography, and one on art, a manual on painting china and in oils. For these books I have no further use and I would like to exchange them for crochet work, hand embroidery, and hand painted china. I also have a beautiful silk piece quilt, new, that I would like to exchange. I also have a number of last year's women's magazines I would like to send to some shut-in. This is my first visit to your Corner. Mrs. L. M."

We shall be glad to have you come again. Any one offering books brings her welcome with her and we are sure to have applications for your address soon. I trust you may be able to arrange the exchanges you desire.

Sells Lunches to Autoists.

"In a small town near a large city lives a woman who has made fine profits from making and selling lunches to automobile parties. Her house stands near the road and she began by putting up a sign in the front of her house calling the attention of motorists to her light lunches, which consisted of sandwiches ranging in price from 5 to 10 cents each; also cold milk or buttermilk and other drinks she sold for 5 cents per glass. It was a splendid idea and she soon had a fine list of regular callers. She afterwards found that there was a demand for lunches to be packed. She bought dainty small pasteboard boxes and packed lunches, delicious and clean and tasty, consisting mostly of hard boiled eggs, fruits, cakes, or cookies, and sold these at moderate prices. The demand for the lunches increased and she became popular and she has now worked up a trade, and in this way she has supplied herself with pin money, clothed herself and family, and made a fine little profit for herself. I send this account in the hope the suggestion may be of service to some one who wishes to earn money at home. Mrs. M. B. M."

There are always many of these, and I hope most sincerely that the idea may appeal to some one in the right environment for making use of the plan. I have heard of its being tried with success in other localities, and if one may judge from the lack of good eating places on the roads frequented by automobile parties, there is room for many such establishments. I am grateful for Mrs. M. B. M. for taking the trouble to write on the subject.

An Invalid Boy.

"I have a boy who is an invalid and for some time has been obliged to sit all the time in a chair. He is 14 years old and has never been able to attend school or study on account of his nerves, and the days seem long to him. Do you suppose some one could send him something to amuse him, like beads to string, etc.? Mrs. A. G. W."

I hope that some one will be able to send something to help the boy while away the weary hours, either the beads his mother suggests, paints, picture puzzles, or something of the sort. At the same time it strikes me that it is a great mistake not to try to give him some instruction; at least he should be taught to read. A terrible prospect lies before him if his life should be spared for years to come and he has no more resources than he possesses at present. I will give his address to any one who feels disposed to send him anything or to communicate with his mother.

Wants an Address.

"I would like to get in touch with B. D. S., who gave a doughnut recipe in the Corner not long ago. Mrs. W. L. B."

It would give me pleasure to supply this address if I had it, but we do not keep the names of those who send us recipes and either ask nothing in return or make no request to us to place them in communication with other correspondents. For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

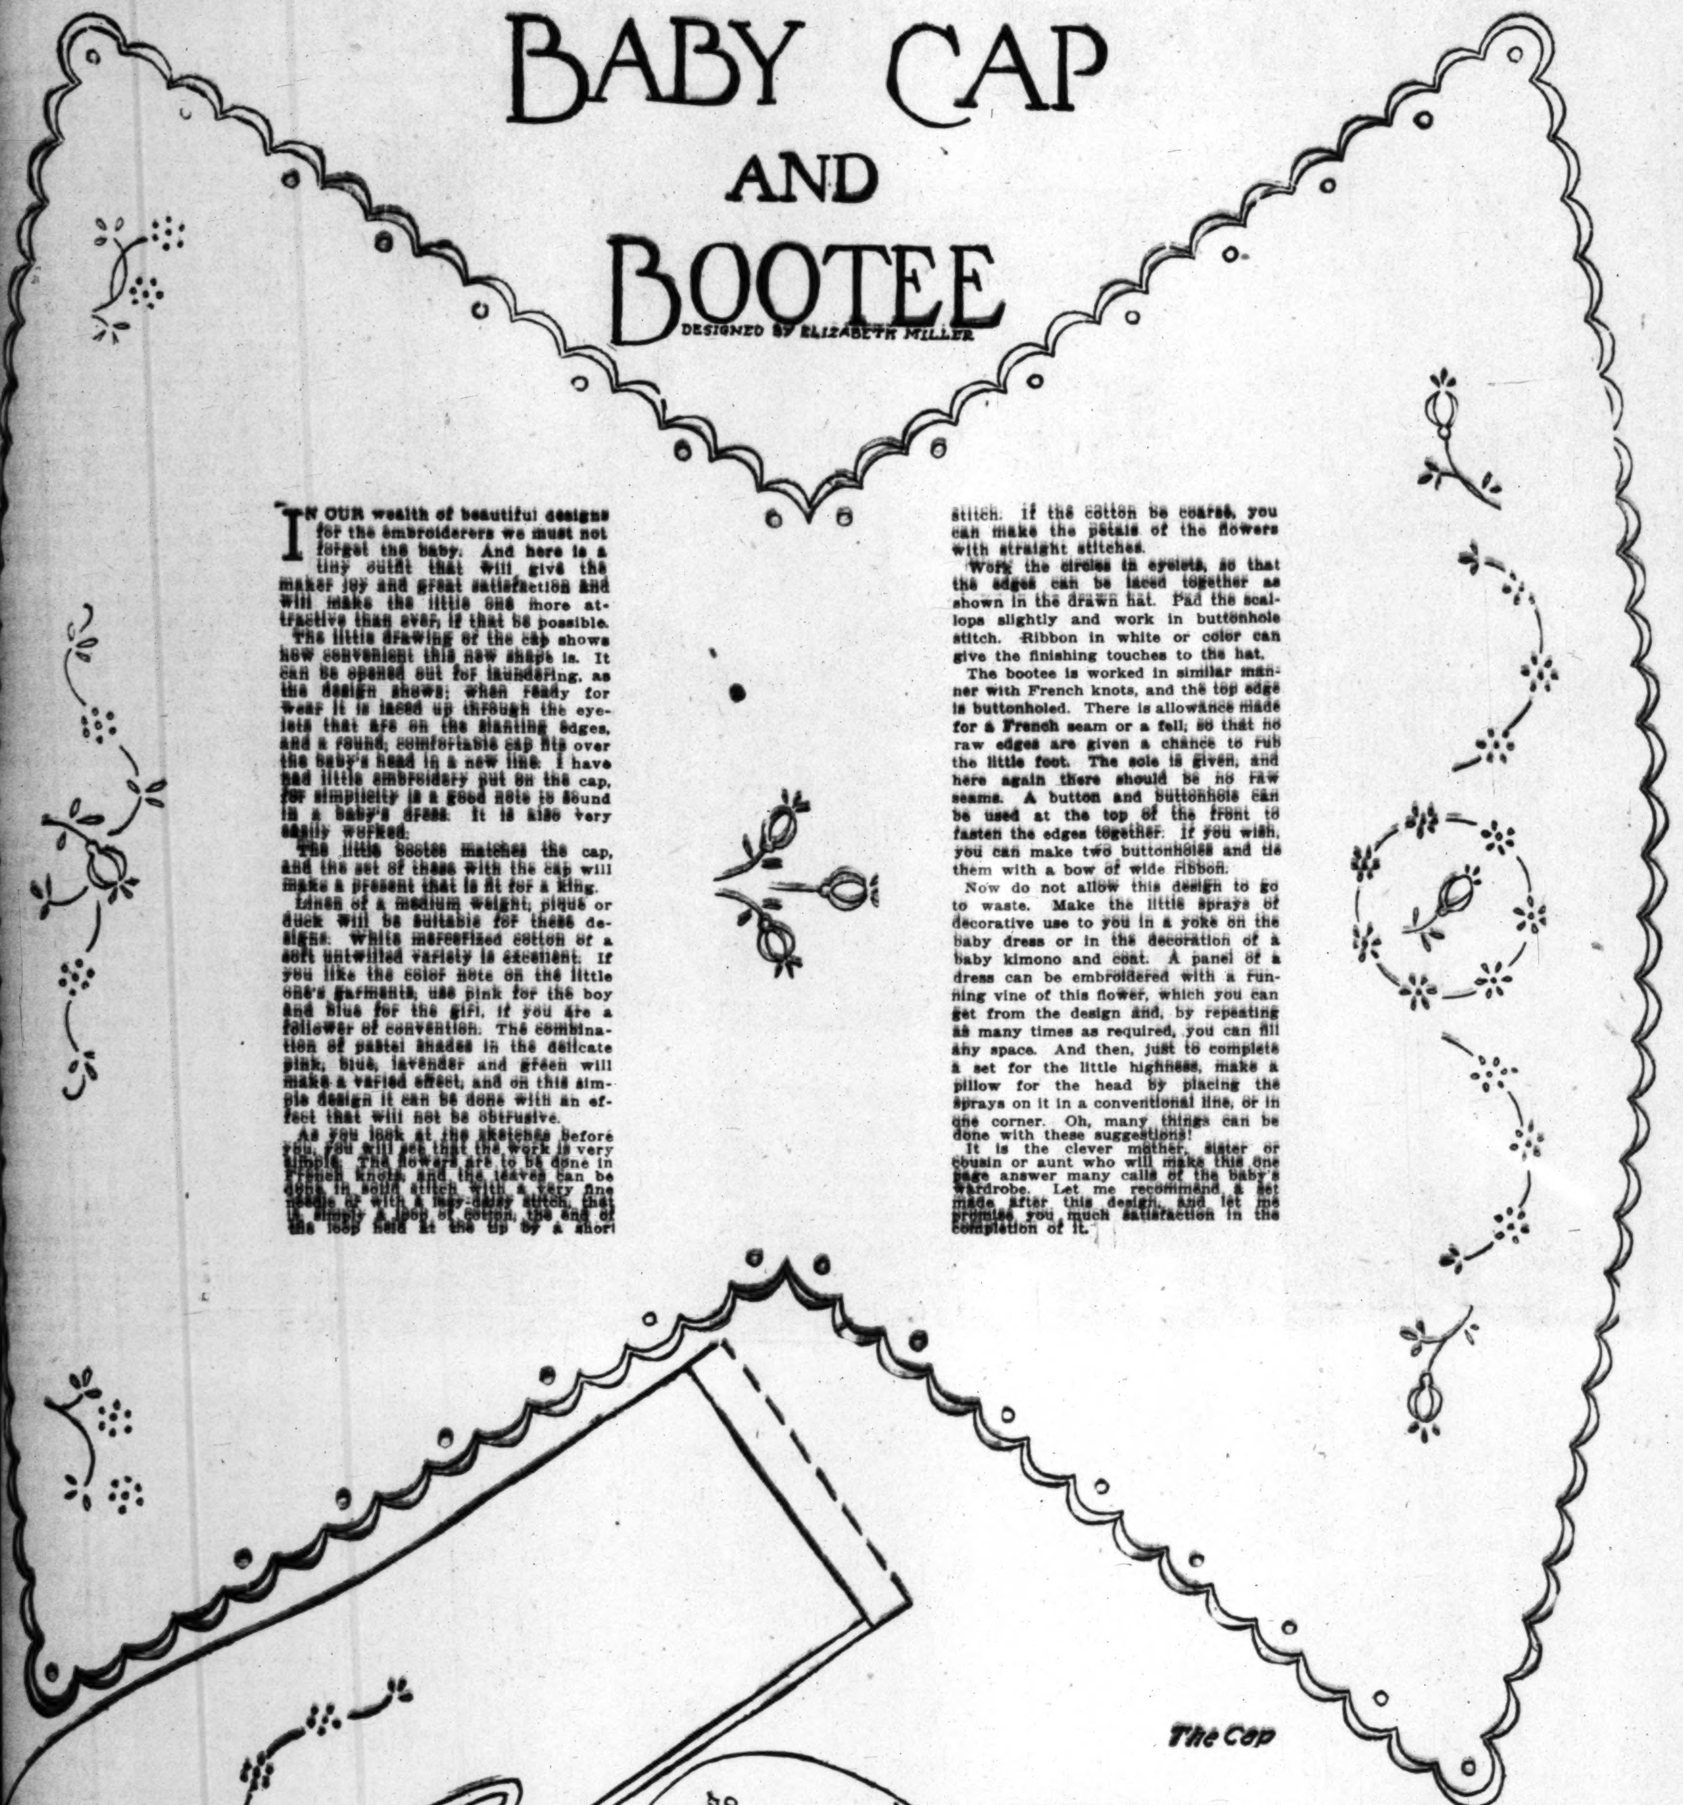
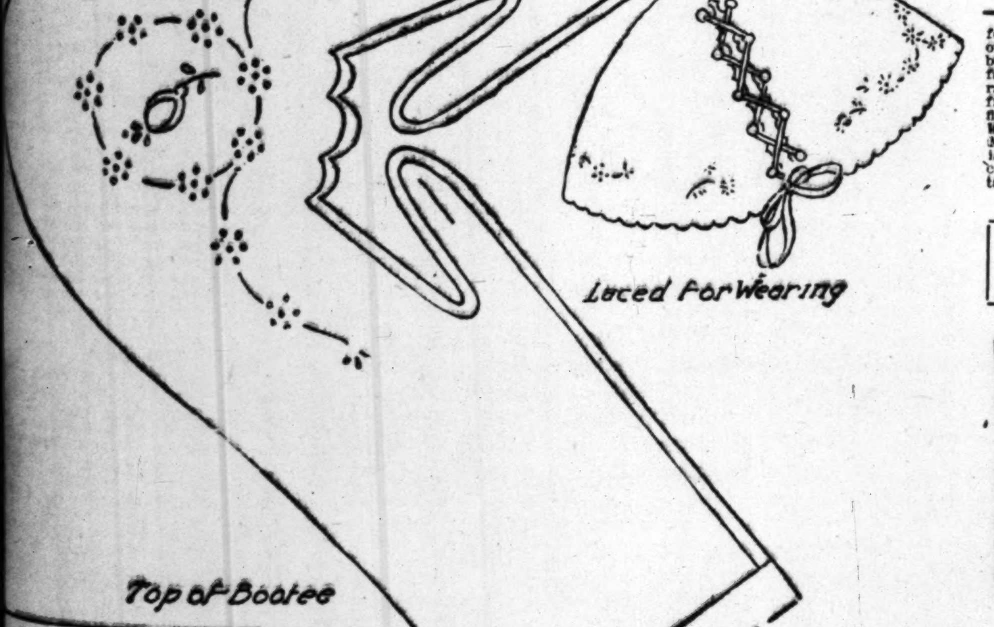
By ADELAIDE BYRD

BABY CAP AND BOOTEE

DESIGNED BY ELIZABETH MILLER





IN OUR wealth of beautiful designs for the embroiderers we must not forget the baby. And here is a tiny outfit that will give the maker joy and great satisfaction and will make the little one more attractive than ever, if that be possible.

The little drawing of the cap shows how convenient this new shape is. It can be opened out for laundering, as the design shows; when ready for wear it is laced up through the eyelets that are on the slanting edges, and a round, comfortable cap fits over the baby's head in a new line. I have had little embroidery put on the cap, for simplicity is a good note to sound in a baby's dress. It is also very easily worked.

The little bootee matches the cap, and the set of these with the cap will make a present that is fit for a king.

Linen of a medium weight, pique or duck will be suitable for these designs. White mercerized cotton of a soft untwilled variety is excellent. If you like the color note on the little one's garments, use pink for the boy and blue for the girl, if you are a follower of convention. The combination of pastel shades in the delicate pink, blue, lavender and green will make a varied effect, and on this simple design it can be done with an effect that will not be obtrusive.

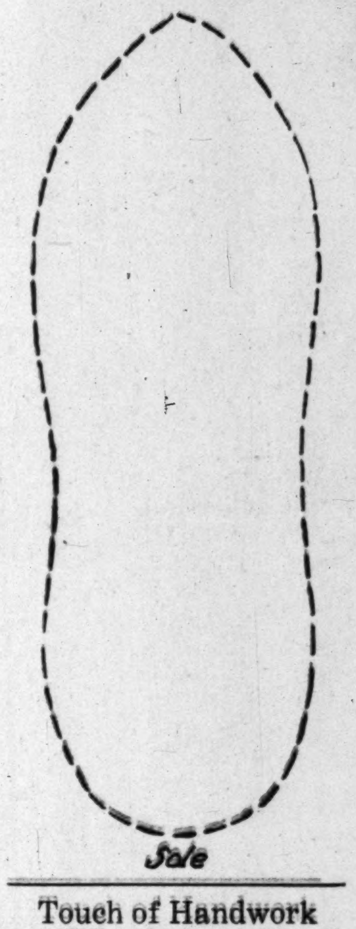
As you look at the sketches before you, you will see that the work is very simple. The flowers are to be done in French knots, and the leaves can be done in solid stitch with a very fine needle or with a lazy-daisy stitch, that is, simply a loop of cotton, the end of the loop held at the tip by a short stitch. If the cotton be coarse, you can make the petals of the flowers with straight stitches.

Work the circles in eyelets, so that the edges can be laced together as shown in the drawn hat. Pad the scallops slightly and work in buttonhole stitch. Ribbon in white or color can give the finishing touches to the hat.

The bootee is worked in similar manner with French knots, and the top edge is buttonholed. There is allowance made for a French seam or a fell, so that no raw edges are given a chance to rub the little foot. The sole is given, and here again there should be no raw seams. A button and buttonhole can be used at the top of the front to fasten the edges together. If you wish, you can make two buttonholes and tie them with a bow of wide ribbon.

Now do not allow this design to go to waste. Make the little sprays of decorative use to you in a yoke on the baby dress or in the decoration of a baby kimono and coat. A panel of a dress can be embroidered with a running vine of this flower, which you can get from the design and, by repeating as many times as required, you can fill any space. And then, just to complete a set for the little highness, make a pillow for the head by placing the sprays on it in a conventional line, or in one corner. Oh, many things can be done with these suggestions!

It is the clever mother, sister or cousin or aunt who will make this one page answer many calls of the baby's wardrobe. Let me recommend a set made after this design, and let me promise you much satisfaction in the completion of it.



Touch of Handwork

IT ISN'T possible for a business girl to have as many pretty handmade things as her stay-at-home sisters, of course, but she can have many pretty things with a touch of handwork on them that will lend to her garments that same air of daintiness which surrounds her more fortunate sisters. Miss Business Girl has to buy, frequently, most of her clothing ready made, but there is nothing to prevent her putting a tiny bit of handwork upon these ready-made garments and changing the character of them entirely. In buying undergarments it is well to avoid those overtrimmed in cheap lace. Better a plain scallop to which you can whip a lace edging of your own selection, or a severely plain garment on which you can embroider a small spray or two or work a monogram. Then there is the question of neckwear. Simple net can be much enhanced, as can also plain batiste, by a vine or flower in handwork.

Some busy girls will not buy ready-made gowns because they complain of the "store trimming." Surely this is a simple problem. Remove the "store trimming" and replace it with trimming of one's own selection. Particularly net or lace yokes can be replaced in this way to advantage. Sometimes a gown of really good lines has a gingerbread air about it that can be quickly dissipated by a change of trimming.

That Frayed Petticoat

"THAT pretty silk ruffle is hopelessly frayed about the edges, in some places very deeply. I simply can't turn it up again or it will be too short. I don't feel, either, that it would be economy for me to buy a new ruffle for the top, as it isn't quite worth that much expense. You see, my shoe buttons tear the ruffles so, too," ruefully finished the young girl who had to practice economy.

"My dear," began the young girl's mother in a comforting tone, "just you run around to the trimming shop and get some blue sateen to match that silk, and we'll see what we can do about it. A half yard will be enough."

When the girl came back, mother and daughter got to work. They trimmed and turned up the frayed ruffle, until the petticoat was quite too short for the tall girl. Then the mother cut the skirt in two, about halfway between hip and knee, and inserted a broad strip of the sateen, thus joining the two sections of the petticoat together again. The sateen strip was just sufficiently broad to take the place of the frayed part of the ruffle which was eliminated, thus making the petticoat just the right length. The result was that the petticoat, which would otherwise have been consigned to the rag-bag, wore for several months longer.

AN IDEA

WHY is it that we see so little colored embroidery on nightrobes? Beautiful white laces and white embroidery, hand and machine made, are used profusely on these sleeping gowns, but rarely is there a touch of even the palest of pastel shades on the gown, with the exception of the ribbon. Is there any reason why we shouldn't have colored embroidery on nightrobes? They are not worn under a sheer waist, as are corset covers. We do not embroider our corset covers in colors because of the bad taste of which we would be guilty did we allow colors to show through our sheer blouses. But, again, let us say that there isn't any reason why it shouldn't appear on a nightrobe, and there is more than one reason why it should.

Colored silks in pastel shades are both dainty and artistic. Colored silks in this age of perfection in dyeing rarely fade if properly washed. Colored embroidery on the white materials used in robes would be infinitely becoming and a great relief to those of us who never look well in all-white. Colored embroidery, while adding the desired note of color, is less trouble than the tying of ribbon bows and the threading of ribbons through eyelets or beading. You see, a pretty fitted or round yoke will need no drawing up with ribbons. Crochet buttons can be used to fasten the yoke at the front, back or side. The side is preferable, as it is less noticeable.

Too much care and work cannot be spent upon a trousseau gown, and so let us plan one of fine and not too heavy material. Simplicity shall be its keynote. There shall be a plain curved band about the low neck, a shaped band. The rest of the gown shall loosely fall from this. About the yoke, both back and front, embroider wild roses in satin stitch. The sleeves shall be short and puffed, with a bias band about them to hold in their fullness and keep them rather close to the arm. The length of the sleeves shall extend to halfway between the shoulder and the elbow. The bias sleeveband is about an inch or an inch and a quarter wide and is embroidered with roses. About the trailing skirt of the gown, just above the hem itself, shall be a border of the pale wild roses, all having, of course, their pale yellow centers and pale green foliage. Yes, it will take time, but a trousseau gown is worth much time. Do not have the material very heavy. Rather, let it be soft and somewhat silky, perhaps a very fine quality of nainsook or batiste.

Embroidered Tunic

THE soft spring silks, with the exception of taffeta, have tempted many art needleworkers to embroider the bottom of the popular tunic. Usually it is the darker materials that are embroidered in this fashion, thus introducing a note of contrasting color. Blue crepe de chine or charmeuse embroidered in different shades of blue, or with a touch of red, green or old gold in the design, is very lovely. Some few tunics are scalloped and buttonhole-stitched. Particularly suitable for these tunic borders are the conventional cubist designs. The same design can be carried up into the waist. One must beware, however, or there will be an overelaboration, and even in beautiful hand embroidery overelaboration is not permissible.

Cap Bows

ONE may possess only two boudoir caps, but seemingly a great many more by the addition of a different colored bow of ribbon now and then. Sometimes it may not be more than a knot of ribbon, a three or four inch piece left over from a longer piece used for trimming. It is a wise plan to save all scraps of ribbon three inches long and over. Not only do they make boudoir cap bows and knots, but they may be used to ornament undergarments. There is one popular girl who trims her boudoir caps entirely with bows made from candy-box ribbons. It is a pretty fashion to have a knot of ribbon upon the cap to match the kimono or the ribbons of the nightrobe.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

Again the Child

pensive and simple frock for girl may be made from nat- linen, with lay-down col- cuffs embroidered in golden mercerized thread. Have the falling in large box pleats back from a yoke and belted in an embroidered belt. A very design would be that of the and yet simple pattern of of Troy.

SIMPLE EMBROIDERY

HAVE you noticed the attractive bedroom sets embroidered with the simple lazy-daisy stitch? They are lovely enough to attract the attention of any woman who admires bright color and flower designs. The background usually chosen for these sets is ecru or deep cream linen and the designs are baskets filled with daisies or asters, old-fashioned bouquets of the same flowers or garlands arranged in festoons about the edge.

It is easier to take the dimensions of your dresser and chiffonier to a needlework shop and have the linen stamped there in any design you may prefer.

Select mercerized cotton of a not-too-heavy quality, in rich tones of purple, dark rose, yellow and green, to embroider the flowers and foliage. A few flowers may be embroidered with white if you desire.

The petals of the asters or daisies are filled in with the lazy-daisy stitch and the yellow centers with French knots.

Buttonhole-stitch the edge in small scallops, using a heavier cotton to match the linen. If an edging of cluny lace is stitched to this the effect will be decidedly pleasing.

When making the pincushion, scallop the lower section also and border it with the lace, so that when the top and bottom are laced together the double edging of lace will contribute a dainty finish to the cushion.

You will find the three pieces, constituting the set, completed in less than no time. This is the advantage of using the lazy-daisy stitch.

Other designs show flowers such as forget-me-nots, miniature roses and other diminutive blossoms, packed into baskets or to form bouquets. These are fashioned entirely of French knots arranged in groups, numbering anywhere from six to twelve. Sometimes the flowers are so small that only three knots are required to cover the outline. Mercerized cotton of a medium weight is used to form the knots, and the colors combined depend upon the personal taste.

The roses are loveliest when embroidered with tones of rose shading from a dark rich shade to a pale tint. Dark green is chosen for the foliage, and the baskets are outlined with brown. Pink or blue is the tone usually selected for the bowknots which ornament the compact little bouquets or hold the festoons in position.

Surely you could not find a more effective set for your small daughter's room than one ornamented with roses or asters embroidered with the simple stitches so popular at present.

SOME THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT LACES

Real Mechlin is Exquisite

Imitation Brussels

Brussels in Rose Design

IT IS very often difficult for the layman to distinguish between the mechlin and valenciennes laces, so much does each resemble the other. They are considered the two principal Flemish laces of their class. Mechlin, as with valenciennes, is worked ground and flowers together, instead of the designs being appliqued upon the groundwork, as is the case with many other laces. This method of working necessitates the use of many bobbins at one time, sometimes numbering as high as five hundred. We cannot but marvel at the almost abnormal patience required to manipulate and keep separate these many little spools and to regret that the poorly paid lacemaker is not more bountifully remunerated, although mechlin lace brings much higher prices than many other laces. Sad to say, however, the largest profit does not go to the actual toiler, but to the "middleman."

The lace is made in Mechlin, St. Trond and Turnhout. While mechlin originated from an effort to make a cheaper lace, it soon became so elaborate that it ranked with the expensive brussels, and brought frequently as high a price. One way of distinguishing mechlin from valenciennes lace is that the mechlin is often far more elaborate and has a great variety of stitches. Like valenciennes, however, it has been so cleverly imitated by machine that the sale of the real lace has greatly fallen off. Machine-made mechlin has far less durability than the hand-made lace. Real mechlin has been called, together with valenciennes, "the high aristocracy" of pillow lace, sharing that honor with some few others.

It has never been ascertained just when the manufacture of brussels lace began. But that it had become famous in 1741 is evident from some of Chesterfield's writings. A Mrs. Calderwood, who visited Brussels in 1756, wrote the following account of the process:

"The manufacture is very curious," she wrote. "One person works the flowers. They are all sold separately, and you will see a very pretty sprig for which the worker only gets 12 sous. The masters who have all these people employed give them the thread to make them; this they do according to a pattern, and give them out to be grounded, after which they give them to a third hand, who 'hearts' all the flowers with the open work. That is what makes the lace so much dearer than the mechlin, which is wrought all at once."

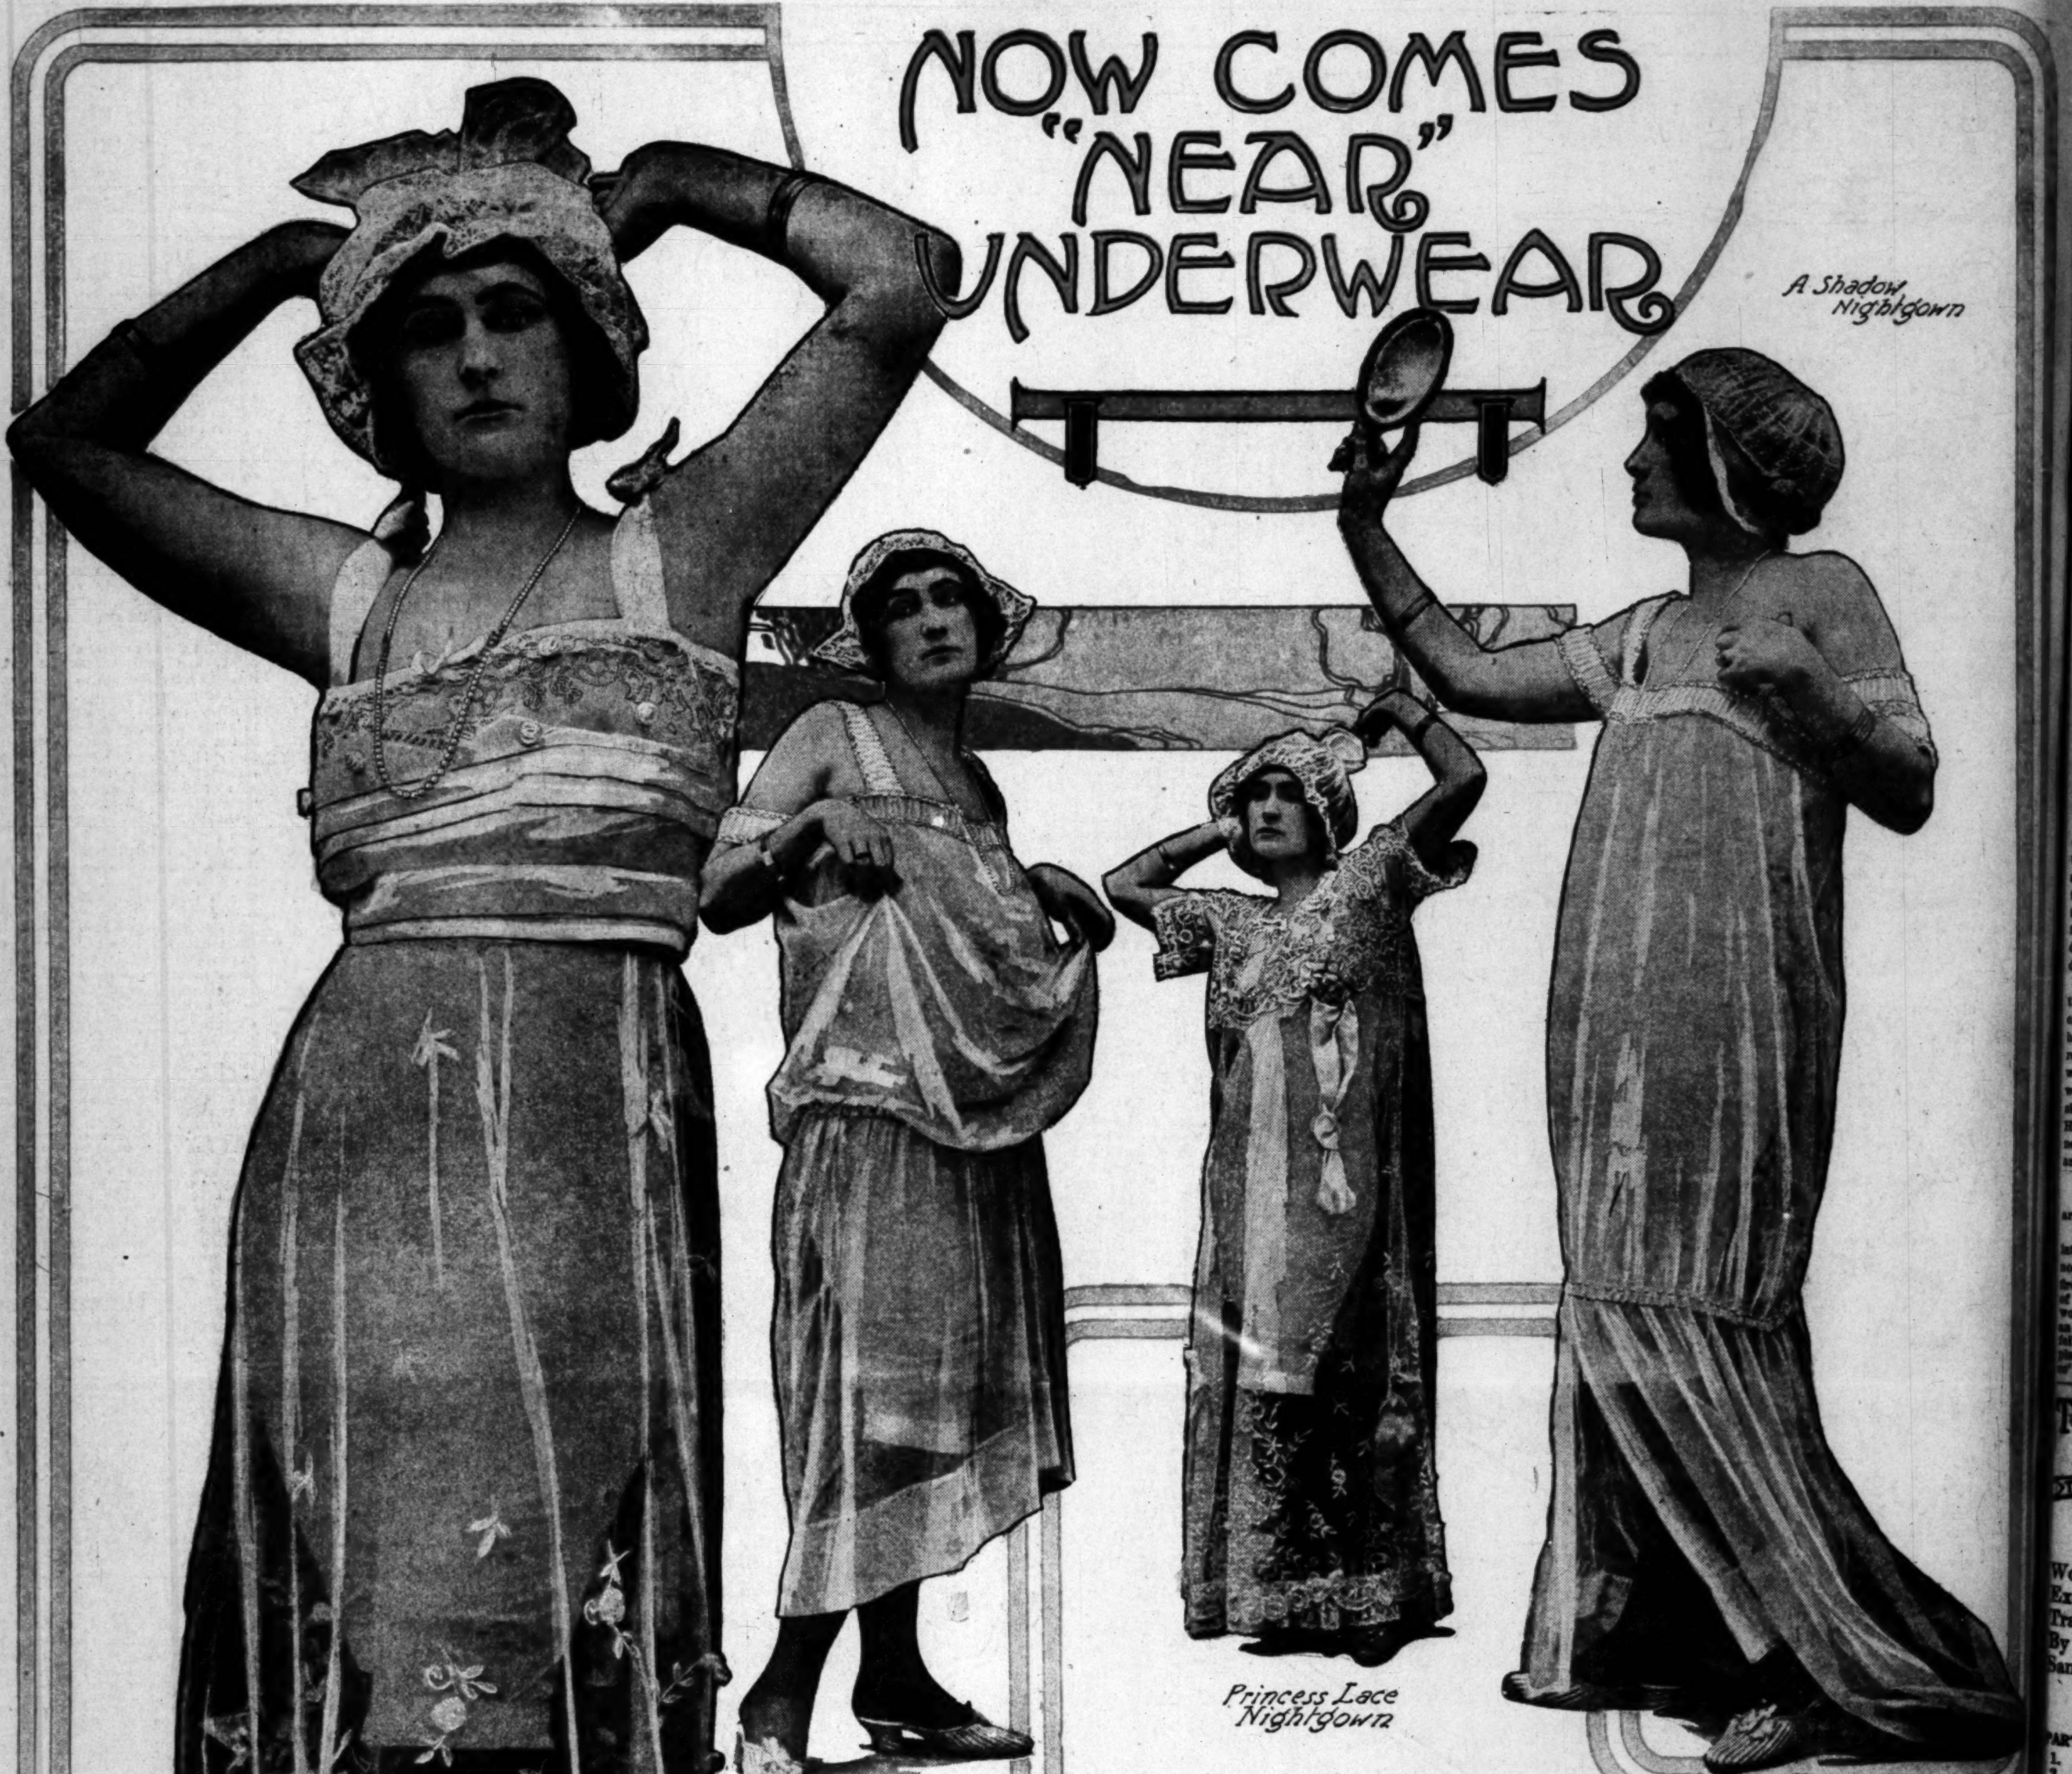
There is a prominent cordonnet or raised thread in brussels lace, which gives a relief to certain details of the design. Then, too, a modeling effect is imparted to flowers by means of a small bone instrument, giving concave shapes to leaves, petals and various other ornaments. The reason for usually having several persons work upon different parts of lace is that its manufacture is so difficult and complicated that a single worker usually specializes in one part of the process only. There are sometimes as high as seven processes, requiring seven different people.

One authority says: "The fineness of thread used in brussels lace is almost a fable." It is necessary to spin the very finest of this thread in dark, underground rooms, for contact with the dry air would cause the almost invisible thread to break. Dark paper is used for a background to throw out this thread, and a single ray of light is admitted to the room and focused upon the work.

A beautiful characteristic of brussels lace is that almost invariably its design is composed of objects naturalistically treated, usually birds, leaves and flowers. Sometimes the human figure and animals are incorporated in the design. In some patterns of brussels lace the designs are connected by brides, small irregular threads, and in others the groundwork or resseau is a fine net.

Fortunately for the town of Brussels, no other town has been able to compete with her in the manufacture of the lace which she has named for herself. Antwerp, Ghent and other localities have tried in vain to equal it. The difficulty in procuring thread of the necessary fineness has prevented other countries from competing in the art. A Scotchman who hopelessly gave up a desire to manufacture the lace in his "ain countrie" said, regarding the lace: "At Brussels, from one pound of flax alone, they can manufacture lace to the value of £700."

NOW COMES "NEAR" UNDERWEAR



A Shadow Nightgown

Princess Lace Nightgown

The Runabout Negligee

Camisole and Petticoat

WE HAVE had "near" furs, and some women have complained of having husbands in the elusive "near" class; "near" jewels have always been used when funds have not been large enough to pay for the real thing. Simulation has been a password in fashion for many seasons. And now hold your breath, for here comes "near" underwear.

Some will call these new expressions of that very necessary part of a woman's wardrobe lingerie abnegation. Well and good. It is a very beautiful abnegation. The more scientific will class this underwear as X-ray. There again can be found reason in the nomenclature. And what about Nirvana underwear? Surely it is a "blowing out" of the general idea, an annihilation, a loss of the personal consciousness of the underwear as it used to be. Well, anyhow, it is here, and it is charming. If you doubt it ask your husband.

A shadow nightgown is here. Ever see anything like it? It is made with a full upper portion that is held up by straps edged with pearl beads. There is an underbodice of white chiffon tied around the waist. Shadow lace forms two-thirds of the model. Into a lace-covered elastic band is gathered the upper part, and from this hangs the ruffle of plain net, slashed at the center.

When not a nightgown, this can be changed to a runabout negligee, for this dainty gown must be spoiled in its snowy whiteness by dragging around carpets and floors. So here is where elastic band is made to prove its usefulness. long body is shortened by a quick pulling. voila! as the Frenchwoman would say.

REPORT VILLA WOUNDED IN REPULSE AT TORREON.

Gen. Carranza Arrives at Juarez Amid Gloom Over Insurgent's Prospects.

Ominous Silence from the Front and the Hundreds of Wounded Rebels that Have Been Shipped to Chihuahua Indicate Federals Have More Than Held Their Own in the Days of Fighting.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHIHUAHUA (Mex.) March 29.—Such news as reached here from the front today was unfavorable to the rebels. Wounded rebel soldiers continued to arrive by train, bringing the number now here to [illegible]. Several hundred other wounded were being provided for at Jiminez, and batches of wounded were distributed at Parral and Santa Rosalia. This evidence of the sanguinary conflict at Torreon, with the suggestion that the list of dead on the rebel side necessarily would be great, tended to make headquarters reticent about the progress of the battle. The officers admitted they have received dispatches from the front, but they declined to reveal the contents.

The report originated from one of the hospitals, after more wounded came in, that Gen. Francisco Villa had been wounded slightly and required to retire from the front. The report was based merely on the word of a wounded soldier, who, however, insisted he had seen Villa wounded. It is declared that for moral effect the news was withheld from the rank and file of the rebel army.

EXPERT'S ACCOUNT.

A German military observer, who returned today from the front said: "The Federal army lured us right into Gomes Palacia, a suburb, to the north of Torreon, before they opened up. Then they let loose such a hail of rifle and machine-gun shot as would have completely demoralized an ordinary Mexican army. The men fell by the score. One cotton-bale platform by the railorad tracks was covered with dead rebels that you could not walk across it without stepping on a body. Gen. Villa had such a large army that he felt he could afford to sacrifice many men to get a foothold in the town. Almost the whole Zaragoza brigade, under Gen. Aguierre Benavides, was thus wiped out, though I think Gen. Benavides escaped.

"The shock and surprise to the rebel troops, who had expected to scare the Federals and walk into Torreon with little fighting, resulted in a temporary withdrawal. Three or four days of fighting up to the time I left failed to bring about any results."

An elaborate three-day programme for the reception of Gen. Carranza on his arrival was abandoned in part today because of the presence here of so many wounded. It is believed here that Gen. Carranza will not come to Chihuahua until he is satisfied that Gen. Villa will remain in the south, as a meeting of the two revolutionary leaders is not looked upon as opportune at this time.

TALK OF REPUBLIC.

Gen. Villa's delay in taking Torreon has revived the belief that, should the Huerta forces drive him north, something in the nature of a northern republic, embracing the States bordering on the United States, will be established. The plan of separating the North from the South of Mexico has long been contemplated by some of the rebel leaders. They contend that the North and the South in the last half-century have developed along different lines, both politically and industrially.

Unless decisive results are achieved soon, the financial affairs of the rebel territory will reach a crisis, according to men in authority. Six million pesos in fiat money are in circulation in the States of Chihuahua, Durango and LONDON, March 30.—The Conservative morning papers assert that Field Marshal, Sir John French and Gen. Ewart have decided not to withdraw their resignations, but no official announcement has been made or is expected until Parliament reassembles today. Brig.-Gen. Hubert Gough, commander of the Third Cavalry brigade, has left Curragh for some unknown place for a week's holiday and in order to avoid interviewers. In other respects the situation remains unchanged.

Novel Operation Performed at Baltimore of Grafting an Animal's Cornea Upon a Pennsylvania Baby Nine Months Old Is Believed to Be a Success.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BALTIMORE, March 29.—Sight has been given to the left eye of David Kane, nine-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kane of Gettysburg, Pa., through the grafting of the cornea of a pig's eye, to the child's eyeball, according to a statement of physicians today at a hospital. Certain tests, they assert, have brought out this fact without a doubt.

When the bandage was removed from the eye it was said that the child followed the course of a lighted candle which was moved in front of him. Another test that brings out the fact more clearly is that the child now winks his eyelid if a finger or a small object is waved close to the eye.

The disease from which little David has been a sufferer since he was three weeks old is known as staphytoma of the cornea.

The operation was performed last Monday and the cornea of the pig's eye was used because it is said it more closely resembles the human cornea than that of any other animal.

MADRID, March 29.—An attempt was made today to assassinate Jose Zelaya, former President of Nicaragua, at Casa Tores, where Zelaya resides, according to a dispatch from Barcelona.

A man who said his name was Rosas and who declared he was a Nicaraguan, entered the residence of Zelaya and fired a revolver at the astonished ex-President. Zelaya was not hit by the bullet.

Rosas told the police that Zelaya, when President of Nicaragua, was responsible for the death of Rosas's uncle and that he had been pursuing him to avenge his dead kinsman.

GEN SICKLES DYING.

Veteran Soldier and Diplomat Is Said to Have But a Few More Days to Live.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 29.—Gen. Dan E. Sickles is at the point of death in his home, No. 23 Fifth avenue. It became known for the first time tonight that the veteran soldier and diplomat suffered a stroke of paralysis three weeks ago following the death of his housekeeper, Mrs. Wilmerding.

Dr. Mace, a neighbor, who attended him, has informed his friends it is said, that he has but a few days to live. His left side is completely paralyzed and his memory is gone. He is living alone in his house with no one but an aged negro servant attending him.

JUAREZ GREETS CARRANZA WITH TRIUMPHAL ARCHES.

Jefe Supremo of the Rebels Arrives at Border City After a Horseback Ride of Five Hundred Miles Guarded by Men He Could Trust—Expects to Stay There Until He Hears Definite News from Torreon.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) March 29.—When Venustiano Carranza, first chief of the revolution, entered this city today an American flag was carried by the side of the Mexican emblem. Americans in the crowd cheered and were joined in some extent by the native spectators. The incident came as a surprise to the spectators. Gen. Carranza, on foot, had passed, and behind came a troop of his soldiers. As they entered the main street, only the Mexican flag was visible, but at that moment the Stars and Stripes were suddenly unfurled and the two emblems were carried through the streets to the Juarez monument.

In the last two weeks the general has ridden horseback for 500 miles and in the last two months he has traveled 2000 miles in the same way.

He looked the picture of health and vigor, a living contradiction to stories that he was feeble and that he had constant recourse to stimulants in order to bear up, and other reports of a similar nature. His appearance also branded many lithographs of him as libels, for they made him appear old and rather thin.

All afternoon automobiles and carriages streamed out the road past the racetrack and along the railroad to anticipate his arrival. The road held a straggling procession of these vehicles, bicycles, saddle horses and men, women and children in gala attire, each with a bit of the national red, white and green.

Gen. Manuel Chao, Military Governor of the State of Chihuahua, who came here for the purpose of formally welcoming the jefe suprema, galloped with his staff to a point three miles south of the city.

Here Gen. Carranza and his staff and the reception committee met and there ensued a long wait for the troop train bringing the horses and men of Caranza's own army.

HOW HE LOOKS.

Visitors were eager to catch a glimpse of the one man in Mexico whom Gen. Villa owns as chief. He is a big man physically, and despite his sixty-five years looks as if he could still hold his own in a wrestling match or a bout with the gloves. His shoulders are broad and his chest deep. The beard alone was true to the pictures—gray and of medium length.

He was in uniform spick and span for the occasion. To those who were presented to him he stretched out a big, strong hand with a firm, warm grip:

"Have you any advices from Torreon?" he was asked.

"I think there has been no news since last night," was the reply. "Perhaps Gen. Villa has not yet taken the city."

He added that he had no occasion to modify his decree of several month ago wherein he stated that no act or contract of the Huerta government would be recognized should the revolution succeed in capturing Mexico City.

"Huerta is not President of Mexico and none of his acts can be legal, and therefore none of them can be binding," he said.

The Preble and the Lawrence Establish a New Record by an Average of 26 Knots an Hour, During Which 28 Miles Were Covered, the Former Winning.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—Manned by the San Francisco division of the State naval militia, the torpedo boats Preble and Lawrence raced today over the waters of the bay for an hour in an effort to establish new speed and engine records. The two boats averaged twenty-six knots an hour and covered twenty-eight miles, establishing a naval militia record for an hour run.

The war dogs pulled away from their moorings off Sausalito before noon and, heading for the Golden Gate, ran outside to the Heads. Then they turned about and great clouds of black smoke poured from their funnels as the Preble overcame the lead of the Lawrence and passed her. Just as the hour was up the Lawrence passed her rival with a rush, but the victory was awarded to the Preble, owing to the lead which she had maintained throughout the race.

Capt. George Bauer, commander of the San Francisco, or second, division, headed the force of citizen sailors aboard the Lawrence, while Lieut. William P. Cabu commanded the sailors of the Preble.

President Sees Trouble Ahead for Exemption Repeal Measure.

Hostility of O'Gorman and Clark Is Alarming the Rank and File.

Democratic Split Widening as Opposition to Administration Grows.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Oratorical strife over repeal of toll exemption for American coastwise ships passing through the Panama Canal will be renewed tomorrow in both the Senate and House. In the latter general debate will be resumed on the Sims's bill, leading up to the final vote in that branch of Congress probably late Tuesday night or Wednesday. In the Senate discussion will revolve around one of the many side issues that have arisen, Senator James Hamilton Lewis proposing to discuss a resolution and bill he has introduced to follow repeal as a sort of balm to the wounds of his party members who have thus far opposed the President in his appeal for upholding the honor of the nation.

Senator Lewis's measure would give the President authority to suspend tolls whenever in his opinion he should do it in the public interest. The Illinois Senator will cite precedents upon which he bases the right of Congress to extend such authority to the Chief Executive without offending any foreign nation or violating any treaty agreement. As against the proposal of Senator Lewis, the minority leader, Senator Gallinger, will urge a resolution he introduced last week which would express it as the sense of Americans that Congress has the right to do as it pleases with respect to American shipping through the canal.

In the House opposing leaders in the fight are setting the stage for the final struggle, all conceding that the scene to attend the closing hours of the debate and roll call will rival in sensational enthusiasm any legislative climax in recent years.

Speaker Champ Clark, whose vigorous statement against the cloture rule last week drew the curtain on the breach in his party, has prepared an epilogue and the House galleries cannot accommodate the thousands who will scramble for seats to hear him deliver it. The Speaker has maintained silence since his defeat on the cloture rule when only fifty-five Democratic members of the House followed their recognized leaders, while some 200 of them stood by the administration, yielding to President Wilson's plea for support that he might deal with foreign problems confronting the nation. He will break the silence on the main issue of the controversy Tuesday, closing the debate on behalf of opponents of toll exemption repeal.

Close friends of the Speaker assert there will be no bitterness expressed and no reflections cast on the opinions of others as to the policies involved. On the other hand, some Democrats hint that the Speaker may surprise his friends and arouse his adversaries.

As to the party strife that has been precipitated by this unusual international complication, President Wilson has made no comment. Close advisers of the President insist, however, that he bears no personal or political ill will toward the leaders of the party who have differed with him in this crisis, and that he entertains no thought of holding a political grudge. While rumors of protracted party warfare are being widely circulated, the President, it is declared, is confident that Congress will repeal the tolls issue, and proposes that "finis" shall be written to the controversy when that is done, regardless of the circumstances that attended it.

Breakers are ahead for the repeal, however, despite the situation in the House, where it is generally conceded the only uncertainty is the size of the majority it will receive.

The Senate is yet to be reckoned with. There no cloture rule to limit debate can be ordered and it may be weeks before the question can be disposed of. Senator O'Gorman, who will lead the fight on the repeal within the party ranks, has said Senators who propose to vote for the repeal have told him they did not expect a vote for six weeks. Senator Owen and other Democratic champions of the President's cause assert that delay will serve no useful purpose, and they hope to have the Committee on Inter-oceanic Canals, of which Senator O'Gorman is chairman, take up the Sims bill as soon as it comes from the House.

The committee is divided on the issue. At present, unless some members of the committee announce a change of view, it appears that opponents of the repeal might have a majority of one in the committee. Should the majority decide to report it adversely there will be a minority report upon which the Senate would be forced to take a vote. This, of course, would determine the issue as decisively as action first on a favorable majority report.

There are other bills pertaining to the issue before the Canals Committee and no one will predict how long the committee will hold the subject under consideration. Senator Chilton has a bill which instead of REINFORCEMENT SENT TORREON.

Many Believe Huerta Plans to Take the Field.

Shows Much Concern Over Situation in the City.

Army's Best Organization at Service of Velasco.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—With the exception of the somewhat contradictory information contained in the press dispatches and a laconic assurance by Gen. Velasco, the Federal commander at Torreon, to the War Department, both official and unofficial Mexico were ignorant today of the results of Villa's efforts to capture from Huerta's army that point, the occupation of which is regarded by military men as essential to the early success of either side.

President Huerta is showing concern, but lack of telegraphic communication has prevented Gen. Velasco from rendering any but the most meager reports of the operations, and the President and Gen. Blanquet, the War Minister, have found an outlet for their energies by sending forward every available detachment of troops as reinforcements.

The attitude of the Mexican public in the capital is wholly apathetic so far as outwardly expressed. The usual crowds are attending the theaters and other amusement places and such interest as is shown in the developments about Torreon is casual.

The government asserts that Gen. Velasco had under his command from 12,000 to 15,000 men and, with the reinforcements under Gen. Javier Moure and minor forces reported en route, there should be facing Villa before he can claim Torreon, from 15,000 to 18,000 Federals.

The fact that the mobilized force is so great and that it includes the best organization in the army makes the struggle for the possession of Torreon peculiarly important. Military men here think the most serious thing likely to happen would be the evacuation of Torreon. But should the Federals escape capture, they admit that the morale of the army would be greatly affected by the blow, from which the government could only recover slowly, and that it would create difficulty for the director of President Huerta's finances.

The diplomatic representatives are inclined to regard the retention of Torreon as more essential from the point of view of Mexico's relations abroad, especially with the United States, rather than from the military viewpoint.

Certain foreign representatives, whose opinion is shared by some of the members of the government, are inclined to believe that the loss of Torreon would be followed by the recognition of the belligerancy of the rebels.

In spite of the declarations of the Mexican Foreign Minister, Senor Portillo y Rojas, and John Lind, that their conference at Vera Cruz had resulted in nothing tangible in the way of reopening negotiations that might lead to a peaceable solution, Senor Portillo appears to be optimistic regarding his country's international relations and his intimate friends assert that he is confident that he and President Wilson's representative will be able to work out the problem.

President Huerta has given no intimation of his intentions, but there are many in the capital who still profess to believe that he will take the field and leave the presidency temporarily to Senor Portillo, and later become a candidate for election. By a few it is even suggested that the fall of Torreon would hasten that movement.

That Gen. Huerta has any idea of abandoning the Presidency has not been indicated. Plans for the opening of Congress on Wednesday are under way and there is no apparent reason to believe the President intends to lose the 50,000,000 pesos for which he arranged last week with the bankers.

The only information received at the War Department regarding the operations at Torreon was a report that the rebel line of communication had been cut near Moctezuma between Juarez and Chihuahua. Gen. Moure has not yet been able to effect juncture with Gen. Velasco.

REBELS APPEAR OFF TAMPICO.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, March 29.—A wireless dispatch from Tampico says that insurgent skirmishers have appeared at the suburb of Dona Cecelia, drawing the fire of the transport Progreso in the Panuco River. The movement is believed to be preliminary to a renewed attack on the city.

The United States dispatch boat Dolphin left here yesterday for Tampico and the Mexican gunboat Zaragoza left last night with a battery of field guns.

After leaving the harbor the Dolphin stopped outside to take on board a company of marines from the transport Prairie, which is anchored off the port. The Dolphin then sailed, under orders to proceed with all speed to Tampico.

TERRAZAS CASE.

Despite assurances given by Gov. The three days' extension was granted and later through another influence the talk of execution was temporarily dropped.

REBELS BELIEVE VILLA DEFEATED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) March 29.—It was believed here today that the assault of Gen. Villa on Torreon last night was repulsed, or at best that some incident unknown here prevented the attack.

The last word from the rebel general came at 11 o'clock last night when a telegram from him was quoted as saying that the taking of the city was not a matter of hours, but of minutes.

This was premature, for even Gen. Carranza said upon his arrival today that he had received no word from the front, and that evidently Villa had not yet taken the Federal stronghold.

The attack on that city began last Friday and up to last night rebel advices, private and official, were that Gen. Monclovie Herrera had taken some of the most important points in the city.

There have been no newspaper dispatches dealing with this attack, and the similarity of this situation with that at Gomez Palacio is pointed out as significant. When Villa was successful they permitted the newspaper men to send their dispatches, but when he was repulsed, as he was twice, press messages suddenly ceased.

In Juarez it was confidently expected that news of the capture of the city would form the chief feature of the welcome to Gen. Carranza, and the fact that no message of success of any kind was awaiting him was accepted as indicating that the fate of the city was still in the balance today.

REPORT FIGHTING STILL GOING ON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JUAREZ (Mex.) March 29.—An official message from the front tonight reports that fighting is still going on for the possession of Torreon.

The telegram says that the rebels now hold all positions except the main barracks and two smaller barracks. In the last twenty-four hours it is reported that Gen. Villa took Cerro de la Cruz and the Torreon foundry.

Another telegram admits a rebel loss in the last six days of 900 killed and wounded and placed the Federal loss at 2000. As there are already at Chihuahua 500 wounded, the report of rebel losses is thought to have been minimized. Among the rebel wounded is Gen. Tomas Urbina.

It is said that private soldiers taken prisoners are being taken into the rebel ranks, but their officers are executed unless they take the oath of allegiance to the Constitutionalist cause. All irregular troops in the Federal garrison are executed upon capture.

PHELPS DODGE SHOWS INCREASE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON, March 29.—Phelps Dodge & Co.'s income during 1913 totaled $9,581,495, against $10,411,535 in 1912. Of the past year's earnings, $9,110,000 was from dividends, against $10,005,458 in the preceding year, while the balance, of $471,495, came from common selling copper and miscellaneous sources. This item compared with $406,077 in 1912. After expenses of $173,785 and "depreciation in value of stocks owned" amounting to $1,500,000 net, $7,907,709 or $17.50 per share, against $16.50, was paid in dividends. This compares with $19.50 earned and $15 paid per share in 1912. A record amount of copper was handled by the Phelps Dodge & Co., agency, 201,489,796 pounds, which was sold at an average price of 15.37 cents net, cash, for New York.

FAMILY OF THREE KILLED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 29.—A family of three persons was wiped out, two more sustained serious injuries and four more in a second party were more or less badly bruised and hurt in two collisions between automobiles and electric trains in Oakland last evening.

The first accident, in which the family of A. Bryan Turner, but recently from England, was hurled out of existence, occurred about 7 o'clock, when the party, in George E. Kelly's automobile, were driving toward Kelly's home in Alameda.

The auto sped up the approach to the High-street crossing of the Southern Pacific electric lines just as a west-bound local train was nearing the roadway. The automobile was in the center of the tracks when the crash came.

Struck amidships, the car and its occupants were picked up in the front of the train and carried a distance of 120 feet before the local could be brought to a standstill.

At the impact Mrs. Turner and her daughter were hurled from the tonneau of the automobile directly under the wheels of the onrushing train. Their lives were snuffed out in an instant, and their badly-mangled bodies were recovered far from where the auto had been carried.

Turner, sitting in the front seat with Kelly, who was driving the car, was also hurled out. But instead of falling to the tracks, where he would have been ground under the wheels, as were his wife and child, he was pinned between the side of the car and the front of the train.

Turner's chest was crushed in like an eggshell. He was rushed to the Oakland Receiving Hospital, but physicians say there is no hope for his recovery.

Mrs. Kelly's escape from death was well-nigh miraculous. After she had been carried along in the automobile, to whose seat she clung with extraordinary tenacity, she was hurled to the side of the roadway. Beyond lacerations, bruises and a nervous shock, she was uninjured.

Kelly's hurts consist of severe bruises and lacerations, from which his physicians say he will recover.

Turner, a retired architect 55 years old, came to California about a year ago from England, after retiring from active business. His wife and daughter completed his family.

Kelly is assistant manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, with offices in San Francisco.

Two men, a woman and a child were severely injured at Twenty-second avenue and East Fourteenth street in East Oakland when a Key Route train struck their automobile in which they were riding and threw them all out.

W. G. Gist of No. 350 Hanover street, who was driving the machine, suffered contusions of the left side and was badly lacerated about the body. M. F. Schneider was cut by broken glass. Mrs. Schneider had a badly wrenched hip, and her 6-year-old daughter, Gladys, suffered a broken right leg. The injured were treated at the Receiving Hospital and then taken to their homes.

Gist had run his machine into a garage on the corner to get gasoline and was backing out when the train at full speed struck the rear end of the automobile.

Auto Which Went Into San Joaquin River Found Near Fresno, But Occupants Are Not.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, March 29.—All hope that any of the four or five people who were carried off the bridge over the San Joaquin River at Power House No. 1 yesterday had escaped from the water alive was given up by the searchers this morning, and the efforts of hundreds of employees of the San Joaquin Light and Power Company, the forestry service, and neighboring farmers were given to dragging the river for the remains, none of which had been found tonight.

Netted wire fences were stretched across at intervals to prevent the bodies from being carried farther down, and the stream was dragged with grappling hooks, which resulted in the discovery of the automobile late this afternoon. It is thought that the body of Mrs. Marks, wife of the driver, may be still in the car, the cover being up. L. N. Peart, the general superintendent of the power company, J. E. Burgess, his assistant, and Percy Marks, the chauffeur, were seen swimming down stream after the accident.

The river at this point flows through a narrow gorge, which so confines the water that it is thirty feet deep and the attempt to raise the car this afternoon was abandoned until tomorrow.

Metropolis.

TORREON, A RAILROAD AND INDUSTRIAL CENTER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL PASO, March 29.—Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico, is the industrial metropolis of Central Mexico. It has a normal population of from 40,000 to 50,000, although this has been reduced by the fact that the smelter has been closed and thousands of refugees have left there for the United States and Europe since the trouble started.

Torreon is just across the Durango border, the Rio Nazas which flows between it and its two suburban towns of Gomez Palacio and Lerdo, being the State line. Being in the center of the rich laguna district which is irrigated by the Nazas, Torreon has diversified business interests. Its banks deal largely in cotton securities, agricultural lands and mining interests.

The shipment of cotton from the laguna district through Torreon amounts to millions of dollars annually when the conditions are normal politically and the laguna district is all planted. Torreon has two railroads, the Mexican National from Juarez and the Mexican International, a part of the National lines from Laredo and Eagle Pass. The Torreon smelters which are owned by the Madero family, the Torreon brewery, the foundry and the Brittingham soap factory near Gomez Palacio are the largest industrial enterprises. Large storage warehouses are built in the town for the storage of cotton and other agricultural commodities which are shipped to all parts of Southern and Central Mexico. The city has a good street car system with a loop that connects with Gomez Palacio, the railroad town seven miles northwest, and Lerdo, a smaller town still further northwest. Gomez Palacio has a population of 15,000 when the Brittingham soap factory, one of the largest industries in Mexico and owned by Juan Brittingham and his associates, is running. Lerdo has a normal population of about 8000.

In addition to its agricultural and manufacturing interests, which also included the great international rubber factory for making rubber from the native rubber plant, which grows on the desert surrounding the city, Torreon is also the center of a great mineral district to the west and southwest. Durango contributes largely to Torreon's mineral industries, sending ores for the smelter, buying metal castings from the foundry and doing a large banking and commercial business. Torreon has a large foreign colony except in revolutionary times, many Germans, French and Chinese being residents of the foreign quarters.

Parras, a manufacturing town to the southeast of Torreon, is the center of the great Madero rubber, milling and agricultural interests, which are owned by the Madero family of which Francisco Madero was a member. Torreon has been the battling ground for three successive revolutions. It was taken by the Madero revolution in May, 1911, soon after Juarez fell before Madero. During the Orozco revolution which followed it was besieged a number of times by Orozco himself, who fought two engagements at Bellano, just north of Torreon, by Cheche Campos, Argumedo and other rebels. It was during the Madero revolution that the now famous slaughter of Chinese, including women and babies, occurred, for which the Chinese government obtained indemnity. In the present revolution Jesus and Venustiano Carranza attempted to take the town but failed after several attempts. They were aided at the time by Tomas Urbina from Durango. Then Villa made a quick and decisive attack and captured the town, taking 1,000,000 in silver pesos from the banks and looting the stores. He was forced to abandon it for his northern campaign, and it was again occupied by the Federals. It has been under siege for eight days and will be looted from end to end a third time if taken by Villa.

AMERICANS FIRED UPON BY REBEL AT JUAREZ.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JUAREZ, March 29.—While awaiting the arrival of Gen. Carranza, a party of American sightseers standing in front of the customhouse, at the corner of Commercio and Juarez streets, tonight, was deliberately fired upon by a rebel soldier supposedly under the influence of Marighuana.

The bullet was deflected from its course by an iron trolley pole and struck a little Mexican child on the opposite side of the street, inflicting a flesh wound in the leg.

Instantly there was a mad scramble for safety and hundreds of spectators from the American side immediately returned to their homes, fearing that some act of violence might follow.

Owing to the unusual precautions taken to prevent the assassination of Gen. Carranza, Juarez street was closed to traffic and those who attempted to occupy the sidewalks were ordered away.

Several American parties in automobiles had turned into the street in ignorance of the order and as they were not halted until they had passed fully 100 feet to the north, the chauffeurs experienced considerable difficulty in backing out and one American, bolder than his fellows, protested against the proceeding to the Marighuana crazed guard. A few seconds later the guard stepped into the doorway of Walz and Company's curio store and deliberately raised his rifle and fired.

Several persons were more or less bruised in trying to get out of range. The maddened soldier was disarmed and was led away by officials after he had explained that the shooting was an "accident."

All of the saloons were kept tightly closed under penalty of death and it is reported that the soldiers, unable to obtain their usual "copitas," resorted to the use of the narcotic drug.

The city is unusually quiet tonight as most of the sightseers left Juarez before Carranza and his party arrived, owing to the lateness of the hour. Nearly a score of moving picture men as well as newspaper photographers also left in disgust as soon as it became too dark.

Another parade is promised tomorrow.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—The office of the newspaper El Pais was closed tonight, the police acting by orders of the Department of the Interior, but no reason being given.

El Pais was the only paper in Mexico City that did not announce that the rebels had been defeated at Torreon. It contented itself with saying that the issue was in doubt.

Juarez Greets Carranza.

introduced to Gen. Carranza, he smiled and said:

"Well, I suppose you want me to say something!"

The insinuation was admitted and the general, after the manner of a man who recognizes a rather wearisome duty, orated:

"The time is coming when the whole world can plainly see that the great cause of which I have the honor to be the head is the cause of justice. The path of better things is opening up and the day of retribution for treachery and infamy draws close."

PLAZA CROWDED.

Early in the afternoon crowds began to gather about the big monument to Benito Juarez, for the hour of Carranza's arrival was uncertain and had been reported at anywhere from 2 to 5 o'clock. It was considerably after nightfall when he did arrive, but the delay served only to augment the crowds.

There were peon women in the inevitable black, usually with children tagging at their heels or with babies in their arms, middle class women, wives and daughters of shopkeepers and petty officials in the pinkest of pinks, the greenest of greens and the most vivid reds to be had. They were hatless, for the most part, but if no jeweled ornament was nested in their black hair, there was at least a paper carnation. In automobiles and carriages were the women folk of the wealthy, with diamond-laden fingers, and gowns and hats that hinted of Paris. The men were less colorful, but character was lent the scene by the presence of Indians and peons, squatting here and there in the fringe of the crowd, wrapped to their noses in gaudy blankets, gazing moodily from under the great brims of their ornate and ponderous sombreros.

As the day wore on and the delay became tedious many left the city and took to the road along which the distinguished visitor was to enter the town.

The countryside spoke graphically of the years of revolution. Everywhere there were roofless and unoccupied houses which had been the homes of wealthy ranchers in the day of peace. By the side of the railroad track was a derailed and partially wrecked boxcar. In the hamlet of Puente del India, where Carranza was received by Gen. Chao, not a house was occupied. Not a window remained in any of them, and all showed signs of previous battles.

Delay was first occasioned while Carranza waited for his troop train to catch up. This done, other hours were consumed while the soldiers waited for new uniforms, leggings and hats.

The pilot train which preceded the troop train ran into town for the supplies and when it returned there was a great scramble for the outfits. The brown mesa became at once a clothing store and box cars and the abandoned houses were turned into dressing rooms.

ENTRY INTO CITY.

It was dusk when the cavalcade mounted once again and conscious of sartorial achievements, started on a trot for the city. The streets were illuminated, for darkness had fallen and the triumphal arches blazed with many colored incandescent bulbs.

At the monument Gen. Carranza was wildly cheered. He spoke in acknowledgement of the welcome and then repaired to the house set aside for him in the Avineda Juarez. Formerly it belonged to a Mexican whose political affiliations were not liked by the rebels, and his property was confiscated. Other speakers were Sylvestre Terrazas, Secretary of State of the State of Chihuahua, who spoke on behalf of Gen. Villa. Gustavo Padres, Mayor of Juarez, and Federico Gonzalez Garza, counsellor for the military commander of the Juarez garrison.

Gen. Carranza said he expected to spend several days in Juarez, probably till the battle of Torreon is decided one way or the other.

STARS IN A CRUSH.

Many Members of Boston Opera Company Hurt Just Before Sailing of Their Steamer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, March 29.—Several stars of the Boston Opera Company were hurt slightly and some of the women fainted when they were caught in a crush of people on a dock today, just before the sailing of the steamer Lapland.

A crowd of 5000 had gathered to bid farewell to the singers, who were leaving for Paris. Speeches had been made by the heads of several civic organizations when the Lapland's gangplanks were lowered and the crowd on the dock surged forward, carrying the opera people before them.

The police were unable to stop the crush until reserves were called.

Among those reported to be suffering from bruises were Myrna Sharlow, Margareta Bariza, Henry Danges, Mme. Danges, Leon Laffitte, Mme. Laffitte, Robert Moronzoni, Manager W. C. McDonald, Master Gaetano Britt and Margaret Saxon.

Miss Louise Ames and her mother fainted and were carried on board.

Champ Clark Declares It Doesn't Take Much Sense to Make a Good President.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—"It doesn't take as much sense to be a good President as it does to make a good Congressman," Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, asserted tonight, just before addressing a large audience at the Young Men's Christian Association in Brooklyn.

"A President," the Speaker continued, "has his Cabinet to advise him while a Congressman has got to think for himself."

Asked to say something about the tolls question, Clark replied:

"There's been too much said about it already."

He said he knew Congress "like a book and a more honest set of men never congregated."

Speaking of the Monroe doctrine, Clark said not one of the South American republics would have existed six months without it.

WICKERSHAM HURT.

Former Attorney-General and His Little Granddaughter Cut by Glass in Auto Accident.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—George W. Wickersham, former United States Attorney-General, and his 4-year-old granddaughter, Winifred Akin, were cut on the face by glass from the wind shield when the automobile in which they were riding got out of control of the chauffeur and dashed into a trolley pole today. Neither Mr. Wickersham nor the child was badly enough hurt to require the service of an ambulance surgeon.

RAIN CERTIFIES TO GOOD CROPS.

Sacramento Valley Rejoices Over Welcome Showers.

Record-Breaking Yields Are Predicted Everywhere.

Grain Considered Past Danger of High Winds.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, March 29.—Rain, which started to fall early today over the entire State and continued into tonight, found a welcome spot in the heart of every farmer and business man in Sacramento and the Sacramento Valley. The twenty-four hours' of showers assured good crops and even inspired some authorities to predict record-breaking yields in all the major products of the valley and foothill counties. Half an inch of rain fell here today, with still more falling tonight.

TEHAMA.

Tehama reports excellent prospects in grain and fruit-raising, with abundant feed for grazing. It is considered that the grain is practically past the danger of heavy winds.

YUBA.

All branches of agricultural industry are unusually active in Yuba county this year. The usual acreage has been planted to wheat and barley.

SOLANO.

Grain, barley and wheat are the chief products that are attracting attention in Solano county, the early indications promising a record-breaking crop for this district.

SUTTER.

Deciduous fruit crops are expected to set new records in Sutter county this season. Almond and fig crops look promising, but peaches, prunes and grapes will probably be the most profitable crops this season.

BUMPER CROPS.

Altogether from one end of the Sacramento Valley to the other indications are for bumper crops in all lines this season. A week ago there were a few farmers who had fears of what a continued dry spell at this season might mean, but the rain of today removed all these fears and left in its wake nothing but confidence and rejoicing.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ELMIRA (N. Y.) March 29.—With every river and creek swollen over its banks by a steady downpour during the last twenty-four hours, flood conditions last night were alarming throughout the southern section of the State. From all points came news of blocked traffic conditions, streets inundated and much property damage by reason of the ravages of the waters.

Binghamton is suffering serious damage by reason of the overflow of the Chenango and Susquehanna rivers. The Chenango overflowed its banks shortly before noon today and flooded a large part of the residential section.

From Corning, Canisteo, and Wellsville come reports of damage caused by the overflow of small rivers and streams.

Representative of Paris Dressmakers Will Visit Vatican to Argue in Behalf of Latest Modes.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, March 29.—Mme. Lariviere, director of La Mode Illustree, has gone to Rome to argue with the Vatican on behalf of Paris dressmakers, whose custom is seriously affected by the recent clerical attacks on the present modes.

The foreign trade of Paris houses is very large, especially in South America, Spain and other Catholic countries, where the bishops have been especially severe in refusing the offices of the church to the faithful who had not obeyed the papal command concerning dress regulations. As a consequence of these instructions many houses have suffered large loss and several are on the verge of bankruptcy.

Assistant Labor Commissioner of the "Show Me" State Gets at First Hand Conditions Among the Construction Gangs—Reports Food Unhealthy and Bunk Cars Filthy.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

JEFFERSON CITY (MO.) March 29.—The experiences of James J. Barrett, Assistant State Labor Commissioner, as a "casual laborer" are related in an official report submitted by Barrett to Gov. Major yesterday. Barrett left St. Louis a month ago disguised as a tramp and found work in various construction camps.

In his report Barrett said that in one railroad construction camp, the foreman threatened to beat him because he asked for a cup of coffee before going to work at daybreak without food.

Barrett made an investigation of Greek coffee houses in St. Louis. He questioned twenty-nine girls, employed in these places and he reported that some of the girls told him they got work in the coffee houses only on a promise to enter on a life of immorality. The girls serve the coffee in the houses, he reported and take their places at the table with the men as the latter drink their beverages. Intoxicants also are served in some of these coffee houses, he reported.

Many men out of work agree to pay employment agencies as high as 50 per cent. of their wages, Barrett reported; and in some construction camps the foremen are in league with the employment agencies to discharge men after they have worked a short time and thus make way for new men. The "fees" then are shared by the employment agency and the foremen.

The men employed in the construction camps, he reported, are charged 25 cents a month for hospital fees, but are discharged if they get sick.

The food in the camp is unhealthy, the bunk cars are filthy, the cooks are often diseased and there is grave danger of epidemic in the camp, Barrett says.

Barrett also studied the mental attitude of the casual workers. On this point he reports:

"If this immense army of these down and outs could get together and stay in one place long enough to become voters they could swing a national election and elect any ticket they put up. There is a deep, terrible undercurrent of rebellion, unrest and revolt among them because of the amazing amount of exploitation and oppression they are subjected to simply because they are tramps."

Yale Sophomore Taken Ill at His Class Work Is Operated Upon and Will Recover.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) March 29.—Russell Healy Lucas of New York, a Yale sophomore, attended his classes Saturday unaware that his appendix had burst several hours before. After leaving his last class in the afternoon he felt a slight pain in his stomach and went to his room. Some time later his roommate found him unconscious on the floor. Surgical aid was summoned immediately and an operation performed.

The surgeon said Lucas's appendix had burst three hours before and that under ordinary circumstances it would have been fatal. It was said at the Yale infirmary tonight he will probably recover.

Money Spent Lavishly in Seeing the Sights.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 29.—When the Pacific Mail liner Siberia arrived today from the Orient, two of the passengers were John C. Fielding, aged 20, and his brother, Arthur G. Fielding, aged 18. Both youths are traveling in the custody of Detectives William S. Bush and Thomas McFarland of the Chicago police force, and are en route to Chicago to face a charge of having defrauded the Continental and Commercial National Bank of that city of $4800 on February 17 last. They are lodged temporarily in the City Prison.

That their crime was deliberate and premeditated is the statement of both lads, and, far from being concerned about the term in prison which is facing them, they laugh over the manner in which they deceived the bank officials, and tell with apparent pride of their expenditure of all but $1200 of the amount of money secured by their fraudulent issuance of a draft on the Royal Bank of Canada, in which the younger brother was an employee.

Other fraudulent paper and daily embezzlements from the Montreal bank furnish humorous recollections to the two boys, and they boast of their peculations as other boys boast of athletic prowess or achievements in their studies. Both have frank, honest faces, and show the influence of healthy outdoor lives.

The older brother was an employee of a brokerage firm in Montreal and, working in conjunction with the younger, succeeded in embezzling over $1000 from his employers and the bank. Then, as they explain, the city became too "hot" for their comfort, and they decided to execute their grand coup and leave for Australia. Accordingly they relate, they secured a blank draft on the Royal Bank, and the younger brother, in his position of accountant, forwarded instructions to the Continental and Commercial Bank in Chicago to cash a draft for a William Butler, who would arrive in Chicago shortly. The signature was attached and everything arranged in perfect order, so that when Arthur went to the bank in the guise of Butler and introduced himself to the cashier, the money was turned over to him.

Then began the flight across the continent, with Australia as the ultimate destination of the fugitives. Money was spent lavishly and suites of rooms in the best hotels were engaged, costly dinners ordered and fine clothes purchased. The boys stopped en route to visit the Grand Canyon and say that while there they spent several hundred dollars. Upon reaching this city they temporarily registered at the Hotel Sutter under assumed names, and the same afternoon sailed for Honolulu on the Matson liner Matsonia.

Meanwhile the fraud had been found out and detectives had been engaged by the banking authorities to trace the fugitives. It was discovered that they had embarked for Honolulu, and a cable message caused their arrest upon the arrival of the Matsonia.

The prisoners were held in the County Jail at Honolulu pending the arrival of the Chicago officers. They will leave for Chicago either tomorrow or Tuesday to be tried for their crime.

The injured trainmen were brought to a hospital here.

The two engines pulling the train and four cars left the track, one engine turning over and a baggage and mail car, the smoker and a tourist sleeper going into the ditch. The wreck was said to have been caused by a defective engine.

E. C. Miller, fireman, of Council Grove, Kan., was pinned beneath a tender. He is injured internally, but it is believed he will recover. J. F. Brown, engineer, Osawatomie, was thrown fifty feet into a wire fence and sustained internal injuries.

MADISON (Wis.) March 29.—Henry Lane Wilson, former Ambassador of the United States to Mexico, said yesterday in an address before the Saturday Lunch Club that the present administration was guilty of inconsistency in its Mexican policy.

"The administration's policy in refusing to recognize a new government based on violence in Mexico can be justified only as a policy of expediency and not one of morals," he said. "Our recognition of republics in Peru and China and the refusal of recognition to Mexico warrants charges of inconsistency."

He blamed non-interference by the United States for the loss of American lives and property.

Panama Canal Tolls.

directly repealing the tolls exemption clause, would put it up to the President to determine what ships should pay tolls. Then there is Senator Lewis's bill empowering the President to suspend tolls, and another measure introduced by Senator Reed would suspend the toll exemption and then grant to foreign ships the right to compete with American coastwise shipping, a bill designed, as the Senator put it, "to break up any American coastwise shipping monopoly that may exist."

Other legislation before Congress is just now in practical eclipse.

WILSON BEFORE AND AFTER.

Senator Catron Quotes From President's Pre-election Speech Different Position on Panama Tolls.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) March 29.—President Wilson's appeal for the repeal of the toll exemption clause of the Panama Act was attacked by United States Senator Thomas B. Catron of New Mexico, in an address before the city Republican convention here last night.

Declaring that President Wilson had repudiated his campaign pledges and the Democratic platform in urging the repeal, Senator Catron quoted from an alleged pre-election speech by the President to New Jersey constituents in which the President is alleged to have said the tolls exemption plank was not "molasses to catch flies."

OLLIE IS PRO-BRITISH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—United States Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, speaking at the dinner of the Democratic Club of Westchester county here last night, declared himself in favor of the repeal of the Panama Canal Tolls Act. He said he would be the first to defend the nation's honor, but would never consent to the ship subsidy which free tolls meant for coastwise shippers.

EARTH SOLID SO FAR.

Well in Pennsylvania Is Now 6500 Feet Deep and Drillers Smile at Michelson's Statement.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PITTSBURGH, March 29.—Drillers at the famous deep well, which is being sunk at Oakdale, smiled today at the statement credited to Prof. Albert A. Michelson of Chicago that the interior of the earth is solid and more rigid than steel.

The well at Oakdale is now 6500 feet deep, the deepest hole so far drilled. Drills made of specially hardened steel can be used for only a few minutes at a time, as the point softens and flattens. When brought to the surface the drills are red hot. Workers say they can prove that the interior of the earth is hot and not at all rigid.

A WOMAN'S HEALTH

Every woman's health is peculiarly dependent upon the condition of her blood. How many women suffer with headache, pain in the back, poor appetite, weak digestion, a constant feeling of weariness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pallor and nervousness. If you have any of these symptoms, do not despair of getting better, but begin now, today, to build up your blood with Dr. William's Pink Pills. See how the nervous energy of the body is restored as the blood becomes pure and red and the entire system is strengthened to meet every demand upon it.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful for all women, but they are particularly valuable to girls of school age who show symptoms of going in to decline, who become pale, nervous and languid. These pills aid in securing perfect development and health by strengthening the system and purifying and building up the blood. Thin blood during the growing years of a girl's life usually means a flat-chested and hollow-cheeked womanhood. There can be neither health nor beauty without red blood which gives brightness to the eyes and color to the cheeks and lips.

Write now to the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for two helpful booklets, "Plain Talks to Women" and "Building Up the Blood."

This is a wonderful external help to the muscles and tendons. It penetrates the tissues, makes them readily yield to nature's demand for expansion, so there is no period of pain, discomfort, straining, nausea or other symptoms so often distressing during the anxious weeks of expectancy.

Mother's Friend thoroughly lubricates every nerve, tendon and muscle involved and is a sure preventive for caking of the breasts.

And particularly to young mothers is this famous remedy of inestimable value. It enables them to preserve their health and strength, and they remain pretty by having avoided all the suffering and danger that would otherwise accompany such an occasion.

You will find this splendid remedy on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle.

WIRE CHIEF PASSES AWAY.

E. W. Emery, Veteran Press Operator and Long Connected With the "A. P.," Dies in Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Ernest William Emery, chief of wire traffic in the Washington bureau of the Associated Press, died suddenly today of heart disease. He had not been in good health in recent years.

Besides being one of the early press operators in this country, Emery was one of the oldest employees of the Associated Press and was widely known in telegraph and newspaper circles. He began telegraphy when 12 years old and was one of the first operators to man a leased wire for the transmission of news. He was selected by the Associated Press to send the news of first importance at many national political conventions. At one time he was day manager of the editorial staff of the Washington bureau and he was a Past Exalted Ruler of the local lodge of Elks.

Emery was born at Senaca Falls, N. Y., fifty-five years ago. Early today he had celebrated his twenty-third anniversary of his mariage. Besides his widow, a 17-year-old son, Ernest W. Emery, Jr., and a daughter survive him.

SIEGEL BANKRUPTCY.

Simpson-Crawford Store in New York May Reopen if Mercantile Creditors Accept Conditions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—The Simpson-Crawford department store, one of the New York Siegel and Vogel bankrupt enterprises, may be reopened, if recommendations to that effect are accepted by the mercantile creditors of the bankrupt firm.

The recommendations were made by the Central Conference Committee, a body composed of representatives of associations and firms having claims against the Siegel stores.

The committee voted to accept what is known as option No. 1, made on March 25, in the report of general creditors of the Siegel enterprises, which proposed to pay the mercantile creditors 80 cents on the dollar in 25 per cent. of first preferred stock, 25 per cent. in second preferred and 30 per cent. in common stock.

Action was taken by the committee after a report of the merchant and bank creditors' committee had been heard.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issue. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper.

BRITISH NAVY FIRST IN FLYING.

Winston Churchill Declares It Leads World.

Dwells Upon Importance of Hitting Hard First.

Location and Source of Oil Reserve Kept Secret.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, March 20.—Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, has compelled the House of Commons to listen for two and a half hours while he gave a review of the latest achievements in naval science so interesting that even the "little navy" men kept their seats to the end.

GOOD GUNNERY.

Battle between great modern ironclads the first lord described as "more like a battle between two eggshells striking each other with hammers than two men in armor striking at each other with heavy swords.

"The offensive power of modern battleships is out of proportion to their defensive power," he said. "Never was the disproportion so marked. In the light of that illustration the awful importance of good gunnery must come home to us—the importance of hitting first and hitting hard."

NAVAL AVIATION.

Churchill believes that the British navy leads the world in flying. His personal exploits in that direction have been criticised as foolhardy for one of his position. He promised to give his fellow members a unique exhibition later in the season by bringing a fleet of airships over the Parliament buildings "if the house will take it kindly," he remarked, "in order to remove the doubts which lurk in some breasts as to the existence of air craft in possession either of the naval or military services."

The admiralty now possesses fifteen airships, ten of which are large vessels of over forty-five miles an hour speed with sixty-two seaplanes and forty-one ordinary aeroplanes. Churchill declared his belief in the future of the aeroplane, but admitted the airship had advantages in greater radius of action, being able to remain aloft forty-eight hours, in greater carrying capacity and efficiency at night work. There are twenty officers and 100 pilots who have received certificates of proficiency from the aero club. Attached to the flying service altogether are 125 officers and 500 men and he predicted the numbers would reach 180 officers and 1400 or 1500 men before the end of the year.

SEAPLANES.

Special seaplane vessels are being built which can accompany a fleet and carry several machines.

"Of course the heavy seaplanes which are developing now," the first lord said, "will carry formidable explosives which could be dropped on transports. They carry wireless telegraphy which enables them to signal 120 miles effectually, and they have been quite recently able even to receive a message while in the air."

SECRET OIL RESERVE.

The government maintains the greatest secrecy concerning the location of the oil reserve as well as the source of supply. The sum of $7,500,000 was asked as an appropriation for the oil reserves, but the first lord explained that with the cost of tanks and pipe lines to deliver oil at the jetties much more is being spent.

Opposition newspapers have hinted strongly at scandals in connection with oil strikes and accused the government of favoring capitalists who are its friends.

Some news of the campaign for oil did crop out in the speech. The admiralty has been building a fleet of oil-tank vessels. Four are already in use and ten more are under way. Large ships which would be in the line of battle during war will continue to depend upon coal, but the Cardiff product has become obsolete already, he said, for light cruisers of the latest type, all of which are equipped with oil-consuming engines.

GENERAL RAILWAY STRIKE.

Eighty Thousand Employees in Italy Threaten to Go Out April 15 Unless Government Gives In.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, March 29.—Another general railway strike is threatened in Italy. Eighty thousand railway employees are agitating for an amelioration of their conditions of employment, which would represent an increase of $10,000,000 in the state budget.

The employees held several meetings today, the most important of these at Ancona, a great railway center, at which it was decided that if the government refused to give a satisfactory answer to the demands of the men a general railway strike would be proclaimed on April 15.

Enrico Malatesta, the anarchist leader, promised the support of his party to the railway men and the Republicans and Socialist leaders gave a similar promise.

JAP CABINET CRISIS.

Prince Tokugawa Offered Premiership by Emperor, but He Declined the Task.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

TOKIO, March 29.—The Emperor has offered the Premiership to Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the House of Peers, but the Prince decided to decline the task.

Since the resignation of the Yamamoto Ministry on March 24 the names of several prominent statesmen, including Count Okuma, have been mentioned in connection with the formation of a new Cabinet.

Ancient Roman "Mudus" Found.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, March 29.—Prof. Giacomo Boni, who last January discovered the "Mudus" or center of the ancient city of Rome, has now found nearby the place where the Vestals preserved the finest ears of corn for the celebration of marriages. This ceremony was considered symbolic of the betterment of the race.

Long Wireless Telephony.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, March 29.—Communication by wireless telephone between Laeken, a suburb of Brussels, and Eiffel tower, was established last night and the voice of a tenor singing at Laeken could be heard. This was made possible through a new and powerful midrophone invented by an Italian engineer.

GERMAN ROYALTY'S VISIT.

Prince Henry of Prussia With His Wife Arrives at Buenos Ayres From Rio Janeiro.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BUENOS AYRES, March 29.—Prince Henry of Prussia, brother of the Emperor of Germany, and the Princess Henry of Prussia, arrived here today from Rio Janeiro.

The Prince and Princess were warmly greeted by the representatives of governmental departments, the German Minister and the various German societies. The press extends to them also a cordial welcome. The Prince's mission is in the nature of a private visit to the South American republics.

Empress Haruko Unimproved.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

TOKIO, March 29.—The dowager Empress Haruko, who is suffering from angina pectoris, continues in a serious condition at the imperial villa at Numazu, a watering place southwest of Yokohama, it was announced today. Court physicians are in attendance.

THINKS KARLUK SAFE.

Stefansson in Letter to Peary Said He Believes Bartlett Is Perfectly Capable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—Confidence in the safety of those on board of the Karluk of the Stefansson expedition, which was lost track of months ago in the Arctic ice, is expressed by the explorer in a letter to Rear-Admiral Robert E. Peary.

In the letter, dated Ft. McPherson, February 24, and postmarked Dawson, March 5, and which was made public tonight by Admiral Peary, Stefansson, referring to the Karluk, wrote that "Bartlett is capable of doing whatever can be done and I am sure can do something looking to the safety of those on board if they should have to land on Banks' Land. I shall try to winter next year on Banks' or Prince Patrick with the Sachs."

The Bartlett referred to is Capt. Robert Bartlett of the Peary expedition, who was in command of the Karluk when she disappeared. The Mary Sachs is another of the Stefansson expedition craft, with which the Alaska, the third vessel, is in winter quarters at Collinson Point, in the Arctic Circle.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—Announcement was made today by Michael Jebsen, joint owner with his brother, Fred Jebsen, of the Jebsen line, that another vessel will shortly be added to the company's string of ships operating between this and Mexico's west coast ports. The new steamship, the Clara Jebsen, is in the Orient, flying the Norwegian flag. This will be changed to the Mexican.

HOLTVILLE COMES, SEES AND IS DULY CONQUERED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NILAND, March 29.—Holtville was moved to Niland today when hundreds of residents of the former city came here by special trains and joined Los Angeles excursionists in the celebration of "Holtville Day."

Dozens of men who have already made fortunes out of the combination of Imperial Valley soil, climate and water since Holtville was first laid out, were eager investors in business, residence and acreage properties. Several of these Holtville men will build stores here and transfer their activities to this northern end of the valley. The trains had no sooner been emptied than Harrison Kellenberger of Long Beach made the first purchase of a business site on Niland avenue near the new depot. From that moment the offices of the California Land and Water Company were crowded with land buyers. Kellenberger will build a store at once. Milham Fox, a Michigan tourist, who was drawn here by curiosity, purchased a residence lot and announced that he would remain in this new town, starting work on a home tomorrow.

The throng was regaled at a barbecue by Chef Ahezederion and Wild West features were provided by broncho busters.

Scenes of the day were almost similar to those in a new mining camp. Arthur Hull, president; John D. Reavis, vice-president; John R. Woodbridge, secretary of the company developing the town and 47,000 surrounding acres, were forced to turn salesmen to help the force of Stanley Pratt, sales manager.

A $40,000 hotel is already under way and contractors are preparing to pave the principal streets. Many buildings are being rushed. Tuesday is Intercity day and a tremendous crowd is anticipated from every city in the Imperial Valley and from Los Angeles. An all-day programme has been arranged.

Ground Breaking.

WORK ON GREAT POMONA SPEEDWAY BEGINS FRIDAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, March 29.—Elaborate preparations have been made by the Pomona Chamber of Commerce and its committee in charge of the arrangements for the ground-breaking exercises for the Pomona speedway next Friday and Saturday. A two days' programme of thrilling events will be presented by Glenn Martin, the aviator, and a number of other sky pilots on the site of the new automobile race course. Co. D of the National Guards will be one of the factors in the big battle of the clouds, which promises to be a thriller from start to finish.

With the firing of the opening bomb at 2:30 each afternoon the birdmen in their new scout cruisers will form into line and a parade will be made twice around the proposed course. Following, a number of races will be held, some being match races, while others will include all of the aviators.

Glenn Martin, for the first time in the history of the aeroplane, will attempt to phone by wireless from his machine while high up in the air to a station in the grandstand. The result of this event will be watched with interest by military men all over the world.

Tiny Broadwick will provide the crowd with a sensation, as she will leap from an aeroplane while the machine is 3000 feet above the ground. She will wear one of Martin's new safety vests.

Martin will make several attempts to shatter the world's record for altitude. He intends to take several passengers up in one attempt, and Frank A. Garbutt, the well-known sportsman, will take a little trip up into cloudland with the Santa Ana birdman.

One of the features of the fete will be the race to Mt. Baldy, all of the aviators taking part. The mountain is only about fifteen miles from the speedway site, its snow-topped peak standing out in bold contrast against the darker coloring of the timber-covered hills.

Charles Willard, who retired from active participation in aviation meets several years ago, will once more blossom out as a sky pilot. He will fly one of Martin's new type of aerial cruisers. Ignatius Seminoux, the noted French birdman, will be on the ground, and as he has had worlds of experience, no doubt he will give the other pilots a run for honors.

Aviators Tailiaferro, Muller and Dodd of the San Diego army aerial squad, will act as judges of the different events and they will pass judgement on some of the contests while flying high up over the scene of the competition.

The big sensation of the meet will be the Battle of the Clouds. All of the birdmen will be pitted against the Co. D of the National Guard, and the resulting conflict will be the first on record. The airmen will have electrical bombs which will be used against the ground forces. These bombs explode with a loud report when they hit the object aimed at, and a spectacular exhibition of modern fighting will be furnished.

The militia will also have electrical bombs which will be used in an attempt to repulse the attacking sky warriors. Before the battle the ground forces will execute a number of difficult maneuvers, and then as the judges give the call to arms by firing a big bomb, the two opposing factions, the aviators and the soldiers, will clash and the first battle of the clouds in the history of the world will be on.

The big fete will be a fitting occasion for ground breaking for the new Pomona speedway, and following the ceremonies, America's finest and fastest speedway will be under construction. Manager Paul Derkum, who will superintend the building of the track, has promised to produce a track on which all of the world's speedway records may be shattered.

ON THE ROAD TO WELLVILLE AFTER USING AKOZ A MONTH

W. A. Vowinkel Relieves System of Several Ailments With New Mineral.

William A. Vowinkel, a refiner, residing at 1526 East First street, formerly of Buffalo, N. Y., after suffering for years from kidney, bladder and stomach trouble, has found life worth living through the use of Akoz, the wonderful California radio-active medicinal mineral. He tells of his experience in the following letter:

"For five years I have suffered intense agony from kidney trouble and stomach trouble. I had no appetite and was literally starving to death. I can name twelve kidney remedies and a physician that I tried, but from which I got no relief. I met a friend of mine who persuaded me to try Akoz, and I thank the day he did so. I began taking the mineral and it has worked a miracle in my condition. In four weeks after taking Akoz faithfully, I felt better than I had for ten years. Not only were my kidneys improved, but the condition of my stomach and bladder so benefited that I regained my appetite and know I am on the road to 'Wellville.' To intelligent people who are suffering as I was I would recommend they take the wonderful Akoz and I know they will be on the right path to recovery. I will take an oath that the remedy bettered my condition and will gladly answer all personal letters inquiring what Akoz did for me and is doing for me from day to day."

Akoz will be found beneficial in the treatment of not only kidney, liver and stomach trouble, but catarrh, rheumatism, eczema, piles, ulcers, poison oak, skin diseases and other ailments. For sale at all Owl Drug stores, where additional information may be had regarding this advertisement.

President of Federated Railroad Employees Declares He Will Ask for Investigation of "Lay-Offs."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ALTOONA (Pa.) March 29.—Because of the action of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in laying off many shopmen and trainmen here and in other points in Pennsylvania, W. H. Pierce, president of the Brotherhood of Federated Railway Employees, announced in a long statement last night that he will bring the matter to the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission for investigation.

Pierce said that the removal of so many car inspectors and the retention of inexperienced employees jeopardized the safety of the public.

He also announced that he will recommend that all the public bathing-houses located along the three rivers named shall be discontinued.

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Baltimore, Md.—"I am more than glad to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I suffered dreadful pains and was very irregular. I became alarmed and sent for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until I was without a cramp or pain and felt like another person, and it has now been six months since I took any medicine at all. I hope my little note will assist you in helping other women. I now feel perfectly well and in the best of health."—Mrs. AUGUST W. KONDNER, 1632 Hollins Street, Baltimore, Md.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

POSSES LOSE BANDIT'S TRAIL.

Elma Robbers Overlooked Bag of Gold.

Bullets Fly in Streets as Desperadoes Escape.

Entire Country Is Aroused and Capture Predicted.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TACOMA (Wash.) March 29.—The posses searching for the bandits who held up the bank at Elma Saturday evening and later engaged in a battle with the officers have lost the trail. It was ascertained today that the robber overlooked a bag containing more than $2000 in gold near the cashier's window.

COUNTRY IS SCOURED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ELMA (Wash.) March 29.—Five posses this morning scoured the country-side for four or possibly five masked men who held up the Elma National Bank fifteen minutes before closing time last night and escaped with more than $3500 after firing more than twenty shots and alarming the entire town. A few minutes later the school gymnasium burned, giving some basis for the belief that the robbers had fired it to distract attention.

No one was injured in the shooting. Numerous suspicious characters have been rounded up but the chase for the fugitives, believed to be foreigners, is being carried on by posses from here and from Montesano, the latter being accompanied by bloodhounds.

The robbery was well timed and each man did his work well. Cashier E. L. France and Bookkeeper A. H. Fleming, as well as three depositors, were in the bank preparing to close for the night when two men entered. They made a rush for an open door leading behind the cashier's cage, and when inside ordered all "hands up." They backed Fleming into the vault and demanded $25,000. Fleming began throwing out silver, but one of the men broke the package and served curt notice that Fleming throw out the gold. The coin obtained was put in a leather sack. A second member of the gang then searched the vault and obtained a large amount of currency.

More than $2000 on the paying-teller's table in the cage was overlooked.

Just how many robbers were on guard outside is uncertain. Several hundred people reached the scene in time to see part of the robbery, but accounts differ as to whether two or three bandits were in the street. They forced G. W. Avery to go into the bank and attempted to do likewise with Rodney Maxwell, who broke away and ran up the street and gave the alarm.

At a signal from the outside the robbers in the bank withdrew. As they emerged into the street, Cashier France reached for a revolver. This was evidently seen from the outside and a fusillade of shots through a window followed, several narrowly missing France. The robbers fled to the eastward after shooting in all directions. No shots were fired at the bandits.

BANDITS OVERTAKEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOQUIAM (Wash.) March 29.—A telephone mesage received from Elma early today said Sheriff Mathews and his posse overtook the robbers who held up the Bank of Elma last night at the railroad crossing near Satsop and that a pitched battle ensued between the posse and the bandits. The Sheriff sent back word to send reinforcements and a new supply of ammunition. No details of the fight have been received and it is not known whether anyone was wounded in the encounter.

More than 100 shots were fired in the battle between the posse and the bandits. One of the posses which reached Centralia was notified of the encounter and was hurried back toward Satsop from the East. Two automobile loads of reinforcements for Sheriff Mathews' posse left Elma and another car full of men is on the way from Montesano west of Satsop.

Sixty armed men were at the scene of the battle at 2 o'clock this morning. Two other posses are guarding the Northern Pacific tracks at Elma. After the battle the bandits retreated east around the railroad toward Elma.

It is now believed the robbers were members of a railroad construction crew at Satsop and are Greeks instead of Italians. A Greek laborer employed on the construction crew has been arrested and is held as a suspect.

GUNMEN APPEAL AGAIN.

Men Convicted of Rosenthal's Murder Assert They Should Get a New Trial Like Becker.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—Louis Rosenberg, "Leftie Louis;" Frank Cirofico, "Dago Frank;" Jacob Seidenfuer, "Whitey Lewis," and Harry Horowitz, alias "Gyp the Blood," convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal and now awaiting death in the electric chair at Sing Sing, issued another statement last night through their attorney, in which the claim is made that a stranger and Harry Vallon and Bridgey Webber had shot at Rosenthal.

The statement is a reply to a recent statement by Webber that he had not been a party to the crime, and that he did not know the strange man said to have done the shooting.

The four men insist that Webber must have known this man, for otherwise he would not have admitted him, as they claim, into his gambling-house or left the place with him afterwards for the scene of the murder.

The statement, which is in the nature of an appeal to the public, argues that if Charles Becker could secure a new trial because the testimony of Jack Rose, Sam Schepps, Webber and Vallon had been found incompetent by the Court of Appeals, their case should be reopened on the same grounds, considering that the evidence obtained from these men served to convict them.

STABS BROTHER TO DEATH.

Lewis Chickinny Kills Charles During a Quarrel at Phoenix in Their Aged Mother's Presence.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 29.—In the presence of their aged mother, Lewis Chickinny, 45, fatally stabbed last night his brother, Charles, 43, in a quarrel at the Chickinny family home. Charles died almost instantly.

Lewis, who was taken into custody, admitted the killing of his brother, but said he had been nearly crazed with anger at epithets the dead man had applied to him.

The widow of the dead man was held as a material witness. She declined to make any statement concerning the affair.

The Chickinny family has lived here twenty-five years. The brothers were employed by a lumber company.

GUARDS FOR CHURCHES.

Illinois Minister Appeals to Mayor of Alton for Protection After Receiving a Threatening Letter.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) March 29.—Armed men have been hired to guard churches in Alton, Ill., as a result of the burning of the Y.M.C.A. building yesterday. The fire is believed to have been incendiary and leaders in the "dry" campaign now being waged in Alton, believe that the blaze was the result of the ill feeling aroused in the present political fight.

Rev. C. W. Reese, who started a crusade against the segregated vice district, wrote a letter yesterday to Mayor Joseph Faulstitch, demanding police protection. This letter was written after a threatening note had been found nailed to the front door of the Methodist Church, saying churches and preachers were to be abolished, and warning preachers to look out for their lives.

The letter of Rev. Mr. Reese to the Mayor accuses the latter of making derogatory statements concerning him and adds:

"There can be but one tendency resulting from such loose language on the part of a man whose sworn duty it is under the law to execute the ordinances of the city and afford protection to its citizens, namely, that some ignorant ruffian will misconstrue your words to mean protection to himself and as a license for him to use force and violence with impunity.

"I wish to call your attention in the provision of the State statute relative to injury to persons and property by mobs. And I hereby wish to notify you that as a citizen of Alton, I demand at your hands the necessary and requisite police protection that I may safely walk the streets of this city and not be molested either in my person or my property."

Mayor Roberts and His Agents Declared Responsible for Bad Political Conditions, Ending in Murder.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TERRE HAUTE (Ind.) March 29.—Mayor Donn M. Roberts, on trial here charged with election frauds, and his agents, were declared responsible for political conditions that ended in one murder, in the opening statement to the jury by Joseph Roach, special prosecutor.

It was announced also by the prosecution that evidence would be introduced in an attempt to show that Mayor Roberts and his agents had conspired to register 2700 fictitious persons.

The opening address for the defense will be made Monday.

Edward Forteir Attacks Man at Yountville; Three Men Are Required to Arrest Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NAPA, March 29.—Armed with a large butcher knife, Edward Forteir ran amuck in Yountville today and tried to kill H. Westergaard. Westergaard managed to escape from the angry man and Forteir took refuge in the Magnolia Hotel and defied Constable Patton to remove him. Two Deputy Sheriffs were summoned from Napa and after a fierce struggle the three officers overpowered Forteir.

The latter is now in the County Jail and will be prosecuted on a charge of assault to commit murder. He claims that Westergaard, a butcher, has been paying undue attention to Mrs. Forteir.

LEAK IN ARSON PLAN.

Two Men Arrested in New Jersey for Conspiracy to Burn Oilcloth Works at Salem.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TRENTON (N. J.) March 29.—Albert J. Binberg and Joseph J. Binberg, who gave their home address as White Plains, N. Y., arrested on a train here on a charge of having conspired with their foreman, John B. Campbell, to burn their plant, the American Oilcloth Company works, at Salem, N. J., for a consideration of $10,000, were taken to Salem county, yesterday, for arraignment on the charge of having wired Campbell to burn the plant.

The arrest of the Binbergs was brought about through the alleged weakening of Campbell, who, according to his own story, after having agreed to burn the plant, went to Prosecutor Sinnickson of Salem county and told him of the plan.

BOMB DAMAGES CLUB.

Man Active in Prohibition Fight at Rockford, Ill., Moves His Sleeping Place Just in Time.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ROCKFORD (Ill.) March 29.—An explosion, which the police believe to have been caused by a bomb, wrecked four windows and did other damage in the clubhouse of the Knights of Daniel Club early today. No one was hurt.

S. S. Tate, president of the club, who carries on temperance work among the boys, sleeps in the clubhouse, but had moved his room last night after receiving two anonymous letters threatening his life. The bomb is believed to have exploded on the window ledge of the room Tate formerly occupied. The letters have been turned over to the police.

Tate has been active in the local "wet and dry" fight. Before he became a temperance advocate, Tate was a saloon-keeper in Montana.

SACRAMENTO, March 29.—After having eluded the officers of the State for the past year, W. D. Morrison, former secretary of the Glass Workers' Union of San Francisco, who embezzled $1000 from the organization, surrendered himself last night to Sergt. Harry Rible of the local department.

Morrison walked into the police station and after establishing his identity told Sergt. Rible that he was conscience-stricken.

For the past year Morrison has worked about the Southern mines as a mucker.

The Speculator's Wife Will Stand by Husband.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 29.—Known to his friends as a man who thinks only in seven figures, Walter Greer Campbell, the speculator who surrendered himself to the police Saturday night and was released on bail, will appear before Police Judge Deasy tomorrow morning to be arraigned, on a charge of having passed a worthless draft for $250. A second charge, that of wife-abandonment, also may be taken up during the proceedings today.

As soon as he was free Saturday night, Campbell hurried to the side of his 23-year-old wife, who, according to his counsel, Attorney Algernon Crofton, will stand by her husband and aid him to prove untrue the charge that he abandoned his first wife, Mrs. Susan Barth Campbell.

ATTORNEY'S PLANS.

Crofton conferred with Campbell today as to procedure and intimated that when the case is called this morning he will ask for a continuance. Campbell says he expects no difficulty in explaining the issuance of the $250 draft on O'Brien & Marshall which led to his arrest in Portland, but, owing to complications that have arisen in other channels, favors postponing that case.

Crofton intimates that he will invoke the statute of limitations against any charge of bigamy that may result from Mrs. Susan Barth Campbell's accusation of abandonment. Crofton takes the view that to have abandoned his first wife, if it were held so by the courts, would be paramount to being convicted of bigamy. He says he will try to avoid the necessity of searching records in Mexico City unless it becomes indispensable.

CANADIAN BANK DEAL.

That Campbell's present predicament has blocked a large financial enterprise that tends to illustrate Campbell's trend of thought in seven figures, also is disclosed by Crofton. The speculator is said to have contemplated, with an outlay of $20,000,000 cash, to secure control of one of the largest Canadian government banks, which is said to have on deposit $300,000,000. The $20,000,000, it is said, was to have been furnished by the Mexican government, which in return would thus secure control of $300,000,000. This sum was to have been used to suppress the revolution in Mexico, and Campbell, for conceiving and carrying out the scheme, would have been richly rewarded in fertile Mexican lands.

Campbell is said to believe that his habit of thinking in seven figures makes him work along lines that will yield a living in keeping with this habit of thought.

GOVERNMENT LAND—

THIS IS POSITIVELY THE LAST CALL. THE government opened to entry last week 40,000 acres of the finest agricultural land in Arizona, located on the Gila River and main line of Southern Pacific railroad. During the past 10 days more than 15,000 acres of this land have been taken up. More than 50,000 acres of government land has been filed on in Yuma county during past four months. Hundreds of people are coming in weekly. It is the opinion of the best-advised people in Yuma county that the prices of patented land in Yuma county will equal the highest prices ever paid in Imperial Valley, within 3 years. Water conditions in our country are ideal, and excepting these few thousand acres I am telling you about there is practically no surveyed government land in Yuma county. We raise the finest citrus fruits in United States, weeks ahead of California, and superior to finest Florida fruit. I am taking a party to Arizona on Wednesday. If you have a right and want to use it this is without question your one best chance. I am secretary of the Southern Arizona Development Association, and the information you get from me about any government land is reliable. Come and see me at Westminster Hotel, 4th and Main sts., any time until Wednesday, April 1, at noon. MURRAY J. MORLEY.

I AM JUST IN RECEIPT OF A TELEGRAM OFfering for sale 160-acre relinquishment on the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad on the Gila River, for $1500 cash; only 1000 feet from depot. Worth $3500 if it's worth a cent. Offered for sale at this price on account of domestic trouble. If interested come and see me quick, because this will not last long. MURRAY J. MORLEY, Secretary, SOUTHERN ARIZONA DEVELOPMENT CO., Westminster Hotel, 4th and Main sts.

FOR SALE—AT A BARGAIN, SEVERAL RELINquishments, 80 to 320 acres; deep, rich, level river bottom silt land, abundance of water for irrigation, 10 to 20 feet; near station on main line S. P.; also on ocean to ocean highway; land suitable for alfalfa, dates, cotton, milo maize and extra early fruits and vegetables; frostless winters; as good as the best of Imperial Valley; price very low; might consider some exchange; I will be at Baltimore Hotel all this week. Call or phone ROOM 624.

40,000 ACRES NEW GOVERNMENT LAND, JUST opened, on the Gila River, in Arizona, richest land in the world, and abundance of water for irrigation at 10 to 20 feet; see MORLEY, secretary, Southern Arizona Development Association, at Westminster Hotel, 4th and Main, for free information about any part of Southern Arizona.

TWO HUNDRED VESSELS.

Pleasure Craft, Warships and Commercial Leviathons Will Participate in Harbor Dedication Festivities.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WILMINGTON, March 29.—More than 200 vesels, ranging from small motorboats of less than ten horsepower to the giant new cruiser of the United States navy "Cleveland" will lie at anchor in Los Angeles harbor on April 11, when the inner harbor is ready to receive the largest of the deep sea going vessels.

The Los Angeles Motorboat Club will have its entire squadron decorated for the event, lying in the Wilmington basin. This squadron includes high-powered speed boats, capable of thirty miles an hour down to the small low-powered craft, owned by youngsters. The South Coast Yacht Club will have a large representation of the sailing craft of Southern California. The various coastwise steamship companies will be represented. The government, according to promises received from Secretary Daniels, will have every available war craft attend the festivities; while numerous coast cities are to send special craft to pay homage and respect to Los Angeles.

The programme of speakers is yet to be announced. The committee in charge is busy securing notables, but refuses to give the name of any orators until their list is entirely completed. The residents feel they will be on dress parade before the world on that date, and they wish to make a splendid showing before the 30,000 guests expected.

The programme to date includes aerial feats by Glenn Martin and the dropping of Tiny Broadwick from the clouds into the harbor; a monster fish dinner served free to all, band concerts, formal dedication exercises, and a marine regatta.

End in Sight.

KILFOIL CASE CRISIS NEARS.

GRAND JURY TO TAKE ACTION IN MATTER TODAY.

Girl at San Diego Hospital Will Soon Be Confronted With Story that Connects Her Directly With the Poisoning — News to Be Broken to Her Gently.

The end of the eighty-first day of investigation into the Kilfoil murder mystery will come tomorrow when the grand jury is expected to put its official stamp upon the solution of the poison source, according to Chief Deputy District-Attorney Ford. The statements of Phil A. Kilfoil, accusing Lillian Palmer of the crime, and evidence gathered by the Kilfoils and by detectives for the District Attorney, form the basis for the solution of the mystery, says Ford.

"Had it not been for the co-operation of the Kilfoils," said Ford, "we would be just as far from a solution of the mystery as we were the day we discovered that Mary Kilfoil was poisoned with arsenic. Now that they have broken the seal of silence and permitted us to obtain details we were unable to get, we have made progress which will soon put the whole case into history."

Phil Kilfoil denied at the County Jail yesterday that he is in poor health and said he is ready and anxious to go before the grand jury. John F. Kilfoil, his brother, who has been very active in his brother's defense, was at the jail an hour yesterday. He, too, is anxious to appear before the grand jury and tell all he knows of what he considers a conspiracy to send his brother to the gallows for the death of his sister.

Other witnesses will be called before the grand jury to help that body arrive at the truth, although it is not thought that the number will exceed five witnesses in all. With these, it is believed, rests the truth of the matter.

While the grand jury is trying to get at the bottom of the poison mystery, Lillian Palmer, the girl in the case, is recovering from her illness at San Diego. The birth of a child to her early yesterday morning and the announcement that she will recover place her nearer the point where she may be told the details of the case that have transpired since she went south in January. It is known that she is unaware of Kilfoil's arrest or of the suspicion of murder under which he has been held. Other important matters have been kept from her because of her illness. These facts will be broken to her gradually, as she gathers strength, and Dr. R. B. Trones, in charge of the case, asserts that as soon as he feels she is strong enough he will permit representatives of the District Attorney's office and of the Kilfoils to interview her and to learn from her own lips the truth of the charges made by Kilfoil against her and the charge made by the State against Kilfoil as the result of the condition which brought about her motherhood.

In Miniature.

OUTLAW GANG OF JUVENILES.

YOUNGSTERS CAUGHT LUGGING THEIR LOOT AWAY.

Captain of Six Summers Is the "Brains" of the Bandit Bunch. Russian Children Admit to Twelve Burglaries in Last Few Months. Police Astonished at Escapades.

Were there a sculptured concept of the law in the detective's room at police headquarters, it would have shaken itself last night from its posture of majesty, have softened, stretched out its arms in merciful indulgence, and perhaps have wept.

There is no such fancy of the sculptor there. But the spirit of its possible change of attitude was there last night, present in the attitudes of half a dozen detectives who looked on indulgently, perhaps a bit pityingly, while six tiny tykes, 6 to 12 years old, were brought to task for sticking their fingers, figuratively speaking, to their noses at the law and its majesty.

The six little fellows were burglars. Caught red-handed, their loot in gunny sacks, the "jimmy" with which they had effected an entrance into Mack's Cigar Stand at No. 116 West Second street, in their hands, they freely admitted their wrong doing and added to the pitiful heinousness of their youthful escapades by telling, easily and without effort, of many previous "jobs." Candy, chewing gum and cigarette premiums comprised the loot.

All the youngsters, save one, are Russians. The youngest of them all, boasting 6 full years, is "captain." He is Alex Platnikoff of No. 154 North Gless street. Baby-eyed, a wondering expression in his face, he tells of his "desperate" career without a smile, without bravado, merely relating facts.

His first lieutenant is Jimmy Pivavaroff, who has reached the dignity of 9 years and lives at No. 159 North Gless street. The ordinary "privates" of the gang are: Mike Pivavaroff, 6 years old, of No. 313½ Pecan street; John Pivavaroff, 8, of No. 159 North Gless street; Ivan Urian, 8, of No. 130 North Gless street; Arnold Miller, 12 years old, of No. 153 North Gless street. The latter says he is of German descent and admits that, despite his age, he follows the leadership of little 6-year-old Alex Platnikoff.

The children were caught by Special Officer E. L. Richardson of the Merchants' Fire Despatch while coming out of an alley beside the West Second-street cigar store. Their gunnysacks were on their arms, filled with chocolate, chewing gum, little rugs such as are given as premiums with certain brands of cigarettes, and tobacco. As a "jimmy" they had handled one of the little metal implements used to open cigar boxes.

Their clothes were dirty, their faces and hands likewise, and their hair tousled and unkempt when they appeared before Detective Zeigler. But their eyes were bright and unafraid; they respectfully took off their little caps and none attempted to evade the questions put in kindly fashion to them by Ziegler in an effort to understand how the youngsters should have started thus early on a career of wrong-doing.

Little Mike Pivavaroff was asked if his mother had not taught that to steal is wrong.

"Yes, ma'am," he replied gravely. "She told me 'do not steal.'"

"Why did you disobey her?" asked Ziegler.

"I forgot, yes, ma'am," he returned, his voice grave, his face smileless.

When the leadership of the gang was sought to be learned, all agreed that little Alex Platnikoff was "captain." Alex bore his honors without vanity. He merely accepted the designation as befitting his superior brain and initiative. Like all good "captains" he spoke little.

This led the officers to believe that Jim Pivavaroff was the real leader. He would not assume that distinction before the rest of the "gang," but owned to being the "second captain."

The police have the admissions of the youngsters that they have participated in at least twelve minor burglaries during the past six months. Last Sunday the same gang entered a cigar stand at No. 120 West Second street.

They were booked as juveniles and sent to the Detention Home.

POSTOFFICE SITE.

Inspectors Look Over Vacant Properties at Upland and Send Recommendation to the Department.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UPLAND, March 29.—Postoffice Inspector Lowe of Los Angeles was in this city yesterday, looking over the proposed sites covered by the bids for housing the Upland postoffice, for a period of five or possibly ten years. Several bids had been received. The site which is most likely to be accepted will probably be on the western half of the Leeson property, fronting on East Ninth street. The actual figures for the rental are not yet known. The plan has been forwarded to Washington for the consideration of the department there, before closing up the deal.

UPLAND BRIEFS.

A gentle rain fell in this section of the valley during a greater part of last night, and the gauge, as read by J. D. Mitchell, at the former Harwood grove, on Twenty-second street, records .60 inch up to 6 a.m. today. This brings the total for the season at that point up to 35.16 inches. The weather here is still threatening, and there has been a heavy fall of snow on the mountains to the north, extending well down toward the mesas.

The committee named to devise ways and means for taking care of storm water in this section, following the floods of a few weeks ago, is now ready to make a report, and President Paul of the Upland Chamber of Commerce has called a mass meeting of citizens interested, to be held at the Tenth-street grammer school auditorium on Tuesday evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock.

An entertainment, the proceeds of which are to go to the benefit of the Upland public library, is to be held at Magnolia Rink, this city, early in April. Splendid local talent is to be employed in the event, and it is hoped to sell at least 1000 tickets for the affair.
